Yeshua or Jesus?
The Mis-Transliteration of a Greek Mis-Transliteration.

Yeshua is the original Aramaic proper name for Jesus the Nazarene, who lived from about 6 B.C.E. to 27 C.E. (A.D.) The word "Jesus" is actually a mis-transliteration of a Greek mis-transliteration. The Emperor Constantine even mistook Jesus for Apollo, the son of the Greek god Zeus. In Hebrew Yeshua means Salvation while the name Jesus has no intrinsic meaning in English whatsoever.

Yeshua Ben Yosef

It is most proper to call Him Yeshua. It was indeed his proper name, given to him by his parents, and only in Hebrew does this name have any meaning. In Hebrew Yeshua means both "Salvation," and the concatenated form of Yahoshua, is "Lord who is Salvation." The name Jesus has no intrinsic meaning in English whatsoever.

There are many Yeshuas that we read about in Biblical text and many are confused with the Yeshua who would later become the "Christ". The name Yeshua appears 29 times in the Tanach. Yehoshua (Joshua) of Nun is called Yeshua in Nechemyah (Nehemiah) 8:17. Yeshua is the name of the Cohain HaGadol (the high priest) in the time of Zerubavel in Ezra 3:2. It is the name of a Levite under King Hizkiyah (Hezekiah) in 2 Chronicles 31:15. There is even a city called Yeshua in the negev of Yehudah in Nechemyah 11:26. Yeshua is also a shortened version of the word Yehoshua much like Bill is for William.

There are 7 other Yeshuas (Jesuses) in the Brit Chadashah. There is Elymas bar Yeshua in Acts 13:6. There is an ancestor of Yeshua HaMashiach: the son of Eliezar, the father of Er in Luke 3:29. In Rav Shaul's letter to the Colossians in chapter 4, verse 11, there is a Justus called Yeshua a fellow worker of Shaul. Josephus, the famous Jewish historian mentions 20 different Yeshuas (Jesuses), 10 of which are contemporary with Yeshua HaMashiach. All together, at least 50 Yeshuas from his time plus about 9 in the Tanach have been revealed from Biblical text and other literary sources.

Mis-Translating the Mis-Translation

Yeshua is a Hebrew name which has been transliterated into Greek as Iesous (IhsouV: pronounced "ee-ay-SUS"). The English "Jesus" comes from the Latin transliteration of the Greek name into the Latin Jesus. Now Greek has no "y" sound, but the Latin "i" is both an "i" and a "j" (i.e., it can have a consonantal force in front of other vowels), the latter of which is properly pronounced like the English "y" (which explains the German Jesu, "YAY-su") That is why we spell Jesus as we do, taking it straight from Latin, but we pronounce the name with a soft "j" sound because that is what we do in English with the consonantal "j".

The first letter in the name Yeshua ("Jesus") is the yod. Yod represents the "Y" sound in Hebrew. Many names in the Bible that begin with yod are mispronounced by English speakers because the yod in these names was transliterated in English Bibles with the letter "J" rather than "Y". This came about because in early English the letter
"J" was pronounced the way we pronounce "Y" today. All proper names in the Old Testament were transliterated into English according to their Hebrew pronunciation via the Latin, but when English pronunciation shifted to what we know today, these transliterations were not altered. Thus, such Hebrew place names as ye-ru-sha-LA-yim, ye-ri-HO, and yar-DEN have become known to us as Jerusalem, Jericho, and Jordan; and Hebrew personal names such as yo-NA, yi-SHAI, and ye-SHU-a have become known to us as Jonah, Jesse, and Jesus. To further complicate matters, there was no letter "J" in the old English alphabet and the letter "I" was often used in its place. Often in early texts of the time, Jesus or Jerusalem would be spelled Iesus or Ierusalem.

The second sound in Yeshua's name is called tse-RE, and is pronounced almost like the letter "e" in the word "net". Just as the "Y" sound of the first letter is mispronounced in today's English, so too the first vowel sound in "Jesus". Before the Hebrew name "Yeshua" was transliterated into English, it was first transliterated into Greek. There was no difficulty in transliterating the tse-RE sound since the ancient Greek language had an equivalent letter which represented this sound. And there was no real difficulty in transcribing this same first vowel into English. The translators of the earliest versions of the English Bible transliterated the tse-RE in Yeshua with an "e". Unfortunately, later English speakers guessed wrongly that this "e" should be pronounced as in "me," and thus the first syllable of the English version of Yeshua came to be pronounced "Jee" instead of "Yeh". It is this pronunciation which produced such euphemistic profanities as "Gee" and "Geez".

