7.1.1 Considerations in choosing External Training

23
• Why is it necessary?
• Are such programmes not available in Railway Training Institutions?
• Would the proposed external training be of direct benefit to the railway employee in his present duties or of long term importance to the Railway administration?
• Is it fully justified against the criteria of cost, quality and relevance?
• In the case of repeat External Training, has the feedback from the previous trainees of the concerned external training been considered?

7.2. Sponsorship of Railway Employees for part time / correspondence course

General Managers of Railways and Production Units are empowered to sponsor railway employees for part time / correspondence courses and reimburse 75% of the tuition fee only, after successful completion of the course on fulfilment of the following conditions:

• Establishment of justification for sponsorship for part time / correspondence course after a detailed exercise of identifying training gap proposed to be filled through such courses vis-a-vis availability of such courses in Railway training institutions.
• Selected part time / correspondence course is of interest and use to the Railways and is of at-least diploma level with duration of six months or more and has been approved by the Government.
• Certification by the concerned PHOD of the need for such a course and individual's capacity to absorb the course inputs.
• Annual expenditure on reimbursement of 75% of tuition fee of the part time / correspondence courses to railway employees not exceeding Rs 1 lakh.

Management of Training Functions

8.1. Guideline 1 Adopt Systems Approach To Training (SAT)

Aim: To integrate training systematically with entire work system

8.1.1 Why SAT

Money spent on training is not only an 'expenditure', but an 'investment'. All investments including that on training call for close and continuous security, backed by suitable mechanism and machinery to get maximum benefit out of the investments made.

To integrate training systematically with the whole work system and making it cost effective, the entire training activities have to be based on SAT.

8.1.2 What is SAT

Systems Approach to Training is nothing but application of principles for effective management in "Training". These principles are -defining aims & objectives; defining the requirements for effective performance by job analysis; planning, resourcing and implementing; and assessing achievement and doing necessary changes. SAT is so called because it involves a series of interdependent system, functionally linked together so as to achieve total effectiveness. In applying SAT, training is undertaken on planned basis in logical serial steps.
8.1.2.1 In the systems approach to any activity or process, the following four broad stages are involved:

A. Analysis-

Identification of problem in order to define the objective, tasks to be undertaken - Identification of training needs.

B. Synthesis -

Exploring various ways to achieve the objective and selecting the suitable and cost effective one - Formulation of Training Plan and Strategy.

C. Implementation -

Implementing the course of action decided in the synthesis stage - Implementation of training.

D. Operation -

Checking operational system regularly for effect and corrective measures - Validation of training- assessing training effectiveness and application of corrective measures.

The cyclic diagram shown below explains SAT. Because of introduction of Feedback mechanism, various activities under SAT become cyclic.

8.1.2.2 The detailed activities under each of the four stages mentioned in Para 8.1.2.1 would be as under:

I. Identification of Training needs

1. Recognising training needs
2. Job Analysis
3. Specifying Skills, knowledge and attitudes needed on the basis of job Analysis.
4. Specifying the target population and groups.
5. Deducing training objectives for desired level of competence.

II. Formulation Training Plan and Strategy

1. Determining 'how' and 'when' a particular training requirement would be met.
2. Determining method of training.
3. Assessment of resources needed and action plan for resource mobilisation.

III. Implementation

1. Assembling training resources.
2. Course sequencing
3. Development of training material
4. Running of pilot course.

IV. Validation of Training

1. Establishing measures of control to ensure achievement of training objectives.
2. Establishing machinery to validate training
3. Implementing corrective measures.

8.1.2.3 The Training Process

All the above activities taken in sequence constitute 'Training Process' as shown in the diagram below:
8.2 Guideline 2 - Responsibility for Management of Training

Aim: To understand the specific responsibilities for training throughout the organisation

8.2.1 Central Control and Direction

Why Central Control and Direction?

- To ensure management of training on the basis of SAT
- To involve top management and demonstrate their commitment
- To determine effectiveness of training
- To ensure effective functioning of various systems in training.

