The date so elected shall be the beginning date of the delimiting period applicable to such person under this section.

"(B) The date which an eligible person may elect under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph is any date during the period beginning on the date the person became an eligible person within the meaning of clause (B) or (D) of section 3501(a)(1) of this title and ending on the date determined under subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (1) of this subsection to be applicable to such person."

(5)-(8), respectively, inserted new para. (4), and, in para. (6) as redesignated, substituted "paragraph (5)" for "paragraph (4)".

(7) Institution policy and regulations relating to student conduct and conditions for dismissal for unsatisfactory conduct;
(8) Detailed schedules of fees, charges for tuition, books, supplies, tools, student activities, laboratory fees, service charges, rentals, deposits, and all other charges;

(12) Policy and regulations of the institution relative to granting credit for previous educational training.

(c) The appropriate State approving agency may approve the application of such institution when the institution and its nonaccredited courses are found upon investigation to have met the following criteria:
(1) The courses, curriculum, and instruction are consistent in quality, content, and length with similar courses in public schools and other private schools in the State, with recognized accepted standards.
(2) There is in the institution adequate space, equipment, instructional material, and instructor personnel to provide training of good quality.

(5) A copy of the course outline, schedule of tuition, fees, and other charges, regulations pertaining to absence, grading policy, and rules of operation and conduct will be furnished the eligible person upon enrollment.
(6) Upon completion of training, the eligible person is given a certificate by the institution indicating the approved course and indicating that training was satisfactorily completed.
(7) Adequate records as prescribed by the State approving agency are kept to show attendance and progress or grades, and satisfactory standards relating to attendance, progress, and conduct are enforced.
(8) The institution complies with all local, city, county, municipal, State, and Federal regulations, such as fire codes, building and sanitation codes. The State approving agency may require such evidence of compliance as is deemed necessary.
(9) The institution is financially sound and capable of fulfilling its commitments for training.
(10) The institution does not utilize advertising of any type which is erroneous or misleading, either by actual statement, omission, or intimation. The institution shall not be deemed to have met this requirement until the State approving agency (A) has ascertained from the Federal Trade Commission whether the Commission has issued an order to the institution to cease and desist from any act or practice, and (B) has, if such an order has been issued, given due weight to that fact.

(12) The institution's administrators, directors, owners, and instructors are of good reputation and character.

(14) Such additional criteria as may be deemed necessary by the State approving agency.

(d) The Secretary may waive, in whole or in part, the requirements of subsection (c)(13) of this section in the case of an educational institution which-- if the Secretary determines, pursuant to regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, that such requirements would work an undue administrative hardship because the total amount of tuition, fees, and other charges at such institution is nominal.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, a course of education shall not be approved under this section if it is to be pursued in whole or in part by independent study.

Amendments:

(a) Any State approving agency may approve a program of training on the job (other than a program of apprenticeship) only when it finds that the job which is the objective of the training is one in which progression and appointment to the next higher classification are based upon skills learned through organized and supervised training on the job and not on such factors as length of service and normal turnover, and that the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) of this section are met.

(b) (1) The training establishment offering training which is desired to be approved for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.] must submit to the appropriate State approving agency a written application for approval which, in addition to furnishing such information as is required by the State approving agency, contains a certification that--

(B) there is reasonable certainty that the job for which the eligible veteran or person is to be trained will be available to the veteran or person at the end of the training period.

(2) The requirement under paragraph (1)(A)(ii) shall not apply with respect to a training establishment operated by the United States or by a State or local government.

(c) As a condition for approving a program of training on the job (other than a program of apprenticeship) the State approving agency must find upon investigation that the following criteria are met:

(2) The job customarily requires full-time training for a period of not less than six months and not more than two years.

(3) The length of the training period is not longer than that customarily required by the training establishments in the community to provide an eligible veteran or person with the required skills, arrange for the acquiring of job knowledge, technical information, and other facts which the eligible veteran or person will need to learn in order to become competent on the job for which the veteran or person is being trained.

(4) Provision is made for related instruction for the individual eligible veteran or person who may need it.

(5) There is in the training establishment adequate space, equipment, instructional material, and instructor personnel to provide satisfactory training on the job.
(6) Adequate records are kept to show the progress made by each eligible veteran or person toward such veteran's or person's job objective.

(7) No course of training will be considered bona fide if given to an eligible veteran or person who is already qualified by training and experience for the job.

(8) A signed copy of the training agreement for each eligible veteran or person, including the training program and wage scale as approved by the State approving agency, is provided to the veteran or person and to the Secretary and the State approving agency by the employer.

(9) That the course meets such other criteria as may be established by the State approving agency.

(d) (1) The Secretary may conduct a pilot program under which the Secretary operates a program of training on the job under this section for a period (notwithstanding subsection (c)(2)) of up to three years in duration to train employees of the Department to become qualified adjudicators of claims for compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, and pension.

(2) (A) Not later than three years after the implementation of the pilot project, the Secretary shall submit to Congress an initial report on the pilot project. The report shall include an assessment of the usefulness of the program in recruiting and retaining of personnel of the Department as well as an assessment of the value of the program as a training program.

(B) Not later than 18 months after the date on which the initial report under subparagraph (A) is submitted, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a final report on the pilot project. The final report shall include recommendations of the Secretary with respect to continuation of the pilot project and with respect to expansion of the types of claims for which the extended period of on the job training is available to train such employees.

Such payments shall be paid only for the period of such veterans' or persons' enrollment in, and pursuit of, such program, but no amount shall be paid--

(1) to any eligible veteran or eligible person for any period when such veteran or person is not pursuing such veteran's or person's course in accordance with the regularly established policies and regulations of the educational institution, with the provisions of such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary pursuant to subsection (g) of this section, and with the requirements of this chapter or of chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.], but payment may be made for an actual period of pursuit of one or more unit subjects pursued for a period of time shorter than the enrollment period at the educational institution;

(2) to any eligible veteran or person for auditing a course; or

(3) to any eligible veteran or person for a course for which the grade assigned is not used in computing the requirements for graduation including a course from which the student withdraws unless--

(A) the eligible veteran or person withdraws because he or she is ordered to active duty; or

(B) the Secretary finds there are mitigating circumstances, except that, in the first instance of withdrawal (without regard to withdrawals described in subclause (A) of this clause) by the eligible veteran or person from a course or courses with respect to which the veteran or person has been paid assistance under this title, mitigating circumstances shall be considered to exist with respect to courses totaling not more than six semester hours or the equivalent thereof. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Secretary may, subject to such regulations as the Secretary shall prescribe, continue to pay allowances to eligible veterans and eligible persons enrolled in courses set forth in clause (1) of this subsection--

(A) during periods when the schools are temporarily closed under an established policy based upon an Executive order of the President or due to an emergency situation;
(B) during periods between consecutive school terms where such veterans or persons transfer from one approved educational institution to another approved educational institution for the purpose of enrolling in and pursuing a similar course at the second institution if the period between such consecutive terms does not exceed 30 days; or
(C) during periods between school terms where the educational institution certifies the enrollment of the eligible veteran or eligible person on an individual term basis if (i) the period between those terms does not exceed eight weeks, and (ii) both the terms preceding and following the period are not shorter in length than the period.

(b) Correspondence training certifications. No educational assistance allowance shall be paid to an eligible veteran or spouse or surviving spouse enrolled in and pursuing a program of education exclusively by correspondence until the Secretary shall have received--

(1) from the eligible veteran or spouse or surviving spouse a certificate as to the number of lessons actually completed by the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse and serviced by the educational institution; and
(2) from the training establishment a certification or an endorsement on the veteran's or spouse's or surviving spouse's certificate, as to the number of lessons completed by the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse and serviced by the institution.

(c) Apprenticeship and other on-job training. No training assistance allowance shall be paid to an eligible veteran or eligible person enrolled in and pursuing a program of apprenticeship or other on-job training until the Secretary shall have received--

(1) from such veteran or person a certification as to such veteran's or person's actual attendance during such period; and
(2) from the training establishment a certification, or an endorsement on the veteran's or person's certificate, that such veteran or person was enrolled in and pursuing a program of apprenticeship or other on-job training during such period.

(d) Advance payment of initial educational assistance or subsistence allowance.

(1) The educational assistance or subsistence allowance advance payment provided for in this subsection is based upon a finding by the Congress that eligible veterans and eligible persons may need additional funds at the beginning of a school term to meet the expenses of books, travel, deposits, and payment for living quarters, the initial installment of tuition, and the other special expenses which are concentrated at the beginning of a school term.
(2) Subject to the provisions of this subsection, and under regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, an eligible veteran or eligible person shall be paid an educational assistance allowance or subsistence allowance, as appropriate, advance payment. Such advance payment shall be made in an amount equivalent to the allowance for the month or fraction thereof in which pursuit of the program will commence, plus the allowance for the succeeding month. In the case of a person on active duty, who is pursuing a program of education, the advance payment shall be in a lump sum based upon the amount payable for the entire quarter, semester, or term, as applicable. In no event shall an advance payment be made under this subsection to a veteran or person intending to pursue a program of education on less than a half-time basis. An advance payment may not be made under this subsection to any veteran or person unless the veteran or person requests such payment and the Secretary finds that the educational institution at which such veteran or person is accepted or enrolled has agreed to, and can satisfactorily, carry out the provisions of paragraphs 4(B) and (C) and (5) of this subsection. The application for advance payment, to be made on a form prescribed by the Secretary, shall--

(A) in the case if an initial enrollment of a veteran or person in an educational institution, contain information showing that the veteran or person (i) is eligible for educational benefits, (ii) has been accepted by the institution, and (iii) has notified the institution of such veteran's or person's intention to attend that institution; and

(B) in the case of a re-enrollment of a veteran or person, contain information showing that the veteran or person (i) is eligible to continue such veteran's or person's program of education or training and (ii) intends to re-enroll in the same institution, and, in either case, shall also state the number of semester or clock-hours to be pursued by such veteran or person.

(3) For purposes of the Secretary's determination whether any veteran or person is eligible for an advance payment under this section, the information submitted by the institution, the veteran or person, shall establish such veteran's or person's eligibility unless there is evidence in such veteran's or person's file in the processing office establishing that the veteran or person is not eligible for such advance payment.

(4) The advance payment authorized by paragraph (2) of this subsection shall, in the case of an eligible veteran or eligible person, be (A) drawn in favor of the veteran or person; (B) mailed to the educational institution listed on the application form for temporary care and delivery to the veteran or person by such institution; and (C) delivered to the veteran or person upon such veteran's or person's registration at such institution, but in no event shall such delivery be made earlier than thirty days before the program of education is to commence.

(5) Upon delivery of the advance payment pursuant to paragraph (4) of this subsection, the institution shall submit to the Secretary a certification of such delivery. If such delivery is not effected within thirty days after commencement of the program of education in question, such institution shall return such payment to the Secretary forthwith.

(e) Recovery of erroneous payments.

(1) Subject to paragraph (2), if an eligible veteran or eligible person fails to enroll in or pursue a course for which an educational assistance or subsistence allowance advance payment is made, the amount of such payment and any amount of subsequent payments which, in whole or in part, are due to erroneous information required to be furnished under subsection (d)(2) of this section shall become an overpayment and shall constitute a liability of such veteran or person to the United States and may be recovered, unless waived pursuant to section 5302 of this title [38 USCS § 5302], from any benefit otherwise due such veteran or person under any law administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs or may be recovered in the same manner as any other debt due the United States.

(2) Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the recovery of an overpayment of an educational allowance or subsistence allowance advance payment to an eligible veteran or eligible person who fails to enroll in or pursue a course of education for which the payment is made if such failure is due to the death of the veteran or person.

(f) Payments for less than half-time training. Payment of educational assistance allowance in the case of any eligible veteran or eligible person pursuing a program of education on less than a half-time basis shall be made in an amount computed for the entire quarter, semester, or term not later than the last day of the month immediately following the month in which certification is received from the educational institution that such veteran or person has enrolled in and is pursuing a program at such institution. Such lump sum payment shall be computed at the rate provided in section 3482(b) or 3532(a)(2) of this title [38 USCS § 3482(b) or 3532(a)(2)], as applicable.

(g) Determination of enrollment, pursuit, and attendance.

(1) The Secretary may, pursuant to regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, determine and define with respect to an eligible veteran and eligible person the following:

   (A) Enrollment in a course or program of education or training.

   (B) Pursuit of a course or program of education or training.

   (C) Attendance at a course or program of education or training.

(2) The Secretary may withhold payment of benefits to an eligible veteran or eligible person until the Secretary receives such proof as the Secretary may require of enrollment in and satisfactory pursuit of a program of education by the eligible veteran or eligible person. The Secretary shall adjust the payment withheld, when necessary, on the basis of the proof the Secretary receives.

(3) In the case of an individual other than an individual described in paragraph (4), the Secretary may accept the individual's monthly certification of enrollment in and satisfactory pursuit of a program of education as sufficient proof of the certified matters.

(4) In the case of an individual who has received an accelerated payment of basic educational assistance under section 3014A of this title [38 USCS § 3014A] during an enrollment period for a program of education, the Secretary may accept the individual's certification of enrollment in and satisfactory pursuit of the program of education as sufficient proof of the certified matters if the certification is submitted after the enrollment period has ended.

1. Generally
2. Recovery of overpayments, generally
  3. -Erroneous payments
  4. -Termination of course prior to completion

1. Generally
38 USCS § 1780 [now 38 USCS § 3680] provides United States right of recovery against veterans who received benefits and then failed to earn grades which count towards graduation; government may seek reimbursement of educational benefits, and recovery of overpayments does not violate due process where recipient is informed of overpayments and right to seek waiver, but fails to seek waiver within 2 year limitations. United States v Brandon (1986, CA4 NC) 781 F.2d 1051

2. Recovery of overpayments, generally
Veteran's Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] may recover, as overpayments, payments made to veteran who did not receive passing grades in courses for which he had received monthly advance educational assistance benefits. United States v Brandon (1986, CA4 NC) 781 F.2d 1051

   Failure or dropping out of course is not equivalent to obtaining original educational aid through "erroneous information," under 38 USCS § 1780 [now 38 USCS § 3680] provision for recovery from veterans of payments based upon erroneous information furnished to Administrator [now Secretary], nor may recovery of educational assistance already paid be based upon prospective language of § 1780 [now 38 USCS § 3680] prohibiting payment for course from which student withdraws. United States v Brandon (1984, WD NC) 584 F Supp 803

   Section 1780 [now section 3680] was intended to allow United States to recover funds disbursed to veterans for classes when no academic credit was achieved, in absence of mitigating circumstances. United States v Garrahan (1985, ND Fla) 614 F Supp 152

3. -Erroneous payments
Veteran is required to reimburse government for erroneous overpayment of educational benefits by Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] under 38 USCS § 1780(e) [now 38 USCS § 3680(e)] where he received payment for period during which he completed no courses because of illness but failed to avail himself of right granted by § 1780(3) [now § 3680(3)] to apply for waiver of indebtedness pursuant to § 3102 [now § 5302], since reimbursement requirement applies regardless of whether overpayment results from fault of veteran or not. United States v Kirby (1981, ND Ga) 522 F Supp 424

   38 USCS § 1780 [now 38 USCS § 3680] confers no authority on government to recover erroneous overpayments of educational assistance to veteran not paid as advances. United States v Steinberg (1982, DC Mass) 553 F Supp 152
4. - Termination of course prior to completion

United States was entitled to recover overpayment of Veteran's Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] educational benefits where veteran terminates his course prior to its completion and receives non-punitive grades; termination related back to first day of school term resulting in overpayment for entire term. United States v Duchene (1985, SD Iowa) 624 F Supp 177

§ 3680A. Disapproval of enrollment in certain courses

(a) The Secretary shall not approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in--

(1) any bartending course or personality development course;
(2) any sales or sales management course which does not provide specialized training within a specific vocational field;
(3) any type of course which the Secretary finds to be avocational or recreational in character (or the advertising for which the Secretary finds contains significant avocational or recreational themes) unless the veteran submits justification showing that the course will be of bona fide use in the pursuit of the veteran's present or contemplated business or occupation; or
(4) any independent study program except an accredited independent study program (including open circuit television) leading (A) to a standard college degree, or (B) to a certificate that reflects educational attainment offered by an institution of higher learning.

(b) Except to the extent otherwise specifically provided in this title or chapter 106 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 2131 et seq.], the Secretary shall not approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in any course of flight training other than one given by an educational institution of higher learning for credit toward a standard college degree the eligible veteran is seeking.

(c) The Secretary shall not approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in any course to be pursued by radio.

(d) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, the Secretary shall not approve the enrollment of any eligible veteran, not already enrolled, in any course for any period during which the Secretary finds that more than 85 percent of the students enrolled in the course are having all or part of their tuition, fees, or other charges paid to or for them by the educational institution or by the Department of Veterans Affairs under this title or under chapter 106 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 2131 et seq.]. The Secretary may waive the requirements of this subsection, in whole or in part, if the Secretary determines, pursuant to regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, it to be in the interest of the eligible veteran and the Federal Government. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any course offered by an educational institution if the total number of veterans and persons receiving assistance under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.] or chapter 30, 31, 32, or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3001 et seq., 3100 et seq., 3201 et seq., or 3500 et seq.] or under chapter 106 of title 10 [10 USCS § 2131 et seq.] who are enrolled in such institution equals 35 percent or less, or such other percent as the Secretary prescribes in regulations, of the total student enrollment at such institution (computed separately for the main campus and any branch or extension of such institution), except that the Secretary may apply the provisions of this subsection with respect to any course... in which the Secretary has reason to believe that the enrollment of such veterans and persons may be in excess of 85 percent of the total student enrollment in such course.

(2) Paragraph (1) of this subsection does not apply with respect to the enrollment of a veteran--

(A) in a course offered pursuant to section 3019, 3034(a)(3), 3234, or 3241(a)(2) of this title [38 USCS § 3019, 3034(a)(3), 3234, or 3241(a)(2)];
(B) in a farm cooperative training course; or
(C) in a course described in subsection (g).

(e) The Secretary may not approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in a course not leading to a standard college degree offered by a proprietary profit or proprietary nonprofit educational institution if--

(1) the educational institution has been operating for less than two years;
(2) the course is offered at a branch of the educational institution and the branch has been operating for less than two years; or
(3) following either a change in ownership or a complete move outside its original general locality, the educational institution does not retain substantially the same faculty, student body, and courses as before the change in ownership or the move outside the general locality (as determined in accordance with regulations the Secretary shall prescribe) unless the educational institution following such change or move has been in operation for at least two years.

(f) The Secretary may not approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in a course as a part of a program of education offered by an educational institution if the course is provided under contract by another educational institution or entity and--

(1) the Secretary would be barred under subsection (e) from approving the enrollment of an eligible veteran in the course of the educational institution or entity providing the course under contract; or
(2) the educational institution or entity providing the course under contract has not obtained approval for the course under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.].

(g) Notwithstanding subsections (e) and (f)(1), the Secretary may approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in a course approved under this chapter if the course is offered by an educational institution under contract with the Department of Defense or the Department of Homeland Security and is given on or immediately adjacent to a military base, Coast Guard station, National Guard facility, or facility of the Selected Reserve.

Amendments:

1996. Act Oct. 9, 1996, in subsec. (c), substituted "radio," for "radio or by open circuit television, except that the Secretary may approve the enrollment of an eligible veteran in a course, to be pursued in residence, leading to a standard college degree which includes, as an integral part thereof, subjects offered through open circuit television."; in subsec. (d)(2)(C), substituted "subsection (g)" for "3689(b)(6) of this title"; and added subssecs. (e)-(g).

1997. Act Nov. 21, 1997, in subsec. (a)(4), inserted "(including open circuit television)"; and, in subsec. (g), substituted "subsections (e) and (f)(1)" for "subsections (e) and (f)".

1998. Act Nov. 11, 1998, in subsec. (d)(2)(C), deleted "section" preceding "subsection (g)."

1. Generally

Regulation by Administrator [now Secretary] requiring finding of "complete justification," means "convincing evidence"; hence, decision by Administrator that evidence submitted was not convincing was final and was not subject to review by court. Slocumb v Gray (1949, App DC) 86 US App DC 5, 179 F.2d 31

Benefits are to be paid to those veterans who were properly enrolled prior to first day school was put on notice that its employment justification was invalid. VA GCO 6-77

2. Constitutionality

As to two requirements of federal statutory provisions governing veterans' educational assistance program (38 USCS §§ 1651 et seq. [now 38 USCS §§ 3451 et seq.])--both of which may be waived by Administrator of Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] --under which veterans' educational benefits are not available if course in which veteran enrolls is (1) course in which more than 85 percent of students are receiving veterans' educational benefits or financial assistance from any federal agency (38 USCS § 1673 [now 38 USCS § 3680A]) or (2) course which has been offered for less than two years (38 USCS § 1789 [now 38 USCS § 3689]), substantial constitutional questions are not raised as to claim that restrictions violate substantive due process by interfering with freedom of educational choice, or claim that restrictions violate procedural due process by not affording affected veterans hearing on question whether restrictions should be applied or waived; 38 USCS § 1673 [now 38 USCS § 3473] or 38 USCS § 1789 [now 38 USCS § 3689] do not violate principle of equal protection under due process clause of Fifth Amendment on ground that other federal educational assistance programs do not contain such course limitations, since (1) requirements are valid... exercises on Congress’ power, it not being irrational for Congress to conclude that restricting benefits to established courses that have attracted substantial number of students whose educations are not being subsidized by federal government would be useful in accomplishing objectives of preventing waste of benefits on educational programs of little value and of preventing charlatans from obtaining veterans' education money, and (2) such otherwise reasonable restrictions are not made irrational because of their absence from other federal financial assistance programs, in view of (a) restrictions having been imposed in direct response to problems experienced in administration of veterans’ benefits programs, (b) there being no indication that identical abuses had not been encountered in other federal grant programs, and (c) there being no requirement under Constitution that Congress detect and correct abuses in administration of all related programs before acting to combat those experienced in one. Cleland v National College of Business (1978) 435 US 213, 55 L Ed 2d 225, 98 S Ct 1024

Fact that federal statutory provisions under which veterans' benefits are not generally available if course in which veteran enrolls is one in which more than 85 percent of students are receiving educational benefits from Veterans Administration or any federal agency (38 USCS § 1673 [now 38 USCS § 3680A]), or if course is one which has been offered for less than two years (38 USCS § 1789 [now 38 USCS § 3689]) may deprive those veterans living in areas where there are no programs which satisfy such statutory requirements of opportunity to take full advantage of benefits made available to veterans is not sufficient basis for United States Supreme Court to exercise greater judicial oversight, since undisputed importance of education will not alone cause court to depart from usual standard for reviewing social and economic legislation for purposes of equal protection. Cleland v National College of Business (1978) 435 US 213, 55 L Ed 2d 225, 98 S Ct 1024

Provisions of 38 USCS § 1673(d) [now 38 USCS § 3680A(d)] are not unconstitutional as being in violation of Fifth Amendment (USCS Constitution, Amendment 5), in that unequal application of provisions of such section are not totally lacking in rational justification or patently arbitrary, nor were veterans denied due process of law in the promulgation of 1976 amendment to 38 USCS § 1673 [now 38 USCS § 3680A]; interest of veteran in veteran's benefits is such interest as is entitled to constitutional protection, but where both procedural and substantive due process are provided, court will not void legislation simply because it is faulty legislation. Fielder v Cleland (1977, ED Mich) 433 F Supp 115, affd without op (1978, CA6 Mich) 577 F.2d 740

Provisions of 38 USCS § 1673(d) [now 38 USCS § 3680A(d)] are not unconstitutional as denying equal protection to veterans seeking to enter saturated classes, in which ratio of veterans to nonveterans exceeds 85-15 limitation, when compared with those veterans seeking to enroll in not-yet saturated courses, and those nonveteran, but government-funded students, who are not burdened by 85-15 limitation expressed in 38 USCS § 1673(d) [now 38 USCS § 3680A(d)]; legislative goal of allowing free market mechanism to prove worth of course offered, by requiring course to respond to general dictates of open market as well as to those with available federal moneys to spend, is valid, rational goal, and while 85-15 rule may be imperfect, it is not unconstitutional. Rolle v Cleland (1977, DC RI) 435 F Supp 260

3. Closed-circuit television courses

38 USCS § 1673(c) [now 38 USCS § 3680A(c)] does not bar payment for courses pursued by open circuit television in connection with residential program, even if majority of subjects are being pursued by television, as long as payments per credit hour for television courses are less than payments received per residential credit hour. VA GCO 11-79

1. Generally
Statutory framework in 38 USCS § 1782 [now 38 USCS § 3682] for Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] supervision for approval of courses and mechanics of payment of educational assistance to students creates no substantive rights for students participating in such programs. Rivera Carbana v Cruz (1984, DC Puerto Rico) 588 F Supp 80
Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] has authority to independently determine that courses or subjects approved by state approval agency which constitute veteran's program of education lead to professional, vocational or educational objective no benefits may be paid if such programs do not, unless they may properly form basis of different program of education and veteran meets all criteria for appropriate change of program. § 3683. Conflicting interests
(a) Every officer or employee of the Department of Veterans Affairs who has, while such an officer or employee, owned any interest in, or received any wages, salary, dividends, profits, gratuities, or services from any educational institution operated for profit in which an eligible person or veteran was pursuing a program of education or course under this chapter or chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3451 et seq. or 3500 et seq.] shall be immediately dismissed from such officer's or employee's office or employment.

(b) If the Secretary finds that any person who is an officer or employee of a State approving agency has, while such person was such an officer or employee, owned any interest in, or received any wages, salary, dividends, profits, gratuities, or services from, an educational institution operated for profit in which an eligible person or veteran was pursuing a program of education or course under this chapter or chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3451 et seq. or 3500 et seq.], the Secretary shall discontinue making payments under section 3674 of this title [38 USCS § 3674] to such State approving agency unless such agency shall, without delay, take such steps as may be necessary to terminate the employment of such person and such payments shall not be resumed while such person is an officer or employee of the State approving agency, or State department of veterans' affairs or State department of education.

(c) A State approving agency shall not approve any course offered by an educational institution operated for profit, and, if any such course has been approved, shall disapprove each such course, if it finds that any officer or employee of the Department of Veterans Affairs or the State approving agency owns an interest in, or receives any wages, salary, dividends, profits, gratuities, or services from, such institution.

(d) The Secretary may, after reasonable notice and public hearings, waive in writing the application of this section in the case of any officer or employee of the Department of Veterans Affairs or of a State approving agency, if the Secretary finds that no detriment will result to the United States or to eligible persons or veterans by reasons of such interest or connection of such officer or employee.

Department of Veterans Affairs-Vocational rehabilitation and education, 38 CFR Part 21

§ 3684. Reports by veterans, eligible persons, and institutions; reporting fee

(a) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, the veteran or eligible person and the educational institution offering a course in which such veteran or eligible person is enrolled under chapter 31, 34, [35], or 36 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3100 et seq., 3451 et seq., 3500 et seq., or 3670 et seq.] shall, without delay, report to the Secretary, in the form prescribed by the Secretary, such enrollment and any interruption or termination of the education of each such veteran or eligible person. The date of such interruption or termination will be the last date of pursuit, or, in the case of correspondence training, the last date a lesson was serviced by a school.

(2) (A) In the case of a program of independent study pursued on less than a half-time basis in an educational institution, the Secretary may approve a delay by the educational institution in reporting the enrollment or reenrollment of an eligible veteran or eligible person until the end of the term, quarter, or semester if the educational institution requests the delay and the Secretary determines that it is not feasible for the educational institution to monitor interruption or termination of the veteran's or eligible person's pursuit of such program.

(B) An educational institution which, pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, is delaying the reporting of the enrollment or reenrollment of a veteran shall provide the veteran with notice of the delay at the time that the veteran enrolls or reenrolls.

(3) (A) Subject to subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, an educational institution offering courses on a term, quarter, or semester basis may certify the enrollment of a veteran who is not on active duty, or of an eligible person, in such courses for more than one term, quarter, or semester at a time, but not for a period extending beyond the end of a school year (including the summer enrollment period).

(B) Subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall not apply with respect to any term, quarter, or semester for which the veteran or eligible person is enrolled on a less than half-time basis and shall not be construed as restricting the Secretary from requiring that an educational institution, in reporting an enrollment for more than one term, quarter, or semester, specify the dates of any intervals within or between any such terms, quarters, or semesters.

(b) The Secretary, prior to making payment of a reporting fee to an educational institution, as provided for in subsection (c) of this section, shall require such institution to certify that it has exercised reasonable diligence in determining whether such institution or any course offered by such institution approved for the enrollment of veterans or eligible persons meets all of the applicable requirements of chapters 31, 34, 35, and 36 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3100 et seq., 3451 et seq., 3500 et seq., and 3670 et seq.] and that it will, without delay, report any failure to meet any such requirement to the Secretary.

