Schmidt Family Foundation gives $75 million for new academic medical center

Breaking Ground for the Sandler Pavilion

Lynn Heart Institute “off-pump” procedure delivers superior outcomes
Forty-five years ago, in 1962, the tragic death of Gloria Drummond’s two children galvanized her and the entire Boca Raton community into the effort that resulted in the creation of Boca Raton Community Hospital and the beginning of our Amazing Journey.

After the loss of Gloria’s children, the fund-raising started immediately to build a hospital in Boca Raton. Within a year, the Debbie-Rand Memorial Service League was formed. Throughout the years, it has provided the hospital with tremendous support.

And now, after 40 years of caring for the people of our community, Boca Raton Community Hospital is continuing its Amazing Journey. We will build a new teaching hospital on the Boca Raton campus of Florida Atlantic University. It is being planned to be the safest hospital in America. Led by nationally recognized safety experts, our physicians and nurses are developing a culture of safety, that when combined with the new hospital design, will be a national model for health care safety.

This transformation, from Boca Raton Community Hospital into the Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center, will take the same commitment, courage and compassion exhibited so many years ago when the community built the original Boca Raton Community Hospital. The new hospital will be the cornerstone of the first new university based academic medical center built in America in more than three decades. It will have a profound impact on our community, region and, quite possibly, the nation. The Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center will be the primary teaching hospital for the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine at FAU and the Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing.

Because many physicians choose to live in the community where they perform their residency, the new hospital represents an opportunity to keep the best and brightest new physicians right here in Boca Raton. The nursing school will provide a similar opportunity for retention of newly trained nurses.

For 40 years, the generous support of this community has made it possible for Boca Raton Community Hospital to provide high-quality, cost-effective health care.

The BRCH Foundation, Inc. is a not-for-profit, tax-exempt affiliate of Boca Raton Community Hospital, Inc. created to support the healing mission of the hospital. If you would like to join our Amazing Journey as we create a new academic medical center on the FAU campus and would like more information, please call our office at 561.955.4142 or e-mail us at foundation@brch.com.

This year stands out as a turning point in the amazing 40-year journey of Boca Raton Community Hospital, a journey that, in many ways, is just beginning. During this past year, the leadership of the hospital has joined forces with the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine and Florida Atlantic University to lay the groundwork for the nation's first new university based academic medical center in more than three decades, to be located on the Boca Raton FAU campus.

The cornerstone of this new academic medical center will be a teaching hospital planned to be the safest hospital in America. Here, the world class medical staff of Boca Raton Community Hospital and the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine at FAU faculty physicians will teach the doctors of tomorrow using the latest resources and most sophisticated medical technologies available.

As we embark on this exciting venture, we are fortunate to have the support and commitment of a community that truly understands the value of this enterprise for the future. Our transformation into a world-class academic medical center will unfold through a $250 million capital campaign undertaken by the BRCH Foundation. Thanks to the unparalleled generosity of Richard Schmidt and the Schmidt Family Foundation, our campaign got off to an extraordinary start with a $75 million gift in January 2007.

In addition, philanthropists and long-time hospital supporters Harvey and Phyllis Sandler have donated $20 million for the construction of the Eugene M. and Christine E. Lynn Cancer Institute's Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Pavilion, now under construction and slated to open in 2008. This 98,000 square foot comprehensive cancer center will integrate all aspects of cancer diagnosis, treatment and care under one roof. Multidisciplinary teams of physicians will share the latest research and apply the most advanced technologies to deliver personal, family-centered care using a multi-modality, coordinated approach designed to reduce the time between diagnosis and treatment.

Another integral part of our transformation came with the opening of the Christine E. Lynn Heart Institute in September 2006, funded by a $20 million gift from Christine E. Lynn. This comprehensive cardiac care facility makes it possible for our cardiovascular care program to now offer open heart surgery, eliminating the risks of travel for patients needing open heart procedures. To date, our Heart Institute physicians have performed more than 2,000 cardiovascular procedures.

