Dear Future Man of Morehouse:

Congratulations on your acceptance to Morehouse College! You have just successfully completed a monumental objective in the process of making one of the most important decisions in your life: where you will attend college. We hope that you will decide to make Morehouse College your choice for this next stage of your educational pursuits.

For more than 145 years, Morehouse College has been and continues to be a shining example of excellence in its ability to educate men and produce global leaders. Our legacy is of developing men who have helped transform society and the world. We take pride in our long-standing tradition of producing men of high academic preparation, strong moral character and transformational leadership ability.

As you consider your college choices, one very important question you should ask yourself is what are the outcomes and opportunities that exist for me upon completion of my degree. Morehouse has a network of more than 12,000 alumni and have produced some of the nation’s top physicians and Wall Street executives, as well as a Nobel Peace Prize winner who now has his likeness on the mall in Washington, D.C. The College is also one of only two historically black colleges and universities to produce three Rhodes scholars. Our graduates continue their education at some of the top graduate and professional schools in the nation, such as Harvard, Yale, Duke and Stanford. Others enter the workforce at many of the world’s leading employers, such as Microsoft, Coca-Cola, Google and Goldman Sachs.

We hope that you and your family will take the opportunity to tour Morehouse so that you can fully engage the campus community, personally experience the brotherhood, and see what being a student at Morehouse is all about. We are confident that Morehouse College will exceed your expectations.

We want you to attend Morehouse because we know that it will change your life and give you an experience that you cannot get at any other college in the world. We want you to become a man of Morehouse!

Please visit our website at www.morehouse.edu and/or feel free to contact the Office of Admissions at (404) 215-2632 to ask any questions you may have. We are here to help in any way we can.

I look forward to welcoming you to Morehouse College!

Sincerely,

Applying for housing at Morehouse College is a simple process. The following steps will ensure that you get the most out of TigerDEN. It is designed to give you the most freedom in selecting a Learning Community, as well as a roommate. Please read and follow the instructions closely.

HOW TO SELECT A LEARNING COMMUNITY
Morehouse College Learning Communities are aligned with the College’s mission to create an environment where men of Morehouse are expected to master a designated set of skills and competencies related to what they learn inside the classroom. These are entire residence halls where students request to live near others who share a particular interest in academics, social and cultural issues and/or activities. These communities help students create a strong link between their lives in the residence hall and learning experiences in the classroom; and provide an environment that is conducive to building a strong, cohesive peer support system that will serve them throughout their academic and professional careers. Residents have access to many special resources, programs and activities, such as freshman orientation, seminars, lectures, service learning, tutors, mentoring programs, and much more.

Incoming students have the opportunity to become a member of a learning community. The learning communities at Morehouse College are: iSTEM, REBEL, White Hall Center for Social Change and Empowerment, Evolution, W.E.B. Dubois International House and Soul House. You must research and select your top four choices before completing the application. Find more details on each community at www.MorehouseOHRL.com.

The Morehouse College Martin Luther King Jr. Collection features 13,000 pieces of King’s personal writings, speeches, books and other artifacts of Morehouse alumnus Martin Luther King Jr. (class of 1948). Acquired in 2006, when civic and corporate leaders assembled a multi-million dollar deal to keep the coveted collection from going to auction, the Collection helps promote the ideas, principles and teachings of King on the Morehouse campus and in the wider community through lectures, workshops, presentations, symposia and opportunities for research and scholarship. The acquisition forever links the College to the legacy of the nation’s most renowned civil and human rights leader and seals its place in history as an important civil rights site.

The Journalism and Sports Program provides Morehouse students with an academic foundation in journalism, with a special emphasis on sports. The program is currently offered as a minor within the English department, but will ultimately expand into a major. The seed money for the program was donated by Morehouse alumnus Shelton “Spike” Lee ’79.

Morehouse College is one of only two historically black colleges or universities (HBCU) to produce three Rhodes scholars. The school has produced a total of three Rhodes Scholars, one of only two HBCUs to do so.

The Ray Charles Performing Arts Center is the College’s state-of-the-art center for music, teaching and performance. Anchoring the College’s south side, the $20-million facility, which includes the Music Academic Building, covers 76,000 square feet, houses a digital/analog recording studio, 12 faculty studios, nine practice rooms, two rehearsal rooms and three academic labs, including the David Geffen Keyboard Digital Music Laboratory, featuring 16 digital keyboards and other computerized music equipment. The building is also home for the world renowned Morehouse College Glee Club, which celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2011.

The College’s new Cinema, Television and Emerging Media Studies (CTEMS) program is definitely what’s hot and new on campus. Courses include a screenwriting workshop, as well as a lecture series on black men, black boys and the psychology of modern media. The lecture series uses the book Decoded, written by media mogul Jay-Z, as the foundation of the course. The idea is to develop strong writers and great storytellers who will make an impact on the world of cinema and media in years to come.

Morehouse Milestones

From being named one of the top social media colleges in the nation to its historical significance in the civil rights movement, Morehouse College is living its proud legacy.