(c) The Secretary may pay to any educational institution, or to the sponsor of a program of apprenticeship, furnishing education or training under either this chapter or chapter 31, 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3100 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.] a reporting fee which will be in lieu of any other compensation or reimbursement for reports or certifications which such educational institution or joint apprenticeship training committee is required to submit to the Secretary by law or regulation. Such reporting fee shall be computed for each calendar year by multiplying $7 by the number of eligible veterans or eligible persons enrolled under this chapter or chapter 31, 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3100 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.] or $11 in the case of those eligible veterans and eligible persons whose educational assistance checks are directed in care of each institution for temporary custody and delivery and are delivered at the time of registration as provided under section 3680(d)(4) of this title [38 USCS § 3680(d)(4)], during the calendar year. The reporting fee shall be paid to such educational institution or joint apprenticeship training committee as soon as feasible after the end of the calendar year for which it is applicable. No reporting fee payable to an educational institution under this subsection shall be subject to offset by the Secretary against any liability of such institution for any overpayment for which such institution may be administratively determined to be liable under section 3685 of this title [38 USCS § 3685] unless such liability is not contested by such institution or has been upheld by a final decree of a court of appropriate jurisdiction. The reporting fee payable under this subsection shall be paid from amounts appropriated for readjustment benefits.

§ 3686. Correspondence courses

(a) (1) Each eligible veteran (as defined in section 3452(a)(1) and (2) of this title [38 USCS § 3452(a)(1) and (2)]) and each eligible spouse or surviving spouse (as defined in section 3501(a)(1)(B), (C), or (D) of this title [ USCS § 3501(a)(1)(B), (C), or (D)]) who enters into an enrollment agreement to pursue a program of education exclusively by correspondence shall be paid an educational assistance allowance computed at the rate of 55 percent of the established charge which the institution requires nonveterans to pay for the course or courses pursued by the eligible veteran or spouse or surviving spouse. The term "established charge" as used herein means the charge for the course or courses determined on the basis of the lowest extended time payment plan offered by the institution and approved by the appropriate State approving agency or the actual cost to the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse, whichever is the lesser. Such allowance shall be paid quarterly on a pro rata basis for the lessons completed by the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse and serviced by the institution.

(2) The period of entitlement of any veteran or spouse or surviving spouse who is pursuing any program of education exclusively by correspondence shall be charged with one month for each $376 which is paid to the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse as an educational assistance allowance for such course.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law unless enacted in express limitation of this paragraph, funds in the Department of Veterans Affairs readjustment benefits account shall be available for payments under paragraph (1) of this subsection for pursuit of a program of education exclusively by correspondence in which the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse enrolls after September 30, 1981.

(b) The enrollment agreement shall fully disclose the obligation of both the institution and the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse and shall prominently display the provisions for affirmance, termination, refunds, and the conditions under which payment of the allowance is made by the Secretary to the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse. A copy of the enrollment agreement shall be furnished to each such veteran or spouse or surviving spouse at the time such veteran or spouse or surviving spouse signs such agreement. No such agreement shall be effective unless such veteran or spouse or surviving spouse shall, after the expiration of ten days after the enrollment agreement is signed, have signed and submitted to the Secretary a written statement, with a signed copy to the institution, specifically affirming the enrollment agreement. In the event the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse at any time notifies the institution of such veteran's or spouse's intention not to affirm the agreement in accordance with the preceding sentence, the institution, without imposing any penalty or charging any fee shall promptly make a full refund of all amounts paid.

(c) In the event a veteran or spouse or surviving spouse elects to terminate his enrollment under an affirmed enrollment agreement, the institution may charge the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse a registration or similar fee not in excess of 10 percent of the tuition for the course, or $50, whichever is less. Where the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse elects to terminate the agreement after completion of one or more but less than 25 percent of the total number of lessons comprising the course, the institution may retain such registration or similar fee plus 25 percent of the tuition for the course. Where the veteran or spouse or surviving spouse elects to terminate the agreement after completion of 25 percent but less than 50 percent of the lessons comprising the course, the institution may retain the full registration or similar fee plus 50 percent of the course tuition. If 50 percent or more of the lessons are completed, no refund of tuition is required.

"(2) less than 50 percent of the persons enrolled in such course are receiving educational assistance under this title;

"(3) such course would qualify as a full-time course under subsection (a)(4) of this section, except that it does not meet the requirements of such subsection with respect to weekly class instruction; and

"(4) the course requires--

"(A) pursuit of standard class sessions for each credit at a rate not less frequent than every two weeks; and

"(B) monthly pursuit of a total number of standard class sessions equal to that number of standard class sessions which, during the same period of time, is required for a course qualifying as a full-time course under subsection (a)(4) of this section.

"(e)(1) For the purpose of measuring clock hours of attendance or net of instruction under clause (1) or (2), respectively, of subsection (a) of this section for a course--

"(A) which is offered by an institution of higher learning, and

"(B) for which the institution requires one or more unit courses or subjects for which credit is granted toward a standard college degree pursued in residence on a standard quarter- or semester-hour basis, the number of credit hours (semester or quarter hours) represented by such unit courses or subjects shall, during the semester, quarter, or other applicable portion of the academic year when pursued, be converted to equivalent clock hours, determined as prescribed in paragraph (2) of this subsection. Such equivalent clock hours then shall be combined with actual weekly clock hours of training concurrently pursued, if any, to determine the total clock hours of enrollment.

"(2) For the purpose of determining the clock-hour equivalency described in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the total number of credit hours being pursued will be multiplied by the factor resulting from dividing the number of clock hours which constitute full time under clause (1) or (2) of subsection (a) of this section, as appropriate, by the number of semester hours (or the equivalent thereof) which, under clause (4) of such subsection, constitutes a full-time institutional undergraduate course at such institution.".

§ 3690. Overcharges by educational institutions; discontinuance of allowances; examination of records; false or misleading statements
(a) Overcharges by educational institutions. If the Secretary finds that an educational institution has--

(1) charged or received from any eligible veteran or eligible person pursuing a program of education under this chapter or chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3451 et seq. or 3500 et seq.] any amount for any course in excess of the charges for tuition and fees which such institution requires similarly circumstanced nonveterans not receiving assistance under such chapters who are enrolled in the same course to pay, or

(2) instituted, after October 24, 1972, a policy or practice with respect to the payment of tuition, fees, or other charges in the case of eligible veterans and the Secretary finds that the effect of such policy or practice substantially denies to veterans the benefits of the advance allowances under such section.

the Secretary may disapprove such educational institution for the enrollment of any eligible veteran or eligible person not already enrolled therein under this chapter or chapter 31, 34, or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3101 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.].

(b) Discontinuance of allowances.

(1) The Secretary may discontinue the educational assistance allowance of any eligible veteran or eligible person if the Secretary finds that the program of education or any course in which the veteran or person is enrolled fails to meet any of the requirements of this chapter or chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3451 et seq. or 3500 et seq.], or if the Secretary finds that the educational institution offering such program or course has violated any provision of this chapter or chapter 34 or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq. or 3451 et seq. or 3500 et seq.], or fails to meet any of the requirements of such chapters.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph (3) of this subsection, any action by the Secretary under paragraph (1) of this subsection to discontinue (including to suspend) assistance provided to any eligible veteran or eligible person under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.] or chapter 31, 32, 34, or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3101 et seq., 3201 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.] shall be based upon evidence that the veteran or eligible person is not or was not entitled to such assistance. Whenever the Secretary so discontinues any such assistance, the Secretary shall concurrently provide written notice to such veteran or person of such discontinuance and that such veteran or person is entitled thereafter to a statement of the reasons for such action and an opportunity to be heard thereon.

(3) (A) The Secretary may suspend educational assistance to eligible veterans and eligible persons already enrolled, and may disapprove the enrollment or reenrollment of any eligible veteran or eligible person, in any course as to which the Secretary has evidence showing a substantial pattern of eligible veterans or eligible persons, or both, who are receiving such assistance by virtue of their enrollment in such course but who are not entitled to such assistance because (i) the course approval requirements of this chapter are not being met, or (ii) the educational institution offering such course has violated one or more of the recordkeeping or reporting requirements of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.] or chapter 30, 32, 34, or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3001 et seq., 3201 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.].
(B) Action may be taken under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph only after--
(i) the Secretary provides to the State approving agency concerned and the educational institution concerned written notice of any such failure to meet such approval requirements and any such violation of such recordkeeping or reporting requirements;
(ii) such institution refuses to take corrective action or does not within 60 days after such notice (or within such longer period as the Secretary determines is reasonable and appropriate) take corrective action; and
(iii) the Secretary, not less than 30 days before taking action under such subparagraph, provides to each eligible veteran and eligible person already enrolled in such course written notice of the Secretary's intent to take such action (and the reasons therefor) unless such corrective action is taken within such 60 days (or within such longer period as the Secretary has determined is reasonable and appropriate), and of the date on which the Secretary intends to take action under such subparagraph.

c) Examination of records. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the records and accounts of educational institutions pertaining to eligible veterans or eligible persons who received educational assistance under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3670 et seq.] or chapter 31, 32, 34, or 35 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3100 et seq., 3201 et seq., 3451 et seq., or 3500 et seq.] as well as the records of other students which the Secretary determines necessary to ascertain institutional compliance with the requirements of such chapters, shall be available for examination by duly authorized representatives of the Government.

d) False or misleading statements. Whenever the Secretary finds that an educational institution has willfully submitted a false or misleading claim, or that a veteran or person, with the complicity of an educational institution, has submitted such a claim, the Secretary shall make a complete report of the facts of the case to the appropriate State approving agency and, where deemed advisable, to the Attorney General of the United States for appropriate action.

The active duty or service in the Selected Reserve of the deceased spouse shall be deemed to have been active duty or service in the Selected Reserve by such surviving spouse for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

3. The term "veteran" also includes, for purposes of home loans, the spouse of any member of the Armed Forces serving on active duty who is listed, pursuant to section 556 of title 37, United States Code [37 USCS § 556], and regulations issued thereunder, by the Secretary concerned in one or more of the following categories and has been so listed for a total of more than ninety days: (A) missing in action, (B) captured in line of duty by a hostile force, or (C) forcibly detained or interned in line of duty by a foreign government or power. cxxx Discussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual

(a) (1) The veterans described in paragraph (2) of this subsection are eligible for the housing loan benefits of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]. In the case of any veteran who served on active duty during two or more of the periods specified in paragraph (2), for which eligibility for the housing loan benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] may be granted, entitlement derived from service during the most recent such period (A) shall cancel any unused entitlement derived from service during any earlier such period, and (B) shall be reduced by the amount by which entitlement from service during any earlier such period has been used to obtain a direct, guaranteed, or insured housing loan--

(i) on real property which the veteran owns at the time of application; or

(ii) as to which the Secretary has incurred actual liability or loss, unless in the event of loss or the incurrence and payment of such liability by the Secretary the resulting indebtedness of the veteran to the United States has been paid in full.

(2) The veterans referred to in the first sentence of paragraph (1) of this subsection are the following:

(A) Each veteran who served on active duty at any time during World War II, the Korean conflict, or the Vietnam era and whose total service was for 90 days or more.

(B) Each veteran who after September 15, 1940, was discharged or released from a period of active duty for a service-connected disability.

(C) Each veteran, other than a veteran described in clause (A) or (B) of this paragraph, who--
(i) served after July 25, 1947, for a period of more than 180 days and was discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable; or

(ii) has served more than 180 days in active duty status and continues on active duty without a break therein.

(D) Each veteran who served on active duty for 90 days or more at any time during the Persian Gulf War, other than a veteran ineligible for benefits under this title by reason of section 5303A(b) of this title [38 USCS § 5303A(b)].

(E) Each veteran described in section 3701(b)(5) of this title [38 USCS § 3701(b)(5)].

(3) Any unused entitlement of World War II or Korean conflict veterans which expired under provisions of law in effect before October 23, 1970, is hereby restored and shall not expire until used.

(4) A veteran's entitlement under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall not be reduced by any entitlement used by the veteran's spouse which was based upon the provisions of paragraph (3) of section 3701(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3701(b)].

(b) In computing the aggregate amount of guaranty or insurance housing loan entitlement available to a veteran under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the Secretary may exclude the amount of guaranty or insurance housing loan entitlement used for any guaranteed, insured, or direct loan under the following circumstances:

    (1) (A) The property which secured the loan has been disposed of by the veteran or has been destroyed by fire or other natural hazard; and

        (B) the loan has been repaid in full, or the Secretary has been released from liability as to the loan, or if the Secretary has suffered a loss on such loan, the loss has been paid in full.

    (2) A veteran-transferee has agreed to assume the outstanding balance on the loan and consented to the use of the veteran transferee's entitlement, to the extent that the entitlement of the veteran-transferor had been used originally, in place of the veteran-transferor's for the guaranteed, insured, or direct loan, and the veteran-transferee otherwise meets the requirements of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

    (3) (A) The loan has been repaid in full; and

        (B) the loan for which the veteran seeks to use entitlement under this chapter [38
            USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] is secured by the same property which secured the loan referred to in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

    (4) In a case not covered by paragraph (1) or (2)--

        (A) the loan has been repaid in full and, if the Secretary has suffered a loss on the loan, the loss has been paid in full; or

        (B) the Secretary has been released from liability as to the loan and, if the Secretary has suffered a loss on the loan, the loss has been paid in full.

The Secretary may, in any case involving circumstances the Secretary deems appropriate, waive one or more of the conditions prescribed in paragraph (1). The authority of the Secretary under this subsection to exclude an amount of guaranty or insurance housing loan entitlement previously used by a veteran may be exercised only once for that veteran under the authority of paragraph (4).
(c) An honorable discharge shall be deemed to be a certificate of eligibility to apply for a guaranteed loan. Any veteran who does not have a discharge certificate, or who received a discharge other than honorable, may apply to the Secretary for a certificate of eligibility. Upon making a loan guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the lender shall forthwith transmit to the Secretary a report thereon in such detail as the Secretary may, from time to time, prescribe. Where the loan is guaranteed, the Secretary shall provide the lender with a loan guaranty certificate or other evidence of the guaranty. The Secretary shall also endorse on the veteran's discharge, or eligibility certificate, the amount and type of guaranty used, and the amount, if any, remaining. Nothing in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall preclude the assignment of any guaranteed loan or the security therefor.

(d) Housing loans will be automatically guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] only if made (1) by any Federal land bank, national bank, State bank, private bank, building and loan association, insurance company, credit union, or mortgage and loan company, that is subject to examination and supervision by an agency of the United States or of any State, (2) by any State, or (3) by any lender approved by the Secretary pursuant to standards established by the Secretary. Any housing loan proposed to be made to a veteran pursuant to this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] by any lender not of a class specified in the preceding sentence may be guaranteed by the Secretary if the Secretary finds that it is in accord otherwise with the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(e) The Secretary may at any time upon thirty days' notice require housing loans to be made by any lender or class of lenders to be submitted to the Secretary for prior approval. No guaranty or insurance liability shall exist with respect to any such loan unless evidence of guaranty or insurance is issued by the Secretary.

(f) Any housing loan at least 20 percent of which is guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] may be made by any national bank or Federal savings and loan association, or by any bank, trust company, building and loan association, or insurance company, organized or authorized to do business in the District of Columbia. Any such loan may be so made without regard to the limitations and restrictions of any other law relating to--

(1) ratio of amount of loan to the value of the property;
(2) maturity of loan;
(3) requirement for mortgage or other security;
(4) dignity of lien; or
(5) percentage of assets which may be invested in real estate loans.

1. Generally

Classification of veterans is entirely constitutional. Valley Nat'l Bank v Glover (1945) 62 Ariz 538, 159 P2d 292

2. Purpose

Policy of Servicemen's Readjustment Act (predecessor to 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.) was to enable veterans to obtain loans and to obtain them with least risk of loss, to both veteran and Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs], upon foreclosure. United States v Shimer (1961) 367 US 374, 6 L Ed 2d 908, 81 S Ct 1554

Servicemen's Readjustment Act (predecessor to 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.) was designed in part to protect veterans from payment of excessive prices for purchase or construction of homes and from terms of payment not bearing proper relation to their present and anticipated income and expenses. Young v Hampton (1951) 36 Cal 2d 799, 228 P2d 1, 19 ALR2d 830

3. Persons entitled to benefits

Period of service under former 38 USC § 694 did not include time lost by reason of unauthorized absence for which service person had forfeited pay. 1944 ADVA 613

For purposes of Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. [now 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]), honorable discharge of enlisted man to accept commission or of member of reserve to accept commission in regular establishment was sufficient to entitle such individual to certificate of eligibility for loan guaranties. 1946 ADVA 725

Service person not entitled to separation under point or length of service system, but otherwise eligible to be completely separated from active service, was so separated for purposes of benefits administered by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] where department would have released him had he so requested at time he accepted commission or affected other change in status. 1947 ADVA 771

Case of veteran discharged honorably from Canadian armed forces in 1942 to accept commission in American forces was similar to that of service person in Administrator's [now Secretary's] decision No. 725 who was discharged to accept commission or change in status prior to eligibility for discharge under point or length of service system; thus, Canadian service did not qualify as separate period of service for benefits purposes, and discharge under dishonorable conditions from United States armed forces barred benefits based upon Canadian services.

Veteran who served less than 90 days during World War II and was discharged from active military or naval service for disability considered to have incurred in such service was entitled to benefits under former 38 USC § 694. 1951 ADVA 874

Veteran who acquired loan guaranty entitlement for active duty in both World War II and Korean conflict was eligible to use his subsisting entitlement to loan assistance benefits for longest period of time afforded by his service in either conflict; such privilege applied not only where veteran had made no previous use of World War II entitlement, but also where Korean entitlement had either been reduced or saved from reduction on account of used World War II entitlement pursuant to 38 USCS § 1802 [now 38 USCS § 3702]. 1961 ADVA 978

Veteran was not entitled to loan guaranty in amount of his full eligibility since VA's acceptance of deed in lieu of foreclosure from veteran's assignees extinguished portion veteran had originally received; veteran did not have property interest in restoration of his expended entitlement since there was no evidence that assignee-veteran ever agreed to substitute his entitlement for plaintiff's, and his right to redeem was transferred to assignees with interest in underlying property and exercised when they conveyed property to VA in lieu of foreclosure. Wells v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 293, affd without op (1997, CA FC) 114 F.3d 1207, reported in full (1997, CA FC) 1997 US App LEXIS 13412 and cert den (1998) 522 US 1045, 139 L Ed 2d 632, 118 S Ct 685

4. Lenders eligible for loan guaranty

Lenders supervised and qualified under former 38 USC § 694 we not eligible for automatic insurance; however, lender who complied with applicable provisions and regulations was entitled as legal right to issuance of certificate of guaranty or insurance credit. 1945 ADVA 767

Lending organization otherwise deemed qualified for loan guaranties under former 38 USC § 694 but which was not, by reason of Federal, state, territorial, or District of Columbia law, subject to examination and supervision by agency thereof, was not entitled to such loan guaranties without prior approval of Administrator [now Secretary] of Veterans Affairs. 1946 ADVA 692

Lender that belongs to Federal Home Loan Bank is eligible for loan guaranties so long as it is subject to inspection and regulation as member of bank or pursuant to other Federal or state law. 1946 ADVA 708

Mortgage loan company which qualified as affiliate of national bank or of other bank, so long as such other bank belonged to Federal Reserve System, was within class described by former 38 USC § 694, and was accordingly entitled to make loans which were automatically guaranteed. 1946 ADVA 709

All federally-chartered credit unions qualify under 38 USCS § 1802 [now 38 USCS § 3702] to process loans for automatic guaranty; state-chartered credit unions may qualify if subject to both examination and supervision by state agency under 38 USCS § 1802(d)(1) [now 38 USCS § 3702(d)(1)], or if not subject to examination and supervision, under 38 USCS § 1802(d)(3) [now 38 USCS § 3702(d)(3)]. VA GCO 25-75

5. Scope of guaranty

Expenses customarily connected with placing and initially servicing loan are includable as part of obligation upon which Administrator's [now Secretary's] guaranty of such loan is to be based. 1944 ADVA 591

Value of interest owned by veteran and spouse in property to be encumbered is basis for extent of guaranty and is not to be limited to value of such interest owned by veteran exclusive of value particularly attributable to spouse's interest where such interest was acquired by virtue of relationship. 1945 ADVA 619

6. Use of benefits for ineligible person
Veteran who bought real estate as tenant in common with other veteran, acquiring one-half undivided interest in property, was not entitled to apply unused balance of his benefits to cover his copurchaser's half of loan, where copurchaser had already used all but small amount of his guaranty privilege. Gowanda Co-op. Sav. & Loan Asso. v Gray (1950, CA2 NY) 183 F.2d 367

Agreement by veteran purchasing property under loan guaranty to hold property in trust for person ineligible for loan guaranty was invalid, even though supported by consideration. Glosser v Powers (1952) 209 Ga 149, 71 SE2d 230; Dunn v Dunn (1956, 2d Dept) 1 App Div 2d 888, 149 NYS2d 351

Veteran's oral agreement to take title to house in his own name and to hold title in trust for relative who furnished money for obtaining and preserving property, thereby securing lower interest rate, longer term, and other advantages, was invalid to extent that agreement attempted to obtain benefits for relative to which only veterans were entitled, even though veteran lived in house with relative. Perkins v Hilton (1952) 329 Mass 291, 107 NE2d 822, 33 ALR2d 1281

Although remedy of constructive trust was not available to person ineligible for loan guaranty, who made agreement with eligible veteran for veteran to take title in his name and reconvey property after loan guaranty, equitable lien would be impressed upon property in favor of nonveteran, limited to money paid by him out of his own funds at closing and thereafter in reduction of principal of mortgage indebtedness, to extent to which moneys expended by him for permanent improvements enhanced value of property. Badami v Badami (1968, 2d Dept) 29 App Div 2d 645, 286 NYS2d 590

Where in order to receive for his mother benefits which were his under "G. I. Bill of Rights" veteran used his mother's money to purchase house and made oral trust to convey to her later, agreement was illegal as fraud although veteran lived in house purchased, and in suit by veteran's trustee in bankruptcy mother was not allowed credit for payments made by her before veteran conveyed to her but was allowed credit for payments made after conveyance. Perkins v Hilton (1952) 329 Mass 291, 107 NE2d 822, 33 ALR2d 1281

Where title to home was taken in name of veteran merely as means of financing purchase, and veteran did not occupy it for number of years, constructive trust in favor of veteran's stepfather, who, with his wife until her death occupied it, made payments on mortgage, and capital improvements, would not be imposed, but stepfather was entitled to lien for such expenditures. Towner v Berg (1958, 3d Dept) 5 App Div 2d 481, 172 NYS2d 258

7. False claim actions

Gratuitous payment of 4 percent of amount of guaranty previously provided for provided adequate basis for false claim action against dealer who knew at time transaction was closed that veteran did not intend to occupy house bought pursuant to guaranteed loan. United States v De Witt (1959, CA5 Tex) 265 F.2d 393, cert den (1959) 361 US 866, 4 L Ed 2d 105, 80 S Ct 121

Dealer who completed transaction knowing that veteran did not intend to live in house purchased with guaranteed mortgage funds could be found guilty of making false claim against United States. United States v De Witt (1959, CA5 Tex) 265 F.2d 393, cert den (1959) 361 US 866, 4 L Ed 2d 105, 80 S Ct 121

"Non-supervised" lenders have no duty to verify accuracy of information supplied by veterans and real estate brokers before passing information on to Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] in application for loan guarantee under this act; consequently lender's knowledge of falsity of statements in application, such knowledge being necessary for liability under False Claims Act [31 USCS §§ 231 et seq.], cannot be established by mere failure to so verify. § 3703. Basic provisions relating to loan guaranty and insurance

(a) (1) (A) Any loan to a veteran eligible for benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], if made for any of the purposes specified in section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710] and in compliance with the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], is automatically guaranteed by the United States in an amount not to exceed the lesser of--

   (ii) the maximum amount of guaranty entitlement available to the veteran as specified in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(B) The maximum amount of guaranty entitlement available to a veteran for purposes specified in section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710] shall be $36,000, or in the case of a loan described in subparagraph (A)(i)(IV) of this paragraph, the maximum guaranty amount (as defined in subparagraph (C)), reduced by the amount of entitlement previously used by the veteran under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] and not restored as a result of the exclusion in section 3702(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(b)].

(C) In this paragraph, the term "maximum guaranty amount" means the dollar amount that is equal to 25 percent of the Freddie Mac conforming loan limit limitation determined under section 305(a)(2) of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation Act (12 U.S.C. 1454(a)(2)) for a single-family residence, as adjusted for the year involved.

(2) (A) Any housing loan which might be guaranteed under the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], when made or purchased by any financial institution subject to examination and supervision by an agency of the United States or of any State may, in lieu of such guaranty, be insured by the Secretary under an agreement whereby the Secretary will reimburse any such institution for losses incurred on such loan up to 15 per centum of the aggregate of loans so made or purchased by it.
(B) Loans insured under this section shall be made on such other terms, conditions, and restrictions as the Secretary may prescribe within the limitations set forth in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(b) The liability of the United States under any guaranty, within the limitations of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], shall decrease or increase pro rata with any decrease or increase of the amount of the unpaid portion of the obligation.

(c) (1) Loans guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall be payable upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon by the parties thereto, subject to the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] and regulations of the Secretary issued pursuant to this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], and shall bear interest not in excess of such rate as the Secretary may from time to time find the loan market demands, except that in establishing the rate of interest that shall be applicable to such loans, the Secretary shall consult with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development regarding the rate of interest applicable to home loans insured under section 203(b) of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1709(b)).

(2) The provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 which were in effect before April 1, 1958, with respect to the interest chargeable on loans made or guaranteed under such Act shall, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (1) of this subsection, continue to be applicable--

(A) to any loan made or guaranteed before April 1, 1958; and
(B) to any loan with respect to which a commitment to guarantee was entered into by the Secretary before April 1, 1958.

(3) This section shall not be construed to prohibit a veteran from paying to a lender any reasonable discount required by such lender, when the proceeds from the loan are to be used--

(A) to refinance indebtedness pursuant to clause (5), (8), or 9(b)(i) of section 3710(a) of this title or section 3712(a)(1)(F) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a) or 3712(a)(1)(F)];
(B) to repair, alter, or improve a farm residence or other dwelling pursuant to clauses (4) and (7) of section 3710(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)];
(C) to construct a dwelling or farm residence on land already owned or to be acquired by the veteran except where the land is directly or indirectly acquired from a builder or developer who has contracted to construct such dwelling for the veteran;
(D) to purchase a dwelling from a class of sellers which the Secretary determines are legally precluded under all circumstances from paying such a discount if the best interest of the veteran would be so served; or
(E) to refinance indebtedness and purchase a manufactured-home lot pursuant to section 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii) or 3712(a)(1)(G) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii) or 3712(a)(1)(G)], but only with respect to that portion of the loan used to refinance such indebtedness.

(4) (A) In guaranteeing or insuring loans under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the Secretary may elect whether to require that such loans bear interest at a rate that is--

(i) agreed upon by the veteran and the mortgagee; or
(ii) established under paragraph (1).

The Secretary may, from time to time, change the election under this subparagraph.

(B) Any veteran, under a loan described in subparagraph (A)(i), may pay reasonable discount points in connection with the loan. Except in the case of a loan for the purpose specified in section 3710(a)(8), 3710(b)(7), or 3712(a)(1)(F) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)(8), 3710(b)(7), or 3712(a)(1)(F)], discount points may not be financed as part of the principal amount of a loan guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(C) Not later than 10 days after an election under subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall transmit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives a notification of the election, together with an explanation of the reasons therefor.

(d) (1) The maturity of any housing loan shall not be more than thirty years and thirty-two days.

(2) (A) Any loan for a term of more than five years shall be amortized in accordance with established procedure.

(B) The Secretary may guarantee loans with provisions for various rates of amortization corresponding to anticipated variations in family income. With respect to any loan guaranteed under this subparagraph--

(i) the initial principal amount of the loan may not exceed the reasonable value of the property as of the time the loan is made; and

(ii) the principal amount of the loan thereafter (including the amount of all interest to be deferred and added to principal) may not at any time be scheduled to exceed the projected value of the property.