Since Yeshua is spelled "Jeshua" and not "Jesus" in most English versions of the Old Testament (for example in Ezra 2:2 and 2 Chronicles 31:15), one easily gets the impression that the name is never mentioned in the Hebrew Scriptures. Yet 'Yeshua' appears there twenty-nine times, and is the name of at least five different persons and one village in the southern part of Yehudah ("Judah").

In contrast to the early biblical period, there were relatively few different names in use among the Jewish population of the Land of Israel at the time of the Second Temple. The name Yeshua was one of the most common male names in that period, tied with Eleazer for fifth place behind Simon, Joseph, Judah, and John. Nearly one out of ten persons known from the period was named Yeshua.

The first sound of the second syllable of Yeshua is the "sh" sound. It is represented by the Hebrew letter shin. However Greek, like many other languages, has no "sh" sound. Instead, the closest approximation, the Greek sigma, was used when transcribing "Yeshua" as "Iesus". Translators of English versions of the New Testament transliterated the Greek transcription of a Hebrew name, instead of returning to the original Hebrew. This was doubly unfortunate, first because the "sh" sound exists in English, and second because in English the "s" sound can shift to the "z" sound, which is what happened in the case of the pronunciation of "Jesus".
The fourth sound one hears in the name Yeshua is the "u" sound, as in the word "true". Like the first three sounds, this also has come to be mispronounced but in this case it is not the fault of the translators. They transcribed this sound accurately, but English is not a phonetic language and "u" can be pronounced in more than one way. At some point the "u" in "Jesus" came to be pronounced as in "cut," and so we say "Jee-zuhs." The "a" sound, as in the word "father," is the fifth sound in Jesus' name. It is followed by a guttural produced by contracting the lower throat muscles and retracting the tongue root- an unfamiliar task for English speakers. In an exception to the rule, the vowel sound "a" associated with the last letter "ayin" (the guttural) is pronounced before it, not after. While there is no equivalent in English or any other Indo-European language, it is somewhat similar to the last sound in the name of the composer, "Bach." In this position it is almost inaudible to the western ear. Some Israelis pronounce this last sound and some don't, depending on what part of the dispersion their families returned from. The Hebrew Language Academy, guardian of the purity of the language, has ruled that it should be sounded, and Israeli radio and television announcers are required to pronounce it correctly. There was no letter to represent them, and so these fifth and sixth sounds were dropped from the Greek transcription of "Yeshua," -the transcription from which the English "Jesus" is derived.

So where did the final "s" of "Jesus" come from? Masculine names in Greek ordinarily end with a consonant, usually with an "s" sound, and less frequently with an "n" or "r" sound. In the case of "Iesus," the Greeks added a sigma, the "s" sound, to close the word. The same is true for the names Nicodemus, Judas, Lazarus, and others. English speakers make one final change from the original pronunciation of Jesus' name. English places the accent on "Je," rather than on "sus." For this reason, the "u" has been shortened in its English pronunciation to "uh."

In Jesus' Name

Today's tradition of pronouncing His completely hellenized name as "Jesus" has indeed obscured His true name, "Yeshua," and has shifted its perceived meaning much like most of His original teachings. As with all things Essene however, there is always the exoteric and the esoteric philosophies and functions. That is, those ideas and teachings suitable to be imparted to the public, and those designed for or understood by the specially initiated alone. Even His name, it would seem, became a part of this understanding. The name Jesus or Jesus Christ is often used in everything from idle conversation, to bumper stickers and jewelry, to enforcing false teachings, to justifying wars and political agendas, and is even used as a profanity. The name Yeshua however, has remained pure and holy, known and used only by those who would uphold His name.
and teachings in the highest regard and thus reserving His holy name for use only in spiritual matters and the most humbled and sincere of prayer and obeisances

Proclaiming the TRUE name of Messiah and revealing intentional deception by Christian leaders!

I want to first state that I do not consider the "name" to necessarily be a redemptive issue although I do consider it to be very important. There are others that disagree and feel use of the wrong "name" for God or Messiah will result in definite eternal damnation. Groups or individuals with such a view are in the minority of those that wish to use the actual name for our Messiah. Don't get me wrong! I am not down playing the significance of knowing - and subsequently using - the actual name the Messiah was given and addressed as his entire life. Additionally, since he is alive now seated at the right hand of Power it is still his name!