8.3. Guideline 3 - Development of Training Policy and Plan for Action

Aim: To develop training Policies & Plans which meet the objectives of departments and meet the demands likely to be made on staff at all levels in the foreseeable future

8.3.1 Responsibility for development of Training Policies and Mans of Action.

- Training Manager of each department is responsible for development and communication of Training Policy and Plan of action for his department.
- Personnel Department is responsible for development of Training Policy and Plan of Action for the entire Zonal Railway, on the basis of Training Policy & Plan of Action developed by the Training Managers of different departments.
- Training Policies and Plan of Action need to be placed by the Personnel Department before Central Training Advisory Committee for deliberations and approval.

8.3.2 Objective of Training Policy

Broad Objectives of Training Policy are given below. Based on these, specific objectives of Training Policy for each department, should be formulated by respective Training Managers.

- Increase the efficiency and productivity of all staff to ensure department's objectives are successfully achieved.

• Selection of employees for training
• Plan of Action
• Training need analysis schedule
• Types of training programmes to be organised every year -activity centre-wise
• Total number of employees to be covered under each type of programme
• Location of training
• Scheme for validation of training.

8.4. Guideline 4 - Training Needs Analysis

Aim: To establish means for essential training needs being systematically and continuously identified and prioritised

8.4.1 What is Training Need Analysis

An examination of the organisation's present and expected operations and the manpower necessary to carry them out, in order to identify the numbers and categories of staff needing to be trained or retrained and the types of training programmes necessary. It may also refer to the training need of an individual to enable him to reach the required standard of performance in his /her current or future job.

8.4.2 Main Issues to be considered

• Identification of training needs is an essential pre-requisite for designing and providing effective training and should be conducted every year by all major training centres to be identified by the concerned Training Managers.
• Training needs arise at three levels - organisational, subgroup and individual.
• All needs are not training needs and therefore, whenever a problem is perceived, it needs to be ascertained whether a related training need exists.
• Training needs arising out of changes in technology, processes etc. need to be considered before actual introduction of such changes.
8.4.3 Participants in Training Need Analysis Workshop

- Training Manager(s)
- Line Managers
- Supervisors
- Selected staff
- Members of the Advisory Committee attached to the Training Centre.

8.4.4 Steps in Training Need Analysis.

Collection of Information on

- Manpower profiles for different kinds of jobs undertaken by different categories of employees
- New methods / technologies / processes / management practices introduced / proposed to be introduced
- Collective evidence from performance appraisals
- Reports on accidents, customer / market surveys etc.

Identification of challenges and problem areas in performance

Agreeing on

- Skills knowledge and attitude specification for the prospective trainees.
- Target population
- Training objective
- Assessment scheme

Report of findings including

- Priority list
- Training action plan

8.5. Guideline 5 - Determining Training Objectives

Aim: To agree with all concerned appropriate training objectives for each group of training and to use these objectives in the design, implementation and monitoring the training programmes / courses.

8.5.1 Difference between Training Aims and Objectives

Training aim is a general statement of intent whereas a training objective is far more specific.
8.5.2 Main components of Training Objectives

Performance: A statement of the actions the learner should be able to do at the end of training e.g. will list, will state, will solve, will repair, will identify etc.

Conditions: Conditions under which the performance will be carried out in job situation e.g.

- the range of problems the learner must solve
- the tools, equipment etc. to be used
- special job aids and manuals he is provided with

Standards: of Accuracy, speed, performance, and quality

8.5.3 Main Issues in determining Training Objectives

- Should be specific and compatible with departments' objectives.
- Should enable designing suitable training programmes.
- Should provide essential criterion for measurement of outcome of training.

8.6. Guideline 6 - Selecting and evaluating training methods

Aim: To select from a wide range of options the most appropriate blend of training and learning methods having regard to all relevant factors

8.6.1 Guiding factor in selecting training methods

Guiding factor in selecting training methods would be 'how best training aims and objectives can be met in a cost effective manner.