(C) For the purposes of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the projected value of the property shall be calculated by the Secretary by increasing the reasonable value of the property as of the time the loan is made at a rate not in excess of 2.5 percent per year, but in no event may the projected value of the property for the purposes of such subparagraph exceed 115 percent of such reasonable value. A loan made for a purpose other than the acquisition of a single-family dwelling unit may not be guaranteed under such subparagraph.

(3) Any real estate housing loan (other than for repairs, alterations, or improvements) shall be secured by a first lien on the realty. In determining whether a loan for the purchase or construction of a home is so secured, the Secretary may disregard a superior lien created by a duly recorded covenant running with the realty in favor of a private entity to secure an obligation to such entity for the homeowner's share of the costs of the management, operation, or maintenance of property, services or programs within and for the benefit of the development or community in which the veteran's realty is located, if the Secretary determines that the interests of the veteran borrower and of the Government will not be prejudiced by the operation of such covenant. In respect to any such superior lien to be created after June 6, 1969, the Secretary's determination must have been made prior to the recordation of the covenant.

(e) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, an individual who pays a fee under section 3729 of this title [38 USCS § 3729], or who is exempted under section 3729(c) of this title [38 USCS § 3729(c)] from paying such fee, with respect to a housing loan guaranteed or insured under this chapter that is closed after December 31, 1989, shall have no liability to the Secretary with respect to the loan for any loss resulting from any default of such individual except in the case of fraud, misrepresentation, or bad faith by such individual in obtaining the loan or in connection with the loan default.

(2) The exemption from liability provided by paragraph (1) of this subsection shall not apply to--

(A) an individual from whom a fee is collected (or who is exempted from such fee) under section 3729(b)(2)(I) of this title [38 USCS § 3729(b)(2)(I)]; or

(B) a loan made for any purpose specified in section 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3712].

(f) The application for or obtaining of a loan made, insured, or guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall not be subject to reporting requirements applicable to requests for, or receipts of, Federal contracts, grants, loans, loan guarantees, loan insurance, or cooperative agreements except to the extent that such requirements are provided for in, or by the Secretary pursuant to, this title.

Administrator [now Secretary] of Veterans Affairs, by simply guaranteeing loan, does not also warrant homeowner's house. Potnick v United States (1973, ND Miss) 356 F Supp 395

2. Purpose

Congress intended guaranty provisions of Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (predecessor to 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.), 58 Stat 284, as amended, to operate as substantial equivalent of down payment in same amount by veteran on purchase price, in order to induce prospective mortgagee-creditors to provide 100 per cent financing for veteran's home. United States v Shimer (1961) 367 US 374, 6 L Ed 2d 908, 81 S Ct 1554

3. Relationship with state laws

State law releasing veteran from liability to mortgagee when mortgagee fails to follow state procedures for securing deficiency judgment is inapplicable to prevent United States from recovering from veteran amounts paid under guaranty, where Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] regulation provides that such payments shall constitute debt owing to United States by veteran; regulations providing that Administrator [now Secretary] may specify, in advance of foreclosure sale, minimum amount which shall be credited on mortgage debt, which gives foreclosing mortgagee who purchases property at foreclosure sale option of selling property to Veterans Administration [now Department] for specified amount, constitute valid exercise of rulemaking authority given to Administrator [now Secretary] and operate to displace state statute governing mortgagee's purchase at foreclosure sale. United States v Shimer (1961) 367 US 374, 6 L Ed 2d 908, 81 S Ct 1554

VA's lending program does not preempt established, nondiscriminatory state law, where loan is considered to be first lien, since properties acquired under program remain subject to state power to tax. United States v Marion County (1993, MD Fla) 826 F Supp 1400, 7 FLW Fed D 110

Hail insurance premiums provided for by state statute were in fact taxes, but under applicable regulation did not preclude Administrator [now Secretary] of Veterans Affairs from approving application for loan guaranty despite provisions giving state first lien on property. 1945 ADVA 627

4. Terms and conditions of loan

Bank which accepts guaranty of its loan by Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] cannot urge invalidity of Administration's [now Department's] regulation, since 38 USCS § 1803 [now 38 USCS § 3703] makes terms and conditions of loan subject to such regulations. Mt. Vernon Co-op. Bank v Gleason (1966, DC Mass) 250 F Supp 952, affd (1966, CA1 Mass) 367 F.2d 289

Loan, for which ultimate maturity is more than 5 years from date veteran acquires property or becomes liable on indebtedness, is not eligible for guaranty under Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. [now 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]) as amortized loan if language of note or other evidence of indebtedness requires repayment in installments which are not approximately equal throughout remaining life of loan, including ultimate maturity date thereof, or are not sufficient to pay entire amount of loan. 1945 ADVA 631

5. Grounds for denial of guaranty

Application for loan guaranty is not to be denied because veteran provides security to lender consisting of property not subject of purchase with loan proceeds. 1945 ADVA 621

Application for guaranty under provisions of Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. [now 38 USCS § 3701]), is not to be denied because indebtedness is not evidenced by instrument separate from that creating encumbrance; also, it is immaterial whether instrument submitted is negotiable since it is assignable, and assignability is sufficient to meet requirements of regulations with respect to exercising certain options when claim is made. 1945 ADVA 623

6. Liability on default

Under Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] home loan guaranty program, agency is not obligated to take foreclosure-avoidance measures nor does such duty arise from statements promulgated through information circulars and booklets provided by agency to advise veterans and lenders of procedures. Rank v Nimmo (1982, CA9 Cal) 677 F.2d 692, cert den (1982) 459 US 907, 74 L Ed 2d 168, 103 S Ct 210

When default occurs, liability on guaranty or on insurance of loan made to eligible veteran and to one or more ineligible borrowers is determined as if obligation were several and amount thereof for which veteran assumed liability were only his proportionate part of entire debt, notwithstanding that in fact it is joint and several obligation as between debtors and creditors. 1947 ADVA 757

§ 3704. Restrictions on loans

(a) No loan for the purchase or construction of residential property shall be financed through the assistance of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] unless the property meets or exceeds minimum requirements for planning, construction, and general acceptability prescribed by the Secretary; however, this subsection shall not apply to a loan for the purchase of residential property on which construction is fully completed more than one year before such loan is made.

(b) Subject to notice and opportunity for a hearing, the Secretary may refuse to appraise any dwelling or housing project owned, sponsored, or to be constructed by any person identified with housing previously sold to veterans under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] as to which substantial deficiencies have been discovered, or as to which there has been a failure or indicated inability to discharge contractual liabilities to veterans, or as to which it is ascertained that the type of contract of sale or the methods or practices pursued in relation to the marketing of such properties were unfair or unduly prejudicial to veteran purchasers. The Secretary may also refuse to appraise any dwelling or housing project owned, sponsored, or to be constructed by any person refused the benefits of participation under the National Housing Act pursuant to a determination of the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

(c) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, no loan for the purchase or construction of residential property shall be financed through the assistance of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] unless the veteran applicant, at the time that the veteran applies for the loan, and also at the time that the loan is closed, certifies in such form as the Secretary may require, that the veteran intends to occupy the property as the veteran's home. Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, no loan for the repair, alteration, or improvement of residential property shall be financed through the assistance of the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] unless the veteran applicant, at the time that the veteran applies to the lender for the loan, and also at the time that the loan is closed, certifies, in such form as may be required by the Secretary, that the veteran occupies the property as the veteran's home. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this subsection, in the case of a loan automatically guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the veteran shall be required to make the certification only at the time the loan is closed. For the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] the requirement that the veteran recipient of a guaranteed or direct home loan must occupy or intend to occupy the property as the veteran's home means that the veteran as of the date of the veteran's certification actually lives in the property personally as the veteran's residence or actually intends upon completion of the loan and acquisition of the dwelling unit to move into the property personally within a reasonable time and to utilize such property as the veteran's residence. Notwithstanding the foregoing requirements of this subsection, the provisions for certification by the veteran at the time the veteran applies for the loan and at the time the loan is closed shall be considered to be satisfied if the Secretary finds that (1) in the case of a loan for repair, alteration, or improvement the veteran in fact did occupy the property at such times, or (2) in the case of a loan for construction or purchase the veteran intended to occupy the property as the veteran's home at such times and the veteran did in fact so occupy it when, or within a reasonable time after, the loan was closed.

(2) In any case in which a veteran is in active duty status as a member of the Armed Forces and is unable to occupy a property because of such status, the occupancy requirements of--

(A) paragraph (1) of this subsection;
(B) paragraphs (1) through (5) and paragraph (7) of section 3710(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)];
(C) section 3712(a)(5)(A)(i) of this title [38 USCS § 3712(a)(5)(A)(i)]; and shall be considered to be satisfied if the spouse of the veteran occupies the property as the spouse's home and the spouse makes the certification required by paragraph (1) of this subsection.
(D) section 3712(e)(5) of this title [38 USCS § 3712(e)(5)];

(d) Subject to notice and opportunity for a hearing, whenever the Secretary finds with respect to guaranteed or insured loans that any lender or holder has failed to maintain adequate loan accounting records, or to demonstrate proper ability to service loans adequately or to exercise proper credit judgment or has willfully or negligently engaged in practices otherwise detrimental to the interest of veterans or of the Government, the Secretary may refuse either temporarily or permanently to guarantee or insure any loans made by such lender or holder and may bar such lender or holder from acquiring loans guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]; however, the Secretary shall not refuse to pay a guaranty or insurance claim on loans theretofore entered into in good faith between a veteran and such lender. The Secretary may also refuse either temporarily or permanently to guarantee or insure any loans made by a lender or holder refused the benefits of participation under the National Housing Act pursuant to a determination of the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

(e) Any housing loan which is financed through the assistance of this chapter and to which section 3714 of this chapter [38 USCS § 3714] applies shall include a provision that the loan is immediately due and payable upon transfer of the property securing such loan to any transferee unless the acceptability of the assumption of the loan is established pursuant to such section 3714.

(f) A loan for the purchase or construction of new residential property, the construction of which began after the energy efficiency standards under section 109 of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act (42 U.S.C. 12709), as amended by section 101(c) of the Energy Policy Act of 1992, take effect, may not be financed through the assistance of this chapter unless the new residential property is constructed in compliance with such standards.

§ 3705. Warranties

(a) The Secretary shall require that in connection with any property upon which there is located a dwelling designed principally for not more than a four-family residence and which is appraised for guaranty or insurance before the beginning of construction, the seller or builder, and such other person as may be required by the Secretary to become warrantor, shall deliver to the purchaser or owner of such property a warranty that the dwelling is constructed in substantial conformity with the plans and specifications (including any amendments thereof, or changes and variations therein, which have been approved in writing by the Secretary) on which the Secretary based the Secretary’s valuation of the dwelling. The Secretary shall deliver to the builder, seller, or other warrantor the Secretary’s written approval (which shall be conclusive evidence of such appraisal) of any amendment of, or change or variation in, such plans and specifications which the Secretary deems to be a substantial amendment thereof, or change or variation therein, and shall file a copy of such written approval with such plans and specifications. Such warranty shall apply only with respect to such instances of substantial nonconformity to such approved plans and specifications (including any amendments thereof, or changes or variations therein, which have been approved in writing, as provided in this section, by the Secretary) as to which the purchaser or home owner has given written notice to the warrantor within one year from the date of conveyance of title to, or initial occupancy of, the dwelling, whichever first occurs. Such warranty shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, all other rights and privileges which such purchaser or owner may have under any other law or instrument. The provisions of this section shall apply to any such property covered by a mortgage insured or guaranteed by the Secretary on and after October 1, 1954, unless such mortgage is insured or guaranteed pursuant to a commitment therefor made before October 1, 1954.

(b) The Secretary shall permit copies of the plans and specifications (including written approvals of any amendments thereof, or changes or variations therein, as provided in this section) for dwellings in connection with which warranties are required by subsection (a) of this section to be made available in their appropriate local offices for inspection or for copying by any purchaser, home owner, or warrantor during such hours or periods of time as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable.

§ 3706. Escrow of deposits and downpayments

(a) Any deposit or downpayment made by an eligible veteran in connection with the purchase of proposed or newly constructed and previously unoccupied residential property in a project on which the Secretary has issued a Certificate of Reasonable Value, which purchase is to be financed with a loan guaranteed, insured, or made under the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], shall be deposited forthwith by the seller, or the agent of the seller, receiving such deposit or payment, in a trust account to safeguard such deposit or payment from the claims of creditors of the seller. The failure of the seller or the seller’s agent to create such trust account and to maintain it until the deposit or payment has been disbursed for the benefit of the veteran purchaser at settlement or, if the transaction does not materialize, is otherwise disposed of in accordance with the terms of the contract, may constitute an unfair marketing practice within the meaning of section 3704(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3704(b)].

(b) If an eligible veteran contracts for the construction of a property in a project on which the Secretary has issued a Certificate of Reasonable Value and such construction is to be financed with the assistance of a construction loan to be guaranteed, insured, or made under the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], it may be considered an unfair marketing practice under section 3704(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3704(b)] if any deposit or downpayment of the veteran is not maintained in a special trust account by the recipient until it is either (1) applied on behalf of the veteran to the cost of the land or to the cost of construction or (2), if the transaction does not materialize, is otherwise disposed of in accordance with the terms of the contract.
§ 3707. Adjustable rate mortgages

(a) The Secretary shall carry out a demonstration project under this section during fiscal years 1993 through 2008 for the purpose of guaranteeing loans in a manner similar to the manner in which the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development insures adjustable rate mortgages under section 251 of the National Housing Act [12 USCS § 1715z-16].

(b) Interest rate adjustment provisions of a mortgage guaranteed under this section shall--

(1) correspond to a specified national interest rate index approved by the Secretary, information on which is readily accessible to mortgagors from generally available published sources;

(2) be made by adjusting the monthly payment on an annual basis;

(3) be limited, with respect to any single annual interest rate adjustment, to a maximum increase or decrease of 1 percentage point; and

(4) be limited, over the term of the mortgage, to a maximum increase of 5 percentage points above the initial contract interest rate.

(c) The Secretary shall promulgate underwriting standards for loans guaranteed under this section, taking into account--

(1) the status of the interest rate index referred to in subsection (b)(1) and available at the time an underwriting decision is made, regardless of the actual initial rate offered by the lender;

(2) the maximum and likely amounts of increases in mortgage payments that the loans would require;

(3) the underwriting standards applicable to adjustable rate mortgages insured under title II of the National Housing Act; and
(4) such other factors as the Secretary finds appropriate.

d) The Secretary shall require that the mortgagee make available to the mortgagor, at the time of loan application, a written explanation of the features of the adjustable rate mortgage, including a hypothetical payment schedule that displays the maximum potential increases in monthly payments to the mortgagor over the first five years of the mortgage term.

§ 3707A. Hybrid adjustable rate mortgages

(a) The Secretary shall carry out a demonstration project under this section during fiscal years 2004 through 2008 for the purpose of guaranteeing loans in a manner similar to the manner in which the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development insures adjustable rate mortgages under section 251 of the National Housing Act [12 USCS § 1715z-16] in accordance with the provisions of this section with respect to hybrid adjustable rate mortgages described in subsection (b).

(b) Adjustable rate mortgages that are guaranteed under this section shall be adjustable rate mortgages (commonly referred to as "hybrid adjustable rate mortgages") having interest rate adjustment provisions that--

1. specify an initial rate of interest that is fixed for a period of not less than the first three years of the mortgage term;
2. provide for an initial adjustment in the rate of interest by the mortgagee at the end of the period described in paragraph (1); and
3. comply in such initial adjustment, and any subsequent adjustment, with subsection (c).

(c) Interest rate adjustment provisions of a mortgage guaranteed under this section shall--

1. correspond to a specified national interest rate index approved by the Secretary, information on which is readily accessible to mortgagors from generally available published sources;
2. be made by adjusting the monthly payment on an annual basis;

(c) [Repealed]

(d) (1) The Secretary shall carry out a program to demonstrate the feasibility of guaranteeing loans for the acquisition of an existing dwelling and the cost of making energy efficiency improvements to the dwelling or for energy efficiency improvements to a dwelling owned and occupied by a veteran. A loan may be guaranteed under this subsection only if it meets the requirements of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], except as those requirements are modified by this subsection.

(2) The cost of energy efficiency measures that may be financed by a loan guaranteed under this section may not exceed the greater of--

(A) the cost of the energy efficiency improvements, up to $3,000; or

(B) $6,000, if the increase in the monthly payment for principal and interest does not exceed the likely reduction in monthly utility costs resulting from the energy efficiency improvements.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 3703(a)(1)(A) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(a)(1)(A)], any loan guaranteed under this subsection shall be guaranteed in an amount equal to the sum of--

(A) the guaranty that would be provided under those provisions for the dwelling without the energy efficiency improvements; and

(B) an amount that bears the same relation to the cost of the energy efficiency improvements as the guaranty referred to in subparagraph (A) bears to the amount of the loan minus the cost of such improvements.

(4) The amount of the veteran's entitlement, calculated in accordance with section 3703(a)(1)(B) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(a)(1)(B)], shall not be affected by the amount of the guaranty referred to in paragraph (3)(B).

(5) The Secretary shall take appropriate actions to notify eligible veterans, participating lenders, and interested realtors of the availability of loan guarantees under this subsection and the procedures and requirements that apply to the obtaining of such guarantees.

(6) For the purposes of this subsection:

(A) The term "energy efficiency improvement" includes a solar heating system, a solar heating and cooling system, or a combined solar heating and cooling system, and the application of a residential energy conservation measure.

(B) The term "solar heating" has the meaning given such term in section 3(1) of the Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5502(1)) and, in addition, includes a passive system based on conductive, convective, or radiant energy transfer.
(C) The terms "solar heating and cooling" and "combined solar heating and cooling" have the meaning given such terms in section 3(2) of the Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5502(2)) and, in addition, include a passive system based on conductive, convective, or radiant energy transfer.

(D) The term "passive system" includes window and skylight glazing, thermal floors, walls, and roofs, movable insulation panels (when in conjunction with glazing), portions of a residential structure that serve as solar furnaces so as to add heat to the structure, double-pane window insulation, and such other energy-related components as are determined by the Secretary to enhance the natural transfer of energy for the purpose of heating or heating and cooling a residence.

(E) The term "residential energy conservation measure" means--
(i) caulking and weatherstripping of all exterior doors and windows;
(ii) furnace efficiency modifications limited to--
(I) replacement burners, boilers, or furnaces designed to reduce the firing rate or to achieve a reduction in the amount of fuel consumed as a result of increased combustion efficiency,
(II) devices for modifying flue openings which will increase the efficiency of the heating system, and
(III) electrical or mechanical furnace ignition systems which replace standing gas pilot lights;
(iii) clock thermostats;
(iv) ceiling, attic, wall, and floor insulation;
(v) water heater insulation;
(vi) storm windows and doors;
(vii) heat pumps; and
(viii) such other energy conservation measures as the Secretary may identify for the purposes of this subparagraph.

(e) (1) For a loan to be guaranteed for the purpose specified in subsection (a)(8) or for the purpose specified in subsection (a)(11) of this section--
(A) the interest rate of the loan must be less than the interest rate of the loan being refinanced or, in a case in which the loan is a fixed rate loan and the loan being refinanced is an adjustable rate loan, the loan bears interest at a rate that is agreed upon by the veteran and the mortgagee;
(B) the loan must be secured by the same dwelling or farm residence as was the loan being refinanced;
(C) the amount of the loan may not exceed--
(i) an amount equal to the sum of the balance of the loan being refinanced and such closing costs (including any discount permitted pursuant to section 3703(c)(3)(A) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(c)(3)(A)]) as may be authorized by the Secretary (under regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe) to be included in the loan; or
(ii) in the case of a loan for the purpose specified in subsection (a)(11), an amount equal to the sum of the amount referred to with respect to the loan under clause (i) and the amount specified under subsection (d)(2);
(D) notwithstanding section 3703(a)(1) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(a)(1)], the amount of the guaranty of the loan may not exceed the greater of (i) the original guaranty amount of the loan being refinanced, or (ii) 25 percent of the loan;
(E) the term of the loan may not exceed the original term of the loan being refinanced by more than 10 years; and
(F) the veteran must own the dwelling or farm residence securing the loan and--
   (i) must occupy such dwelling or residence as such veteran's home;
   (ii) must have previously occupied such dwelling or residence as such veteran's home and must certify, in such form as the Secretary shall require, that the veteran has previously so occupied such dwelling or residence; or
   (iii) in any case in which a veteran is in active duty status as a member of the Armed Forces and is unable to occupy such residence or dwelling as a home because of such status, the spouse of the veteran must occupy, or must have previously occupied, such dwelling or residence as such spouse's home and must certify such occupancy in such form as the Secretary shall require.

(2) A loan to a veteran may be guaranteed by the Secretary under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] for the purpose specified in clause (8) of subsection (a) of this section without regard to the amount of outstanding guaranty entitlement available for use by such veteran, and the amount of such veteran's guaranty entitlement shall not be charged as a result of any guaranty provided for such purpose. For purposes of section 3702(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(b)], such loan shall be deemed to have been obtained with the guaranty entitlement used to obtain the loan being refinanced.

(3) If a veteran is deceased and if such veteran's surviving spouse was a co-obligor under an existing loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], such surviving spouse shall, only for the purpose specified in subsection (a)(8) of this section, be deemed to be a veteran eligible for benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(f) (1) For a loan to be guaranteed for the purpose specified in subclause (A)(ii) or (B)(ii) of subsection (a)(9) of this section, the purchase of (or the refinancing of a loan secured by) the manufactured home and the lot for that home shall be considered as one loan and must comply with such criteria as may be prescribed by the Secretary in regulations.

(2) A loan may not be guaranteed for the purposes of subsection (a)(9) of this section unless the manufactured home purchased, upon being permanently affixed to the lot, is considered to be real property under the laws of the State where the lot is located.

(g) (1) For the purposes of this subsection, the term "veteran", when used with respect to a loan guaranteed or to be guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], includes the veteran's spouse if the spouse is jointly liable with the veteran under the loan.

(2) For the purpose of determining whether a veteran meets the standards referred to in subsection (b)(3) of this section and section 3712(e)(2) of this title [38 USCS § 3712(e)(2)], the Secretary shall prescribe regulations which establish--
   (A) credit underwriting standards to be used in evaluating loans to be guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]; and
   (B) standards to be used by lenders in obtaining credit information and processing loans to be guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].
(3) In the regulations prescribed under paragraph (2) of this subsection, the Secretary shall establish standards that include--
   (A) debt-to-income ratios to apply in the case of the veteran applying for the loan;
   (B) criteria for evaluating the reliability and stability of the income of the veteran applying for the loan; and
   (C) procedures for ascertaining the monthly income required by the veteran to meet the anticipated loan payment terms.

If the procedures described in clause (C) of this paragraph include standards for evaluating residual income, the Secretary shall, in establishing such standards, give appropriate consideration to State statistics (in States as to which the Secretary determines that such statistics are reliable) pertinent to residual income and the cost of living in the State in question rather than in a larger region.

(4) (A) Any lender making a loan under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall certify, in such form as the Secretary shall prescribe, that the lender has complied with the credit information and loan processing standards established under paragraph (2)(B) of this subsection, and that, to the best of the lender's knowledge and belief, the loan meets the underwriting standards established under paragraph (2)(A) of this subsection.

   (B) Any lender who knowingly and willfully makes a false certification under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be liable to the United States Government for a civil penalty equal to two times the amount of the Secretary's loss on the loan involved or to another appropriate amount, not to exceed $10,000, whichever is greater. All determinations necessary to carry out this subparagraph shall be made by the Secretary.

(5) Pursuant to regulations prescribed to carry out this paragraph, the Secretary may, in extraordinary situations, waive the application of the credit underwriting standards established under paragraph (2) of this subsection when the Secretary determines, considering the totality of circumstances, that the veteran is a satisfactory credit risk.

Congress intended guaranty provisions of 38 USCS § 1810 [now 38 USCS § 3710] to operate as substantial equivalent of downpayments in same amount by veteran on purchase price of home, in order to induce 100 percent financing for veteran's home. Provision of 38 USCS § 1810 [now 38 USCS § 3710] limiting loan to reasonable value of property was enacted to protect borrower from acquiring property at exorbitant price. Sattler v Van Natta (1953) 120 Cal App 2d 349, 260 P2d 982

4. Scope of guaranty
Loan guaranty for purchase or construction includes any land purchased for construction of dwelling. Karrell v United States (1950, CA9 Cal) 181 F.2d 981, cert den (1950) 340 US 891, 95 L Ed 646, 71 S Ct 206

Where regulation of administrator [now Secretary] provided that maximum guarantee on joint obligation of veterans would be treated as though obligations were several, and two veterans borrowed $8,500 from plaintiff association to finance purchase of real estate as joint tenant, veteran who had only $250 left on his guaranty was entitled only to guaranty in that amount, and other veteran who had not used his guaranty was entitled only to guaranty of 50 percent of his share, to wit: $2,150. Gowanda Co-op. Sav. & Loan Asso. v Gray (1950, CA2 NY) 183 F.2d 367

5. False statements and certificates

Defendants were properly convicted under conspiracy statutes where it appeared that they joined in scheme to defraud United States government by misrepresenting price of home sold to veteran in order to obtain government guarantee of mortgage loan. Heald v United States (1949, CA10 Colo) 175 F.2d 878, cert den (1949) 338 US 859, 94 L Ed 526, 70 S Ct 101 and cert den (1949) 338 US 859, 94 L Ed 526, 70 S Ct 102

Where defendant was convicted of making false reports to government in procurement of GI loans to six veterans, restitution to veterans as condition for suspension of sentence should be based on difference between fair appraisal value and amount actually charged veteran. Karrell v United States (1950, CA9 Cal) 181 F.2d 981, cert den (1950) 340 US 891, 95 L Ed 646, 71 S Ct 206

Defendant, who furnished funds for down payment by veterans in order that they might file application for loan, and upon completion of loan paid veterans stipulated amount out of proceeds, was liable for making of false affidavits and applications even though veterans voluntarily filed papers. Turner v United States (1953, CA9 Cal) 202 F.2d 523

6. Contracts, generally

So long as reasonable normal value of contract is determinable, contract between vendor and veteran contemplating that no deed shall be delivered to veteran conveying home or other property purchased until all or stated portion of purchase price shall have been paid by installments extending over period of years, not exceeding 20 years, such purchase contract is eligible for loan guaranties, upon general conditions that would be substantially applicable if transaction evidenced by contract were evidenced by deed, mortgage, and note secured by mortgage. 1945 ADVA 640

Contract contrary to Servicemen's Readjustment Act violates basic public policy and is unenforceable. Rosenblum v Corodas (1953) 119 Cal App 2d 802, 260 P2d 151; Sattler v Van Natta (1953) 120 Cal App 2d 349, 260 P2d 982

Written contract signed by contractor and sent to veteran certifying maximum complete cost supersedes all oral agreements and other verbal stipulations. Higby v Hooper (1950) 124 Mont 331, 221 P2d 1043

7. -Ancillary agreements

Where contractor and veteran made "side" agreement providing for cost-plus contract, after Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] and bank had approved fixed-fee contract, contractor could not enforce cost-plus contract. Young v Hampton (1951) 36 Cal 2d 799, 228 P2d 1, 19 ALR2d 830

Where plaintiff arranged for GI loan and "builder's contract" with defendant was made calling for fixed construction cost to be paid contractor and on same day they by letter agreed to cost-plus contract, which was illegal, obligation of note and trust deed given to contract or on account thereof was reduced. Pitts v Highland Constr. Co. (1953) 115 Cal App 2d 206, 252 P2d 14

Veteran's consideration, in form of promissory note for additional sum above appraisal value of house, was illegal and such note was unenforceable. Sattler v Van Natta (1953) 120 Cal App 2d 349, 260 P2d 982

Vendor who was ignorant of violation of predecessor to 38 USCS § 3710 and acted in good faith was entitled to enforce promissory note and deed of trust securing note, representing difference between appraised value and purchase price, against veteran who was aware of violation at time note was executed. Lewis v Wainscott (1954) 124 Cal App 2d 345, 268 P2d 835

Under predecessor to 38 USCS § 3710, side agreement increasing cost beyond appraisal value was invalid and unenforceable, regardless of fact that neither party to agreement was aware of illegality. Cole v Ames (1957, 2nd Dist) 155 Cal App 2d 8, 317 P2d 662

Where Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] consented to loan not in excess of $8,370 on certain house to be built for veteran but building expenses were $10,475 and veteran by oral contract agreed to pay balance of $2,271.50 directly to contractor, oral agreement was unenforceable. Bamber v Mayeux (1957) 232 La 42, 93 So 2d 687

Side agreement covering well, pump, tank, and pipe located on lot purchased by veteran is valid where appraisal was done only on house and lot, and price of such additional property was not inflated. Voorhies v Hance (1955, La App 1st Cir) 79 So 2d 615

Side agreement whereby veteran agreed to pay cost of street improvements was not invalid merely because not reflected in deed from seller to purchaser, where Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] had appraised property as it was prior to improvements and had not been consulted about including such costs in purchase price, and there was no showing that Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] would have refused to increase appraisal to include such cost if request to do so had been made. Hansel v De Salle (1959, La App, Orleans) 115 So 2d 867

Contractor could not recover sum in excess of maximum amount recited in letter delivered to lender, which letter certified that complete cost of home would not exceed certain sum and formed basis on which loan was approved by loan company and guaranteed by government. Higby v Hooper (1950) 124 Mont 331, 221 P2d 1043

Promissory note given by veteran for additional sum above appraisal value was based on illegal consideration and note was unenforceable. Veino v Bedell (1954) 99 NH 274, 109 A2d 555

Reasonable value limitation of 38 USCS § 1810 [now 38 USCS § 3710] relates merely to conditions upon which government will guaranty loan to veteran in first instance, not to validity of effect of contract entered into between veteran and third persons, and side agreement in connection with veteran's housing loan is enforceable against parties to agreement. Bryant v Stablein (1947) 28 Wash 2d 739, 184 P2d 45

Agreement between veteran and seller, to effect that purchase price of one property would be reduced to amount at which Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] had appraised it, so that veteran could get guaranteed loan, in consideration for which veteran would also buy adjoining property, did not violate predecessor to 38 USCS § 3710. Ewing v Ford (1948) 31 Wash 2d 126, 195 P2d 650

8. Miscellaneous

No congressional purpose in enacting loan legislation was impaired by upholding terms of individually negotiated Deed of Trust which departed from form usually employed by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] notwithstanding fact that effect under facts was to bar deficiency judgment by United States. United States v Stewart (1975, CA9 Wash) 523 F.2d 1070

§ 3711. Direct loans to veterans
(a) The Congress finds that housing credit for purposes specified in section 3710 or 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3710 or 3712] is not and has not been generally available to veterans living in rural areas, or in small cities and towns not near large metropolitan areas. It is therefore the purpose of this section to provide housing credit for veterans living in such rural areas and such small cities and towns.