There ARE some that are unnecessarily strict regarding the name issue. I sometimes receive emails from individuals that lash out at me and DEMAND that people should EXACTLY spell and pronounce the name of Messiah or God correctly. They, for instance, point out that Yahoshua (Yah-o-shoo-ah), not Yeshua (Yay-shoo-ah), is the more precise name of Messiah. I hasten to add that most preferring the name "Yahoshua" do not exhibit such extremism. Whereas they may be technically correct, they fail to grasp that the "o" is considered by many scholars to be silent; therefore, Yahoshua can be justifiably pronounced Yeshua (or Yahshua) with the "o" so slightly accented as to make it's precise pronunciation a moot point. In my audio teachings I use both pronunciations. Frankly, even the legalistic name-police probably do not pronounce the name correctly since they do not speak in the precise dialect of those during Yeshua's time.

Similarly, some feel "Yahshua" (Yah-shoo-ah) is the correct spelling of Messiah's name. Among them is a small minority that harshly judge those that prefer to emphasize "Yeshua" or "Yahoshua" instead of "Yahshua" as Messiah's name. [Yeshua is a post-exilic (Babylonian exile) pronunciation of Yehoshua (or Yahoshua) and is found in the Shem Tov Hebrew text of Matthew.] Some individuals suggest the name Yahshua is blasphemous since they claim the term "Yah" (a shortened form of YHVH) within the name is reserved ONLY for the name of God, which makes the name "Yahshua" offensive to some individuals. So, the argument sometimes becomes one of avoiding offense. Well, a similar "offense" argument could be made regarding the name "Jesus", since many are offended when evidence is presented that the name "Jesus" is fraudulent. My response to those that use this argument regarding the name "Yahshua" is the same as it is regarding those that prefer the name "Jesus." I will use what I sincerely consider correct and will not allow the "offense" of truth to deter me from presenting what I consider truth.

I present a disclaimer on the name-articles page regarding the entire "name" issue in which I discuss how no one knows for sure how God's name is pronounced. There are many other Hebrew names that contain part of the name YHVH. The Bible is full of them. In fact, there so many such names that the term "theophoric" was coined with which to categorize them! Why is it that the name "Yeshua" is considered offensive, yet all the other names that include the name of God acceptable? If those that find the name Yeshua offensive can explain why they consider the other theophoric names acceptable I may listen to them, but until then I would prefer they shut up and stop being so offensive themselves.

The simple truth is "Yeshua" and "Yahshua" are pronounced almost EXACTLY the same! In most cases they ARE pronounced exactly the same. It is usually impossible to know from listening to someone pronounce the name how that person prefers to spell it. My name is Bruce. When one says my name they could be using various spellings - Bruce, Broose, Bruice, etc. - and I wouldn't know the difference! The names Yeshua, Yahshua, and Yahoshua are similarly equivalent. I feel those few that exhibit such ultra-sensitivity to the name "Yeshua" vs. "Yahshua" are far too judgmental and cannot PROVE, despite their insistence that they can, that "Yahshua" is any more legitimate than "Yeshua" in terms of it being the correct ancient Hebrew pronunciation (pre-exilic). As I imply, however, most that use these similar sounding names do not force their sincere opinion upon others since they realize scholars differ on this issue.

Scholars differ regarding the correct name of Messiah. Some say Yeshua is correct. Some say Yahshua is correct, and some say Yahoshua is correct. The fact is no one knows FOR SURE which is correct. HOWEVER, ALL REPUTABLE SCHOLARS AGREE "JESUS" IS MOST CERTAINLY NOT CORRECT. Most that use the name Yahshua have no issue with those that prefer Yeshua or Yahoshua, just as those like myself that consider Yeshua correct have no problem with those that use Yahshua or Yahoshua. I use the 3 legitimate names interchangeably since their pronunciation is indistinguishable to all but the most legalistic "heresy hunters."

Sometimes others use my articles in their ministries and change the name to Yeshua where Yahshua is encountered or to Yahshua where Yeshua is encountered depending upon their personal preference. I have absolutely no problem at all with that. I do have a problem with the name "Jesus" and do not endorse anyone using that false name in reprints of my articles. Even then, however, I do not consider it a redemptive issue since I am quite certain God will not damn people for their ignorance of the correct name of Messiah if they are sincerely devoted to Him.

