Producing a Formal Letter of Engagement

The absence of written terms of engagement does not mean that a contract has not been created. Any formal professional relationship between a bookkeeper and the client with the contemplation of some form of payment is, prima facie, enough to establish the existence of some form of contractual relations.

If the agreement is oral, the court will look to the overall relationship and dealings between the parties to assess its scope and terms. Of course, if there is no written record of that agreement, it is so much harder for a bookkeeper to prove the terms that were agreed with the client. To avoid this, many bookkeepers write a letter of engagement. In practice, this evidences the contract that will govern the provision of bookkeeping services. The terms of an accepted engagement letter will be seen as the terms of the contract.

A letter of engagement reads something like this:

Prior to preparation and execution of this engagement letter, we discussed with you the fact that we provide clients with levels of service higher than bookkeeping, such as audit, review, and compilation services, and we explained to you the manner in which such levels of service differ from bookkeeping. We further explained the additional costs associated with such higher and different levels of service. You agree to accept responsibility for any effect on your accounting records and financial statements of basic financial information or transaction documents not submitted to us for processing and entry, or losses that may result from their absence.
Prior to commencing our services, we require that you provide us with a retainer in the amount of __________. Therefore, you agree that we shall have no liability for any loss or damage to any person or entity resulting from the use of email transmissions, including any consequential, incidental, direct, indirect, or special damages, such as loss of revenues or anticipated profits, or disclosure or communication of confidential or proprietary information.

In the event that we are or may be obligated to pay any cost, settlement, judgment, fine, penalty, or similar award or sanction as a result of a claim, investigation, or other proceeding instituted by any third party, and if such obligation is or may be a direct or indirect result of any inaccurate or incomplete information that you provide to us during the course of this engagement, you agree to indemnify us, defend us, and hold us harmless as against such obligation.

You agree that any dispute (other than our efforts to collect an outstanding invoice) that may arise regarding the meaning, performance or enforcement of this engagement or any prior engagement that we have performed for you, will, prior to resorting to litigation, be submitted to mediation, and that the parties will engage in the mediation process in good faith once a written request to mediate has been given by any party to the engagement. The results of any such mediation shall be binding only upon agreement of each party to be bound. The costs of any mediation proceeding shall be shared equally by the participating parties.