(b) Whenever the Secretary finds that private capital is not generally available in any rural area or small city or town for the financing of loans guaranteed for purposes specified in section 3710 or 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3710 or 3712], the Secretary shall designate such rural area or small city or town as a "housing credit shortage area". The Secretary shall, with respect to any such area, make, or enter into commitments to make, to any veteran eligible under this title, a loan for any or all of the purposes described in section 3710(a) or 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a) or 3712] (other than the refinancing of a loan under section 3710(a)(8) or 3712(a)(1)(F) [38 USCS § 3710(a)(8) or 3712(a)(1)(F)]).

(c) No loan may be made under this section to a veteran unless the veteran shows to the satisfaction of the Secretary that--

1. the veteran is unable to obtain from a private lender in such housing credit shortage area, at an interest rate not in excess of the rate authorized for guaranteed home loans or manufactured home loans, as appropriate, a loan for such purpose for which the veteran is qualified under section 3710 or 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3710 or 3712], as appropriate; and
2. the veteran is unable to obtain a loan for such purpose from the Secretary of Agriculture under title III of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act (7 U.S.C. 1921 et seq.) or title V of the Housing Act of 1949 (42 U.S.C. 1471 et seq.).

(d) (1) Loans made under this section shall bear interest at a rate determined by the Secretary, not to exceed the rate authorized for guaranteed home loans or manufactured home loans, as appropriate, and shall be subject to such requirements or limitations prescribed for loans guaranteed under this title as may be applicable.

2. (A) Except for any loan made under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] for the purposes described in section 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3712], the original principal amount of any loan made under this section shall not exceed an amount which bears the same ratio to $33,000 as the amount of guaranty to which the veteran is entitled under section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710] at the time the loan is made bears to $36,000; and the guaranty entitlement of any veteran who heretofore or hereafter has been granted a loan under this section shall be charged with an amount which bears the same ratio to $36,000 as the amount of the loan bears to $33,000.

(B) The original principal amount of any loan made under this section for the purposes described in section 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3712] shall not exceed the amount that bears the same ratio to $33,000 as the amount of guaranty to which the veteran is entitled under such section at the time the loan is made bears to $20,000. The amount of the guaranty entitlement for purposes specified in section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710] of any veteran who is granted a loan under this section, or who before October 18, 1978, was granted a loan under this section, shall be charged with the amount that bears the same ratio to $20,000 as the amount of the loan bears to $33,000.
(3) No veteran may obtain loans under this section aggregating more than $33,000.

(e) Loans made under this section shall be repaid in monthly installments, except that in the case of any such loan made for any of the purposes described in paragraphs (2), (3), or (4) of section 3710(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)], the Secretary may provide that such loan shall be repaid in quarterly, semiannual, or annual installments.

(f) In connection with any loan under this section, the Secretary may make advances in cash to pay taxes and assessments on the real estate, to provide for repairs, alterations, and improvements, and to meet the incidental expenses of the transaction. The Secretary shall determine the expenses incident to origination of loans made under this section, which expenses, or a reasonable flat allowance in lieu thereof, shall be paid by the veteran in addition to the loan closing costs.

(g) The Secretary may sell, and shall offer for sale, to any person or entity approved for such purpose by the Secretary, any loan made under this section at a price which the Secretary determines to be reasonable under the conditions prevailing in the mortgage market when the agreement to sell the loan is made; and shall guarantee any loan thus sold subject to the same conditions, terms, and limitations which would be applicable were the loan guaranteed for purposes specified in section 3710 or 3712 of this title [38 USCS § 3710 or 3712], as appropriate.

(h) The Secretary may exempt dwellings constructed through assistance provided by this section from the minimum land planning and subdivision requirements prescribed pursuant to subsection (a) of section 3704 of this title [38 USCS § 3704], and with respect to such dwellings may prescribe special minimum land planning and subdivision requirements which shall be in keeping with the general housing facilities in the locality but shall require that such dwellings meet minimum requirements of structural soundness and general acceptability.

(i) The Secretary is authorized, without regard to the provisions of subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section, to make or enter into a commitment to make a loan to any veteran to assist the veteran in acquiring a specially adapted housing unit authorized under chapter 21 of this title [38 USCS §§ 2101 et seq.], if the veteran is determined to be eligible for the benefits of such chapter 21, and is eligible for loan guaranty benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(j) (1) If any builder or sponsor proposes to construct one or more dwellings in a housing credit shortage area, or in any area for a veteran who is determined to be eligible for assistance in acquiring a specially adapted housing unit under chapter 21 of this title [38 §§ 2101 et seq.], the Secretary may enter into commitment with such builder or sponsor, under which funds available for loans under this section will be reserved for a period not in excess of three months, or such longer period as the Secretary may authorize to meet the needs in any particular case, for the purpose of making loans to veterans to purchase such dwellings. Such commitment may not be assigned or transferred except with the written approval of the Secretary. The Secretary shall not enter into any such commitment unless such builder or sponsor pays a nonrefundable commitment fee to the Secretary in an amount determined by the Secretary, not to exceed 2 percent of the funds reserved for such builder or sponsor.
(2) Whenever the Secretary finds that a dwelling with respect to which funds are being reserved under this subsection has been sold, or contracted to be sold, to a veteran eligible for a direct loan under this section, the Secretary shall enter into a commitment to make the veteran a loan for the purchase of such dwelling. With respect to any loan made to an eligible veteran under this subsection, the Secretary may make advances during the construction of the dwelling, up to a maximum in advances of (A) the cost of the land plus (B) 80 percent of the value of the construction in place.

(k) Without regard to any other provision of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the Secretary may take or cause to be taken such action as in the Secretary's judgment may be necessary or appropriate for or in connection with the custody, management, protection, and realization or sale of investments under this section, may determine the Secretary's necessary expenses and expenditures, and the manner in which the same shall be incurred, allowed and paid, may make such rules, regulations, and orders as the Secretary may deem necessary or appropriate for carrying out the Secretary's functions under this section and, except as otherwise expressly provided in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], may employ, utilize, compensate, and, to the extent not inconsistent with the Secretary's basic responsibilities under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], delegate any of the Secretary's functions under this section to such persons and such corporate or other agencies, including agencies of the United States, as the Secretary may designate.

"(i)(1) If any builder or sponsor purposes to construct one or more dwellings in a housing credit shortage area, the Administrator may enter into commitment with such builder or sponsor, under which funds available for loans under this section will be reserved for a period not in excess of three months, or such longer period as the Administrator may authorize to meet the needs in any particular case, for the purpose of making loans to veterans to purchase such dwellings. Such commitment may not be assigned or transferred except with the written approval of the Administrator. 1974. Act Dec. 31, 1974 (effective 12/31/74, as provided by § 10 of such Act, which appears as 38 USCS § 3702 note), in subsec. (d)(2)(A), substituted "$17,500" for "$12,500" wherever appearing.

§ 3712. Loans to purchase manufactured homes and lots

(a) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], any loan to a veteran eligible for the housing loan benefits of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], if made pursuant to the provisions of this section, may be guaranteed if such loan is for one of the following purposes:

(A) To purchase a lot on which to place a manufactured home already owned by the veteran.
(B) To purchase a single-wide manufactured home.
(C) To purchase a single-wide manufactured home and a lot on which to place such home.
(D) To purchase a double-wide manufactured home.
(E) To purchase a double-wide manufactured home and a lot on which to place such home.
(F) To refinance in accordance with paragraph (4) of this subsection an existing loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this section.
(G) To refinance in accordance with paragraph (5) of this subsection an existing loan that was made for the purchase of, and that is secured by, a manufactured home and to purchase a lot on which such manufactured home is or will be placed.

(2) A loan for any of the purposes described in paragraph (1) of this subsection (other than the refinancing under clause (F) of such paragraph of an existing loan) may include an amount determined by the Secretary to be appropriate to cover the cost of necessary preparation of a lot already owned or to be acquired by the veteran, including the costs of installing utility connections and sanitary facilities, of paving, and of constructing a suitable pad for the manufactured home.

(3) Any loan made for the purposes described in clause (C), (E), or (G) of paragraph (1) of this subsection shall be considered as part of one loan. The transaction may be evidenced by a single loan instrument or by separate loan instruments for (A) that portion of the loan which finances the purchase of the manufactured home, and (B) that portion of the loan which finances the purchase of the lot and the necessary preparation of such lot.

(4) (A) For a loan to be guaranteed for the purpose specified in clause (F) of paragraph (1) of this subsection--

(i) the interest rate of the loan must be less than the interest rate of the loan being refinanced;
(ii) the loan must be secured by the same manufactured home or manufactured-home lot, or manufactured home and manufactured-home lot, as was the loan being refinanced;
(iii) the amount of the loan may not exceed an amount equal to the sum of the balance of the loan being refinanced and such closing costs (including any discount permitted pursuant to section 3703(c)(3)(A) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(c)(3)(A)] as may be authorized by the Secretary, under regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, to be included in such loan;
(iv) notwithstanding section 3703(a)(1) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(a)(1)], the amount of the guaranty of the loan may not exceed the greater of (I) the original guaranty amount of the loan being refinanced, or (II) 25 percent of the loan;
(v) the term of the loan may not exceed the original term of the loan being refinanced;
(vi) the veteran must own the manufactured home, or the manufactured-home lot, or the manufactured home and the manufactured-home lot, securing the loan and--

(I) must occupy the home, a manufactured home on the lot, or the home and the lot, securing the loan;
(II) must have previously occupied the home, a manufactured home on the lot, or the home and the lot, securing the loan as the veteran's home and must certify, in such form as the Secretary shall require, that the veteran has previously so occupied the home (or such a home on the lot); or (III) in any case in which a veteran is in active duty status as a member of the Armed Forces and is unable to occupy the home, a manufactured home on the lot, or the home and the lot, as a home because of such status, the spouse of the veteran must occupy, or must have previously occupied, the manufactured home on the lot, or the home and the lot, as such spouse's home and must certify such occupancy in such form as the Secretary shall require.
(B) A loan to a veteran may be guaranteed by the Secretary under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] for the purpose specified in clause (F) of paragraph (1) of this subsection without regard to the amount of outstanding guaranty entitlement available for use by such veteran, and the amount of such veteran's guaranty entitlement shall not be charged as a result of any guaranty provided for such purpose. For purposes of section 3702(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(b)], such loan shall be deemed to have been obtained with the guaranty entitlement used to obtain the loan being refinanced.
(C) If a veteran is deceased and if such veteran's surviving spouse was a co-obligor under an existing loan previously guaranteed, insured, or made for purposes specified in this section, such surviving spouse shall, only for the purpose specified in clause (F) of paragraph (1) of this subsection, be deemed to be a veteran eligible for benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].
(5) (A) For a loan to be guaranteed for the purpose specified in paragraph (1)(G) of this subsection or section 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii)]--

(i) the loan must be secured by the same manufactured home as was the loan being refinanced and such manufactured home must be owned and occupied by the veteran (except as provided in section 3704(c)(2) of this title [38 USCS § 3704(c)(2)]) as such veteran's home; and
(ii) the amount of the loan may not exceed an amount equal to the sum of--
(I) the purchase price of the lot,
(II) the amount (if any) determined by the Secretary to be appropriate under paragraph (2) of this subsection to cover the cost of necessary preparation of such lot,
(III) the balance of the loan being refinanced, and
(IV) such closing costs (including any discount permitted pursuant to section 3703(c)(3)(E) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(c)(3)(E)]) as may be authorized by the Secretary, under regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, to be included in such loan.

(B) When a loan is made to a veteran for the purpose specified in paragraph (1)(G) of this subsection or section 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)(9)(B)(ii)] and the loan being refinanced was guaranteed, insured, or made under this section, the portion of the loan made for the purpose of refinancing such loan may be guaranteed by the Secretary under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] without regard to the amount of outstanding guaranty entitlement available for use by such veteran, and the amount of such veteran's guaranty entitlement shall not be charged as a result of any guaranty provided for such portion of such loan. For the purposes of section 3702(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(b)], such portion of such loan shall be deemed to have been obtained with the guaranty entitlement used to obtain the loan being refinanced.

(b) (1) Use of entitlement for purposes specified in this section for the purchase of a manufactured home unit shall preclude the use of remaining entitlement for the purchase of an additional manufactured home unit until the unit which secured the loan has been disposed of by the veteran or has been destroyed by fire or other natural hazard.

(2) The Secretary shall restore entitlement to all housing loan benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] for the veteran when the conditions prescribed in section 3702(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(b)] have been met.

(c) (1) Loans for any of the purposes authorized by subsection (a) of this section shall be submitted to the Secretary for approval prior to the closing of the loan, except that the Secretary may exempt any lender of a class listed in section 3702(d) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(d)] from compliance with such prior approval requirement if the Secretary determines that the experience of such lender or class of lenders in manufactured home financing warrants such exemption.

(2) Upon determining that a loan submitted for prior approval is eligible for guaranty for purposes specified in this section, the Secretary shall issue a commitment to guarantee such loan and shall thereafter guarantee the loan when made if such loan qualifies therefor in all respects.

(3) (A) The Secretary's guaranty may not exceed the lesser of (i) the lesser of $20,000 or 40 percent of the loan, or (ii) the maximum amount of the guaranty entitlement available to the veteran as specified in paragraph (4) of this subsection.

(B) A claim under the Secretary's guaranty shall, at the election of the holder of a loan, be made by the filing of an accounting with the Secretary--

(i) within a reasonable time after the receipt by such holder of an appraisal by the Secretary of the value of the security for the loan; or

   (i) the amount equal to the excess, if any, of the total indebtedness over the amount of the appraisal referred to in such clause; or
   (ii) the amount equal to the guaranty under this section.
(D) If the holder of a loan files for payment of a claim under clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the amount of such claim payable by the Secretary shall be the lesser of--

   (ii) the amount equal to the guaranty under this section.
(E) In any accounting filed pursuant to subparagraph (B)(ii) of this paragraph, the Secretary shall permit to be included therein accrued unpaid interest from the date of the first uncured default to such cutoff date as the Secretary may establish, and the Secretary shall allow the holder of the loan to charge against the liquidation or resale proceeds accrued interest from the cutoff date established to such further date as the Secretary may determine and such costs and expenses as the Secretary determines to be reasonable and proper.
(F) The liability of the United States under the guaranty provided for by this paragraph shall decrease or increase pro rata with any decrease or increase of the amount of the unpaid portion of the obligation.
(4) The maximum amount of guaranty entitlement available to a veteran for purposes specified in this section shall be $20,000 reduced by the amount of any such entitlement previously used by the veteran. Use of entitlement for purposes specified in section 3710 or 3711 of this title [38 USCS § 3710 or 3711] shall reduce entitlement available for use under this section to the same extent that entitlement available for purposes specified in such section 3710 [38 USCS § 3710] is reduced below $20,000.
(5) The amount of any loan guaranteed for purposes specified in this section shall not exceed an amount equal to 95 percent of the purchase price of the property securing the loan.
(d) (1) The maturity of any loan guaranteed for purposes specified in this section shall not be more than--

   (B) twenty years and thirty-two days, in the case of a loan for the purchase of--
      (i) a single-wide manufactured home; or
      (ii) a single-wide manufactured home and a lot;
   (C) twenty-three years and thirty-two days, in the case of a loan for the purchase of a double-wide manufactured home; or
   (D) twenty-five years and thirty-two days, in the case of a loan for the purchase of a double-wide manufactured home and a lot.
(2) Nothing in paragraph (1) of this subsection shall preclude the Secretary, under regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe, from consenting to necessary advances for the protection of the security or the holder's lien, to a reasonable extension of the term of such loan, or to a reasonable reamortization of such loan.

(e) No loan shall be guaranteed for purposes specified in this section unless--

(1) the loan is repayable in approximately equal monthly installments;
(2) the terms of repayment bear a proper relationship to the veteran's present and anticipated income and expenses, and the veteran is a satisfactory credit risk, as determined in accordance with the regulations prescribed under section 3710(g) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(g)] and taking into account the purpose of this program to make available lower cost housing to low and lower income veterans, especially those who have been recently discharged or released from active military, naval, or air service, who may not have previously established credit ratings;
(3) the loan is secured by a first lien on the manufactured home purchased with the proceeds of the loan and on any lot acquired or improved with the proceeds of the loan;
(4) the amount of the loan to be paid by the veteran is not in excess of the amount determined to be reasonable, based upon--

(A) with respect to any portion of the loan to purchase a new manufactured home, such cost factors as the Secretary considers proper to take into account;

(C) with respect to any portion of the loan to purchase a lot, the reasonable value of such lot, as determined by the Secretary; and
(D) with respect to any portion of the loan to cover the cost of necessary site preparation, an appropriate amount, as determined by the Secretary;
(5) the veteran certifies, in such form as the Secretary shall prescribe, that the veteran will personally occupy the property as the veteran's home; except that the requirement of this clause shall not apply (A) in the case of a guaranteed loan that is for the purpose described in paragraph (1)(F) of subsection (a), or (B) in the case described in section 3704(c)(2) [38 USCS § 3704(c)(2)];
(6) the manufactured home is or will be placed on a site which meets specifications which the Secretary shall establish by regulation; and
(7) the interest rate to be charged on the loan does not exceed the permissible rate established by the Secretary.

(f) The Secretary shall establish such rate of interest for manufactured home loans and manufactured home lot loans as the Secretary's determines to be necessary in order to assure a reasonable supply of manufactured home loan financing for veterans for purposes specified in this section.

(g) The Secretary shall promulgate such regulations as the Secretary determines to be necessary or appropriate in order to fully implement the provisions of this section, and such regulations may specify which provisions in other sections of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] the Secretary determines should be applicable to loans guaranteed or made for purposes specified in this section. The Secretary shall have such powers and responsibilities in respect to matters arising under this section as the Secretary has in respect to loans made or guaranteed or under other sections of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].
(h) (1) No loan for the purchase of a manufactured home shall be guaranteed for purposes specified in this section unless the manufactured home and lot, if any, meet or exceed standards for planning, construction, and general acceptability as prescribed by the Secretary and no loan for the purchase of a lot on which to place a manufactured home owned by a veteran shall be guaranteed under this section unless the lot meets such standards prescribed for manufactured home lots. Such standards shall be designed to encourage the maintenance and development of sites for manufactured homes which will be attractive residential areas and which will be free from, and not substantially contribute to, adverse scenic or environmental conditions.

(2) Any manufactured housing unit properly displaying a certification of conformity to all applicable Federal manufactured home construction and safety standards pursuant to section 616 of the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5415) shall be deemed to meet the standards required by paragraph (1).

(i) The Secretary shall require the manufacturer to become a warrantor of any new manufactured home which is approved for purchase with financing through the assistance of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] and to furnish to the purchaser a written warranty in such form as the Secretary shall require. Such warranty shall include (1) a specific statement that the manufactured home meets the standards prescribed by the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of subsection (h) of this section; and (2) a provision that the warrantor's liability to the purchaser or owner is limited under the warranty to instances of substantial nonconformity to such standards which become evident within one year from date of purchase and as to which the purchaser or owner gives written notice to the warrantor not later than ten days after the end of the warranty period. The warranty prescribed herein shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, all other rights and privileges which such purchaser or owner may have under any other law or instrument and shall so provide in the warranty document.

(k) Subject to notice and opportunity for a hearing, the Secretary may refuse to approve as acceptable any site in a manufactured home park or subdivision owned or operated by any person whose rental or sale methods, procedures, requirements, or practices are determined by the Secretary to be unfair or prejudicial to veterans renting or purchasing such sites. The Secretary may also refuse to guarantee or make direct loans for veterans to purchase manufactured homes offered for sale by any dealer if substantial deficiencies have been discovered in such homes, or if the Secretary determines that there has been a failure or indicated inability of the dealer to discharge contractual liabilities to veterans, or that the type of contract of sale or methods, procedures, or practices pursued by the dealer in the marketing of such properties have been unfair or prejudicial to veteran purchasers.

(l) The provisions of sections 3704(d) and 3721 of this title [38 USCS §§ 3704(d) and 3721] shall be fully applicable to lenders making guaranteed manufactured home loans and manufactured home lot loans and holders of such loans.

§ 3713. Release from liability under guaranty

Discussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual
(a) Whenever any veteran disposes of residential property securing a guaranteed, insured, or direct housing loan obtained by the veteran, the Secretary, upon application made by such veteran and by the transferee incident to such disposal, shall issue to such veteran in connection with such disposal a release relieving the veteran of all further liability to the Secretary on account of such loan (including liability for any loss resulting from any default of the transferee or any subsequent purchaser of such property) if the Secretary has determined, after such investigation as the Secretary may deem appropriate, that (1) the loan is current, and (2) the purchaser of such property from such veteran (A) is obligated by contract to purchase such property and to assume full liability for the repayment of the balance of the loan remaining unpaid, and has assumed by contract all of the obligations of the veteran under the terms of the instruments creating and securing the loan, and (B) qualifies from a credit standpoint, to the same extent as if the transferee were a veteran eligible for purposes specified in section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710], for a guaranteed or insured or direct loan in an amount equal to the unpaid balance of the obligation for which the transferee has assumed liability.

(b) If any veteran disposes of residential property securing a guaranteed, insured, or direct housing loan obtained by the veteran under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] without receiving a release from liability with respect to such loan under subsection (a), and a default subsequently occurs which results in liability of the veteran to the Secretary on account of the loan, the Secretary may relieve the veteran of such liability if the Secretary determines, after such investigation as the Secretary deems appropriate, that the property was disposed of by the veteran in such a manner, and subject to such conditions, that the Secretary would have issued the veteran a release from liability under subsection (a) with respect to the loan if the veteran had made application therefor incident to such disposal. Failure of a transferee to assume by contract all of the liabilities of the original veteran-borrower shall bar such release of liability only in cases in which no acceptable transferee, either immediate or remote, is legally liable to the Secretary for the indebtedness of the original veteran-borrower arising from termination of the loan. The failure of a veteran to qualify for release from liability under this subsection does not preclude relief from being granted under section 5302(b) of this title, if the veteran is eligible for relief under that section.

(c) This section shall apply only to loans for which commitments are made before March 1, 1988.

Explanatory notes:

2. Release under particular circumstances

Veteran may be released from all personal liability resulting from VA guaranteed loan when property securing loan is transferred upon divorce to veteran's spouse who assumes total

§ 3714. Assumptions; release from liability

(a) (1) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, if a veteran or any other person disposes of residential property securing a loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] and the veteran or other person notifies the holder of the loan in writing before the property is disposed of, the veteran or other person, as the case may be, shall be relieved of all further liability to the Secretary with respect to the loan (including liability for any loss resulting from any default of the purchaser or any subsequent owner of the property) and the application for assumption shall be approved if the holder determines that--

(A) the loan is current; and

(B) the purchaser of the property from such veteran or other person--

(i) is obligated by contract to purchase such property and to assume full liability for the repayment of the balance of the loan remaining unpaid and has assumed by contract all of the obligations of the veteran under the terms of the instruments creating and securing the loan; and

(ii) qualifies from a credit standpoint, to the same extent as if the purchaser were a veteran eligible under section 3710 of this title [38 USCS § 3710], for a guaranteed or insured or direct loan in an amount equal to the unpaid balance of the obligation for which the purchaser is to assume liability.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1), paragraph (3), and paragraph (4)(C)(ii) of this subsection, the Secretary shall be considered to be the holder of the loan if the actual holder is not an approved lender described in section 3702 [38 USCS § 3702].

(3) If the holder of the loan determines that the loan is not current or that the purchaser of the property does not meet the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection, the holder shall--

(A) notify the transferor and the Secretary of such determination; and
(B) notify the transferor that the transferor may appeal the determination to the Secretary.

(4) (A) Upon the appeal of the transferor after a determination described in paragraph (3) is made, the Secretary shall, in a timely manner, review and make a determination (or a redetermination in any case in which the Secretary made the determination described in such paragraph) with respect to whether the loan is current and whether the purchaser of the property meets the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection. The Secretary shall transmit, in writing, a notice of the nature of such determination to the transferor and the holder and shall inform them of the action that shall or may be taken under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph as a result of the determination of the Secretary.

(B) (i) If the Secretary determines under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph that the loan is current and that the purchaser meets the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection, the holder shall approve the assumption of the loan, and the transferor shall be relieved of all liability to the Secretary with respect to such loan.

(ii) If the Secretary determines under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph that the purchaser does not meet the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection, the Secretary may direct the holder to approve the assumption of the loan if--

(I) the Secretary determines that the transferor of the property is unable to make payments on the loan and has made reasonable efforts to find a buyer who meets the requirements of paragraph (1)(B) of this subsection and that, as a result, the proposed transfer is in the best interests of the Department and the transferor;

(II) the transferor has requested, within 15 days after receiving the notice referred to in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, that the Secretary approve the assumption; and

(III) the transferor will, upon assumption of the loan by the purchaser, be secondarily liable on the loan.

(C) If--

(i) the loan is not approved for assumption under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph or paragraph (1) of this subsection; or

(ii) no appeal is made by the transferor under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph within 30 days after the holder informs the transferor of its determination under paragraph (3) of this subsection, the holder may demand immediate, full payment of the principal, and all interest earned thereon, of such loan if the transferor disposes of the property.

(b) If a person disposes of residential property described in subsection (a)(1) of this section and the person fails to notify the holder of the loan before the property is disposed of, the holder, upon learning of such action by the person, may demand immediate and full payment of the principal, interest, and all other amounts owing under the terms of the loan.
(c) (1) In any case in which the holder of a loan described in subsection (a)(1) of this section has knowledge of a person's disposing of residential property securing the loan, the holder shall notify the Secretary of such action.

(2) If the holder fails to notify the Secretary in such a case, the holder shall be liable to the Secretary for any damage sustained by the Secretary as a result of the holder's failure, as determined at the time the Secretary is required to make payments in accordance with any insurance or guaranty provided by the Secretary with respect to the loan concerned.

(d) With respect to a loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this chapter, the Secretary shall provide, by regulation, that at least one instrument evidencing either the loan or the mortgage or deed of trust therefor, shall conspicuously contain, in such form as the Secretary shall specify, a notice in substantially the following form: "This loan is not assumable without the approval of the Department of Veterans Affairs or its authorized agent".

(e) The Secretary shall establish in regulations a reasonable amount as the maximum amount that a lender may charge for processing an application for a creditworthiness determination and assumption of a loan pursuant to this section. Such regulations shall establish requirements for the timely processing of applications for acceptance of assumptions.