Those that DEMAND precise pronunciation of a name that no one knows for certain is even correct seem to miss the "measure for measure" teaching. "Measure for measure" is a traditional teaching within the Hebraic faith - a teaching that Yeshua supported and taught when he told us in Matthew 7:2 as well as Mark 4 and Luke 6: Matthew 7:2 (NASB95)

2 "For in the way you judge, you will be judged; and by your standard of measure, it will be measured to you."
The Hebraic meaning of this is that the measure or strictness with which we judge others will be the same measure applied to us in the heavenly court when we are called before it to give an account of our deeds. I would NOT want to be standing in the shoes of those that are immovably strict in the exact pronunciation of Messiah's name when they are called to appear before that court! Some "name" promoters display the grossest possible level of legalism. They make a redemptive issue out of one possible syllable of a name or even the "correct" english spelling of Messiah's name (Yeshua versus Yahshua)! They seem to be worshipping a God that is completely void of ANY grace and that is looking for a reason to damn anyone over the most trivial things! The fact is, NO ONE knows the EXACT pronunciation of the name; therefore, Yahshua, Yahoshua, or Yeshua can all be argued as "correct" - especially in terms of the actual vocalization. At the very least the differences are trivial and most certainly should not be judged as redemptive as done by those that wish to impose the ultimate forms of legalism upon us.

NOTE! Feb. 23, 2003 - Lately, long after this article was first written, I've begun to use "Yeshua" more and more because I have grown to consider it more correct and because it is quicker and easier for me to type (the "Ye" is easier to type than the "Yah"). Like I said, I consider the names to be identical since their pronunciation IS virtually identical; therefore, do not be confused or think I'm suffering from some sort of name schizophrenia if you encounter both names, "Yeshua" and "Yahshua," on this web site.

Where I may consider it redemptive is in those situations where the true HEBRAIC name (Yeshua, Yahshua, or Yahoshua) is viciously attacked. Such attacks are not against a mere word, but are against THE name of THE Messiah! Common sense suggests such attacks are, at the very least, disappointing to the Almighty Creator. So, it may very well be that those who vehemently attack the Hebraic name may be risking eternal damnation since their attacks are actually against the one to whom the name applies, but that is not for me to say. What IS clear is that Scripture DOES appear to emphasize the "name" as being a crucial issue, despite the fact most Christians consider it unimportant. Some of the other "name" articles accessible from this web site prove that.

The fury with which some attack the OBVIOUS correct names for Messiah and Elohim (God) while promoting known FALSE names, suggest something very sinister and dark about their true motives. But this only applies to leaders that do not have the excuse of ignorance. The vast majority of Christians are sincere and simply are not aware of the true names; however, this ignorance is not a reasonable excuse for those in leadership positions. If they are that ignorant, they have no right to be leaders. Now to the discussion.

Anyone that thinks the Jewish parents of the Jewish Messiah that were strong adherents to the Judaic principles and lived in a Jewish contextual setting would give their son a Greek name is lacking in common sense! Seriously! How can anyone be deceived to the point of thinking the HEBREW Messiah would have a GREEK name? Such a thought is preposterous!

Countless numbers of defiant Constantinian Christians actually promote the following outrageous position - a position that defies all common sense reason - a fact of which many Christian leaders are fully aware:

1. Constantinian Christians say the prophesied HEBREW (Jewish) Messiah was given a GREEK name, Iesous (yay' soos).
2. That Greek name for the Jewish Messiah was then CHANGED 1600 years later to Jesus (Jee' zus) when the "J" was added to the English language.
3. Despite the lunacy of their position, bias-blinded Christians insists "jesus" is the true name for Messiah.

I will be blunt. The idea that the Jewish Messiah would be given a Greek name that then changed when a new letter was added to an English alphabet 1600 years later is brainless! It is utterly crazy, and those that promote this fallacy provide evidence for evolutionists who think we all evolved from apes, since such people exhibit the intelligence of a primate! Harsh? Well, the simple truth is sometimes harsh, especially for those that refuse to accept it. Worse still, millions upon millions are actually too brainwashed by Constantinian Christian merchants of deception (and anti-Semitism) to see the truth! Such blindness is predicted for those that embrace the "spirit of delusion."

Constantinian Christianity has:

1. doctrinally kidnapped the Scriptural Hebrew Messiah,
2. changed his true Hebrew name into a false Greek - then an even more false Englicized name,
3. hidden or misrepresented the faith he practiced,
4. changed or ignored his teachings as well as the teachings of his original followers,
5. made him - their false "christ" - into a man-God so that he will align with Constantinian Christianity's mystery-Babylon sun-god foundations,
6. falsely teach that this unscriptural man-God and his original followers promoted the satanic blasphemy that the Torah (Eternal Law) of God is either changed, meaningless, or - according to the doctrines of many Christian groups - abolished.
7. and now promotes a very unmessianic Messiah that is unrecognizable from the true Scriptural Messiah.

