Impact of Error
Inadequate caseload management can result in reduced provincial subsidy.

If information in databases is not accurately maintained with integrity, benchmarks for funding may not be met.

If community liaison is not maintained, it may reduce the number of clients that can be served and therefore social assistance caseloads remain higher.

Inadequate case planning will diminish opportunities for social assistance recipients to reach their employment goals.
Failure to effectively partner with other community agencies and organizations will result in lost opportunities for clients, will jeopardize the organization's standing in the community and decrease the confidence in Ontario Works staff and clients.

Errors or omissions could negatively impact the effectiveness of the organization's overall service delivery.