(f) (1) This section shall apply--

(A) in the case of loans other than loans to finance the purchase of real property described in section 3733(a)(1) of this title [38 USCS § 3733(a)(1)], only to loans for which commitments are made on or after March 1, 1988; and

(B) in the case of loans to finance the purchase of such property, only to loans which are closed after January 1, 1989.

(2) This section shall not apply to a loan which the Secretary has sold without recourse.

(1) sue and be sued in the Secretary's official capacity in any court of competent jurisdiction, State or Federal, but nothing in this clause shall be construed as authorizing garnishment or attachment against the Secretary, the Department of Veterans Affairs, or any of its employees;

(2) subject to specific limitations in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], consent to the modification, with respect to rate of interest, time of payment of principal or interest or any portion thereof, security or other provisions of any note, contract, mortgage or other instrument securing a loan which has been guaranteed, insured, made or acquired under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.];

(3) pay, or compromise, any claim on, or arising because of, any such guaranty or insurance;

(4) pay, compromise, waive or release any right, title, claim, lien or demand, however acquired, including any equity or any right of redemption;

Without regard to section 3302(b) of title 31 [31 USCS § 3302(b)] or any other provision of law not expressly in limitation of this paragraph, the Secretary may permit brokers utilized by the Secretary in connection with such properties to deduct from rental collections amounts covering authorized fees, costs, and expenses incurred in connection with the management, repair, sale, or lease of any such properties and remit the net balances to the Secretary.

(b) The powers granted by this section may be exercised by the Secretary without regard to any other provision of law not enacted expressly in limitation of this section, which otherwise would govern the expenditure of public-funds, except that title III of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (41 U.S.C. 251 et seq.) shall apply to any contract for services or supplies on account of any property acquired pursuant to this section.
(c) The financial transactions of the Secretary incident to, or arising out of, the guaranty or insurance of loans pursuant to this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], and the acquisition, management, and disposition of property, real, personal, or mixed, incident to such activities and pursuant to this section, shall be final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government.

(d) The right to redeem provided for by section 2410(c) of title 28 [28 USCS § 2410(c)] shall not arise in any case in which the subordinate lien or interest of the United States derives from a guaranteed or insured loan.

(g) The Secretary shall, at the request of the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and without reimbursement, certify to such Secretary whether an applicant for assistance under any law administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development is a veteran.

(h) (1) The Secretary may, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary considers appropriate, issue or approve the issuance of, and guarantee the timely payment of principal and interest on, certificates or other securities evidencing an interest in a pool of mortgage loans made in connection with the sale of properties acquired under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

1. Generally
Internal Veterans’ Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] publications establishing policies, procedures and practices in connection with carrying out powers granted under 38 USCS § 1820 [now 38 USCS § 3720] are not judicially enforceable, since they are for use of agency employees only, have not been published in Federal Register, and are not adopted with procedural requirements for rulemaking. Statute stipulating that service of process may be had in certain matters upon Veterans’ Administrator [now Secretary of Veterans Affairs] does not make valid service which is bad upon assistant, without proof that authority had been conferred upon said assistant to accept such service. 2. Governing law
Federal law, not state law, is applicable to questions of federal rights and liabilities involving vendee account loan program of the Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs]. United States v Wells (1968, CA5 Fla) 403 F.2d 596

State law requirement that indemnor be notified of foreclosure proceedings as prerequisite to obtaining deficiency judgment against indemnor did not apply to VA regulations governing foreclosure of VA-financed property since indemnity is independent right arising under federal law, but due process requires that indemnor be given notice of foreclosure proceedings; however, absence of notice of foreclosure hearing in present case and failure to give more than 5 days notice of foreclosure sale was of no substantive significance since indemnor took no action before sale nor took post-sale action available to him. Boley v Brown (1993, CA4 NC) 10 F.3d 218

3. Actions and remedies against government, generally
Waiver of sovereign immunity of Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] is contained in sue and be sued provision of 38 USCS § 1820 [now 38 USCS § 3720]; agency may be held liable for damages for torts of its agents, whether authorized or not. 4. -Administrative relief
The "sue and be sued" provision of 38 USCS § 1820 [now 38 USCS § 3720] does not entitle homeowners to seek in federal court discretionary administrative relief available under 38 USCS § 1827 [now 38 USCS § 3727]. Potnick v United States (1973, ND Miss) 356 F Supp 395

5. -Garnishment
Prior to 1977 amendment expressly exempting Veteran's Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] from garnishments, doctrine of sovereign immunity precluded execution of garnishment against Veteran's Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] arising from state court judgment against Administration [now Department] employee; legislative history of 38 USCS § 1820 [now 38 USCS § 3720] indicates congressional intent that Administration [now Department] should not be subject to garnishments. May Dept Stores Co. v Smith (1978, CA8 Mo) 572 F.2d 1275, cert den (1978) 439 US 837, 58 L Ed 2d 134, 99 S Ct 124

Administrator [now Secretary] is under no obligation to answer garnishment upon employee's wages, and garnishment will be quashed, as under provisions of 38 USCS § 1820(a)(1) [now 38 USCS § 3720(a)(1)], Administrator [now Secretary] has only limited capacity to sue and be sued. De Paul Community Health Center, etc. v Campbell (1977, ED Mo) 445 F Supp 484

6. -Interest

Sovereign immunity does not bar award of interest on sums recoverable from Veterans Administrator [now Secretary of Veterans Affairs] on home-loan mortgages which Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] has guaranteed. New York Guardian Mortgagee Corp. v Cleland (1979, SD NY) 473 F Supp 422

7. Right of recovery of government, generally

Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] has right to seek indemnity from defaulting mortgage under 38 USCS § 1820(a)(6) [now 38 USCS § 3720(a)(6)], despite state statute barring deficiency judgments against principal debtors by creditors or guarantors, because nothing in § 1820(a)(6) [now 38 USCS § 3720(a)(6)] indicates intent by Congress to adopt state anti-deficiency laws as federal law. Jones v Turnage (1988, ND Cal) 699 F Supp 795, affd without op (1990, CA9 Cal) 914 F.2d 1496, cert den (1991) 499 US 920, 113 L Ed 2d 243, 111 S Ct 1309

Administrator [now Secretary] of Veterans Affairs has authority under 38 USCS § 1820(a)(1) [now 38 USCS § 3720(a)(1)] to sue in state court to recover possession of real property from assignee of individuals who purchased property on installment contract for sale of real estate, and under same provision, may be sued on counterclaim without necessity of cause being removed to Federal District Court. Administrator of Veterans' Affairs v Family Bible Study Church, Inc. (1982, Dist Ct) 114 Misc 2d 615, 452 NYS2d 150

8. -Waiver of debt

No government official is authorized to forgive debt due United States, but recovery from benefits otherwise payable to veteran or other person is subject to whole or partial waiver in accordance with equitable considerations found in former 38 USC § 453; release, whole or partial waiver of claim for such indebtedness, and compromise of claim or suit are authorized under former 38 USC § 694 of Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq.). 1949 ADVA 825

Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] is not authorized to grant general waiver of debt simply because of hardship and present inability of veteran to pay, and right to grant waiver where recovery of debt would be against equity and good conscience does not give Administration [now Department] power to grant general waiver permanently negating government's opportunity to recover without considering veteran's fault in creation of indebtedness and general equitable rules; Administration [now Department] is to consider whether whole or partial recovery would defeat purposes of veterans' benefits otherwise payable or would be against equity and good conscience. 1951 ADVA 887

§ 3721. Incontestability

Any evidence of guaranty or insurance issued by the Secretary shall be conclusive evidence of the eligibility of the loan for guaranty or insurance under the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] and of the amount of such guaranty or insurance.
Nothing in this section shall preclude the Secretary from establishing, as against the original lender, defenses based on fraud or material misrepresentation. The Secretary shall not, by reason of anything contained in this section, be barred from establishing, by regulations in force at the date of such issuance or disbursement, whichever is the earlier, partial defenses to the amount payable on the guaranty or insurance.

35 Am Jur 2d, Federal Torts Claims Act § 46
77 Am Jur 2d, Veterans and Veterans' Laws § 120

1. Generally
2. Purpose
3. Remedies
1. Generally

Plaintiff, in action against defendants and Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] alleging faulty workmanship done on home purchased from defendants and inspected by agency, did not state claim upon which relief could be granted since 38 USCS § 1827 [now 38 USCS § 3727] is not applicable to other than new construction and since language in 38 USCS § 1827(b) [now 38 USCS § 3727(b)] precludes judicial review. Stanley v Veterans Administration (1978, ED Pa) 454 F Supp 9

2. Purpose

Fundamental purpose of 38 USCS § 1827 [now 38 USCS § 3727] is to authorize Administrator [now Secretary] to correct substantial defects in inspected home before foreclosure occurs and agency is faced with burden of recouping loss on ordinarily unmarketable structure; agency, by 38 USCS § 1827 [now 38 USCS § 3707], is given authority similar to that provided by § 518 of National Housing Act (12 USCS § 1715u) authorizing Administrator [now Secretary], in his discretion, to extend aid to distressed homeowners who discover defects in property purchased with Guaranteed Loan after relying on agency construction standards. Potnick v United States (1973, ND Miss) 356 F Supp 395

3. Remedies

Sole remedy for houseowner complaining of structural defects in house purchased with Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] Guaranteed Loan is to seek discretionary aid of Administrator's [now Secretary's] office under 38 USCS § 1827 [now 38 USCS § 3727] and he is not entitled to seek relief in federal court under "sue and be sued" provision of 38 USCS § 1820 [now 38 USCS § 3720]. Potnick v United States (1973, ND Miss) 356 F Supp 395 § 3728. Exemption from State anti-usury provisions.

If, under any law of the United States, loans and mortgages insured under title I or title II of the National Housing Act are exempt from the application of the provisions of any State constitution or law (1) limiting the rate or amount of interest, discount points, or other charges which may be charged, taken, received, or reserved by lenders, (2) restricting the manner of calculating such interest (including prohibition of the charging of interest on interest), or (3) requiring a minimum amortization of principal, then loans guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] are also exempt from the application of such provisions.

2. Mobile home financing contracts

1. Generally

Arkansas constitutional amendment concerning maximum legal rate of interest did not override FHA/VA pre-emption provisions since it specifically stated that its provisions were not intended nor should they be deemed to supersede or otherwise invalidate any provisions of federal law applicable to loans or interest rates including loans secured by residential real property. Burris v First Financial Corp. (1991, CA8 Ark) 928 F.2d 797, cert den (1991) 502 US 867, 116 L Ed 2d 155, 112 S Ct 195

2. Mobile home financing contracts

State override federal pre-emption statutes (12 USCS § 1735f-7a, and 38 USCS § 1828 [now 38 USCS § 3728]), that allow exemption from state usury laws for mobile home financing contracts, when state amended its own usury limit on mobile home transactions even though state amendments did not refer to either of the federal usury pre-emption statutes nor to loans insured by the FHA and VA, since state which re-enacts or raises its usury limit on particular class of loans overrides FHA, and VA usury pre-emption statutes for that type of loan in absence of statement to the contrary. Doyle v Southern Guaranty Corp. (1986, CA11 Ga) 795 F.2d 907

Lender who complies with 12 USCS § 1735f-7 and 38 USCS § 1828 [now 38 USCS § 3728], federal statutes exempting lenders from state usury laws on mobile home retail installment contracts, need not also comply with Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act (12 USCS § 1735f-7a) in order to exempt itself from state usury limits, notwithstanding that DIDMCA encompasses federal mobile home loans and overlaps with federal state usury exemption statutes since dual coverage does not nullify preemptions as applied to mobile home loans. Doyle v Southern Guaranty Corp. (1986, CA11 Ga) 795 F.2d 907

Interest charged installment buyers of mobile homes through program for veterans was not usurious under 38 USCS § 1828 [now 38 USCS § 3728], where state constitutional limitation on interest rates cited by buyers specified that it did not "supersede or otherwise invalidate" interest rates under federal programs. § 3729. Loan fee

(a) Requirement of fee.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (c), a fee shall be collected from each person obtaining a housing loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], and each person assuming a loan to which section 3714 of this title [38 USCS § 3714] applies. No such loan may be guaranteed, insured, made, or assumed until the fee payable under this section has been remitted to the Secretary.

(2) The fee may be included in the loan and paid from the proceeds thereof.

(b) Determination of fee.

(1) The amount of the fee shall be determined from the loan fee table in paragraph (2). The fee is expressed as a percentage of the total amount of the loan guaranteed,

The amount of the fee shall be one percent of the total loan amount. The amount of the fee may be included in the loan and paid from the proceeds thereof.

"(b) A fee may not be collected under this section from a veteran who is receiving compensation (or who but for the receipt of retirement pay would be entitled to receive compensation) or from a surviving spouse of any veteran (including a person who died in the active military, naval, or air service) who died from a service-connected disability."

§ 3731. Appraisals

(a) The Secretary shall--

(1) subject to subsection (b)(2) and in consultation with appropriate representatives of institutions which are regularly engaged in making housing loans, prescribe uniform qualifications for appraisers, including the successful completion of a written test, submission of a sample appraisal, certification of an appropriate number of years of experience as an appraiser, and submission of recommendations from other appraisers:

(2) use such qualifications in determining whether to approve an appraiser to make appraisals of the reasonable value of any property, construction, repairs, or alterations for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]; and

(3) in consultation with local representatives of institutions described in clause (1) of this subsection, develop and maintain lists of appraisers who are approved under clause (2) of this subsection to make appraisals for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(b) (1) The Secretary shall select appraisers from a list required by subsection (a)(3) of this section on a rotating basis to make appraisals for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(2) If uniform qualifications become applicable for appraisers who perform appraisals for or in connection with the Federal Government, the qualifications required by subsection (a)(1) of this section may be more stringent than such uniform qualifications, but the Secretary may use no written test in determining the qualifications of appraisers other than the test prescribed to implement such uniform qualifications.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (f) of this section, the appraiser shall forward an appraisal report to the Secretary for review. Upon receipt of such report, the Secretary shall determine the reasonable value of the property, construction, repairs, or alterations for purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], and notify the veteran of such determination. Upon request, the Secretary shall furnish a copy of the appraisal made of property for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] to the lender proposing to make the loan which is to be secured by such property and is to be guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(d) If a lender (other than a lender authorized under subsection (f) of this section to determine reasonable value--

(1) has proposed to make a loan to be guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.],
(2) has been furnished a certificate of reasonable value of any property or of any construction, repairs, or alterations of property which is to be the security for such loan, and
(3) within a reasonable period prescribed by the Secretary, has furnished to the Secretary an additional appraisal of the reasonable value of such property, construction, repairs, or alterations which was made by an appraiser selected by the lender from the list required by subsection (a)(3) of this section, the Secretary shall consider both the initial appraisal and the additional appraisal and shall, if appropriate, issue a revised certificate of reasonable value of such property, construction, repairs, or alterations.

(e) (1) In no case may a veteran be required to pay all or any portion of the cost of the additional appraisal described in subsection (d)(3) of this section.
(2) If a veteran, within a reasonable period prescribed by the Secretary, has furnished to the Secretary an additional appraisal of the reasonable value of such property, construction, repairs, or alterations which was made by an appraiser selected by the veteran from the list required by subsection (a)(3) of this section, the Secretary shall consider such appraisal, along with other appraisals furnished to the Secretary, and shall, if appropriate, issue a revised certificate of reasonable value of such property, construction, repairs, or alterations.

(f) (1) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (2) and (3) of this subsection, the Secretary may, in accordance with standards and procedures established in regulations prescribed by the Secretary, authorize a lender to determine the reasonable value of property for the purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] if the lender is authorized to make loans which are automatically guaranteed under section 3702(d) of this title [38 USCS § 3702(d)]. In such a case, the appraiser selected by the Secretary pursuant to subsection (b) of this section shall submit the appraisal report directly to the lender for review, and the lender shall, as soon as possible thereafter, furnish a copy of the appraisal to the veteran who is applying for the loan concerned and to the Secretary.
(2) In exercising the authority provided in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the Secretary shall assign a sufficient number of personnel to carry out an appraisal-review system to monitor, on at least a random-sampling basis, the making of appraisals by appraisers and the effectiveness and the efficiency of the determination of reasonable value of property by lenders.

§ 3732. Procedure on default
(a) (1) In the event of default in the payment of any loan guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], the holder of the obligation shall notify the Secretary of such default. Upon receipt of such notice, the Secretary may, subject to subsection (c) of this section, pay to such holder the guaranty not in excess of the pro rata portion of the amount originally guaranteed. Except as provided in section 3703(e) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(e)], if the Secretary makes such a payment, the Secretary shall be subrogated to the rights of the holder of the obligation to the extent of the amount paid on the guaranty.

(2) Before suit or foreclosure the holder of the obligation shall notify the Secretary of the default, and within thirty days thereafter the Secretary may, at the Secretary's option, pay the holder of the obligation the unpaid balance of the obligation plus accrued interest and receive an assignment of the loan and security. Nothing in this section shall preclude any forbearance for the benefit of the veteran as may be agreed upon by the parties to the loan and approved by the Secretary.

(3) The Secretary may establish the date, not later than the date of judgment and decree of foreclosure or sale, upon which accrual of interest or charges shall cease.

(4) (A) Upon receiving a notice pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection, the Secretary shall--

(i) provide the veteran with information and, to the extent feasible, counseling regarding--

(I) alternatives to foreclosure, as appropriate in light of the veteran's particular circumstances, including possible methods of curing the default, conveyance of the property to the Secretary by means of a deed in lieu of foreclosure, and the actions authorized by paragraph (2) of this subsection; and

(II) what the Department of Veterans Affairs' and the veteran's liabilities would be with respect to the loan in the event of foreclosure; and

(ii) advise the veteran regarding the availability of such counseling; except with respect to loans made by a lender which the Secretary has determined has a demonstrated record of consistently providing timely and accurate information to veterans with respect to such matters.

(B) The Secretary shall, to the extent of the availability of appropriations, ensure that sufficient personnel are available to administer subparagraph (A) of this paragraph effectively and efficiently.

(5) In the event of default in the payment of any loan guaranteed or insured under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] in which a partial payment has been tendered by the veteran concerned and refused by the holder, the holder of the obligation shall notify the Secretary as soon as such payment has been refused. The Secretary may require that any such notification include a statement of the circumstances of the default, the amount tendered, the amount of the indebtedness on the date of the tender, and the reasons for the holder's refusal.

(b) With respect to any loan made under section 3711 [38 USCS § 3711] which has not been sold as provided in subsection (g) of such section, if the Secretary finds, after there has been a default in the payment of any installment of principal or interest owing on such loan, that the default was due to the fact that the veteran who is obligated under the loan has become unemployed as the result of the closing (in whole or in part) of a Federal installation, the Secretary shall (1) extend the time for curing the default to such time as the Secretary determines is necessary and desirable to enable such veteran to complete payments on such loan, including an extension of time beyond the stated maturity thereof, or (2) modify the terms of such loan for the purpose of changing the amortization provisions thereof by recasting, over the remaining term of the loan, or over such longer period as the Secretary may determine, the total unpaid amount then due with the modification to become effective currently or upon the termination of an agreed-upon extension of the period for curing the default.

(c) (1) For purposes of this subsection--
   (A) The term "defaulted loan" means a loan that is guaranteed under this chapter
   [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.], that was made for a purpose described in section 3710(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)], and that is in default.
   (B) The term "liquidation sale" means a judicial sale or other disposition of real property to liquidate a defaulted loan that is secured by such property.
   (C) The term "net value", with respect to real property, means the amount equal to
   (i) the fair market value of the property, minus (ii) the total of the amounts which the Secretary estimates the Secretary would incur (if the Secretary were to acquire and dispose of the property) for property taxes, assessments, liens, property maintenance, property improvement, administration, resale (including losses sustained on the resale of the property), and other costs resulting from the acquisition and disposition of the property, excluding any amount attributed to the cost to the Government of borrowing funds.
   (D) Except as provided in subparagraph (D) of paragraph (10) of this subsection, the term "total indebtedness", with respect to a defaulted loan, means the amount equal to the total of (i) the unpaid principal of the loan, (ii) the interest on the loan as of the date applicable under paragraph (10) of this subsection, and (iii) such reasonably necessary and proper charges (as specified in the loan instrument and permitted by regulations prescribed by the Secretary to implement this subsection) associated with liquidation of the loan, including advances for taxes, insurance, and maintenance or repair of the real property securing the loan.

   (2) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, this subsection applies to any case in which the holder of a defaulted loan undertakes to liquidate the loan by means of a liquidation sale.
   (B) This subsection does not apply to a case in which the Secretary proceeds under subsection (a)(2) of this section.

   (3) (A) Before carrying out a liquidation sale of real property securing a defaulted loan, the holder of the loan shall notify the Secretary of the proposed sale. Such notice shall be provided in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary to implement this subsection.
   (B) After receiving a notice described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the Secretary shall determine the net value of the property securing the loan and the amount of the total indebtedness under the loan and shall notify the holder of the loan of the determination of such net value.

   (4) A case referred to in paragraphs (5), (6), and (7) of this subsection as being described in this paragraph is a case in which the net value of the property securing a defaulted loan exceeds the amount of the total indebtedness under the loan minus the amount guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(5) In a case described in paragraph (4) of this subsection, if the holder of the defaulted loan acquires the property securing the loan at a liquidation sale for an amount that does not exceed the lesser of the net value of the property or the total indebtedness under the loan--

(A) the holder shall have the option to convey the property to the United States in return for payment by the Secretary of an amount equal to the lesser of such net value or total indebtedness; and

(B) the liability of the United States under the loan guaranty under this chapter [18 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall be limited to the amount of such total indebtedness minus the net value of the property.

(6) In a case described in paragraph (4) of this subsection, if the holder of the defaulted loan does not acquire the property securing the loan at the liquidation sale, the liability of the United States under the loan guaranty under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] shall be limited to the amount equal to (A) the amount of such total indebtedness, minus (B) the amount realized by the holder incident to the sale or the net value of the property, whichever is greater.

(7) In a case described in paragraph (4) of this subsection, if the holder of the defaulted loan acquires the property securing the loan at the liquidation sale for an amount that exceeds the lesser of the total indebtedness under the loan or the net value and--

(A) (i) the amount was the minimum amount for which, under applicable State law, the property was permitted to be sold at the liquidation sale, the holder shall have the option to convey the property to the United States in return for payment by the Secretary of an amount equal to the lesser of the amount for which the holder acquired the property or the total indebtedness under the loan; or

(ii) there was no minimum amount for which the property had to be sold at the liquidation sale under applicable State law, the holder shall have the option to convey the property to the United States in return for payment by the Secretary of an amount equal to the lesser of such net value or total indebtedness; and

(B) the liability of the United States under the loan guaranty under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] is as provided in paragraph (6) of this subsection.

(8) If the net value of the property securing a defaulted loan is not greater than the amount of the total indebtedness under the loan minus the amount guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]--

(A) the Secretary may not accept conveyance of the property from the holder of the loan; and

(B) the liability of the United States under the loan guaranty shall be limited to the amount of the total indebtedness under the loan minus the amount realized by the holder of the loan incident to the sale at a liquidation sale of the property.

(9) In no event may the liability of the United States under a guaranteed loan exceed the amount guaranteed with respect to that loan under section 3703(b) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(b)]. All determinations under this subsection of net value and total indebtedness shall be made by the Secretary.
(A) Except as provided in subparagraphs (B) and (C) of this paragraph, the date referred to in paragraph (1)(D)(ii) of this subsection shall be the date of the liquidation sale of the property securing the loan or such earlier date following the expiration of a reasonable period of time for such sale to occur as the Secretary may specify pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Secretary to implement this subsection.

(B) (i) Subject to division (ii) of this subparagraph, in any case in which there is a substantial delay in such sale caused by the holder of the loan exercising forebearance at the request of the Secretary, the date referred to in paragraph (1)(D)(ii) of this subsection shall be such date, on or after the date on which forebearance was requested and prior to the date of such sale, as the Secretary specifies pursuant to regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe to implement this paragraph.

(ii) The Secretary may specify a date under subdivision (i) of this subparagraph only if, based on the use of a date so specified for the purposes of such paragraph (1)(D)(ii), the Secretary is authorized, under paragraph (5)(A) or (7)(A) of this subsection, to accept conveyance of the property.

(C) In any case in which there is an excessive delay in such liquidation sale caused--

(i) by the Department of Veterans Affairs (including any delay caused by its failure to provide bidding instructions in a timely fashion); or the date referred to in paragraph (1)(D)(ii) of this subsection shall be a date, earlier than the date of such liquidation sale, which the Secretary specifies pursuant to regulations which the Secretary shall prescribe to implement this paragraph.

(ii) by a voluntary case commenced under title 11, United States Code (relating to bankruptcy);

(D) For the purpose of determining the liability of the United States under a loan guaranty under paragraphs (5)(B), (6), (7)(B), and (8)(B), the amount of the total indebtedness with respect to such loan guaranty shall include, in any case in which there was an excessive delay caused by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the liquidation sale of the property securing such loan, any interest which had accrued as of the date of such sale and which would not be included, except for this subparagraph, in the calculation of such total indebtedness as a result of the specification of an earlier date under subparagraph (C)(i) of this paragraph.

(11) This subsection shall apply to loans closed before October 1, 2012.

2. Rights of government on default, generally

Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] was not entitled to reduce indebtedness to plaintiff mortgage lender by larger amount mistakenly bid by plaintiff at first foreclosure sale which was later voided for mistake, instead of by smaller amount successfully bid by plaintiff at later valid sale, where (1) mistake resulted in part from failure of agency to comply with its own established procedures, upon which plaintiff relied; (2) agency derived benefits from second sale; and (3) agency suffered no harm or prejudice through correction of initial error. Mortgage Assocs. v Cleland (1981, CA7 Ill) 653 F.2d 1144

Foreclosure of guaranteed mortgage and sale of mortgaged property under execution did not bar action by United States to recover from veteran amounts which government was required to pay to lender. United States v Henderson (1953, DC Iowa) 121 F Supp 343

In asserting debt against veteran who had sold property to third party who then defaulted on assumed home loan, Board was required to make determination on validity of asserted debt and question of validity of asserted debt, when challenged, was issue that must be determined by Board in deciding on waiver-of-indebtedness application. 3. Indemnification

Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (predecessor to 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.), as amended, gave direct right of indemnity, independent of subrogation rights, to Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] against veteran, upon proper payment by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] of its obligations as guarantor of mortgage loan of veteran. United States v Shimer (1961) 367 US 374, 6 L Ed 2d 908, 81 S Ct 1554

Although VA had no subrogation rights against veterans who defaulted on their VA-guaranteed home loans because lenders failed to secure deficiency judgments under state law to preserve rights against veterans to which VA could later be subrogated, VA had independent contractual right of indemnity against veterans for amount of guarantee paid to lenders since indemnification right is governed entirely by federal law and unaffected by state deficiency judgment requirements. Dixon v United States (1995, CA10 Okla) 68 F.3d 1253, CCH Bankr L Rptr ¶ 76679, cert den (1996) 517 US 1167, 134 L Ed 2d 665, 116 S Ct 1566

5. Setoff against benefits

Amounts paid pursuant to loan guaranty and not recouped from property pledged were recoverable from veteran's pension or insurance payments, unless Administrator [now Secretary] in his discretion determined that veteran was not at fault and that such recovery would defeat purposes of such benefits otherwise payable or would be inequitable; however, benefits payable to veteran's widow or dependents from pension or from any insurance payable to beneficiary after death are not subject to recovery. 1944 ADVA 607

Administrator [now Secretary] was entitled to offset benefits otherwise payable to unremarried widow of serviceman killed in action in World War II and her minor children against proceeds paid on loan guaranteed under Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. 6. Determination of amount guaranteed

Absent irregularity or fraud material to rights of Government, method of computing amount payable under loan guaranty certificate issued pursuant to Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. [now 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]) was same whether claim was made before or after foreclosure sale of encumbered property securing guaranteed loan, and was equal to amount due as percentage of loan guaranty reduced by proceeds of foreclosure sale. 1946 ADVA 690

7. Recovery of interest on indebtedness

Obligor on loan guaranteed or insured under Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (38 USCS §§ 1801 et seq. [now 38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.]) was liable to Administrator [now Secretary] for payment of interest on indebtedness resulting from payment of guaranty or insurance claim, and liability included interest which accrued against obligor after payment of claim as well as interest which accrued on original guaranteed debt and which therefore constituted part of amount paid on claim. 1949 ADVA 825

Holder of insured loan in default was entitled to deduct amount equal to interest on unpaid indebtedness for period between cut-off date and date of receipt of payments from or on behalf of debtor received subsequent to cut-off date and before payment of insurance claim upon such loan. 1950 ADVA 839

Agency's obligation to acquire property held by lender who held defaulted loan was purely statutory, not contractual one entitling lender to seek interest under Prompt Payment Act (31 USCS §§ 3901-3907). New York Guardian Mortg. Corp. v United States (1990, CA) 916 F.2d 1558

8. Notice of default and foreclosure to veteran

Veterans' challenge to Veterans Administration's exercise of indemnity rights after foreclosure on property based on veterans' failure to pay VA mortgages is dismissed, where VA followed state nonjudicial foreclosure procedure, and provided veterans with general notice that mortgage was in default and that foreclosure was possible, without providing specific notice of time and place of foreclosure because VA notices and regulations are sufficient to satisfy due process rights of veterans. Vail v Brown (1994, DC Minn) 841 F Supp 909, affd (1994, CA8 Minn) 39 F.3d 208, cert den (1995) 515 US 1102, 132 L Ed 2d 254, 115 S Ct 2245

Veteran's loan guarantee indebtedness was valid, notwithstanding veteran's claim that he did not receive notice of transferee's default and subsequent foreclosure, since record demonstrated that VA followed appropriate guidelines to notify appellant of default and impending foreclosure; letter was addressed to appellant's correct address and was not returned undelivered and contained requisite information. East v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 34

9. Miscellaneous

In suit by homeowner of guaranteed home loan against Veterans Administration [now Department] and private lender for relief against foreclosure of home loan, under former 38 USCS § 1816, when veteran borrower is in default on his guaranteed home loan, agency could refund to lender unpaid balance of obligation and receive assignment of loan and security thus putting agency in position to grant forbearance to borrower; refusal by VA to take such action in case at bar did not constitute abuse of discretion. Rank v Nimmo (1982, CA9 Cal) 677 F.2d 692, cert den (1982) 459 US 907, 74 L Ed 2d 168, 103 S Ct 210

Mortgagor had no right of action in federal court against Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] to enforce duties relative to insured home mortgage; thus, action brought by mortgagors to defend against foreclosure actions brought against them and their residences for being in default on mortgage must be dismissed where mortgagors alleged agency failed to monitor properly lenders' servicing of their mortgage loans prior to foreclosure and failed to provide supplemental servicing of loans by offering mortgagors opportunity to refund and assign their mortgages to agency, thus avoiding foreclosure following default. First Family Mortg. Corp. v Earnest (1988, CA6 Ohio) 851 F.2d 843

Indebtedness of veteran arising from default upon loan guaranteed by United States was subject to bankruptcy, assuming proper procedure was followed, and withholding of other benefits due veteran by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] to satisfy such claim was in effect legal set off prohibited by bankruptcy laws. 1950 ADVA 850-A

VA was under no obligation to provide counseling to veteran before foreclosure pursuant to 38 USCS § 3732(a)(4) since effective date of § 3732 was prospectively set for one year after date of foreclosure on veteran's house, and argument that duty to counsel applies retroactively is without merit because duty to assist applies to development of evidence and only attaches once claim has been well grounded; in months preceding foreclosure, veteran had no claim, much less well grounded claim, for debt waiver or other VA benefit. Berotti v West (1998) 11 Vet App 194

§ 3733. Property management

(a) (1) Of the number of purchases made during any fiscal year of real property acquired by the Secretary as the result of a default on a loan guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.] for a purpose described in section 3710(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(a)], not more than 65 percent, nor less than 50 percent, of such purchases may be financed by a loan made by the Secretary. The maximum percentage stated in the preceding sentence may be increased to 80 percent for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that such an increase is necessary in order to maintain the effective functioning of the loan guaranty program.