The unmessianic man-God "christ" promoted by Christianity is a replacement Messiah (anti-Messiah), which Constantinian Christianity uses to replace, usurp, and oppose the authentic and scriptural HEBRAIC Messiah revealed in the
It is a fact! The use of the name "Jesus" is irrefutable evidence that Christian leaders promote intentional error for the sake of tradition. There is no argument, and anyone that attempts to make an argument can be easily shown their error. The true name of the Messiah is no "mystery". Christian leaders have known since the very beginnings of the "church" that the name of the Messiah is not "Jesus". Whereas one could argue the early Greek name of Ἰησοῦς may have been an innocent mistake, there is no excuse why today Christian leaders continue to willfully promote a name for the Messiah that is undeniably false. Well meaning Christians often quote Acts 4:12 and Philippians 2:9-11.

Acts 4:12
12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

Philippians 2:9-11
9 Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, 10 that at the name of Yeshua every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, 11 and that every tongue should confess that Yeshua Messiah is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Christians quote these passages with great fervor and love for the lord yet use an incorrect name! Perhaps Christians should, themselves, seriously take these passages to heart and use "none other" than the actual name! Since they proclaim there is "none other name ... whereby we must be saved", and since that name is most certainly NOT "Jesus", Christians should use the real name - the name with which "God also has highly exalted Him and given Him"! It is bizarre to see Christians use these passages to enforce calling upon the name of Messiah then violate them themselves by calling on a false name! Perhaps the time has come for sincere Christians to honor their Messiah by using his God-given name, "Yeshua", instead of the man-given name of "Jesus".

Unfortunately, our opponents that choose to intentionally use what is proven to be a false name often slander us by placing all promoters of the lord's true name into the category they negatively refer to as "name fanatics". I agree there are some that even I consider "name fanatics"; however, those within Constantinian Christianity that oppose the true Hebraic name practice unjust stereotyping and are often aware that the name we use is correct. I will not go into the details surrounding the evolution (some reasonably prefer the term paganizing) of the name "Yeshua" into "Jesus" since there are other articles on this site that present the information.

One must ask who are the real "name fanatics"? Why are those that use the correct name persecuted? Frankly those that use the name "Jesus" are the true "name fanatics" since, because of a fanatical embrace of tradition they intentionally suppress and oppose a simple truth! Why is it those of us that trust in the true Messiah Yeshua and call him by the name he knows as his own are condemned as "fanatics"!

The name "Jesus" is also sad proof of the stiff-necked attitude of most Christian leaders. Who is actually wrong? The facts prove that promoters of the name "Jesus" are wrong, but their pride will not allow them to move to correct this clear false practice. Why do they ignore, censor, or attack reverence of the true name, Yeshua?

Perhaps it is because all denominations - not just Catholicism - unwisely elevate their leaders to god-like positions of infallibility and even consider them almost "divine lawmakers" with power to actually overrule the true Divine Lawgiver. The refusal of Christian leaders to break with tradition even when they have no basis for their position is astounding.

The determined use of a false name for the Messiah is a clear example to which one can point to prove how the "church" prefers traditional error instead of truth even when the error is blatantly obvious. Strangely, most leaders acknowledge the error yet prefer - for puzzling reasons - to promote a false name! It must also be recognized how the intentional use of a false name proves how deeply anti-Semitism and anti-Judaic feeling infest Christianity, since one of the unspoken reasons for failure to use the true name is because it is Jewish. Since Christianity (not to be confused with the true Messianic faith) was designed by the "church fathers" from the start to oppose Judaism, as well as the TRUE Messianic faith that is TOTALLY Hebraic, there is unyielding opposition to the use of the true Jewish name for our Jewish lord from the Jewish tribe of Judah!

Some people mistakenly argue that "Jesus" is the "English translation of Yeshua." They argue that names change depending upon the culture in which the name is spoken, despite the fact such is NOT the case with virtually every other Hebrew name one can think of. Even today Americans, Brits, etc. refer to an Israeli by his or her Israeli (Hebrew) name. Examples include Benyamin Netanyahu, Ariel Sharon, Ehud Barak, Yitzak Rabin, and Yosef. (Note Yosef and Benyamin are often pronounced as Joseph and Benjamin due to the "J" conspiracy I will discuss a bit later.)

I will provide three irrefutable arguments proving that "Jesus" is NOT the "English translation of Yeshua."

1. First, I will reveal that the very Greek word from which the name "Jesus" originated is, itself, a false name.
2. Second, I will show how even the pages of the New Testament prove "Jesus" is a false name.
3. Finally I will discuss the "J conspiracy," as I call it, which provides yet more proof of Constantinian Christianity's intentional promotion of error. This error is used by Christian leaders to hide the true Messiah's name and is part of Constantinian Christianity's grand demonic scheme to promote an antichrist (replacement Messiah) and conceal the true mission and definition of the actual Messiah.