8.6.2 Guiding factors in evaluation of Training Methods

Following factors should be taken into consideration while evaluating training methods:

Application of learning principles - as to how and to what extent the particular training method

- motivates the learner
- promotes learner's participation
- helps in acquiring skills
- provides flexible learning
- transfers learning to work situation

Application of ways of learning

- being told including discussions / seminars
• demonstration
• trial & error
• thinking

8.7. Guideline 7 - Designing effective and efficient Training

Aim: To develop effective and efficient training programmes based on training needs

8.7.1 Questions to be answered in designing training

• What are Objectives? - Where are we going?
• What are validation measures? - How are we going to check?
• What is the order, of learning? - What comes first, last and in between?
• What methods are going to be used? - How are we to achieve the learning?
• Who is the trainer to be? - Who can help the learner?
• What place is to be used? - Where is training to take place?
• What is the time factor? - How long should the training time be?

8.7.2 Factors to be taken into account while designing training

• Sequencing the material to be learnt
• Relating knowledge and skills
• Pattern of the programme
• Motivating learner to learn
• Pace and level of training
• Providing feed back to learner
• Ensuring what is learn: is remembered
• Allowing for individual differences in trainability

8.8. Guideline 8 - Selection of part-time trainers / visiting faculty

Aim: To get value for money spent on engaging part-time trainers / visiting faculty

8.8.1 Situations warranting engagement of part-time trainers / visiting faculty

• Lack of specific expertise amongst full time trainers
• "One – off " kind of training
• Need to induce change
8.8.2 Honorarium to be paid to the visiting faculty

$$$$\{From time to time Railway Board notifies the rate of honorarium payable and facilities to be extended to the Visiting Lecturers. The rate of honorarium and facilities to Visiting Lecturers called by the Centralised Training Institutes are indicated in para 4.1.1. For delivering lectures to non-gazetted staff at the Railway Training Centres, the honorarium would be as under:-

a. Rs. 300/- per day for lectures of one hour and 45 minutes duration subject to a maximum of Rs. 900/- per week to officers of Railways/Central or State Governments ordinarily of the rank of joint Secretary to the Government and reputed academicians/special invitees.

b. Rs. 200/- per day for lectures of one hour and 45 minutes, duration subject to maximum of Rs. 600/- per week to officers of Railways/Central or State Governments, other than those mentioned at (a) above.

[Authority: Board's letter No. \textit{E(G)99HO1-18 dated 08.06.2000 (RBE 111/2000)}]

$$$$ Inserted/ Substituted vide Advance Correction Slip No. 8/2001 circulated under Railway Board's letter No. \textit{E(Trg)99(22)/6 dated 13.11.2001(RBE 219/2001)}

8.8.3 Optimising benefits from the visiting faculty

- They should be briefed on all aspects of training programme / topics being covered including the overall structure of the programme.
- A visiting faculty, particularly a railway employee, who frequently contributes, should be trained in presentation skills.

8.9 Guideline 9 - On-the-job training and performance aids

Aim: To provide a framework within which the need for on-the-job training can be identified and effectively met

8.9.1 Advantages and disadvantages of 'On-the-job' training

Advantages

- immediate access
- highly specific
- possible yield of actual work
- can be arranged at mutually convenient time

Disadvantages

- job expert is not necessarily a competent trainer
- possible perpetuation of bad practices
- lack of interactive group-learning
8.9.2 Responsibility for on-the-job training

All officers and supervisors being responsible for performance of their staff are also responsible for planning and providing on the job training to employees.

8.9.3 Considerations prior to the planning for on-the-job training

Before assessing the performance of employees in the context of improving it by on the job training field officers and supervisors should consider the following:

- Does your staff know what you expect of them?
- Do you tell them if they are not up-to the mark?
- Do you try to give the right job to the right person?
- Does your staff have the right equipment to do the job?

If answers to any one one or more of the above question is 'Yes' before planning on the job training decide with the concerned employee what he; must be able to do, to perform each task assigned to him.

8.9.4 Necessary steps for on-the-job training

- Giving opportunities to the employee to practice new skills
- Encouraging the trainee by telling him / her on improvement in performance.
- Monitoring that the objectives of on-the-job training are being achieved

8.9.5 Performance aid

Performance Aids provide additional information and guidance to support a standard performance. All field officers / Incharges of activity centres must provide 'Performance Aids' at the activity centres so as to supplement learning through training. Performance Aids can take a variety of forms, but all have to be based on detailed task analysis. Some of the common performance aids, which should be available in every activity centre, are:

- Working manual
- Hand books
- Task guidance list
- Task guidance flow chart
- Tip sheet
- Work sheet
- Exception chart
- Check list
- Hand outs and training material.
A list of performance aids and its location must be displayed at a prominent place in the activity centre.