(2) After September 30, 1990, the percentage limitations described in paragraph (1) of this subsection shall have no effect.

(3) The Secretary may, beginning on October 1, 1990, sell any note evidencing a loan referred to in paragraph (1)--

(A) with recourse; or

(B) without recourse, but only if the amount received is equal to an amount which is not less than the unpaid balance of such loan.

(4) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the amount of a loan made by the Secretary to finance the purchase of real property from the Secretary described in paragraph (1) may not exceed an amount equal to 95 percent of the purchase price of such real property.
(B) (i) The Secretary may waive the provisions of subparagraph (A) in the case of any loan described in paragraph (5).

(ii) A loan described in subparagraph (A) may, to the extent the Secretary determines to be necessary in order to market competitively the property involved, exceed 95 percent of the purchase price.

(5) The Secretary may include, as part of a loan to finance a purchase of real property from the Secretary described in paragraph (1), an amount to be used only for the purpose of rehabilitating such property. Such amount may not exceed the amount necessary to rehabilitate the property to a habitable state, and payments shall be made available periodically as such rehabilitation is completed.

(6) The Secretary shall make a loan to finance the sale of real property described in paragraph (1) at an interest rate that is lower than the prevailing mortgage market interest rate in areas where, and to the extent, the Secretary determines, in light of prevailing conditions in the real estate market involved, that such lower interest rate is necessary in order to market the property competitively and is in the interest of the long-term stability and solvency of the Veterans Housing Benefit Program Fund established by section 3722(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3722(a)].

(7) During the period that begins on December 16, 2003 and ends on September 30, 2013, the Secretary shall carry out the provisions of this subsection as if--

(A) the references in the first sentence of paragraph (1) to "65 percent" and "may be financed" were references to "85 percent" and "shall be financed", respectively;

(B) the second sentence of paragraph (1) were repealed; and

(C) the reference in paragraph (2) to "September 30, 1990," were a reference to "September 30, 2013,".

(b) The Secretary may not make a loan to finance a purchase of property acquired by the Secretary as a result of a default on a loan guaranteed under this chapter unless the purchaser meets the credit underwriting standards established under section 3710(g)(2)(A) of this title [38 USCS § 3710(g)(2)(A)].

(c) (1) The Secretary shall identify and compile information on common factors which the Secretary finds contribute to foreclosures on loans guaranteed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 3701 et seq.].

(2) The Secretary shall include a summary of the information compiled, and the Secretary's findings, under paragraph (1) in the annual report submitted to the Congress under section 529 of this title [38 USCS § 529]. As part of such summary and findings, the Secretary shall provide a separate analysis of the factors which contribute to foreclosures of loans which have been assumed.

(d) (1) The Secretary shall furnish to real estate brokers and other real estate sales professionals information on the availability of real property for disposition under this chapter and the procedures used by the Department of Veterans Affairs to dispose of such property.

(2) For the purpose of facilitating the most expeditious sale, at the highest possible price, of real property acquired by the Secretary as the result of a default on a loan guaranteed, insured, or made under this chapter, the Secretary shall list all such property with real estate brokers under such arrangements as the Secretary determines to be most appropriate and cost effective.

Amendments:

1984. Act July 18, 1984 (effective 10/1/1984, as provided by § 2512(c) of such Act, which appears as 38 USCS § 3732 note), added subsec. (d).

1987. Act Oct. 16, 1987 substituted subsec. (d)(3) for one which read: "Notes securing such loans may be sold with recourse only to the extent that the Administrator determines that selling such notes with recourse is necessary in order to maintain the effective functioning of the loan guaranty program under this chapter.".

Act Dec. 21, 1987 (effective 10/1/87, as provided by § 6(a)(2) of such Act, in subsec. (d)(1), substituted "not more than 65 percent, nor less than 50 percent," for "not more than 75 percent, nor less than 60 percent,"

Such Act further (applicable as provided by § 6(b)(2) of such Act, which appears as a note to this section), in subsec. (d), added paras. (4)-(6).

Act Dec. 22, 1987, purported to amend subsec. (d)(1) of § 1816 by substituting "not more than 65 percent, nor less than 50 percent," for "not more than 75 percent nor less than 60 percent,". However, such amendment could not be executed as it was already effected by Act Dec. 21, 1987, P. L. 100-198.

Such Act further amended subsec. (d) of § 1816, by redesignating para. (3) as para. (2)(C), in para. (2)(C) as so redesignated, in the introductory matter, substituted "Beginning on October 1, 1989, the Administrator may sell any note evidencing" for "The Administrator may sell any note securing", redesignated cls. (A) and (B) as cls. (i) and (ii), respectively, and added a new para. (3).

Act Dec. 18, 1989, in subsec. (a)(6), substituted "December 31" for "October 1".

Such Act further, substituted "Secretary" for "Administrator", and "Department of Veterans Affairs" for "Veterans' Administration", wherever appearing, in the entire section.

Act Dec. 19, 1989, in subsec. (a)(3), in the introductory matter of subparas. (A), (B), and (C), substituted "October 1, 1990" for "October 1, 1989".

Section 5003(a) of such Act (applicable as provided by § 5003(b) of such Act, which appears as a note to this section) purported to add a subsec. (e), but such amendment was not executed because such subsec. (e) was identical to that added by Act Dec. 18, 1989.

1991. Act June 13, 1991, in subsec. (a), substituted paras. (2) and (3) for ones which read:
"(2) In carrying out paragraph (1) of this subsection, the Secretary, to the maximum extent consistent with that paragraph and with maintaining the effective functioning of the loan guaranty program under this chapter shall minimize the number of loans made by the Secretary to finance purchases of real property from the Secretary described in that paragraph.

"(3)(A) Before October 1, 1990, notes evidencing such loans may be sold with or without recourse as determined by the Secretary, with respect to specific proposed sales of such notes, to be in the best interest of the effective functioning of the loan guaranty program under this chapter, taking into consideration the comparative cost-effectiveness of each type of sale. In comparing the cost-effectiveness of conducting a proposed sale of such notes with recourse or without recourse, the Secretary shall, based on available estimates regarding likely market conditions and other pertinent factors as of the time of the sale, determine and consider--

"(i) the average amount by which the selling price for such notes sold with recourse would exceed the selling price for such notes if sold without recourse; and

"(ii) the total cost of selling such notes with recourse, including--

"(I) any estimated discount or premium;

"(II) the projected cost, based on Department of Veterans Affairs experience with the sale of notes evidencing vendee loans with recourse and the quality of the loans evidenced by the notes to be sold, of repurchasing defaulted notes;

"(III) the total servicing cost with respect to repurchased notes, including the costs of taxes and insurance, collecting monthly payments, servicing delinquent accounts, and terminating insoluble loans;

"(IV) the costs of managing and disposing of properties acquired as the result of defaults on such notes;

"(V) the loss or gain on resale of such properties; and

"(VI) any other cost determined appropriate by the Secretary.

"(B) Not later than 60 days after making any sale described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph occurring before October 1, 1990, the Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report describing--

"(i) the application of the provisions of such subparagraph, and each of the determinations required thereunder, in the case of such sale;

"(ii) the results of the sale in comparison to the anticipated results; and

"(iii) actions taken by the Secretary to facilitate the marketing of the notes involved.

"(C) Beginning on October 1, 1990, the Secretary may sell any note evidencing such a loan--

"(i) with recourse; or

"(ii) without recourse but only if the amount received is equal to an amount which is not less than the unpaid balance of such loan.".
Such Act further, in subsec. (a), deleted para. (6), which read: "This subsection shall cease to have effect on December 31, 1990.", and redesignated para. (7) as new para. (6).

Such Act further, amended the directory language of Act May 20, 1988, P. L. 100-322, § 415(b)(5)(C).

Such Act further, purported to delete a subsec. (e) added by § 5003(a) of Act Dec. 19, 1989; however, the amendment was not executed since the addition of such subsec. (e) had not been executed. See the 1989 Amendment notes.

Act Aug. 6, 1991, redesignated this section, formerly 38 USCS § 1833, as 38 USCS § 3733, amended the references in this section to reflect the redesignations made by § 5(a) of such Act (see Table III preceding 38 USCS § 101); and, in subsec. (c), in para. (2), substituted "section 529" for "section 214".

1992. Act May 20, 1992, in subsec. (e), in the introductory matter, inserted ", and the amount received from the sale of securities under section 3720(h) of this title,".

1998. Act Nov. 11, 1998 (effective on 10/1/98, as provided by § 602(f) of such Act, which appears as 38 USCS § 2106 note), in subsec. (a)(6), substituted "Veterans Housing Benefit Program Fund established by section 3722(a)" for "Department of Veterans Affairs Loan Guaranty Revolving Fund established by section 3724(a)"; and deleted subsec. (e), which read:

"(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the amount received from the sale of any note evidencing a loan secured by real property described in subsection (a)(1) of this section, and the amount received from the sale of securities under section 3720(h) of this title, shall be credited, without any reduction and for the fiscal year in which the amount is received, as offsetting collections of--

"(1) the revolving fund for which a fee under section 3729 of this title was collected (or was exempted from being collected) at the time of the original guaranty of the loan that was secured by the same property; or

"(2) in any case in which there was no requirement of (or exemption from) a fee at the time of the original guaranty of the loan that was secured by the same property, the Loan Guaranty Revolving Fund; and the total so credited to any revolving fund for a fiscal year shall offset outlays attributed to such revolving fund during such fiscal year.".

2003. Act Dec. 16, 2003, in subsec. (a), in para. (4), in subpara. (A), deleted "of this paragraph" following "subparagraph (B)", and deleted "of this subsection" following "paragraph (1)", and, in subpara. (B), in cl. (i), deleted "of this paragraph" following "subparagraph (A)", and deleted "of this subsection" following "paragraph (5)", and, in cl. Nonjudicial foreclosure sale of VA-owned home by homeowners association owed past-due fees is void, where federal law governs determination of whether title to land owned by U.S. has passed to another party under Property and Supremacy Clauses, because purpose of VA Home Loan Guaranty Program is to permit otherwise ineligible veterans to own homes, policy under 38 USCS § 3733(d) is to sell acquired properties for highest price as quickly as possible and to return funds to Veterans Housing Benefit Program Fund, and permitting foreclosure due to unnoticed, unpaid association fees would run counter to federal law. 77 Am Jur 2d, Veterans and Veterans' Laws § 119

§ 3742. Small business loan program

(a) (1) Subject to subsection (b) of this section, the Secretary may provide financial assistance to veterans' small business concerns for the purpose of (A) financing plant construction, conversion, or expansion (including the acquisition of land), (B) financing the acquisition of equipment, facilities, machinery, supplies, or materials, or (C) supplying such concerns with working capital.

(2) Subject to paragraph (3)(A) of this subsection, financial assistance under this section may be provided in the form of (A) loan guaranties, or (B) direct loans.

(3) The Secretary shall specify in regulations the criteria to be met for a business concern to qualify as a veterans' small business concern for the purposes of this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.]. Such regulations shall include requirements--
(A) that at least 51 percent of a business concern must be owned by individuals who are veterans of the Vietnam era or disabled veterans in order for such concern to qualify for a loan guaranty and that at least 51 percent of a business concern must be owned by disabled veterans in order for such concern to qualify for a direct loan; and

(B) that the management and daily business operations of the concern must be directed by one or more of the veterans whose ownership interest is part of the majority ownership for the purposes of meeting the requirement in clause (A) of this paragraph.

(b) The availability of financial assistance under subsection (a) of this section is subject to the following limitations:

(1) The Secretary may not make a direct loan under this section unless the veterans' small business concern applying for the loan shows to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the concern is unable to obtain a loan guaranteed by the Department under this section or made or guaranteed by the Small Business Administration.

(2) The Secretary may not guarantee a loan under this section if the loan bears a rate of interest in excess of the maximum rate of interest prescribed under section 3745 of this title [38 USCS § 3745].

(3) The Secretary may not make or guarantee a loan under this section for an amount in excess of $200,000.

(4) The original liability of the Secretary on any loan guaranteed under this section may not exceed 90 percent of the amount of the loan, and such liability shall decrease or increase pro rata with any decrease or increase of the amount of the unpaid portion of the loan, but such liability may not exceed the amount of the original guaranty.

(c) Each loan made or guaranteed under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.] shall be of such sound value, taking into account the creditworthiness of the veterans' small business concern (and the individual owners) applying for such loan, or so secured as reasonably to assure payment.

(d) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, the Secretary may not make or guarantee a loan under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.] to a veterans' small business concern in which an ownership interest is held by a veteran who also has an ownership interest in another small business concern if such ownership interest was considered in qualifying that other concern for an outstanding loan made or guaranteed under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.] or the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.).

(2) Paragraph (1) of this subsection shall not apply if 51 percent or more of the business concern seeking a direct or guaranteed loan under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.] is owned by veterans of the Vietnam era or disabled veterans without including the ownership interest of the veteran whose ownership interest in another small business concern was previously considered in qualifying that other concern for an outstanding guaranteed or direct business loan under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.] or the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.).

(e) (1) In order to protect the interest of the United States, upon application by a veterans' small business concern which is the recipient of a loan guaranteed under this subchapter
[38 USCS §§ 3741 et seq.], the Secretary (subject to the provisions of this subsection) may undertake the veterans' small business concern's obligation to make payments under such loan or, if the loan was a direct loan made by the Secretary, may suspend such obligation. While such payments are being made by the Secretary pursuant to the undertaking of such obligation or while such obligation is suspended, no such payment with respect to the loan may be required from the concern.

(2) The Secretary may undertake or suspend a veterans' small business concern's obligation under this subsection only if--

(A) such undertaking or suspension of the obligation is, in the judgment of the Secretary, necessary to protect the interest of the United States;
(B) with the undertaking or suspension of the obligation, the small business concern would, in the judgment of the Secretary, become or remain a viable small business entity; and
(C) the small business concern executes an agreement in writing satisfactory to the Secretary as provided by paragraph (4) of this subsection.

(3) The period of time for which the Secretary undertakes or suspends the obligation on a loan under this subsection may not exceed five years. The Secretary may extend the maturity of any loan on which the Secretary undertakes or suspends the obligation under this subsection for a corresponding period of time.

(4) (A) Before the Secretary may undertake or suspend a veterans' small business concern's obligation under this subsection, the Secretary shall require the small business concern to execute an agreement to repay the aggregate amount of the payments which were required under the loan during the period for which the obligation was undertaken or suspended--

(i) by periodic payments not less in amount or less frequently falling due than those which were due under the loan during such period,
(ii) pursuant to a repayment schedule agreed upon by the Secretary and the small business concern, or
(iii) by a combination of the method of payments described in clauses (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph.

(B) In addition to requiring the small business concern to execute the agreement described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the Secretary shall, before the undertaking or suspension of the obligation, take such action and require the small business concern to take such action as the Secretary considers appropriate in the circumstances, including the provision of such security as the Secretary considers necessary or appropriate, to assure that the rights and interests of the United States and any lender will be safeguarded adequately during and after the period in which such obligation is so undertaken or suspended.

§ 3762. Direct housing loans to Native American veterans; program administration

(a) The Secretary may make a direct housing loan to a Native American veteran under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.] if--

(1) (A) the Secretary has entered into a memorandum of understanding with respect to such loans with the tribal organization that has jurisdiction over the veteran; or

(B) the tribal organization that has jurisdiction over the veteran has entered into a memorandum of understanding with any department or agency of the United States with respect to direct housing loans to Native Americans that the Secretary determines substantially complies with the requirements of subsection (b); and

(2) the memorandum is in effect when the loan is made.

(b) (1) Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary shall ensure that each memorandum of understanding that the Secretary enters into with a tribal organization shall provide for the following:

(A) That each Native American veteran who is under the jurisdiction of the tribal organization and to whom the Secretary makes a direct loan under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.]--

(i) holds, possesses, or purchases using the proceeds of the loan a meaningful interest in a lot or dwelling (or both) that is located on trust land; and

(ii) will purchase, construct, or improve (as the case may be) a dwelling on the lot using the proceeds of the loan.

(B) That each such Native American veteran will convey to the Secretary by an appropriate instrument the interest referred to in subparagraph (A) as security for a direct housing loan under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.].

(C) That the tribal organization and each such Native American veteran will permit the Secretary to enter upon the trust land of that organization or veteran for the purposes of carrying out such actions as the Secretary determines are necessary--

(i) to evaluate the advisability of the loan; and

(ii) to monitor any purchase, construction, or improvements carried out using the proceeds of the loan.

(D) That the tribal organization has established standards and procedures that apply to the foreclosure of the interest conveyed by a Native American veteran pursuant to subparagraph (B), including--

(i) procedures for foreclosing the interest; and
(ii) procedures for the resale of the lot or the dwelling (or both) purchased, constructed, or improved using the proceeds of the loan.

(E) That the tribal organization agrees to such other terms and conditions with respect to the making of direct loans to Native American veterans under the jurisdiction of the tribal organization as the Secretary may require in order to ensure that loans under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.] are made in a responsible and prudent manner.

(2) The Secretary may not enter into a memorandum of understanding with a tribal organization under this subsection unless the Secretary determines that the memorandum provides for such standards and procedures as are necessary for the reasonable protection of the financial interests of the United States.

(c) (1) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the principal amount of any direct housing loan made to a Native American veteran under this section may not exceed $80,000.

(B) (i) Subject to clause (ii), the Secretary may make loans exceeding the amount specified in subparagraph (A) in a geographic area if the Secretary determines that housing costs in the area are significantly higher than average housing costs nationwide. The amount of such increase shall be the amount that the Secretary determines is necessary in order to make direct housing loans under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.] to Native American veterans who are located in a variety of geographic areas and in geographic areas experiencing a variety of economic conditions.

(ii) The amount of a loan made by the Secretary under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.] may not exceed the maximum loan amount authorized for loans guaranteed under section 3703(a)(1)(C) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(a)(1)(C)].

(2) Loans made under this section shall bear interest at a rate determined by the Secretary, which rate may not exceed the appropriate rate authorized for guaranteed loans under section 3703(c)(1) or section 3712(f) of this title [38 USCS § 3703(c)(1) or 3712(f)], and shall be subject to such requirements or limitations prescribed for loans guaranteed under this title as the Secretary may prescribe.

(3) Notwithstanding section 3704(a) of this title [38 USCS § 3704(a)], the Secretary shall establish minimum requirements for planning, construction, improvement, and general acceptability relating to any direct loan made under this section.

(d) (1) The Secretary shall establish credit underwriting standards to be used in evaluating loans made under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 3761 et seq.]. In establishing such standards, the Secretary shall take into account the purpose of this program to make available housing to Native American veterans living on trust lands.

(2) The Secretary shall determine the reasonable value of the interest in property that will serve as security for a loan made under this section and shall establish procedures for appraisals upon which the Secretary may base such determinations. Sec. 2. The Secretary of Labor is hereby designated and empowered to exercise, without the approval, ratification, or other action of the President, the authority of the President under Section 2012 [now section 4212] of Title 38 of the United States Code.

Sec. 3. The Secretary of Labor shall gather information on the effectiveness of the program established under this order and Section 2012 [now section 4212] of Title 38 of the United States Code and of the extent to which the employment service system is fulfilling the employment needs of veterans. The Secretary of Labor shall, from time to time, report to the President concerning his evaluation of the effectiveness of this order along with his recommendations for further action which the Secretary believes to be appropriate.

Sec. 4. Appropriate departments and agencies shall, in consultation with the Secretary of Labor, issue such amendments or additions to procurement rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this order and Section 2012 [now section 4212] of Title 38 of the United States Code. Except as otherwise provided by law, all executive departments and agencies are directed to cooperate with the Secretary of Labor, to furnish the Secretary of Labor with such information and assistance as he may require in the performance of his functions under this order, and to comply with rules, regulations, and orders of the Secretary.

Sec. 5. Executive Order No. 11598 of June 16, 1971, is hereby superseded.

L. 97-306, Title III, § 310(b), 96 Stat. 1442, provides: "Within 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Labor shall prescribe regulations under subsection (d) of section 2012 of Title 38, United States Code [subsec. (d) of this section], as added by the amendment made by subsection (a).".

1. Generally
While there is no obligation to make unreasonable efforts to accommodate handicapped employees under 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212], more than "evenhanded approach" is required; to determine whether federal contractor has violated 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212] consideration should be given whether handicapped individual is qualified to perform job in question despite existence of handicap and, if not, whether employee could with reasonable employer accommodation perform that job or some other job for same employer, whether requirements stated in official job description match those actually required to perform job, size of contractor, number of employees in job category which handicapped individual seeks to enter, and whether contractor's overall work-force is expanding or shrinking in numbers. OFCCP Policy Directive 80-34, Sep. 30, 1980

Discrimination in employment practices against handicapped veterans includes discrimination in hiring, upgrading, demotion or transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertising, layoff or termination, rates of pay or other forms of compensation, and selection for training, including apprenticeships. OFCCP Order No. 720a1, April 5, 1982

2. Application
For purposes of federal contract compliance laws, University of North Carolina system is single state agency and non-contracting campuses therefore must submit to compliance reviews regardless of whether they are direct participants in any federal contract. Board of Governors of University of North Carolina v United States Dep't of Labor (1990, CA4 NC) 917 F.2d 812, 1 AD Cas 1704, 54 BNA FEP Cas 136, 135 BNA LRRM 2760, 36 CCF ¶ 75959, 55 CCH EPD ¶
Where 11 of 16 campuses in state university system had received federal contracts, campuses that did not enter contracts with federal government were nonetheless subject to affirmative action requirements of 29 USC § 793 and Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 (38 USC § 4212), since university system was single state agency of which non-contracting campuses were merely constituent parts. Board of Governors of University of North Carolina v United States Dep't of Labor (1990, CA4 NC) 917 F.2d 812, 1 AD Cas 1704, 54 BNA FEP Cas 136, 135 BNA LRRM 2760, 36 CCF ¶ 75959, 55 CCH EPD ¶ 40370, cert den (1991) 500 US 916, 114 L Ed 2d 100, 111 S Ct 2013, 55 BNA FEP Cas 1104, 56 CCH EPD ¶ 40801

Department of Labor's order canceling future government contracting with all University of North Carolina constituent institutions for failure of some institutions to comply with regulations implementing employment laws was not erroneous; both 29 USC § 793(a) and 38 USC § 2012 [now 38 USC § 4212], requiring affirmative action to employ handicapped and Vietnam veterans, apply to "parties contracting" with U.S., and for purposes of such laws the University of North Carolina system constitutes a single, unified state agency, and campuses which have not entered contracts with the federal government must, nonetheless, submit to compliance review. Board of Governors of University of North Carolina v United States Dep't of Labor (1990, CA4 NC) 917 F.2d 812, 1 AD Cas 1704, 54 BNA FEP Cas 136, 135 BNA LRRM 2760, 36 CCF ¶ 75959, 55 CCH EPD ¶ 40370, cert den (1991) 500 US 916, 114 L Ed 2d 100, 111 S Ct 2013, 55 BNA FEP Cas 1104, 56 CCH EPD ¶ 40801

Plaintiff's employer, fire department, was not party to federal procurement contract so as to make provisions of Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act applicable to it; grant agreements are not procurement contracts, including that with Federal Emergency Management Agency, whose purpose was to carry out public purpose authorized by federal statute, not to procure property or services for direct benefit of U.S. government, and separate employment relationship between government and employees in event of catastrophe does not change FEMA agreement into procurement contract. Partridge v Reich (1998, CA9 Nev) 141 F.3d 920, 98 CDOS 2500, 98 Daily Journal DAR 3459, 157 BNA LRRM 3005

Secretary of Labor does not have jurisdiction under 38 USC § 2012 [now 38 USC § 4212] to hear complaint that state division of employment security does not comply with provisions of Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act (§§ 2011 et seq. [now §§ 4211 et seq.]), since agreements between state agency and Department of Labor constitute grants rather than contracts within meaning of § 2012 [now § 4212]. Hammond v Donovan (1982, WD Mo) 538 F Supp 1106, 113 BNA LRRM 3599, 30 CCF ¶ 70266, 30 CCH EPD ¶ 33012

Complaints must be filed with Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs within 180 days of date of alleged violation unless time for filing is extended for good cause shown; date of filing is date complaint is first received in writing by office, and request for complaint form of verbal notice of intent to file complaint is not sufficient to establish filing date; filing or processing of grievance under collective bargaining agreement does not extend filing period; date of alleged violation is date complainant knew or reasonably should have known of alleged discriminatory act or violation. OFCCP Order No. 630a5, March 10, 1983

3. Complaints

Where veteran's complaint alleged that his employer violated § 2012 [now 4212] by refusing to rehire him after he had voluntarily quit, allegation that employer tried to intimidate him from taking his complaint to Department of Labor was irrelevant to determination whether denial of complaint was abuse of discretion, since alleged intimidation came after refusal to rehire. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

4. Private right of action
Under 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212], Vietnam veteran did not have private right of action against private government contractor for failing to comply with hiring provisions of § 2012 [now § 4212], since review of legislative intent indicates Congress intended that enforcement and supervision of affirmative action hiring policy of § 2012 [now § 4212] is left to Department of Labor to which veteran could forward a complaint. Barron v Nightingale Roofing, Inc. (1988, CA1 Me) 842 F.2d 20, 127 BNA LRRM 2996, 34 CCF ¶ 75462, 46 CCH EPD ¶ 37895

Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act does not expressly provide for private actions; veterans who believe themselves to be victims of discrimination may complain to labor secretary, who enforces act administratively. Harris v Adams (1989, CA6 Mich) 873 F.2d 929, 1 AD Cas 1475, 49 BNA FEP Cas 1304, 131 BNA LRRM 2405, 50 CCH EPD ¶ 38973

Scope of 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212], as it existed prior to amendment of December 3, 1974, was limited to assuring listing of job openings with state employment agencies and to preference of certain veterans in referrals by those agencies, and it imposed no duties and created no rights with respect to employer's decision to hire or not to hire; thus, disabled veteran could not maintain action under 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212], as it read prior to amendment by act December 3, 1974, against prospective employer for failure to be hired due to service-connected disability. Wood v Diamond State Tel. Co. (1977, DC Del) 440 F Supp 1003, 18 BNA FEP Cas 647, 16 CCH EPD ¶ 8154

There is no private right of action for violation of 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212]. Butler v McDonnell-Douglas Saudi Arabia Corp. (1981, SD Ohio) 93 FRD 384, 110 BNA LRRM 2048

There is no private right of action under 38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212], nor may state claim be maintained under third-party beneficiary theory. Stephens v Roadway Express Co. (1982, ND Ga) 37 BNA FEP Cas 1104, 119 BNA LRRM 2312, 29 CCH EPD ¶ 32941, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13893

38 USCS § 2012 [now 38 USCS § 4212] establishes no private cause of action and provides no authority for aggrieved veterans to file suit in federal court, but is designed to provide remedy, through Department of Labor, against contractors who discriminate against such veterans or that fail to comply with affirmative action provision embodied therein. De Leon Cruz v Loubriel (1982, DC Puerto Rico) 539 F Supp 250

University employee's claims against employer must be denied summarily, to extent they are based on noncompliance with university's conciliation agreement settling its alleged violations of 38 USCS § 4212, because (1) evidence that he served in military only until July 1964 leaves him outside definition of "Vietnam era veteran," and (2) § 4212 does not provide vehicle to assert violation of agreement, and neither do 42 USCS §§ 1983 or 1985. Brace v Ohio State Univ. (1994, SD Ohio) 866 F Supp 1069

Vietnam War veteran not hired to work as laborer on federal highway construction project has Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act claim denied summarily, where it appears from language of statute that Congress intended persons protected under this statute to file complaint with Labor Secretary, because there is no private right of action under 38 USCS § 4212. Ledbetter v Koss Constr. Co. (1997, DC Kan) 981 F Supp 1394, affd without op (1998, CA10 Kan) 153 F.3d 727, reported in full (1998, CA10 Kan) 1998 US App LEXIS 17006

Complaint alleging violation of 38 USCS § 4212 is dismissed with prejudice, where veteran was terminated for alleged poor job performance on March 1, 1994 and claims he was discriminated against on basis of veteran status, even if such discrimination could be shown, because Congress chose not to create private right of action by which veterans may sue employers. Phillips v Merchants Ins. Group (1998, ND NY) 990 F Supp 99, 161 BNA LRRM 2254
5. Judicial review

In absence of abandonment of statutory responsibility, Secretary of Labor's decision to forego enforcement action under § 2012 [now § 4212] against federal contractor who failed to rehire disabled Vietnam Veteran who had resigned his position and then reapplied for same position was immune from judicial review since enforcement decision is within agency discretion. Clementson v Brock (1986, CA Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

Record before court in veteran's suit seeking review of adverse determination by Department of Labor on his complaint asserting that employer violated § 2012 [now § 4212] was sufficient to support summary judgment notwithstanding that administrative record was not before court, where written complaints, agency's summary of evidence, and agency's recommended findings and reasons therefor were before court. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

Review of Secretary of Labor's decision to forego further legal action on disabled Vietnam era veteran's complaint alleging that his employer's failure to rehire him after he voluntarily quit his position violated employer's affirmative action obligation under § 2012 [now § 4212] is not de novo; such decision is to be reviewed under limited standard of abuse of discretion. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

Decision of Office of Federal Contract Compliance Program that employer had not violated its affirmative action obligation under § 2012 [now § 4212] did not fall within category of agency actions which, under 5 USCS § 701(a), are actions committed to agency discretion by law and not subject to judicial review. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

Disappointed applicant's court challenge to his disqualification from preapprenticeship training program on basis of low test score was dismissed, where federal agency concluded there was insufficient evidence that federal contractor violated Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act, because agency's decision to forego enforcement action under § 2012 [now § 4212] is immune from judicial review. Harris v McLaughlin (1989, ND Ohio) 732 F Supp 780, 133 BNA LRRM 2978

Department of Labor's decision adverse to disabled Vietnam era veteran who claimed that his employer's failure to rehire him after he voluntarily quit violated § 2012 [now § 4212] was not arbitrary and capricious on ground of failure to consider whether employer had duty to transfer veteran to another job, where tenor of veteran's complaint was employer's refusal to rehire him for his old position, nor was failure to consider whether his service-induced ulcer made him tense and contributed to his turbulent relationship with his supervisor which in turn led to his quit or discharge arbitrary, where claim was not raised before agency and chain of causation was entirely too attenuated to require judicial relief. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

Where only evidence before Office of Federal Contract Compliance showed that reason for veteran's quit or discharge was personality dispute with supervisor, fact that employer did not have valid affirmative action program in place was not grounds for setting aside summary judgment in favor of employer in veteran's action for review of adverse Department of Labor decision on his complaint alleging that employer violated § 2012 [now § 4212] by failing to rehire him after he quit. Clementson v Donovan (1985, DC Hawaii) 608 F Supp 152, 121 BNA LRRM 3118, 36 CCH EPD ¶ 35061, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11429, affd (1986, CA9 Hawaii) 806 F.2d 1402, 124 BNA LRRM 2422, 33 CCF ¶ 74923, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36792

§ 4214. Employment within the Federal Government
(a) (1) The United States has an obligation to assist veterans of the Armed Forces in readjusting to civilian life. The Federal Government is also continuously concerned with building an effective work force, and veterans constitute a uniquely qualified recruiting source. It is, therefore, the policy of the United States and the purpose of this section to promote the maximum of employment and job advancement opportunities within the Federal Government for qualified covered veterans (as defined in paragraph (2)(B)) who are qualified for such employment and advancement.

(2) In this section:

(A) The term "agency" has the meaning given the term "department or agency" in section 4211(5) of this title [38 USCS § 4211(5)].

(B) The term "qualified covered veteran" means a veteran described in section 4212(a)(3) of this title [38 USCS § 4212(a)(3)].

(b) (1) To further the policy stated in subsection (a) of this section, veterans referred to in paragraph (2) of this subsection shall be eligible, in accordance with regulations which the Office of Personnel Management shall prescribe, for veterans recruitment appointments, and for subsequent career-conditional appointments, under the terms and conditions specified in Executive Order Numbered 11521 (March 26, 1970) [5 USCS § 3302 note], except that--

(A) such an appointment may be made up to and including the level GS-11 or its equivalent;

(B) a veteran shall be eligible for such an appointment without regard to the number of years of education completed by such veteran;

(C) a veteran who is entitled to disability compensation under the laws administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs or whose discharge or release from active duty was for a disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty shall be given a preference for such an appointment over other veterans;

(D) a veteran receiving such an appointment shall--

(i) in the case of a veteran with less than 15 years of education, receive training or education; and

(ii) upon successful completion of the prescribed probationary period, acquire a competitive status; and

(E) a veteran given an appointment under the authority of this subsection whose employment under the appointment is terminated within one year after the date of such appointment shall have the same right to appeal that termination to the Merit Systems Protection Board as a career or career-conditional employee has during the first year of employment.

(2) This subsection applies to qualified covered veterans.

(3) A qualified covered veteran may receive such an appointment at any time.

(c) Each agency shall include in its affirmative action plan for the hiring, placement, and advancement of handicapped individuals in such agency as required by section 501(b) of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 791(b)) a separate specification of plans (in accordance with regulations which the Office of Personnel Management shall prescribe in consultation with the Secretary, the Secretary of Labor, and the Secretary of Health and Human Services, consistent with the purposes, provisions, and priorities of such Act) to promote and carry out such affirmative action with respect to disabled veterans in order to achieve the purpose of this section.

(d) The Office of Personnel Management shall be responsible for the review and evaluation of the implementation of this section and the activities of each agency to carry out the purpose and provisions of this section. The Office shall periodically obtain (on at least an annual basis) information on the implementation of this section by each agency and on the activities of each agency to carry out the purpose and provisions of this section. The information obtained shall include specification of the use and extent of appointments made by each agency under subsection (b) of this section and the results of the plans required under subsection (c) of this section.

(e) (1) The Office of Personnel Management shall submit to the Congress annually a report on activities carried out under this section. Each such report shall include the following information with respect to each agency:

(A) The number of appointments made under subsection (b) of this section since the last such report and the grade levels in which such appointments were made.

1. Generally
2. Appointment
3. Promotion
4. Removal
5. Private right of action

1. Generally
Office of Personnel Management has authority to regulate veterans readjustment appointments, which are subject to OPM investigation, and appointees must meet suitability standards; in order to render this authority meaningful and to enforce suitability standards, OPM must be able to direct action, including directing employee's removal, when violation is found. Logan v OPM (1988, MSPB) 38 MSPR 615

Agency did not violate veteran's preference rights since both appellant and selectee were in same preference category under 38 USCS § 4214. Whitney v Dep't of the Army (2002, MSPB) 92 MSPR 423

2. Appointment
Postal employee was not veterans readjustment appointment (VRA) under 38 USCS § 4214, even though she was eligible for VRA status, and was, thus, not exempted from requirement that she complete one year of current continuous service before she was eligible to appeal her termination to Merit System Protection Board, where she was hired by Postal Service from hiring worksheet. Howard v Henderson (2000, MD Ala) 112 F Supp 2d 1276

Arbitrator's award that agency violated 38 USCS § 2014 by failing to select one of grievants who were disabled Viet Nam veterans was erroneous since statute does not require selection of disabled veterans for positions for which they are as qualified as other candidates. AFGE, Local 12 & Dept. of Labor (1991) 38 FLRA No. 126

Navy electrician's handicap discrimination claim must fail, even though he was passed over for promotion to WG-10 twice and could not get shipboard experience due to 10 period disability of his left knee, because evidence showed that lack of shipboard experience did not preclude WG-10 promotion, and that training, experience, and monetary awards, rather than Navy's lack of "affirmative action" to promote employees with disabilities, were factors that led to electrician's

Although 38 USCS § 4214(a)(1) declares that promotion of employment and job advancement opportunities of certain veterans is policy of United States, such is not sufficient basis on which to find waiver of sovereign immunity; thus, statute does not create private right of action for any alleged failure to adhere to such policy. Cook v Helfer (1996, DC Mass) 153 BNA LRRM 2155, 69 CCH EPD ¶ 44488, 133 CCH LC ¶ 11806

Pursuant to OPM regulations, 45-year-old federal employee's veteran status made him ineligible for noncompetitive promotion; therefore, fact that student intern's position was noncompetitively converted to full-time position that had not been offered to employee did not establish prima facie case of age discrimination under 29 USCS § 633a, part of Age Discrimination in Employment Act. Whitman v Mineta (2005, DC Alaska) 382 F Supp 2d 1130

Board lacked jurisdiction of removal appeal of temporary employees who thought their appointments were Veterans Readjustment Act appointments pursuant to provision for VRA appointee to receive protected position within competitive service of federal employment after two years' service, since SF-50 forms with which they were hired plainly stated that positions were temporary and they must have known they were receiving fewer benefits—notably health care—than employees in competitive service. Anderson v Merit Sys. Protection Bd. (1993, CA FC) 12 F.3d 1069, 145 BNA LRRM 2008, cert den (1994) 512 US 1204, 129 L Ed 2d 809, 114 S Ct 2673, 146 BNA LRRM 2640

Removal of employee who understated his level of education, thereby qualifying for appointment under Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 (38 USCS § 2014 [now 38 USCS § 4214]), was not warranted where removal action was not commenced for period of 2 years subsequent to employee notifying agency that he had more education than permitted by VRA, and further where agency converted employee to competitive position and later promoted him within competitive service, such that employee had completed his probationary period and had been performing satisfactorily in competitive service for 2 years when agency removed him. Perry v VA (1987, MSPB) 32 MSPR 81

Veteran, appointed under Veterans' Administration Programs Extension Act of 1978 (92 Stat. 1820), who was discharged as result of veteran's failure to disclose prior arrest and conviction for carrying concealed weapon, convictions for driving with expired vehicle license, and court martial, after completion of more than one year of employment and promotion to employee entitled to procedural protections, including administrative review of removal under 5 USCS §§ 7511 et seq; appointment obtained through fraud or misrepresentation is not nullity which is voidable at option of agency. Devine v Sutermeister (1983, CA) 724 F.2d 1558, 116 BNA LRRM 2495 (superseded by statute as stated in Bloomer v HHS (1992, CA) 966 F.2d 1436, 92 Daily Journal DAR 8073)

5. Private right of action

Since 38 USCS § 4214 does not waive federal government's sovereign immunity, federal employee cannot maintain action for money damages against federal employer thereunder; further, there is no private right of action under 38 USCS § 4214. Antol v Perry (1996, CA3 Pa) 82 F.3d 1291, 16 ADD 653, 5 AD Cas 769, 70 BNA FEP Cas 993

Act's express requirement that federal agency include affirmative action plan for disabled veterans in its Rehabilitation Act affirmative action plan does not purport to waive sovereign immunity or to create express cause of action, hence veteran cannot maintain action for money damages against agency under Act. Antol v Perry (1996, CA3 Pa) 82 F.3d 1291, 16 ADD 653, 5 AD Cas 769, 70 BNA FEP Cas 993

Court of Appeals did not read Rehabilitation Act as extending its private remedy to rights contained in Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act; therefore, no private remedy existed for plaintiff employee on his challenge to enforce defendant federal agency's hiring and retention policy for disabled veterans. Seay v TVA (2003, CA6 Tenn) 339 F.3d 454, 92 BNA FEP Cas 577, 2003 FED App 275P

Contractual employment relationship with U.S. was not established by plaintiff, who received veterans' readjustment appointment to excepted civil service position with U.S. Customs Service, since employment was based on appointment under statutory authority of 38 USCS § 2014 [now 38 USCS § 4214] and 5 USCS §§ 3301 and 3302; thus, plaintiff could not maintain suit in Claims Court regarding unlawful removal from employment under claim sounding in contract. Fahy v United States (1988) 14 Cl Ct 470, affd without op (1988, CA) 864 F.2d 148, cert den (1989) 491 US 909, 105 L Ed 2d 705, 109 S Ct 3197

Vietnam veteran denied promotion by Navy to position of WG-10 Electrician states cause of action under 38 USCS § 4214(c), where he alleges Navy discriminated on basis of his handicap, because § 4214(c), by incorporating 29 USCS § 791(b), establishes private right of action. Blizzard v Dalton (1995, ED Va) 876 F Supp 95, 8 ADD 695, 4 AD Cas 514, 148 BNA LRRM 2909 (criticized in Madden v Runyon (1995, ED Pa) 899 F Supp 217, 12 ADD 106, 4 AD Cas 1544) and judgment entered (1995, ED Va) 905 F Supp 331, 13 ADD 999, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43879

(B) Any such program or service under the public employment service system, one-stop career centers, the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, a demonstration or other temporary program, and those programs implemented by States or local service providers based on Federal block grants administered by the Department of Labor.

(C) Any such program or service that is a workforce development program targeted to specific groups.

(3) The term "priority of service" means, with respect to any qualified job training program, that a covered person shall be given priority over nonveterans for the receipt of employment, training, and placement services provided under that program, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

(b) Entitlement to priority of service.

(1) A covered person is entitled to priority of service under any qualified job training program if the person otherwise meets the eligibility requirements for participation in such program.

(2) The Secretary of Labor may establish priorities among covered persons for purposes of this section to take into account the needs of disabled veterans and special disabled veterans, and such other factors as the Secretary determines appropriate.

(c) Administration of programs at State and local Levels.

An entity of a State or a political subdivision of the State that administers or delivers services under a qualified job training program shall--

(1) provide information and priority of service to covered persons regarding benefits and services that may be obtained through other entities or service providers; and

(2) ensure that each covered person who applies to or who is assisted by such a program is informed of the employment-related rights and benefits to which the person is entitled under this section.

(d) Addition to annual report.

In the annual report required under section 4107(c) of this title [38 USCS § 4107(c)] for the program year beginning in 2003 and each subsequent program year, the Secretary of Labor shall evaluate whether covered persons are receiving priority of service and are being fully served by qualified job training programs, and whether the representation of veterans in such programs is in proportion to the incidence of representation of veterans in the labor market, including within groups that the Secretary may designate for priority under such programs, if any.

Chapter 43 was amended generally by Act Oct. 13, 1994, P. L. 103-353, 108 Stat. 3176 (effective with respect to reemployments initiated on or after the first day after the 60-day period beginning Oct. 13, 1994), and is shown herein as having been added by Act Oct. 13, 1994, P. L. 103-353, without reference to prior amendments. Former chapter 43 "Veterans' beginning Oct. 13, 1994, as provided by § 8 of such Act, which appears as 38 USCS § 4301

note. Former chapter 43, as so in effect, read as follows:

"CHAPTER 43. VETERANS' REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS

§ 4301. Right to reemployment of inducted persons; benefits protected

"(a) In the case of any person who is inducted into the Armed Forces of the United States under the Military Selective Service Act (or under any prior or subsequent corresponding law) for training and service and who leaves a position (other than a temporary position) in the employ of any employer in order to perform such training and service, and (1) receives a certificate described in section 9(a) of the Military Selective Service Act [50 USCS Appx. § 459(a)] (relating to the satisfactory completion of military service), and (2) makes application for reemployment within ninety days after such person is relieved from such training and service or from hospitalization continuing after discharge for a period of not more than one year--

"(A) if such position was in the employ of the United States Government, its territories, or possessions, or political subdivisions thereof, or the District of Columbia, such person shall--

"(i) if still qualified to perform the duties of such position or able to become requalified with reasonable efforts by the employer, be restored to such position or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay; or

"(ii) if not qualified to perform the duties of such position or able to become requalified with reasonable efforts by the employer, by reason of disability sustained during such service, but qualified to perform the duties of any other position in the employ of the employer, be offered employment and, if such person so requests, be employed in such other position the duties of which such person is qualified to perform as will provide such person like seniority, status, and pay, or the nearest approximation thereof consistent with the circumstances in such person's case;

"(B) if such position was in the employ of a State, or political subdivision thereof, or a private employer, such person shall--
"(i) if still qualified to perform the duties of such position or able to become requalified with reasonable efforts by the employer, be restored by such employer or the employer's successor in interest to such position or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay; or

"(ii) if not qualified to perform the duties of such position or able to become requalified with reasonable efforts by the employer, by reason of disability sustained during such service, be offered employment and, if such person so requests, be employed by such employer or the employer's successor in interest in such other position the duties of which such person is qualified to perform as will provide such person like seniority, status, and pay, or the nearest approximation thereof consistent with the circumstances in such person's case, unless the employer's circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to do so. Nothing in this chapter shall excuse noncompliance with any statute or ordinance of a State or political subdivision thereof establishing greater or additional rights or protections than the rights and protections established pursuant to this chapter.

"(b)(1)(A) Any person who is restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of clause (A) or (B) of subsection (a) of this section shall be considered as having been on furlough or leave of absence during such person's period of training and service in the Armed Forces, shall be so restored or reemployed without loss of seniority, shall be entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits offered by the employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence in effect with the employer at the time such person was inducted into such forces, and shall not be discharged from such position without cause within one year after such restoration or reemployment.

"(B) In the case of employer-offered health insurance, an exclusion or waiting period may not be imposed in connection with coverage of a health or physical condition of a person entitled to participate in that insurance under subparagraph (A), or a health or physical condition of any other person who is covered by the insurance by reason of the coverage of such person, if--

"(i) the condition arose before or during that person's period of training or service in the Armed Forces;

"(ii) an exclusion or waiting period would not have been imposed for the condition during a period of coverage resulting from participation by such person in the insurance; and

"(iii) the condition of such person has not been determined by the Secretary to be service-connected.

"(2) It is hereby declared to be the sense of the Congress that any person who is restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of clause (A) or (B) of subsection (a) of this section should be so restored or reemployed in such manner as to give such person such status in the person's employment as the person would have enjoyed if such person had continued in such employment continuously from the time of such person's entering the Armed Forces until the time of such person's restoration to such employment, or reemployment.

"(3) Any person who seeks or holds a position described in clause (A) or (B) of subsection (a) of this section shall not be denied hiring, retention in employment, or any promotion or other incident or advantage of employment because of any obligation as a member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces.
"(c) The rights granted by subsections (a) and (b) of this section to persons who left the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof and were inducted into the Armed Forces shall not diminish any rights such persons may have pursuant to any statute or ordinance of such State or political subdivision establishing greater or additional rights or protections.

"§ 4302. Enforcement procedures

"If any employer, who is a private employer or a State or political subdivision thereof, fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of section 4321(a) [4301(a)], (b)(1), or (b)(3), or 4324 [4304] of this title, the district court of the United States for any district in which such private employer maintains a place of business, or in which such State or political subdivision thereof exercises authority or carries out its functions, shall have the power, upon the filing of a motion, petition, or other appropriate pleading by the person entitled to the benefits of such provisions, specifically to require such employer to comply with such provisions and to compensate such person for any loss of wages or benefits suffered by reason of such employer's unlawful action. Any such compensation shall be in addition to and shall not be deemed to diminish any of the benefits provided for in such provisions. Upon application to the United States attorney or comparable official for any district in which such private employer maintains a place of business, or in which such State or political subdivision thereof exercises authority or carries out its functions, by any person claiming to be entitled to the benefits provided for in such provisions, such United States attorney or official, if reasonably satisfied that the person so applying is entitled to such benefits, shall appear and act as attorney for such person in the amicable adjustment of the claim or in the filing of any motion, petition, or other appropriate pleading and the prosecution thereof specifically to require such employer to comply with such provisions. No fees or court costs shall be taxed against any person who may apply for such benefits. In any such action only the employer shall be deemed a necessary party respondent. No State statute of limitations shall apply to any proceedings under this chapter.

"§ 4303. Reemployment by the United States, territory, possession, or the District of Columbia

"(a) Any person who is entitled to be restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of clause (A) of section 4321(a) [4301(a)] and who was employed, immediately before entering the Armed Forces, by any agency in the executive branch of the Government or by any territory or possession, or political subdivision thereof, or by the District of Columbia, shall be so restored or reemployed by such agency or the successor to its functions, or by such territory, possession, political subdivision, or the District of Columbia. In any case in which, upon appeal of any person who was employed, immediately before entering the Armed Forces, by any agency in the executive branch of the Government or by the District of Columbia, the Director of the Office of Personnel Management finds that--

"(1) such agency is no longer in existence and its functions have not been transferred to any other agency; or

"(2) for any reason it is not feasible for such person to be restored to employment by such agency or by the District of Columbia;

the Director shall determine whether or not there is a position in any other agency in the executive branch of the Government or in the government of the District of Columbia for which such person is qualified and which is either vacant or held by a person having a temporary appointment thereto. In any case in which the Director determines that there is such a position, such person shall be offered employment and, if such person so requests, be employed in such position by the agency in which such position exists or by the government of the District of Columbia, as the case may be. The Director is authorized and directed to issue regulations giving full force and effect to the provisions of this section insofar as they relate to persons entitled to be restored to or employed in positions in the executive branch of the Government or in the government of the District of Columbia, including persons entitled to be reemployed under the last sentence of subsection (b) of this section. The agencies in the executive branch of the Government and the government of the District of Columbia shall comply with such rules, regulations, and orders issued by the Director pursuant to this subsection. The Director is authorized and directed when the Director finds, upon appeal of the person concerned, that any agency in the executive branch of the Government or the government of the District of Columbia has failed or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section, to issue an order specifically requiring such agency or the government of the District of Columbia to comply with such provisions and to compensate such person for any loss of salary or wages suffered by reason of failure to comply with such provisions, less any amounts received by such person through other employment, unemployment compensation, or readjustment allowances. Any such compensation ordered to be paid by the Director shall be in addition to and shall not be deemed to diminish any of the benefits provided for in such provisions, and shall be paid by the head of the agency concerned or by the government of the District of Columbia out of appropriations currently available for salary and expenses of such agency or government, and such appropriations shall be available for such purpose. As used in this chapter, the term 'agency in the executive branch of the Government' means any department, independent establishment, agency, or corporation in the executive branch of the United States Government (including the United States Postal Service and the Postal Rate Commission).

"(b) Any person who is entitled to be restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of clause (A) of section 4321(a) [4301(a)] of this title, and who was employed, immediately before entering the Armed Forces, in the legislative branch of the Government, shall be so restored or employed by the officer who appointed such person to the position which such person held immediately before entering the Armed Forces. In any case in which it is not possible for any such person to be restored to or employed in a position in the legislative branch of the Government and such person is otherwise eligible to acquire a status for transfer to a position in the competitive service in accordance with section 3304(c) of title 5, the Director of the Office of Personnel Management shall, upon appeal of such person, determine whether or not there is a position in the executive branch of the Government for which such person is qualified and which is either vacant or held by a person having a temporary appointment thereto. In any case in which the Director determines that there is such a position, such person shall be offered employment and, if such person so requests, be employed in such position by the agency in which such position exists.

"(c) Any person who is entitled to be restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of clause (A) of section 4321(a) [4301(a)] of this title and who was employed, immediately before entering the Armed Forces, in the judicial branch of the Government, shall be so restored or reemployed by the officer who appointed such person to the position which such person held immediately before entering the Armed Forces.

"§ 4304. Rights of persons who enlist or are called to active duty; Reserves

"(a) Any person who, after entering the employment on the basis of which such person claims restoration or reemployment, enlists in the Armed Forces of the United States (other than in a Reserve component) shall be entitled upon release from service under honorable conditions to all of the reemployment rights and other benefits provided for by this chapter in the case of persons inducted under the provisions of the Military Selective Service Act [50 USCS Appx. §§ 451 et seq.; for full classification of such Act, consult USCS Tables volumes] (or prior or subsequent legislation providing for the involuntary induction of persons into the Armed Forces), if the total of such person's service performed between June 24, 1948, and August 1, 1961, did not exceed four years, and the total of any service, additional or otherwise, performed by such person after August 1, 1961, does not exceed five years, and if the service in excess of four years after August 1, 1961, is at the request and for the convenience of the Federal Government (plus in each case any period of additional service imposed pursuant to law).

"(b)(1) Any person who, after entering the employment on the basis of which such person claims restoration or reemployment, enters upon active duty (other than for the purpose of determining physical fitness and other than for training), whether or not voluntarily, in the Armed Forces of the United States or the Public Health Service in response to an order or call to active duty shall, upon such person's relief from active duty under honorable conditions, be entitled to all of the reemployment rights and benefits provided for by this chapter in the case of persons inducted under the provisions of the Military Selective Service Act [50 USCS Appx. §§ 451 et seq.; for full classification of such Act, consult USCS Tables volumes] (or prior or subsequent legislation providing for the involuntary induction of persons into the Armed Forces), if the total of such active duty performed between June 24, 1948, and August 1, 1961, did not exceed four years, and the total of any such active duty, additional or otherwise, performed after August 1, 1961, does not exceed four years (plus in each case any additional period in which such person was unable to obtain orders relieving such person from active duty).

"(2) Any member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States who voluntarily or involuntarily enters upon active duty (other than for the purpose of determining physical fitness and other than for training) or whose active duty is voluntarily or involuntarily extended during a period when the President is authorized to order units of the Ready Reserve or members of a Reserve component to active duty shall have the service limitation governing eligibility for reemployment rights under subsection (b)(1) of this section extended by such member's period of such active duty, but not to exceed that period of active duty to which the President is authorized to order units of the Ready Reserve or members of a Reserve component. With respect to a member who voluntarily enters upon active duty or whose active duty is voluntarily extended, the provisions of this subsection shall apply only when such additional active duty is at the request and for the convenience of the Federal Government.