Our plans for the development of the safest hospital in America dovetail perfectly with our focus on creating a culture of safety in every area at the Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center. Under the guidance of John Reiling, PhD, a nationally recognized expert on hospital safety, the hospital’s medical staff and nurses, along with a nationally respected team of medical safety experts, are developing guidelines to enhance patient safety at every level. The first meeting of the hospital’s National Advisory Committee on Safety took place on April 12 and 13, 2007. The purpose of the committee is to ensure that we create a facility with the best safety conditions for processes, culture and physical environment.

We are also working towards attaining Magnet status for nursing, one of the highest recognitions a hospital can achieve for the quality of its nursing staff. We are well on our way to reaching this impressive goal.

Many of these recent accomplishments have been made possible by the vision and generosity of individuals in this community. Theirs is the same spirit that brought our hospital into existence 40 years ago: the unwavering belief in the ability of individuals to make a difference.

Working together, we can make a difference – in healthcare, in our quality of life and in the future for generations to come. We invite you to join us. For it is the power of individuals with vision that has always changed the world.

For high-risk cardiac patients or those who need heart surgery, the opening of the Christine E. Lynn Heart Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital in September 2006 was truly an event to celebrate. The Institute offers a comprehensive open heart surgery program – the first new program of its kind in Palm Beach County in nearly 30 years. With open heart and other invasive procedures now available right in the community, patients who require this level of care can eliminate the inconvenience and potentially life-threatening consequences of being transferred – usually to Fort Lauderdale or to Delray Beach, and often to New York or Boston – to obtain the cardiac care they need.

According to long-time Boca Raton cardiologist, Stephen Babic, M.D., “Now, if you have a heart attack, we can do an emergency angioplasty. We're able to do the procedure quickly, with cardiovascular surgeons standing by if we need to perform open heart surgery. Having the Heart Institute here, with all its resources, enables physicians to treat patients quickly, here in the community. The faster we can treat a heart attack patient, the more heart muscle we can save.”

The establishment of an open heart program at Boca Raton Community Hospital has been more than 15 years in the making. After years of dedication and careful planning, the hospital won state approval for the program in December 2004. To bring the project to reality, Christine E. Lynn, long-time hospital donor, pledged $20 million to the program, half of it for use to retrofit the existing facility and the other half earmarked for the new, state-of-the-art Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center. In addition, the Jean and David Blechman Foundation donated $1 million to the Lynn Heart Institute for a cardiovascular intensive care unit.

When the Heart Institute opened, it included the six-bed Jean and David Blechman Cardiovascular Intensive Care Unit (CVICU), a 12-bed private cardiac step-down unit, two cardiac surgical suites renovated from existing surgical suites, a new cardiac catheterization laboratory and a nine-bed CATH recovery area.

As part of its commitment to making the Lynn Heart Institute a true leader in cardiovascular services, Boca Raton Community Hospital has assembled an excellent team of physicians, led by nationally recognized heart surgeons James Morris, MD, and Arthur Katz, MD. Dr. Morris comes to Boca Raton from Charleston, SC, where he was director of the Heart Center and Cardiac Services at Roper Hospital. A graduate of the surgical and cardiothoracic program at Duke University School of Medicine, Dr. Morris served as an Associate Professor of Surgery at the Mayo Clinic and Mayo Medical School. His co-surgeon, Dr. Katz, comes to Boca Raton Community Hospital from private practice as a cardiothoracic surgeon in Palm Beach Gardens. He completed his training at the New York University Medical Center.

Since its opening in the fall of 2006, more than 2,000 cardiovascular procedures have been performed at the Lynn Heart Institute. The majority of bypass procedures are being performed “off-pump,” an approach that delivers superior outcomes for patients and reduces the risk of stroke and other complications. In addition to “off-pump” surgery, the team performs valve reconstructive surgery and minimally invasive atrial fibrillation surgery. For patients who have had these critical procedures performed at the Lynn Heart Institute, and for their family members, being able to receive this level of care so close to home has made a world of difference in their lives.

