Disclaimer ....................................................................................................... 50

Historical Perspective .................................................................................... Inside Back Cover
Dear Governor Abercrombie and Director Lopez:

It is my privilege to submit to you the 2011 Annual Report of State-Chartered Financial Institutions, Escrow Depositories, Mortgage Servicers, Money Transmitters, Mortgage Loan Originator Companies and Mortgage Loan Originators compiled by the Division of Financial Institutions (“DFI”).

Whether attending a meeting or a banking-related event, I am frequently asked my opinion on the Hawaii’s economy and the health of the financial institutions in Hawaii. We have all heard that Hawaii is like living in paradise, and I wholeheartedly agree. Over the years, investors have recognized the opportunities for growth in Hawaii. In retrospect during 2011 the banking industry began to show signs of stabilization and recovery from the economic downturn. I am proud to report that Hawaii may be one of the only states in the nation that did not have a bank fail during the economic downturn. In 2011, we saw bank balance sheets improve, and the problem banks began to show improvement. For the most part bankers have managed the disruptions well.

However our community banks continue to wrestle with new regulations and the increasing costs to ensure compliance. Profits are effectively being squeezed as a result of these new federal mandates and the low interest rate environment.

Since my appointment in 2011, DFI has weathered the challenges with our financial institutions and took a tough but fair regulatory approach. Our focus is to ensure bankers have the guidance and tools they need to be successful, while remaining cognizant of our regulatory responsibilities. Maintaining a knowledgeable and experienced staff has always been imperative to monitor all our financial institutions, to anticipate and respond to regulatory issues, and when necessary to provide guidance that strengthens institutional management and its financial condition. Historically examiner retention has been an issue. In 2011, after several years of struggling to preserve and retain examiners due to Hawaii’s economic condition, we were unable to hire or replace examiners who retired or left DFI. We continued to strive to maintain and improve our existing examiner staff; however, our staff has felt the pressure of increased regulatory burden without additional staff to maintain and respond to emerging issues. The financial institution community has been patient and I have been working with our banking and other financial institution industries to engage the industry where the industry and regulators work together to achieve the same goal. The DFI looks forward to the opportunities the future brings and will endeavor to be here when you need us the most.

Budget and staffing constraints and the increased commitment to more robust financial institution supervision and examination created challenges to planning and implementing DFI’s ongoing training programs, although they remained a critical component of the DFI mission. Staff kept pace with changes in both laws and supervisory practices through specialty educational opportunities, such as the FDIC’s State Examiner Training Program and Internet-based courses provided by the Conference of State Bank Supervisors (“CSBS”), our regulatory trade association. Conducting joint examinations with our Federal colleagues over the past several years has continued to contribute to a high level of DFI staff proficiency and professionalism, which has paid off in the current environment marked by the increased tempo and complexity of financial institution examinations.

Division of Financial Institutions
The DFI’s 25 employees are committed to maintaining an environment of safe and reliable financial services for Hawaii’s consumers and our licensees. Daily, we practice our mission – to ensure the safety and soundness of state-chartered and state-licensed financial institutions and ensure regulatory compliance by our licensees by fairly administering applicable statutes and rules in order to protect the rights and funds of the public. Our licensees include banks, a depository financial services loan company, non-depository financial services loan companies, escrow depositories, mortgage servicers, money transmitters, mortgage loan originators and mortgage loan originator companies.

The DFI plans to use technology to provide more efficiency and security for documents and partner with our sister regulatory agencies to pool resources and provide the necessary oversight consumers expect. The DFI plans to use document “imaging” to reduce paper processing and storage costs. This will streamline the regulatory process and enhancing public access to information. The DFI will work with other Federal and State regulatory agencies to collaborate on examinations to better protect consumers by focusing resources on problem areas, while reducing the multiple financial exams that are costly to our agency and the licensees.

The DFI’s employees also are devoted to providing regular and clear communication with our licensees, ensuring our licensees understand and adhere to the law and understand how new legislation affects how they do business in Hawaii. Collectively and independently, the DFI employees work to create a stronger, more secure financial environment for businesses and consumers. Together we’re working to cultivate a stronger economic future for Hawaii residents and businesses alike.

We look forward to continuing to serve you, and working hard to make our state an even greater place for all who choose to call it home.

Banks and Financial Services Loan Companies

The DFI has legal responsibility for ensuring that the Hawaii state-chartered banking system runs on a safe and sound basis. In its supervisory role, the DFI periodically examines the financial soundness of all state-chartered banks, depository financial services loan companies, and non-depository financial services loan companies. The DFI met the statutory obligation of examining all institutions within the regulatory framework. This was accomplished through coordination with federal banking regulators.

The DFI’s examiners perform evaluations of each institution’s assets, liabilities, income and expenses; monitor compliance with governing laws and regulations; and rate the effectiveness of the institution’s management. The adequacy of capital is assessed to ensure the protection of deposits. In addition, examiners review the Information Technology (IT) functions of state-chartered institutions for compliance with generally accepted IT practices and adherence to State regulations.

Since 2005, the DFI has incorporated the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA) reviews into its independent examination to determine compliance with federal BSA/Anti-Money Laundering regulations. As a whole, state-chartered financial institutions are capably positioned both strategically and financially to meet new opportunities in changing economic and regulatory environments.

