There’s still time to register for Board Leadership Institute

The 2016 OSBA Board Leadership Institute (BLI) is just a few weeks away. The April 29-30 event offers two outstanding keynote speakers, 18 breakout sessions and plenty of time to collaborate with board members from around the state. What makes BLI unique is that the curriculum is designed by board members exclusively for board members. The keynote presenters are former National School Boards Association president C. Ed Massey and state Rep. John Patterson (D-Jefferson). For more information and to register, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/32072.

Nomination process for Ohio Teacher of the Year underway

The Ohio Department of Education (ODE) is accepting nominations for the 2017 Ohio Teacher of the Year. The purpose of the program is to honor, promote and celebrate excellence in teaching and the teaching profession. ODE has administered the program since 1969 to show the value it places on high-quality teaching in Ohio schools. It is part of the National Teacher of the Year program, administered by the Council of Chief State School Officers in Washington, D.C. For further information and to make nominations, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/84381 and scroll down to the Nominations heading. The deadline is July 22.

Governor fills State Board of Education vacancy

Gov. John R. Kasich has appointed Dr. Robert E. McDonald Jr. to represent District 8 on the State Board of Education. McDonald replaces Robert F. Hagan, who resigned in July. The Steubenville attorney also is an associate professor of business at Franciscan University of Steubenville. He must run for election in November to retain the seat for the unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 2018. The State Board is made up of 11 elected members and eight members appointed by the governor. The board currently is in the process of selecting a new state superintendent of public instruction.

OSBA seeking moderators for OSBA Capital Conference sessions

OSBA is inviting school board members and administrators to serve as workshop moderators at the Capital Conference in November. Moderators introduce presenters, collect evaluations and act as a liaison between the audience and speakers. Board members serving as moderators will earn five OSBA Award of Achievement credits. Contact Judy Morgan at (614) 540-4000 or jmorgan@ohioschoolboards.org for details.

Start making plans to celebrate PTA Teacher Appreciation Week

The first week of May has been designated 2016 PTA Teacher Appreciation Week. Teachers play a crucial role in educating the nation’s children. They touch the lives of millions of students every day, and their work and impact extend far beyond the boundaries of the classroom. To help schools, districts and communities honor their teachers, the week of May 2 has been set aside as a time to show appreciation for their efforts. For ideas on ways to celebrate and thank your teachers for their support and sacrifices, go to http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/83129.

School attorneys group releases new directory
The Ohio Council of School Board Attorneys (OCSBA) has released its 2016 online directory of members. Membership in OCSBA is limited to attorneys who currently represent or have represented an Ohio board of education. Attorneys who are school board members themselves also are eligible for membership. The directory may be searched by attorney name, law firm or city and is available online at http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/90191.

Wooster students’ Capital Conference video now online
Wooster High School’s WSTR TV production class was the student video documentary team for the 2015 Capital Conference. The Wooster City students filmed events and conducted interviews to create a brief documentary, which is posted on OSBA’s website at http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/15303. The video will be shared with other state school boards associations and used to promote the conference. OSBA soon will announce details on submitting nominations for the 2016 Capital Conference video documentary team.

‘Dirty job’ delivers lessons on waste, recycling
Gloved, goggled and layered in big old shirts, third-grade students at Canal Winchester Local’s (Franklin) Winchester Trail Elementary School prepared to dive in — to trash.

The project-based learning lesson of sifting through lunchroom trash was designed to get students talking about reducing waste and increasing recycling.

Hailey Boss, 8, told a local newspaper she learned a lot from the smelly lesson.

“I enjoyed actually learning about how much things that are thrown away could be recycled, and I did not enjoy the smell of the trash,” she said.

Students learned that lunch normally produces 25 bags of trash.

Management Development Series #2: Collective bargaining in schools: theory and practice
Tuesday, April 19 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. OSBA office, Columbus Cost is $90

Developed especially for board members, this workshop will review the basics of Ohio’s collective bargaining laws, negotiated agreements and types of bargaining processes. Once the groundwork is laid, Eric J. Johnson, Esq., a partner at Walter Haverfield LLP, Cleveland, and OSBA Director of Management Services Van D. Keating will focus on the real-life experiences of school negotiations: nuances of contract language, do’s and don’ts of proposals, bargaining techniques, team composition and negotiation strategy. Attend this session to increase your overall understanding of the negotiations process and help your district be more effective at the bargaining table.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. Cost for the workshop is $90 and includes lunch and materials. Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.
OSBA MASTER OF TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION (MTA) PROGRAM

Don’t miss the upcoming 2016 sessions of the OSBA MTA program. This series of workshops will help those involved in student transportation better understand and perform day-to-day operations.

These half-day workshops — offered from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. — include a working lunch and time for questions. All classes are scheduled twice; participants may sign up for either session. All workshops will be at the OSBA office, 8050 N. High St., Columbus, 43235. Visit www.ohioschoolboards.org/transportation-training-programs to learn about the MTA certification program. Tuition is $90.

Upcoming 2016 session dates and descriptions

April 12 — Laws, rules and policy
What is the difference between revised code, administrative code and department policy? Where does local board policy fit in? Are they all mandates or just best practices? Review the process through which ideas become a rule or regulation and how to influence this process.