When these facts are uncovered from the centuries of intentional deception perpetrated by the "church," even hard line Christians, IF they are sincere, will have to concede that the name "Jesus" is a fabricated lie conceived by Christian leaders and promoted for centuries.

What about the original Greek word for "Jesus?"

Within the discussion of the first verse of the gospel of Mark in the book Wuest Word Studies in the Greek New Testament we find the following:

"... Jesus Christ (Iesous Christos), Iesous, (pronounced yay'-soos)
the transliterated form of the Hebrew word we know as Jehoshua, which means, "Jehovah saves;" Christos, the transliterated form of the Greek word which means "The Anointed One; ..."

In the quote just shown the author is stating:

1. The name "Jesus" comes from the Greek word Iesous.
2. The Greek name Iesous is a transliteration. It is not a translation!
3. The author admits that "we," meaning himself and most other scholars, know that the actual Hebrew name of Messiah is Jehoshua (actually Yehoshua). This is an important point because it proves Christian leaders know "Jesus" is not the true name. As I will show later, the "English translation" of such a name is Joshua (Yeshua).

So what does it mean to "transliterate" something? The Merriam-Webster Collegiate Dictionary defines transliterate as:

transliterate: to represent or spell in the characters of another alphabet

That same reference defines "translation" as:

translation: a rendering from one language into another; also: the product of such a rendering

Similarly, the internet source, MSN Learning & Research Plus, gives the following definitions:

transliterate - transcribe something into another alphabet: to represent a letter or word written in one alphabet using the corresponding letter or letters of another, so that the sound of the letter or word remains approximately the same.

translation - 1. version in another language: a word, phrase, or version in another language that has a meaning equivalent to that of the original. 2. expressing of something in a different language: the rendering of something written of spoken in one language in words of a different language.

In other words, to transliterate a word from one language to another the scholar takes the letters (spelling) of the original language and replaces the letters with the corresponding letters from the alphabet of the language into which the word is being transliterated. This is sometimes done by replacing the first letter of the original language with the first letter of the final language, the second letter of the original language with the second letter of the final language, the third letter with the third, etc. The result is a totally different word that is NOT a translation. It may also have been an attempt to render a similar sounding word without regard to the true representation of the name. I have seen material from others who present evidence that the Greek word Iesous may have been similar in pronunciation to Yeshua, especially to the Greek scribes that edited the New Testament and who were NOT Hebrew. However,

On the other hand, to translate a word the scholar takes the word from the original language and translates or transforms it into an equivalent word in the second language. The focus of translation is to render the meaning of a word from one language to another or into an equivalent word of the second language; however, the focus of transliteration is to render the spelling or sound of a word from one language to another.

There are some excellent discussions found in the book, Come Out of Her My People, by C. J. Koster, that reveal how the false Greek name for Messiah, Iesous, is pronounced identically to the name of the Ionic Greek goddess of healing, Ieso and that Iesous may be a masculine equivalent. Of course, Yeshua was a healer and, therefore, perfectly fits the pagan Greek concept of a god of healing. The point is that "Jesus" allegedly originates from a transliteration of Messiah's name that today, as "Jesus," is not even close to the pronunciation of his actual name. It doesn't sound like the original name! So, "Jesus" is a defective pronunciation of the original Greek word,Iesous, which was an alleged transliteration and may or may not have sounded similar to his true name in the Greek language of that day. The most profound fact, however, is that Christian leaders know "Jesus" is NOT the true name yet continue to intentionally avoid using the true name. They knowingly promote a false name for Messiah! This is a fact, despite the attempts of Christian leaders to conceal the truth.

I can't think of a single person I have ever known from ANY country on earth who went by a "translated" or "transliterate" name that sounded NOTHING like their true name. I've met lots of people from Europe, Asia, middle-east, and other countries, but I cannot think of a single individual that wished to be called by a "translated" or "transliterated" name, which was completely different from their real name. Even if their name was difficult to pronounce in English they still wished the name to be used, and myself and others would do our best to do so.

It was (and IS) considered rude to use a false "nickname" for people unless they personally give permission. I do not recall a verse anywhere in the Bible in which Yeshua was asked if his true name could be replaced with something else, nor do I recall him giving anyone permission to do so! In fact, quite the OPPOSITE is true! The TRUE name of Messiah, "Yeshua," is the only example I personally know of where people claim it is ok to change his name to suit the language in which it is used.
I'm sure there are possibly other examples some of you may be aware of, but I'm simply speaking for myself. And I know of NO other examples.