All her life, Christine E. Lynn has been driven by a deep desire to help others. With an understanding of the importance of good health as the basis of a good life, she chose to enter the field of nursing and earned her degree as a registered nurse from Ulleval University in Oslo, Norway.

For the past 25 years, Mrs. Lynn has been an ardent supporter of nursing, health care and education, working together with her late husband, Eugene M. Lynn, to promote better care, better facilities and better training in the Boca Raton community. The Eugene M. and Christine E. Lynn Cancer Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital and Lynn University, a liberal arts school, are testament to their generosity.

Today, Christine E. Lynn continues her ceaseless commitment to making life better, especially in the areas of health care and education. She provided funding for the new Christine E. Lynn Heart Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital. She is also a donor to the Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing at Florida Atlantic University. A member of the board of Boca Raton Community Hospital, her tireless commitment has improved the lives of people in this community for years and will continue to make a difference for decades to come.

James Morris, M.D. and Arthur Katz, M.D.
Burton S. Wollowick, M.D., back at work after "off-pump" surgery at the Lynn Heart Institute.
Burton S. Wollowick, M.D., is as comfortable in the operating room as he is in his own living room. As an orthopaedic surgeon on the medical staff of Boca Raton Community Hospital, he’s been performing knee and hip surgeries for decades. He’s also lived with a heart arrhythmia problem for years. Last year, when he found he just wasn’t feeling up to par, Dr. Wollowick had a stress test followed by a cardiac catheterization. The results showed four blocked arteries, two of them so severely blocked that open heart surgery was the only option.

Dr. Wollowick’s son, a surgeon in New York, urged him to consult with the physician in New York who developed the “off-pump” bypass surgery technique. This advanced approach to open heart surgery significantly reduces the risk of complications such as stroke, renal failure and the need for blood transfusion. Following his son’s advice, Dr. Wollowick forwarded his test results to the New York surgeon for review.

Then a colleague in Boca Raton suggested that Dr. Wollowick consider having his “friends” take care of him – meaning that he have surgery at the new Lynn Heart Institute. So he and his wife decided to take a closer look at the resources right in their own hometown. They started by touring the new Heart Institute with Melissa Durbin, Executive Director. She told them about the expertise of the surgical team, recruited from top medical centers across the nation.

Impressed by what they saw and heard, the Wollowicks then met with Dr. James Morris, lead surgeon at the Lynn Heart Institute. Dr. Morris answered all their questions: about his training at Duke University and his previous experience, about the training and expertise of the nursing team and about the anesthesiologist’s credentials. Dr. Morris discussed how the team was recruited to bring in highly experienced specialists at every level, including cardiac anesthesiologists and nurses with advanced certifications in cardiac care. He also explained the “off-pump” bypass technology that would be used during the surgery, and the fact that the Lynn Heart Institute is one of only a handful of places in South Florida to offer this state-of-the-art approach. Finally, Dr. Morris reviewed Dr. Wollowick’s test results and made his own recommendations, which mirrored those of the New York surgeon completely. "Knowing I could get the same sophisticated surgical treatment in my own community, without needing to travel to New York, really made the choice easy,” Dr. Wollowick noted. He decided to stay in Boca Raton where he would not only be treated with the latest technology, but would receive individualized care from an excellent surgeon – and the ability to go through the process, including rehabilitation, close to home.

“The morning after the surgery I was amazed to be sitting up in a chair next to my hospital bed, eating pancakes,” he recalled. After the successful “off-pump” bypass procedure, Dr. Wollowick’s recovery was smooth and rapid, with rehabilitation right at the Lynn Heart Institute. "Being able to go through this entire experience here, surrounded and supported by people I know, made it so much easier – not only on me but on my wife as well.”

When The Heart Surgery Patient Is A Surgeon, Too.