May 4 or 10 — Hot topics, safety, trends and statistics
Review hot topics in student transportation, including seat belts in school buses. Learn about National Transportation Safety Board accident studies, Ohio school bus accident statistics and any topics that attendees bring from their local districts.

Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops. You also can purchase a subscription plan for all the workshops in this series. For questions about the program or to register, contact Diana Paulins, OSBA senior administrative assistant of policy services, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or mta@ohioschoolboards.org.

Handling a School Shooting in the National Spotlight

Madison Local’s crisis preparations pay off

Friday, May 6
OSBA office, Columbus

Learn how Madison Local’s (Butler) crisis preparations paid off on Feb. 29, when four students were injured during a shooting at Madison Junior/Senior High School. Coordinator of School-Community Relations A.J. Huff will share experiences and lessons learned from that day.

District parents were quoted by the media as saying the school and law enforcement handled the active shooter situation well. Huff credits the school staff’s extensive training in handling such an incident as key to the response being described as calm and collected. The district has approximately 1,500 students, 100 teachers and eight administrators.

Workshop attendees will be challenged to:
- champion the need for regular crisis response training in their districts in partnership with local law enforcement;
- take a leadership role in promoting a culture of crisis preparedness in their district;
- take home action items to implement in their district to support crisis training, preparation and response.

Don’t miss this timely workshop packed with real-life examples of effective crisis communications.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. Cost for the workshop is $150 and includes lunch and materials. Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Charter-school reform, ESSA dominate legislative conference

Charter-school and testing reforms, school funding and the reauthorization of a federal education law drew the attention of 135 public education officials from around the state who gathered with Ohio legislators March 16 at the State Legislative Conference in Columbus.

The annual event — hosted by the Ohio School Boards Association, Buckeye Association of School Administrators (BASA) and Ohio Association of School Business Officials (OASBO) — provides the opportunity for board members, administrators and other education leaders to meet with state representatives and senators on crucial education issues.

“Ultimately, from our perspective, it’s time for us to change the way we’re doing K-12 education because what we’ve been doing doesn’t work,” Ohio Senate President Keith Faber (R-Celina) said. “The reality of this, as we go forward, is to figure out how we can find consensus.”

Faber was among a group of speakers that included:
- State Rep. Ron Amstutz (R-Wooster), House speaker pro tempore;
- State Rep. Fred Strahorn (D-Dayton), House minority leader;
- State Senator Peggy Lehner (R-Kettering), chair of the Senate Education Committee;
- State Rep. Andrew Brenner (R-Powell), chair of the House Education Committee;
- OSBA, BASA and OASBO lobbyists.

In March 2015, the Senate passed Substitute Senate Bill (SB) 3, which would remove mandates and give districts flexibility to better address the needs of students and districts. Some of those mandates include changes to teacher evaluations and state and districtwide assessments.

“We seem to be having this contest between adults and kids in that what’s good for the kids is good for the adults,” said Faber, the bill’s sponsor. “We’re not having that discussion any more. The school system is about the kids, not the adults.

“If you have a problem dealing with the adults in your system, it’s on you. It’s not on the state and it’s not on the kids.”

SB 3 is being discussed in the House Education Committee where it may be favorably voted out in the coming weeks. The bill is subject to many possible amendments.

Some of these amendments, which are being sought by e-school lobbyists, include loosening attendance reporting requirements for charter schools and removing report card data from the sponsor evaluation process.

These amendments would water down some of the important charter school accountability reforms contained in House Bill (HB) 2, which became effective Feb. 1.

Amstutz, the second-ranking

In the Westfall Local (Pickaway) School District, nearly every eighth-grader receives nine weeks of agriculture education. The district, in partnership with Pickaway-Ross Career & Technology Center, is in the inaugural year of a movement to expose middle school grades to vocational and technical trades. “The purpose behind this big movement toward career and technical education is that kids need to learn more about different career fields,” Pickaway-Ross Director of Secondary Education James Nash told a local newspaper. “There are a lot of high school kids who are seniors who don’t really know what they want to do, so some folks are investing a lot of money into postsecondary education to find out what their kid wants to be, and then they find out that’s not what they want to be or there’s not a job in that particular area.”

All public school districts in Ross County have signed on to a similar expansion beginning in the fall. Next school year, Chillicothe City is planning to offer five middle school programs, including business marketing, health, information technology, pre-engineering, and arts and communications.

Expansion of career and vocational education was part of House Bill 59, which passed two years ago, Nash said. Source: Chillicothe Gazette

Ohio has an opportunity to explore its system and design what will work best for Ohio given the new parameters and flexibilities provided under ESSA.

Strahorn, the Democrats’ highest-ranking member in the House, stressed the importance of a stable education system in Ohio. “We have to stop changing what we expect you to do every two or three years,” he said. “We need to take a breath, take a little more time, figure out what is the appropriate thing to do, lock in on it and let you do your jobs.”

Following the morning sessions, attendees met with lawmakers and their aides during lunch and held further discussions later in the day.