But all the discussion over "translation" vs. "transliteration" is really not necessary, and it does not matter if you disagree with me on that point. In fact, I've even considered removing that particular issue from this article since it really doesn't matter. If you wish to believe that "jesus" is a translation, fine! I will not waste my time arguing about it because it still does not prove that "jesus" is Messiah's actual name.

The point is that "Jesus" is NOT Messiah's name. No amount of excuses from christian "scholars" or anyone else who prefers the name "Jesus" can change that simple, undeniable fact. Anyone that tells you "Jesus" is the true name for Messiah is either ignorant of the truth, does not wish to admit the truth, or is a blatant liar!

Yeshua is a Jew. He was given a Jewish name. His family, all his friends, and all his original followers called him by his TRUE Jewish name. I want to be his friend; therefore, I will do likewise.

Guess what? Even the New Testament proves "Jesus" to be a false name.

We have already seen that the name "Jesus" comes from a transliteration and is NOT a translation at all! However, stiff-necked traditionalists and intentional deceivers will still refuse to acknowledge the truth. Ok, then how can they reject proof from the very passages of the New Testament. Let's see them squirm to avoid that!

The New Testament translators accidentally uncover the error of the fanciful argument that "Jesus" is an "English translation" and therefore further expose the deceit of many that promote the name "Jesus". We have already shown that "Jesus" is NOT the English translation of Yeshua's name. It can be further proven from the New Testament, and Acts 7:45 and Hebrews 4:8 do so. Note the verses as rendered in the King James Version:

Acts 7:45 (KJV)

45 Which also our fathers that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

Hebrews 4:8 (KJV)

8 For if Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

Now note the exact same verses taken from the Updated New American Standard Version:

Acts 7:45 (NASB95)

45 And having received it in their turn, our fathers brought it in with Joshua upon dispossessing the nations whom God drove out before our fathers, until the time of David.
Hebrews 4:8 (NASB95)

8 For if Joshua had given them rest, He would not have spoken of another day after that.

In BOTH of these verses the person being referred to is Joshua - the servant of Moses that lead Israel into the promised land. The reason the KJV says "Jesus" is because it comes from the exact same Greek word, Iesous, and the King James Version translators apparently either did not catch the error or, more probably, chose to perpetuate Christianity's anti-Hebraic lie.

These verses help to further understand the difference between translation and transliteration. "Joshua" is NOT a transliteration, but it does come from the Greek word Iesous, which IS a transliteration. "Joshua" is a correct translation from the original Hebrew and is the actual "english translation" of Messiah's name. The translators CORRECTLY rendered "Joshua" because they knew it to be the TRUE translation of the original Hebrew name for the servant of Moses. In short, they ignored the Greek transliteration, Iesous, because they knew it to be faulty.

Now, the question for those that claim "Jesus" is the correct English rendering of "Yeshua" is this: if the translators of Scripture elsewhere, especially in the Tanakh (Old Testament) and also in most modern versions of the New Testament, CORRECTLY render the SAME Greek word, Iesous, as "Joshua" in Acts 7:45 and Hebrews 4:8, why do they refuse to correct the false rendering of "Jesus" for the name of our Messiah? IT IS THE SAME GREEK WORD! The English equivalent of Messiah's name is "Joshua" (Yeshua), NOT "Jesus." Why is Messiah's name correctly translated ONLY in the cases where it doesn't apply to him? Why does Christianity willfully refuse to correctly render Messiah's Hebrew name even when they correctly render the exact same Greek word in cases where he is not the one being referenced? So, what this shows is that even translators know "Jesus" is NOT correct. So, why is the most important name ever given purposely mistranslated and promoted by Traditional Christianity? Why is "Joshua" the "English translation of Yeshua" in most verses of Scripture (notably the Old Testament and everywhere Joshua is mentioned in the New), and "Jesus" suddenly the "English translation of Yeshua" in others? Which is actually the "English translation"? THE CORRECT TRANSLATION IS YAHSHUA!

The "J" Conspiracy

Another VERY revealing bit of evidence can be seen from the fact that there was no "J" common in the English language until around the 16th century. Prior to that time, those words now shown with a J were pronounced as though the J was a Y. So "Joshua," even in English, is proven conclusively to be "Yeshua" when the original Y sound is used. Thus, it is IMPOSSIBLE for "Jesus" to be anything close to the true name, because the "J" sound did not exist when he was alive! Did you get that? The name "Jesus" is proven to be incorrect simply from the fact the word
"Jesus" did not exist until only 500 years ago because there was no such thing as a J in the language! This fact alone PROVES "Jesus" is a false name!