Coronary artery bypass surgery has been performed for decades, involving the use of a heart-lung machine which allows the heart’s beating to be stopped so that the surgeon can operate on a still surface. The heart-lung machine performs the function of the lungs by replacing carbon dioxide with oxygen, then pumps the blood throughout the body. This approach has saved countless lives. However, like all surgery, it has its risks, including an increased chance of stroke, renal failure and need for blood transfusion. The new “off-pump” bypass (also known as “beating heart”) surgery, performed at the Lynn Heart Institute, reduces these risks because the heart-lung machine is not used. Advanced technology and new kinds of operating equipment allow the surgeon to stabilize specific portions of the heart for surgery without stopping the heart altogether. With one part of the heart stabilized, the surgeon can bypass the blocked artery surgically while the rest of the heart keeps pumping and circulating blood.

Not all patients are candidates for the “off-pump” procedure because of the nature of their condition, but it may be a good choice for patients at increased risk for complications such as those who have had prior strokes or who have poor pulmonary or kidney function. According to one study, “off-pump” patients were also less likely to develop infections of chest incisions.

Both traditional bypass surgery and “off-pump” bypass surgery are life-saving procedures that deliver excellent results. But when appropriate for the patient, the “off-pump” technique can deliver better outcomes.
March 19, 2007 marked a new beginning in cancer care for this community, as Boca Raton Community Hospital broke ground on the Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Pavilion of the Eugene M. & Christine E. Lynn Cancer Institute, named for the long-time hospital donors who have given $20 million to launch the project. The $73 million, 98,000 square-foot Pavilion is slated to open in 2008, ushering in a new age in cancer care for our community.

The new facility will house oncology imaging, radiation, chemotherapy, support services and clinical research resources, making it possible for cancer patients and their families to receive almost all of their care under one roof.

“When patients are first diagnosed with cancer, it is a devastating experience. They need to be with friends and family members while they receive unsurpassed care. They need to be close to home,” said Harvey Sandler. “Phyllis and I are delighted to be able to help make the dream of having this advanced cancer center a reality in Boca Raton.”

The Multimodality Center, to be located on the third floor of the Institute, will be the first stop for newly diagnosed patients. Here they will meet with the oncology specialists involved in their care, including physicians, nurses and social workers – usually in one visit. Patients will also be assigned a cancer care coordinator who is either a registered nurse or social worker to assist them by making appointments, arranging consultations and providing... support at every stage of their journey. This multimodality approach eliminates the need to wait for different doctor appointments, streamlining diagnosis and treatment. In fact, studies show that patients who receive care in this coordinated manner have better outcomes.

The Pavilion will be equipped with the most sophisticated technological advances for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. In addition, it will be linked to clinical research programs to ensure that patients have access to all the latest treatment options and research protocols. With the opening of the new Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Pavilion, cancer patients will be able to make one phone call to their cancer coordinator, visit one cancer care center and have access to the best health care professionals, treatments and technology available — in one convenient location. And that can make a world of difference.

The new Sandler Pavilion, a 98,000 square foot state-of-the-art comprehensive cancer center, is currently under construction now, and will be completed in 2008. For the first time, this new facility will enable physicians to bring the resources for diagnosis, treatment, infusion therapy, radiation therapy, counseling and support services together under one roof. Phillip C. Smith, M.D., has been instrumental in the design of the Sandler Pavilion and is credited with growing the cancer program into one of the top five in the state measured by total new cancer cases.

Dr. Smith has seen the astounding advances made in cancer treatment over the past decade. Physicians now are able to make treatments unique for each patient using genetic analysis of individual cancer cells.

"The goal is to cure cancer. The Sandler Pavilion will allow us do that in a setting of hope and healing."

Phyllis and Harvey Sandler believe that caring for the community is everyone’s responsibility. For years, they have been making a difference in the lives of others by giving their time, their talent and their resources.