On July 21, 2010, President Barack Obama signed the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (“Dodd-Frank Act”) into law. This legislation was designed to overhaul our nation’s financial system, expand consumer protections, and enhance financial regulation. Dodd-Frank Act acknowledges the essential role of state regulators, appropriately recalibrates the balance of power between state and federal regulators, and offers the prospect of a new era of state-federal collaboration and cooperation. While enactment of the Dodd-Frank Act was a monumental achievement, implementing the provisions and requirements of the Act has taken significant time and resources for regulators and the industry during 2011.
Escrow Depositories

The DFI is responsible for licensing and enforcement of the Hawaii laws relating to escrow depositories which provides a regulatory framework for independent escrow depository companies to operate in Hawaii. Persons or companies who perform escrow services are subject to the licensing requirements of the escrow laws. An “escrow” means any transaction affecting the title to real property, including leaseholds, proprietary leaseholds, and condominiums, in which a person not a party to the transaction and neither having nor acquiring any interest in the title receives from one party to the transaction, holds until the happening of an event or performance of a condition and then delivers to another party to the transaction, any money or other consideration or any instrument affecting the title to that real property, all in accordance with the terms of the agreement between the parties to the transaction. The law does not apply to (1) state or federally regulated banks, trust companies, and savings and loan associations; (2) any person licensed as a real estate broker in the State who is the broker for a party to the escrow, provided the person does not charge any escrow fee; and (3) any person licensed to practice law in the State who, in escrow, is not acting as the employee of a corporation, provided the person does not charge any escrow fee.

Each corporation which desires to be licensed shall be incorporated in this state and maintain a principal place of business in the State and have a designated escrow officer. The use of the term “escrow”, “escrow depository”, or any other word or phrase having the same or similar meaning cannot be used unless the corporation is licensed as an escrow depository.

Money Transmitters

The DFI was given the regulatory oversight of this industry in 2007 without adequate funding for the positions provided. It took three years before the DFI had adequate funds to hire one examiner. The DFI continued to license, regulate, supervise and examine money transmitters to ensure that such businesses are not used for criminal purposes, to promote confidence in the State’s financial system and to protect consumers who use this very important sector of Hawaii’s financial services industry. This industry leads in the use of electronic devices including the internet, cellular telephones and other mobile devices to transmit money.

A “money transmitter” is defined as any business engaged in receiving money for transmission, or transmitting money within the United States or to locations outside the United States, by any and all means including, but not limited to, payment instruments, wire transfers, and facsimile or electronic transfers. The DFI also continues to be an active participant in the Money Transmitter Regulatory Association to facilitate fulfillment of its responsibilities with respect to money transmission licensing and regulation.

Each applicant for a license must demonstrate, and each licensee must maintain a safe and sound company. Any applicant must demonstrate such experience, character, and general fitness as to command the confidence of the public and warrant the belief that the business will be operated lawfully and fairly.

Mortgage Servicers

Since 2009, the DFI has the regulatory oversight for this industry without any additional staff. The 2009 Session of the State Legislature provided for the licensure of those residential mortgage servicers that service loans secured by property located in Hawaii, many of which were not otherwise regulated or subject to existing State laws. The bill was passed and signed into law as Chapter 454M of the Hawaii Revised Statutes with an effective date of July 1, 2010. On that date, a borrower who owns property in Hawaii securing a residential mortgage loan will enjoy the enhanced consumer protection afforded by an available local complaint process through a Hawaii regulatory agency – DFI – to compel servicer accountability to Hawaii borrowers – a significant improvement over previous circumstances where borrowers found themselves at the mercy of regulatory agencies in other states that often decline to assist Hawaii consumers in any way.
Mortgage Loan Originators and Mortgage Loan Originator Companies

The 2008 Housing and Economic Recovery Act included the federal SAFE Act, which recognized and built upon states’ efforts by requiring all mortgage loan originators to be either state-licensed or federally registered through the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System (NMLS) by July 31, 2010. In July 2010, Governor Linda Lingle signed into law Hawaii SAFE Act legislation to ensure that Hawaii would retain oversight of mortgage loan originators, formerly known as mortgage brokers or solicitors. The regulatory oversight would include licensure, supervision, and examination. The SAFE Act also repealed the mortgage broker and solicitor registration laws and transferred supervision to the DFI.

The SAFE Act required the DFI to investigate the criminal background of each individual applying for a license as a Mortgage Loan Originator to conduct business in Hawaii. In addition, the DFI was required to ensure each applicant met the state and federal licensing requirements which included pre-licensing education and testing, continuing education, and demonstrated financial responsibility through submission of a credit report to the DFI and maintaining financial responsibility.

Highlights in 2011 include the following:

- Secured electronic access with NMLS to facilitate licensure of MLOs and MLOCs.
- March 31, 2011, completed licensing of all MLOs and MLOCs by the Safe Harbor deadline set by the Federal Housing and Urban Development Department.
- The DFI continued to monitor and provide compliance tools and training for the industry to comply with the SAFE Act requirements.
- The DFI commenced joint examinations of licensed MLOs and MLOCs with other states.

Accreditation

CSBS originally designated DFI as a fully accredited state regulatory and supervisory agency in 1990. The accreditation process involves a comprehensive review of all aspects of DFI’s financial services regulatory and supervisory operations and should be re-accredited every five years. The DFI was last accredited in 2005 and will seek re-accreditation in 2012 with the new administration. Re-accreditation will be ambitious in the face of the increased regulatory and supervisory burdens related to the continuing financial crisis and the implementation of new programs which must be accomplished with time and resources diminished by furloughs and staffing cutbacks.

We are clearly facing significant and seemingly ever increasing challenges in fulfilling our statutory responsibilities of ensuring the safety and soundness of Hawaii’s financial services industry and protecting Hawaii’s consumers. As in the past, the key component in meeting those challenges will always be the DFI staff, from its most seasoned veteran to its newest examiner-in-training. They will continue to be that key component, and it is therefore appropriate to not only thank them here for their past hard work, but also to acknowledge their continuing critical importance to the DFI’s ability to meet the formidable challenges which await them in the future.

Respectfully submitted,

Iris Ikeda Catalani
Commissioner of Financial Institutions