Furthermore, as mentioned previously, there is a LOT of powerful and convincing evidence that shows the Greek name for Messiah, Iesous, may be derived from the name of a pagan deity! YES, "JESUS" IS A WORD WHICH MAY DERIVE FROM THE NAME FOR A PAGAN GREEK GOD! IT MAY GIVE HONOR TO A PAGAN DEITY! The aforementioned book, Come Our of Her My People, by C. J. Koster, provides a LOT of evidence of this as well as many other proofs of Christianity's pagan foundations. Of course, few Christians dare investigate these things for fear of what they may discover. Their fears are well founded since they WILL find ample facts proving Constantinian Christianity to be a counterfeit, Babylonian based. A religion that may represent part of Satan's plan to usurp God and establish himself as the recipient of mankind's worship.

Hallooo? Why are preachers intentionally discarding and censoring the true name for Messiah and using a false name that may honor a pagan god in its place?

Let me ask that again. Why are Christian leaders intentionally discarding and censoring the true name for Messiah, (Yeshua) and using a false name instead (Jesus). Worse still, the false name "Jesus" is a name for which very strong evidence exists showing it may honor a pagan god?

Conclusion

The name issue is crucial for a number of reasons, not the least of which is how it proves an intentional embrace of tradition instead of truth within Christianity! IF the church can't even get the name right - one of THE most basic things - how can one believe their other doctrines are correct?

The name "Jesus" is proof-positive of serious foundational errors in Christianity. It is an irrefutable fact, regardless of how uncomfortable it may seem to Christians, that they are CLEARLY utilizing a false name whenever they use the name "Jesus".

Sadly, most Christians don't care! I don't know about you, but if church leaders can't get the name right, I'm not going to trust them with anything else - especially not my eternal soul!

It is irrefutable that "Jesus" is NOT the correct name. Actually, the practice of name usage is totally abandoned in the case of the name of Messiah! Common practice is to call one by their native name no matter where they are from. That has always been the case. So, why is it that the name of Messiah is an instance where Christians break that practice? It is because of tradition and the anti-Semitic nature of Christianity. I have little patience with those that defy the clear common sense of this issue and prefer to use a paganized name for my Messiah.

Traditional Christianity PURPOSELY hides the true name of the Messiah!
For those of us that wish to honor the true name of our Messiah along with his God and Father - the One and Only God - passages such as the following which describe the last days leap from the pages of the New Testament as we endure the slander of those that prefer to worship tradition. Though these passages may apply more broadly, the bitterness we have witnessed regarding our promoting of the use of the Messiah's actual name suggests they certainly also apply directly to the name issue.

Matthew 24:9

> 9 Then they will deliver you to tribulation, and will kill you, and you will be hated by all nations on account of My name.

Mark 13:13

> 13 And you will be hated by all on account of My name, but the one who endures to the end, he shall be saved.

Luke 21:17

> 17 and you will be hated by all on account of My name.

Revelation 2:13

> 13 I know your works, and where you dwell, where Satan's throne is. And you hold fast to My name, and did not deny My faith even in the days in which Antipas was My faithful martyr, who was killed among you, where Satan dwells.

Revelation 3:8

> 8 I know your works. See, I have set before you an open door, and no one can shut it; for you have a little strength, have kept My word, and have not denied My name.

Christianity is a religion that was birthed in Jewish and Hebraic hatred in the first 4 centuries, a birth that resulted in a brand new and, in many ways, unscriptural false religion. Unfortunately, very few Christians ever independently research the first 4 centuries of "Christianity"; therefore, they really have no idea how or when the foundations of their faith began or of what was discarded when "the baby was thrown out with the bath water". Frankly, most Traditional Christians, because of woefully poor or non-existent Bible study, have no clue as to what (or who) they are actually following. It took over 30 years before I finally recognized what I had been following my entire life! Sadly, it is improbable that you will hear a truthful history (or Bible) lesson from the pulpit, since the pulpit is where the salesmen of deception market their products.

A dark secret festers within Christianity. A secret that for over 1600 years has been successfully hidden from all but the most determined and studious men and women. The "antichrist" as well as the Beast that intended (and still tries) to "change times and laws" has been hiding in plain sight and hardly anyone notices or even cares. Time is short - shorter than you may think. The time has come to care and get yourself right with God! Once you recognize the true spirit of the "antichrist" and the Beast that entices virtually the entire world to follow him and makes use of the false prophet(s), the demonic reasons for the countless false teachings within Christianity suddenly begin to make sense. Particularly eye opening are false teachings that directly conceal basic truths about God and the Messiah. I believe the unexplainable and intentional censorship of the true name of Messiah may be a clue to far greater evils within Traditional Christianity.