Mr. Sandler, a member of the Boca Raton Community Hospital Board of Trustees, is CEO of Sandler Enterprises, a private investment partnership firm. Phyllis Sander is a past “Woman of the Year” recipient for her work with the Florida Chapter of the Crohn’s and Colitis Foundation. The couple has five children and ten grandchildren.

Their philanthropic work is well known throughout our community. The Sandlers are long-time supporters of the Jewish Federation of South Palm Beach County and the Adolph and Rose Levis Jewish Community Center. They established the Phyllis and Harvey Sandler Center for Jewish Life Enhancement, home of the Phyllis and Harvey Sandler Sageing Institute, a unique organization that offers a wellness model for vital, successful aging. The couple also founded the Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Foundation which has given millions of dollars to more than 100 different charities. Their recent donation of $20 million to Boca Raton Community Hospital will establish the Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Pavilion at the Eugene M. and Christine E. Lynn Cancer Institute. Slated to open in 2008, this state-of-the-art center will provide comprehensive services for diagnosis, treatment and research together under one roof. Their generosity in funding this new cancer facility continues their pledge to give back to the community where they live; in Harvey Sandler’s words, “give and give until it feels good.”
Lynn Cancer Institute physicians will expand Multi-modality Clinics for all types of cancers in the Sandler Pavilion.

According to Louise Morrell, M.D., a medical oncologist with 20 years of experience, “Getting the right care, and getting it in a timely manner, can make all the difference after a person is diagnosed with cancer.” Dr. Morrell has played a key role in developing Multi-modality Clinics at the Lynn Cancer Institute. These clinics bring all the physicians together who will play a part in an individual’s care. The physicians determine the treatment plan with the patient. The patient and family members are included in the process. Patients know what will happen, when and why. The result is that patients and their family members feel more confident. Even more importantly, the process moves patients forward without delays. Traditionally, patients would have to visit each doctor individually, a process that could take weeks or even months. At the new Harvey and Phyllis Sandler Pavilion, Multimodality Clinics will be instituted for all types of cancers.

Harvey and Phyllis Sandler sign the banner that will be displayed in the Sandler Pavilion lobby.
It was a gathering unlike any other Boca Raton has ever seen. On November 16, 2006, renowned actors and artists mingled with community leaders at the Boca Raton Museum of Art for a fundraising event to support the new Christine E. Lynn Heart Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital. Among the famous faces present were actors Federico Castelluccio, Sir Paul Sorvino, Mira Sorvino, and Kristoffer Polsha.

Castelluccio, best known for his role as Furio on The Sopranos, is also an accomplished artist. Moved by the story of the founding of Boca Raton Community Hospital, he created a painting especially for this occasion. It features a young boy on the beach drawing a heart in the sand. Sir Paul Sorvino, who has appeared in more than 80 films, is a sculptor as well as a renowned actor. He sculpted an original bronze piece of a girl releasing a dove. Both works were unveiled at the event.

If you are interested in purchasing a limited edition lithograph and/or sculpture, please call the Foundation at 561-955-4142.
For the last ten years, the Boca Raton Community Hospital Foundation has hosted a golf tournament to raise funds in support of various hospital programs. On October 23, 2006, the 10th Annual Golf Tournament was held at the Mizner Country Club to support the Ron & Kathy Assaf Center for Excellence in Nursing.

The Center for Excellence in Nursing was created to support and ensure the quality of nursing care at the hospital today and in the future through a variety of different approaches. The Center recognizes and rewards outstanding nurses, provides ongoing nursing education and advanced training, and implements innovative programs designed to benefit the nursing profession, patients and community. In addition, the Center works to attract and retain the finest professionals in the nursing field.