8.10. Guideline 10 - Validation and Evaluation of Training Programmes

Aim: To provide a system for ensuring that the training resources are used in the most effective manner possible

8.10.1 Objectives of and mechanism for validation of Training

Objective 1:

To ensure that trainees have really learnt

Mechanism:

- All training programmes should have in-built system of progressive assessment of learning by trainees during training. Training design should take care of this aspect
- If necessary, suitable written, oral or practical tests should be provided in the training programmes.

Objective 2:

To ensure that trainees appreciate that what they have learnt has potential value to their work.

Mechanism:

- Trainers to ask trainees to write critical comments on everyday training
- At the end of training, trainees should be asked to give their comments on entire training on a standard format developed by the trainer.

8.10.2 Objectives of and mechanism for assessing training effectiveness

Objective:

To assess:

- Whether trainees have been able to apply their learning in the work (officers & supervisors should help employees to develop and apply the learning in their work)
- Whether field officers and supervisors are satisfied that trainees' learning have improved their performance.
Mechanism:

Every trainer should visit, at least once in three months, the activity centres concerned and hold half day / one day workshop with officers, supervisors and ex-trainees, who have received training at least six months ago and should send the outcome of the workshop to the concerned Training Manager.

8.10.3 Purpose of determining effectiveness of training

To find out

- What changes need to be made, if any, in future training programmes
- Ways and means to carry out these changes

All changes /corrective measures should be discussed and agreed in Training need analysis workshop.

8.11. Guideline 11 - Training Management Information System

Aim: To provide statistical support for planning, monitoring and controlling training activities

Total Trainee Days @ Capacity utilization = \( \frac{\text{Total Trainee Days}}{\text{Annual Training Capacity}} \times 100 \)

*If a training course overlaps from/to the previous/next financial year the actual trainee days spent by the trainees during the current year only should be taken into account. Also closed days falling during the course should not be counted as Trainee days.
8.11.1.1. Method of Working out Capacity Utilization of training centres:

The method to be used for calculating the available annual training capacity of each training centre and the system of working out capacity utilization is as under:

1. Hostel Capacity of the training centres (No. of beds)
2. Estimated average number of trainees from the same HQs not requiring hostel facility in each course
3. Total of 1 & 2 above:
4. Class room capacity of the Training Centre

   (No. of classrooms x average seating capacity in a classroom)
5. Annual training capacity

   (Lower of 3 & 4) x (No. of working days in the year*)
6. Total Trainee Days

   \text{Capacity utilization } \% = \frac{\text{Total Trainee Days}}{\text{Annual Training Capacity}} \times 100

* To be arrived at by deducting the number of closed days from the total number of days in the year.}

8.11.2 Furnishing Training Statistics

The Training Statistics in Format I, II and III should be sent by the 'Centralized Training Institutes' to ED/T&MPP Railway Board and by 'Main Training Centres' to the concerned Training Manager. 'Other Training Centres' should send the same to the Training Manager through Divisional Railway Manager.

Modified vide Railway Board's letter No. E(MPP)96/3/17/VOL.II, dated 27.05.1999 (RBE 122/1999)

8.11.3 Annual Report on Training Statistics

Based on Training Statistics sent by Training Centres, each Training Manager will bring out an Annual Report on Training Statistics
SAMPLE

YEAR 1995-96

1. Class room capacity
   = 4 x 25 = 100
   (Classrooms x average seating Capacity)

2. Hostel capacity
   = 70 beds
   Local trainees
   = 75

3. Training Capacity of the Trg. Centre
   = lower of (1) and (2) above x No. of trainee days available in the year
   = 75 x 295* = 22125 trainee days

4. Total Trainee days during the year
   = Total Trainee days = (as calculated in Annexure-II)

5. Capacity utilization %
   = Total Trainee Days / Training Capacity x 100
   (As calculated at 3 above)
   = (18563/22125)* 100
   = 83.90%

Note: * To be arrived at by deducting the number of closed days from the number of days in the year.