In 2006, the Annual Golf Tournament was sponsored by the Harvey & Phyllis Sandler Foundation, with the Tournament Luncheon sponsored by Evie & Ron Krancer. Other generous sponsors of the event included Coales Co, Compson Development, Owens & Minor, Bluegreen Corporation, Wachovia, Sodexho, Mildred & Abby Levine, The Altman Companies, HKS/Safe by Design, Proskauer Rose, Boca Raton Resort & Club, Seitlin Insurance, SKANSKA, Toshiba Business Solutions Florida, Florida Atlantic University, Gateway Insurance, Mercedes-Benz Pompano, Smith Barney, Boca Anesthesia, and Raymond James.
Gala Celebrating The Amazing Journey
 Raises Nearly $900,000 For The New Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center
The 45th Annual Boca Raton Community Hospital Ball, held on January 20, 2007 at the Boca Raton Resort & Club, raised almost $900,000 to help fund the Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center, a new state-of-the-art teaching hospital that will be the cornerstone of a new academic medical center on the Boca Raton campus of Florida Atlantic University.

“The Amazing Journey: A Ball Celebrating Courage, Heart and Home” was attended by more than 1,000 community members. The ballroom of the Boca Raton Resort & Club was transformed into a wonderland representing different aspects of another amazing journey, that of Dorothy as she traveled to the Land of Oz – from Munchkin Land to the Emerald City – setting a magical tone for the entire evening.

This gala event was chaired by Joan and Dr. Donald Wargo and Cindy and Dr. Mike Krebsbach. The Ball commemorated the hospital’s 40th anniversary, and recognized hospital founder Gloria Drummond as the honorary chair. In addition, the Debbie-Rand Memorial Service League Auxiliary members were honored at the event.

“Gloria Drummond is a living legend at Boca Raton Community Hospital,” said Joan Wargo. “Hers has been an amazing journey of courage to found this hospital and continue to work for ongoing development. In addition, the Service League auxiliary members and volunteers are an integral part of our hospital’s growth.”

Physician honorees recognized at the Ball were Jack Alley, MD, the first president of the Medical Staff at Boca Raton Community Hospital, and Matthew Klein, MD, the current president of the Medical Staff.

The funds raised by this gala will support the continuing Amazing Journey of Boca Raton Community Hospital as it creates the first new academic medical center in the nation in more than three decades, on the Boca Raton FAU campus. The Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center is being designed as the safest hospital in America.

The generosity of the people of our community in supporting this event will help to redefine the standards of healthcare in Boca Raton and across the nation as our Amazing Journey continues.
Schmidt Family Foundation Gives $75 Million To Help Build A New Academic Medical Center in Boca Raton

Plans for the Charles E. Schmidt Medical Center, a teaching hospital to be built on the campus of Florida Atlantic University, are well underway, thanks to a $75 million gift to Boca Raton Community Hospital from the Schmidt Family Foundation. On January 30, 2007, when the gift was announced, it was the largest gift ever received by a community hospital.

This generous donation is an important step in realizing the shared vision of the Schmidt Family Foundation and the entire philanthropic Boca Raton community that has historically supported Boca Raton Community Hospital, Florida Atlantic University and the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine: to create the first new academic medical center in the nation in more than three decades.

The cornerstone of the medical center will be a new teaching hospital where future generations of doctors and nurses can be trained in a truly exemplary environment for patient safety.

The hospital will be located on 38 acres of Florida Atlantic University's Boca Raton Campus. The new hospital will give medical students the opportunity to receive their medical degree from the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine without leaving the Boca Raton area.

A team of experts in health care safety, led by John Reiling, Ph.D., renowned for his work in the field, will oversee the planning, design and construction of the new facility. Boca Raton Community Hospital physicians and nurses will work with Mr. Reiling and the National Advisory Committee on Safety to develop a new culture of safety that will become a national model. The state-of-the-art hospital will pioneer a new era in hospital safety, featuring private patient rooms and a design that will incorporate best practices in technology, architecture, academia and patient care.

“This generous gift from the Schmidt Family Foundation is invaluable in helping us break ground on what is destined to become one of the most advanced medical facilities in the country,” said Gary Strack, president and CEO of Boca Raton Community Hospital. “This unique public-private partnership between Boca Raton Community Hospital, Florida Atlantic University, and the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine will generate research investments, job opportunities and national excellence that will shape healthcare for decades to come.”

With more than 700 guests and author and TV personality Geralyn Lucas as the keynote speaker, the fourth annual “Go Pink” Breast Cancer Awareness Luncheon sponsored by Boca Raton Community Hospital was a sell-out event. Held on October 15, 2007 at the Boca West Country Club, proceeds benefit the Center for Breast Care at Boca Raton Community Hospital.

The Ed and Freyda Burns Enhanced Living Initiative funded guest speaker Geralyn Lucas, a breast cancer survivor. After landing her dream job at ABC-TV’s 20/20, Lucas was diagnosed with breast cancer at the age of 27. Her book, Why I Wore Lipstick To My Mastectomy was the inspiration for the recent Lifetime Original Movie, starring Sarah Chalke. Lucas spoke of the importance of annual mammograms and regular breast self exams. She also talked of her experience as a breast cancer survivor. Lucas shared her personal triumph over breast cancer with humor, grace and personal anecdotes.

Louise Morrell, M.D., a medical oncologist and medical director of the Center for Breast Care discussed the reduction in the breast cancer mortality rate.

The 2007 luncheon was chaired by hospital donor Patti Carpenter along with co-chairs Helen Babione, Joy Binkovitz and honorary chairs Phyllis Sandler and her daughters Robin Rubin and Amy Ross.
More than 700 people attended the luncheon
Boca Raton Community Hospital has long been supported by the generosity of members of this community. To honor the gifts and pledges of these individuals, the hospital created its Philanthropy Guild, a VIP donor recognition society. Individuals whose cumulative gifts and pledges to the Boca Raton Community Hospital Foundation and the Debbie-Rand Memorial Service League have reached $50,000 and above are welcomed into this prestigious group.

This caring group of citizens makes the work of the Boca Raton Community Hospital Foundation possible. Together they share our mission and share in the joy and camaraderie of giving. In return, members are celebrated for their generosity with special honors, privileges and invitations to special events.

Philanthropy Guild gifts are used to make critical capital improvements and to fund innovative programs, new equipment, cutting edge treatments, research, patient care, education and community services.

In a celebration of generosity and thanks, Boca Raton Community Hospital treated the hospital’s benefactors to a gala evening at the Boca Raton Polo Club on Wednesday, November 1st. More than 450 guests attended the Benefactor Party where they enjoyed food, music and dancing.

Hospital President and CEO Gary Strack thanked all those present for their continued support; support that is especially vital as Boca Raton Community Hospital embarks on this latest phase of its journey as the cornerstone of the first new academic medical center in America in more than 30 years. He also invited them to join him again at the Night of Hearts (which was held on November 16, 2006) where they could see the stunning painting by Federico Castelluccio and sculpture by Sir Paul Sorvino donated to help raise funds for the new Christine E. Lynn Heart Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital.

“The commitment of our benefactors is the driving force in making Boca Raton Community Hospital a true leader in health care,” said Strack, “not only in this region but nationwide.”

The Boca Raton Community Hospital extends its gratitude to the following Benefactors for their donations. Their commitment to ongoing annual support enables the hospital to provide its quality of excellence each year. The number following each name indicates the years of participation. We graciously thank the many donors who have given each year since the program began in 1981.

The Future of Your Health Rests in Good Hands

Building a world class academic medical center to serve as a national model for hospital safety, design and patient care begins with a solid foundation:

- Excellent physicians
- Highly trained, caring nurses
- Allied healthcare professionals
- Committed volunteers
- Advanced medical technology
- A supportive community

At Boca Raton Community Hospital, we’re helping to create the nation’s first new academic medical center in more than three decades, with a state-of-the-art hospital planned to begin construction next year on the Florida Atlantic University campus. Our own outstanding medical staff, including physicians recognized by their peers as some of the “Top Doctors” in Palm Beach County will practice there.