"(c) Any member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States who is ordered to an initial period of active duty for training of not less than twelve consecutive weeks shall, upon application for reemployment within thirty-one days after (1) such member's release from such active duty for training after satisfactory service, or (2) such member's discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty for training, or one year after such member's scheduled release from such training, whichever is earlier, be entitled to all reemployment rights and benefits provided by this chapter for persons inducted under the provisions of the Military Selective Service Act [50 USCS Appx. §§ 451 et seq.; for full classification of such Act, consult USCS Tables volumes] (or prior or subsequent legislation providing for the involuntary induction of persons into the Armed Forces), except that (A) any person restored to or employed in a position in accordance with the provisions of this subsection shall not be discharged from such position without cause within six months after that restoration, and (B) no reemployment rights granted by this subsection shall entitle any person to retention, preference, or displacement rights over any veteran with a superior claim under those provisions of title 5 relating to veterans and other preference eligibles.

"(d) Any employee not covered by subsection (c) of this section who holds a position described in clause (A) or (B) of section 4321(a) [4301(a)] shall upon request be granted a leave of absence by such person's employer for the period required to perform active duty for training or inactive duty training in the Armed Forces of the United States. Upon such employee's release from a period of such active duty for training or inactive duty training, or upon such employee's discharge from hospitalization incident to that training, such employee shall be permitted to return to such employee's position with such seniority, status, pay, and vacation as such employee would have had if such employee had not been absent for such purposes. Such employee shall report for work at the beginning of the next regularly scheduled working period after expiration of the last calendar day necessary to travel from the place of training to the place of employment following such employee's release, or within a reasonable time thereafter if delayed return is due to factors beyond the employee's control. Failure to report for work at such next regularly scheduled working period shall make the employee subject to the conduct rules of the employer pertaining to explanations and discipline with respect to absence from scheduled work. If such an employee is hospitalized incident to active duty for training or inactive duty training, such employee shall be required to report for work at the beginning of the next regularly scheduled work period after expiration of the time necessary to travel from the place of discharge from hospitalization to the place of employment, or within a reasonable time thereafter if delayed return is due to factors beyond the employee's control, or within one year after such employee's release from active duty for training or inactive duty training, whichever is earlier. If an employee covered by this subsection is not qualified to perform the duties of such employee's position by reason of disability sustained during active duty for training or inactive duty training, but is qualified to perform the duties of any other position in the employ of the employer or such employer's successor in interest, such employee shall be offered employment and, if such person so requests, be employed by that employer or such employer's successor in interest in such other position the duties of which such employee is qualified to perform as will provide such employee like seniority, status, and pay, or the nearest approximation thereof consistent with the circumstances in such employee's case.

"(e) Any employee not covered by subsection (c) of this section who holds a position described in clause (A) or (B) of section 4321(a) [4301(a)] shall be considered as having been on leave of absence during the period required to report for the purpose of being inducted into, entering, or determining, by a preinduction or other examination, physical fitness to enter the Armed Forces. Upon such employee's rejection, upon completion of such employee's preinduction or other examination, or upon such employee's discharge from hospitalization incident to such rejection or examination, such employee shall be permitted to return to such employee's position in accordance with the provisions of subsection (d) of this section.

"(f) For the purposes of subsections (c) and (d) of this section, full-time training or other full-time duty performed by a member of the National Guard under section 316, 502, 503, 504, or 505 of title 32 is considered active duty for training. For the purposes of subsection (d) of this section, inactive duty training performed by that member under section 502 of title 32 or section 206, 301, 309 [repealed with respect to administrative functions performed after Sept. 30, 1980, by Act Nov. 9, 1979, P. L. 96-107], 402, or 1002 of title 37 is considered inactive duty training.

"(g) Any member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States who is ordered to active duty (other than for training) under section 673b of title 10, United States Code, whether or not voluntarily, shall be entitled to all reemployment rights and benefits provided under subsection (c) of this section for persons ordered to an initial period of active duty for training of not less than twelve consecutive weeks; and shall have the service limitation governing eligibility for reemployment rights under subsections (a) and (b)(1) of this section extended by the period of such active duty, including any period of extension of active duty under section 673b of title 10.

"§ 4305. Assistance in obtaining reemployment

"The Secretary of Labor, through the Office of Veterans' Reemployment Rights, shall render aid in the replacement in their former positions or reemployment of persons who have satisfactorily completed any period of active duty in the Armed Forces or the Public Health Service. In rendering such aid, the Secretary shall use existing Federal and State agencies engaged in similar or related activities and shall utilize the assistance of volunteers.

"§ 4306. Prior rights for reemployment

"In any case in which two or more persons who are entitled to be restored to or employed in a position under the provisions of this chapter or of any other law relating to similar reemployment benefits left the same position in order to enter the Armed Forces, the person who left such position first shall have the prior right to be restored thereto or reemployed on the basis thereof, without prejudice to the reemployment rights of the other person or persons to be restored or reemployed.

[§ 4307. Repealed]

SUBCHAPTER I. GENERAL

§ 4301. Purposes; sense of Congress
(a) The purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] are--
   (1) to encourage noncareer service in the uniformed services by eliminating or minimizing the disadvantages to civilian careers and employment which can result from such service;
   (2) to minimize the disruption to the lives of persons performing service in the uniformed services as well as to their employers, their fellow employees, and their communities, by providing for the prompt reemployment of such persons upon their completion of such service; and
   (3) to prohibit discrimination against persons because of their service in the uniformed services.

(b) It is the sense of Congress that the Federal Government should be a model employer in carrying out the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].

Other provisions:

"(a) Reemployment.(1) Except as otherwise provided in this Act [for full classification, consult USCS Tables volumes], the amendments made by this Act [for full classification, consult USCS Tables volumes] shall be effective with respect to reemployments initiated on or after the first day after the 60-day period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act.

"(3) In determining the number of years of service that may not be exceeded in an employee-employer relationship with respect to which a person seeks reemployment under chapter 43 of title 38, United States Code [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], as in effect before or after the date of enactment of this Act, there shall be included all years of service without regard to whether the periods of service occurred before or after such date of enactment unless the period of service is exempted by the chapter 43 [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] that is applicable, as provided in paragraphs (1) and (2), to the reemployment concerned. Any service begun up to 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, which is served up to 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act pursuant to orders issued under section 502(f) of title 32, United States Code, shall be considered under chapter 43 of title 38, United States Code [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], as in effect on the day before such date of enactment. "(b) Discrimination. The provisions of section 4311 of title 38, United States Code, as provided in the amendments made by this Act, and the provisions of subchapter III of chapter 43 of such title [38 USCS §§ 4321 et seq.], as provided in the amendments made by this Act [for full classification, consult USCS Tables volumes], that are necessary for the implementation of such section 4311 shall become effective on the date of enactment of this Act.

If such an election is made, the health plan shall remain in effect for the remaining portion of the 18-month period that began on the date of such person's separation from civilian employment or the period of the person's service in the uniformed service, whichever is the period of lesser duration.

"(e) Investigations and subpoenas. The provisions of section 4326 of title 38, United States Code, as provided in the amendments made by this Act, shall become effective on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to any matter pending with the Secretary of Labor under section 4305 of title 38, United States Code, as of that date.

"(f) Previous actions. Except as otherwise provided, the amendments made by this Act [for full classification, consult USCS Tables volumes] do not affect reemploysments that were initiated, rights, benefits, and duties that matured, penalties that were incurred, and proceedings that begin before the end of the 60-day period referred to in subsection (a).

Principle underlying legislation protecting re-employment rights of veterans is that one who is called to colors is not to be penalized on his return by reason of his absence from his civilian job. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747

It would be going beyond intended Congressional purpose if veteran were given right to demand greater privileges upon his return than he would have had he not gone into service. McCarthy v M & M Transp. Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 322, 19 BNA LRRM 2327, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63613

Predecessor to statute merely guaranteed returning serviceman seniority rights he would have had had he not entered service; it did not create or vest in veteran additional rights beyond what he would have had he not gone into service. McKinney v Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. (1956, CA10 Okla) 240 F.2d 8, 39 BNA LRRM 2312, 31 CCH LC ¶ 70418, affd (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

If employer has sufficient cause to terminate employee veteran or reservist at time he leaves for active service or training, VRRA does not require employer to reinstate employee before employer terminates him for cause; employer could have terminated employee for his receipt of sexually explicit materials at office since his boss had policy against having sexually explicit materials in office and court found that employer knew that his actions were not within reasonably and ordinarily accepted standards of personal conduct expected of employees in public district attorney's office. Jordan v Jones (1996, CA5 Tex) 84 F.3d 729, 152 BNA LRRM 2657, 133 CCH LC ¶ 11800, cert den (1996) 519 US 976, 136 L Ed 2d 325, 117 S Ct 412

Because military reservist and National Guard employee plaintiffs took position before magistrate judge that four-year residual statute of limitations of 28 USCS § 1658 applied to their Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act claims, and court rendered judgment to that effect, plaintiffs waived any claim to relief beyond four years prior to date on which their complaint was filed and court of appeals would not consider their argument that no statute of limitations applied to their USERRA claims. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2004, CA5 Tex) 392 F.3d 758, 176 BNA LRRM 2129, 85 CCH EPD ¶ 41800

Principal who sued members of school board, alleging they violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., when they terminated her employment, was not entitled to recover damages under 42 USCS § 1983 for violations of USERRA, and Court of Appeals dismissed member's appeal from district court's ruling that they did not have qualified immunity from liability because appeal was moot. Morris-Hayes v Bd. of Educ. (2005, CA2 NY) 423 F.3d 153, 178 BNA LRRM 2001, 86 CCH EPD ¶ 42089, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10561, 151 CCH LC ¶ 60076

Former employee was not entitled to full federal retirement benefits where he did not have valid civil service reemployment rights following his service in Air National Guard. Moravec v OPM (2004, CA FC) 393 F.3d 1263

Defendant was entitled to judgment on pleadings on plaintiff's state public policy claim for wrongful discharge because Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) provided its own adequate remedy, which foreclosed need for separate public policy tort claim; USERRA's provision for compensatory damages served to make plaintiff whole and, even without punitive damages, USERRA's provision for liquidated damages operated to punish defendant. Schmauch v Honda of Am. Mfg., Inc. (2003, SD Ohio) 311 F Supp 2d 631

2. Purpose

Predecessor to statute manifested Congressional purpose to provide as nearly as possible that persons called to served in Armed Forces should resume their old employment without any loss because of such service. Accardi v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1966) 383 US 225, 15 L Ed 2d 717, 86 S Ct 768, 1 EBC 1016, 61 BNA LRRM 2385, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11073

Protecting veterans from loss of rewards for continuous employment with same employer when break in employment resulted from response to country’s military needs was purpose of predecessor statute, which provided that employee who left employment to enter military is to be restored, upon his return, to former position or position of like seniority, status, and pay. Alabama Power Co. v Davis (1977) 431 US 581, 52 L Ed 2d 595, 97 S Ct 2002, 1 EBC 1158, 95 BNA LRRM 2569, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13255

Primary purpose of Congress is to preserve for veterans upon return from service employment status they occupied at time they left for service to give them right to receive back same position they occupied at time they entered military service of their country or position of like seniority, status, and pay. Meehan v National Supply Co. (1947, CA10 Okla) 160 F.2d 346, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63645; Arkansas Oak Flooring Co. v Louisiana & A. R. Co. (1948, CA5 La) 166 F.2d 98, cert den (1948) 334 US 828, 92 L Ed 1756, 68 S Ct 1338

Prediscessor to statute was intended to provide for rehabilitation of returning veteran so that he might be equipped to enter highly competitive world of job finding without handicap of long absence from work and to provide for his financial stability for period of at least one year following discharge from service. John S. Doane Co. v Martin (1947, CA1 Mass) 164 F.2d 537, 20 BNA LRRM 2445, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63917; Cummings v Hubbell (1948, DC Pa) 76 F Supp 453, 22 BNA LRRM 2109, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64562; Marque v Stern (1950, DC Pa) 88 F Supp 306, 25 BNA LRRM 2375

Clearly expressed intention of Congress is twofold: first, to protect veteran by insuring him re-employment, and second, to give employer leeway in adjusting to dislocations caused by departure of men in great numbers to fill armed services. Bova v General Mills, Inc. (1949, CA6 Ohio) 173 F.2d 138, 23 BNA LRRM 2351, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64954

Former section 8 of Title 50 Appx did not impose penalty on employer who wrongfully denied reinstatement to veteran, but its primary purpose was to aid veteran who, until he had been reinstated, was unable to re-establish himself as wage earner in his proper field of endeavor.
Object of predecessor to statute was to make it possible for persons whose skills had been blunted by war service to regain them by actual usage in course of regular employment and to provide stabilized income for veteran during period of readjustment.  Dacey v Bethlehem Steel Co. (1946, DC Mass) 66 F Supp 161, 18 BNA LRRM 2060, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63177

Predecessor statute was designed to protect rights of veteran which he had at time of his entry into service and to preserve them for one year after his restoration thereto.  Grubbs v Ingalls Iron Works Co. (1946, DC Ala) 66 F Supp 550, 18 BNA LRRM 2184, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63266

It was purpose of predecessor statute to restore to anyone who had left his employment in order to enter military service same status which he had prior to enlistment or induction.  Parbilla v Velarde (1946, DC Puerto Rico) 67 F Supp 260, 18 BNA LRRM 2448, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63348

Purpose of guarantee of year's employment to returning serviceman is to return him to his position so that he might be rehabilitated by chance to do things which he had left when he entered his country's defense activities; another purpose is that while in service he should be able to render best he has for his country unworried by spectre of no payment during first year after he returns to civilian life.  Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

Object of re-employment provision is to restore soldier to position he left without any greater setback in private pursuit or career of returning soldier than is unavoidable.  Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

Predecessor statute was intended to protect veteran from loss of ground in his employment by reason of his service in armed forces, by requiring the employer to restore veteran to his former position, or to position of like seniority, status, and pay; and, in so doing, to consider veteran's time spent in armed forces as time spent in his employment.  Daniels v Barfield (1947, DC Pa) 71 F Supp 884, 19 BNA LRRM 2576

It was intent of Congress that veterans should suffer no detriment with reference to their employment by having left their jobs to serve their country.  Mouell v United Mine Workers (1948, DC W Va) 81 F Supp 151, 23 BNA LRRM 2001, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64845

By providing for one year of re-employment free from threat of arbitrary dismissal, veteran is enabled to regain his proficiency in old job, to become acquainted with any new methods which may have come into use and otherwise equip himself to compete on equal footing with those who remained behind.  Mouell v United Mine Workers (1948, DC W Va) 81 F Supp 151, 23 BNA LRRM 2001, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64845

Purpose of former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act was to avoid penalizing veteran on his return from service by reason of his absence from his civilian job.  Beard v Norfolk & W. R. Co. (1980, WD Va) 484 F Supp 758, 105 BNA LRRM 3001, 88 CCH LC ¶ 11835

3. Construction, generally

Predecessor to 38 USCS §§ 2021 et seq., providing for protection of discharged veterans on return to civilian employment, was to be construed as liberal for benefit of veteran as interplay of separate provisions permitted.  Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110;  Kay v General Cable Corp. (1944, CA3 NJ) 144 F.2d 653, 15 BNA LRRM 523, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62887;  Levine v Berman (1947, CA7 Ill) 161 F.2d 386, 20 BNA LRRM 2102, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63746, cert den (1947) 332 US 792, 92 L Ed 374, 68 S Ct 102, 20 BNA LRRM 2677;  King v Southwestern Greyhound Lines, Inc. (1948, CA10 Okla) 169 F.2d 497, 22 BNA LRRM 2404, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64685, cert den (1948) 335 US 891, 93 L Ed 428, 69 S Ct 245, 23 BNA LRRM 2137

Various provisions for re-employment of returning veterans should be given liberal construction in favor of veteran applicant for re-employment as long as violence is not done to language of statute.  Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747
Service acts are to be liberally construed. Smith v Missouri Pacific Transp. Co. (1963, CA8 Ark) 313 F.2d 676, 52 BNA LRRM 2547, 46 CCH LC ¶ 18071 (ovrd in part as stated in Paisley v City of Minneapolis (1996, CA8 Minn) 79 F.3d 722, 151 BNA LRRM 2948, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11702) and (criticized in Wrigglesworth v Brumbaugh (2000, WD Mich) 121 F Supp 2d 1126, 166 BNA LRRM 2560)

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act requires employee to show irreparable harm to obtain preliminary injunctive relief; employee’s claim that termination would have resulted in deterioration of his skills as physician was not irreparable harm and, likewise, lost income, damaged reputation, and inability to find another job was not irreparable harms. Bedrossian v Northwestern Mem. Hosp. (2005, CA7 Ill) 409 F.3d 840, 177 BNA LRRM 2471, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10491

Historical development of former 38 USCS § 4301 shows that Congress intended it to be interpreted broadly in favor of those returning from military service. Nichols v Department of Veterans Affairs (1993, CA FC) 11 F.3d 160, 94 Daily Journal DAR 3809, 144 BNA LRRM 2952

To support claim of discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS §§ 4301-4333, it must be shown that employee’s military service was “substantial or motivating factor” in employment action. Crawford v DOT (2004, CA FC) 373 F.3d 1155

Predecessor statute was liberally construed to effectuate its important purposes of policy to assure employees of opportunity to resume compensated job which they have left to serve their country in time of war. McClayton v W. B. Cassell Co. (1946, DC Md) 66 F Supp 165, 18 BNA LRRM 2096, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63195

Predecessor statute must be liberally construed to effect its purpose of protecting veteran so that he will not be penalized on his return by reason of his absence from his civilian job, and so that he might gain by his service for his country advantage which law withheld from those who stayed behind. Freeman v Gateway Baking Co. (1946, DC Ark) 68 F Supp 383, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63340

Predecessor statute was liberally construed for benefit of veteran; words must be given their natural, ordinary, and familiar meaning unless Congress has definitely indicated words should be construed otherwise; plain, obvious, and rational meanings are always to be preferred to any curious, narrow, and strained construction; nature of disputed relationship should be considered in light of purpose which Congress intended to accomplish. Bozar v Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping & Constr. Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 803, 20 BNA LRRM 2663, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64077

Construction must not be carried to point where it would do violence to statute. Woods v Glen Alden Coal Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 871, 20 BNA LRRM 2681, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64089

Courts were not permitted to go beyond expressed intention of Congress and read into predecessor to statute provisions that Congress failed to include even though it appeared that existing provisions were not broad enough to protect every veteran and require his reinstatement in position that he held when he entered armed services. Hudspeth v Standard Oil Co. (1947, DC Ark) 74 F Supp 123, 20 BNA LRRM 2624, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64023, affd (1948, CA8 Ark) 170 F.2d 418, 23 BNA LRRM 2055, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64810

There is nothing to show that Congress meant to discriminate in any manner between persons enlisting for first or second time. Nunn v Humphrey (1948, DC Pa) 79 F Supp 8

It would be anomalous for predecessor to statute to be interpreted so as to give veteran alternative rights against successive employers. In re United States ex rel. Obum (1948, DC NY) 82 F Supp 36, affd (1948, CA2 NY) 170 F.2d 1009, revd on other grounds (1949) 336 US 806, 93 L Ed 1054, 69 S Ct 921

Re-employment statutes are to be liberally construed for benefit of those who left their employment and homes to serve their country. Hall v Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (1964, ND Ill) 240 F Supp 797, 59 BNA LRRM 2819, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19686

Predecessor statute should be liberally construed for benefit of veterans who leave private employment to serve country in hour of great need and no practice of employers or collective bargaining agreements between employers and unions will satisfy denial of service adjustment benefits which Congress secured for veterans. Cohn v Union P. R. Co. (1977, DC Neb) 427 F Supp 717, 94 BNA LRRM 2828, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13115, affd (1978, CA8 Neb) 572 F.2d 650, 97 BNA LRRM 3134, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10467, cert den (1978) 439 US 836, 58 L Ed 2d 132, 99 S Ct 120, 99 BNA LRRM 2600, 84 CCH LC ¶ 10875

Town must reinstate former police officer at rank of patrolman, pay scale of P-18 and step 4 and, once reinstated, he is to be compensated at whatever rate patrolman of his pay scale and step is currently receiving, where he resigned to join U.S. Army Reserve and now seeks reemployment after serving 3-year term, because 38 USCS § 4301(a)(B)(i) requires reinstatement to former position or position "of like seniority, status, and pay," and seniority means seniority he would have if he had kept his position continuously. Lapine v Town of Wellesley (2001, DC Mass) 167 F Supp 2d 132, 170 BNA LRRM 2623, 143 CCH LC ¶ 11057, affd (2002, CA1 Mass) 304 F.3d 90, 170 BNA LRRM 2965, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41172, 146 CCH LC ¶ 10095

District court's determination, that city was liable to employees under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., and that four year statute of limitations under 28 USCS § 1658 applied to claims, was subject to interlocutory appeal pursuant to 28 USCS § 1292(b) because resolution of determinations would assist in ultimate resolution of case before individualized damage determinations were made by court. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2003, WD Tex) 172 BNA LRRM 2249

Former police chief could not rely on Illinois Service Men's Employment Tenure Act (SMETA), 330 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 60/1 et seq., to establish property interest in his position as police chief; Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq., preempted state law in area and provided police chief with his only basis for recovering against Village that terminated his employment less than one year after chief returned from active duty in military. Ferguson v Walker (2005, CD Ill) 397 F Supp 2d 964

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq., provides its own comprehensive enforcement mechanism, which cannot be bypassed by alleging constitutional violation in suit directly under 42 USCS § 1983; thus, former police chief's § 1983 claim that he had property interest in his position as police chief was subsumed by his USERRA claims. Ferguson v Walker (2005, CD Ill) 397 F Supp 2d 964

Re-employment rights of veteran should be construed as liberally as possible. Republic Life Ins. Co. v Dobson (1950) 204 Okla 5, 226 P2d 402, 27 BNA LRRM 2319, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66122

4. -Amendments

Administrative constructions of predecessor to statute was not to be considered as having been adopted by Congress in amending and extending statute without making any change in provisions, where different administrative construction had been given statute by other federal agency. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Before 1986 amendments, degree to which predecessor statute permitted employer to condition hiring on nonparticipation in reserves was not clearly established, so that town officials enjoyed qualified immunity based on their actions pursuant to department policy prior to such amendments; however 1986 amendment made clear that employer could not refuse to hire individual because of his or her participation in reserves or National Guard so that, to extent town policy prohibiting reserve participation continued after 1986, town officials were not protected by qualified immunity. Boyle v Burke (1991, CA1 NH) 925 F.2d 497, 136 BNA LRRM 2514, 118 CCH LC ¶ 10550

5. Application, generally

Eleventh Amendment immunity does not bar suit for compensatory damages against states under Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act, since Congress, acting pursuant to its war powers, Employee's resignation letter rendered him unqualified for reinstatement under Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act, since both content and tone of 8-page letter precluded harmonious future relations with co-workers and managers; letter reflected disgust and contempt for employer, and antipathy towards Japan and Japanese culture and language which would inevitably be disruptive in light of large number of Japanese co-workers. Preda v Nissho Iwai Am. Corp. (1997, CA2 NY) 128 F.3d 789, 75 BNA FEP Cas 371, 156 BNA LRRM 2857, 72 CCH EPD ¶ 45071

Employee was not required to reemploy plaintiff after his National Guard service since it did not employ him prior to his assumption of full-time Guard duties; defendant and plaintiff's prior employer were both wholly owned subsidiaries of parent corporation, but they were nevertheless separate entities. Knowles v Citicorp Mortg. (1998, CA8 Mo) 142 F.3d 1082, 158 BNA LRRM 2076, 135 CCH LC ¶ 10153

Employee must be veteran to be entitled to benefits arising from re-employment. Sanders v Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. (1951, DC Okla) 97 F Supp 927

Reemployment rights under Viet Nam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act was applicable to state employee who left his job to volunteer for active duty in Vietnam and who later sought reemployment even though both events occurred before adoption of statute. Witter v Pennsylvania Nat'l Guard (1978, ED Pa) 462 F Supp 299, 100 BNA LRRM 2834, 85 CCH LC ¶ 11185

Summary judgment cannot be granted on police officer's claim under Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.), where his letter of resignation to police chief complained about conditions of department and did not clearly state that military job was reason for resignation, because trial is necessary to determine whether officer resigned his position with police department in order to enter military and whether he, after entering military, made choice to forsake his career with police department and build career in military. Lapine v Town of Wellesley (1997, DC Mass) 970 F Supp 55, 156 BNA LRRM 2589, findings of fact/conclusions of law, in part (2001, DC Mass) 167 BNA LRRM 2139, 143 CCH LC ¶ 11056, findings of fact/conclusions of law (2001, DC Mass) 167 F Supp 2d 132, 170 BNA LRRM 2623, 143 CCH LC ¶ 11057, affd (2002, CA1 Mass) 304 F.3d 90, 170 BNA LRRM 2965, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41172, 146 CCH LC ¶ 10095

Former employee's action against State Accident Insurance Fund Corporation alleging discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.) is dismissed, because Corporation is state entity entitled to Eleventh Amendment immunity, and jurisdiction is lacking in absence of either state consent or congressional abrogation of state's immunity. Forster v SAIF Corp. (1998, DC Or) 23 F Supp 2d 1196, 159 BNA LRRM 2830

As matter of law, National Guard member was promptly reemployed under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4311 et seq., standards; he was offered position four business days after his attorney sent demand letter to employer and he actually returned to work within seven business days of demand letter; more importantly, member returned to work on first day that he indicated that he was available for work. Vander Wal v Sykes Enters. (2005, DC ND) 377 F Supp 2d 738, 177 BNA LRRM 2915

While there were no definitive guidelines establishing what constituted "prompt reemployment" under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4311 et seq., National Guard member's return to work within seven business days of completion of his job application form did not present factual basis to support contention that he was not promptly reemployed under USERRA. Vander Wal v Sykes Enters. (2005, DC ND) 377 F Supp 2d 738, 177 BNA LRRM 2915

Although there is not time limit for filing appeal claiming violation of rights guaranteed by chapter 43 of title 38, Board's authority is limited to enforcing rights as they existed at time claim accrued, hence appellant was not entitled to relief for denial of employment benefits based on his prior service in uniformed services since Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act was in effect at time his action accrued and provided no such protection. Fernandez v Dep't of Army (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 550, affd (2000, CA FC) 234 F.3d 553, 165 BNA LRRM 2844, reh den (2001, CA FC) 2001 US App LEXIS 3033

Administrative judge failed to inform appellant of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act burdens of proof or different methods of proving claim under Act or determine method appellant wished to use to support his claim of discrimination, requiring remand. Schoch v Dep't of the Army (2001, MSPB) 91 MSPR 134

Employment rights under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.) do not extend to employees who leave their civilian employment to pursue military careers. OPM Case No. S000958 (7/30/99)

6. Reserve and national guard personnel

Predecessor statutes were applicable to ready reserves and national guardsmen. United States ex rel. Reilly v New England Teamsters & Trucking Industry Pension Fund (1984, CA2 Conn) 737 F.2d 1274, 5 EBC 1824, 116 BNA LRRM 3060, 101 CCH LC ¶ 11080

Reservist who was on active duty for other than training did not come within former § 2024 for purposes of retaining right to civilian reemployment protection. Graham v Office of Personnel Mgmt. (1997, CA FC) 125 F.3d 1454

Postal Service was required to inform employee who was adjunct of national guard of position on day shift that was newly created while he was on military duty since right to bid for and receive new position was incident or advantage of employment which was denied him solely because he was absent on military duty. Allen v United States Postal Serv. (1998, CA FC) 142 F.3d 1444, 158 BNA LRRM 2133

Merit Systems Protection Board erred in holding that Department of Justice acted permissibly in charging its employees military leave allowance for days on which they were not scheduled to work because 5 USCS § 6323(a)(1) could not be interpreted to require federal employees to expend military leave days for reserve training days on which they were not required to work; Department's pre-2000 practice of charging employees' military leave for non-workdays, which forced them to use other leave to complete reserve training, violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act of 1994, 38 USCS §§ 4301-4333, by denying them benefit of employment based on their military service. Butterbaugh v DOJ (2003, CA FC) 336 F.3d 1332, on remand, remanded (2004, MSPB) 2004 MSPB LEXIS 827, on remand, dismd (2004, MSPB) 2004 MSPB LEXIS 2418

In action by former employee against his former employer alleging violation of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., regarding reduction of his work hours and his ultimate termination, summary judgment was granted for employer under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c) where, although employee showed that his hours of employment could be considered benefit of his employment under 38 USCS § 4303(2), employee failed to satisfy his burden of showing that his military service was substantial or motivating factor for reduction of his hours because: (1) it was undisputed that employer always scheduled employee's hours in order to accommodate his military obligations and did not deny any request by employee for any leave of absence for military service, (2) employer fulfilled its burden of showing that it would have reduced employee's hours absent his military leave because it was undisputed that prom season was over and employer's business was quite slow, and (3) employee failed to satisfy his burden of showing that his military service was substantial or motivating factor for his termination because employer stated that ultimate decision to terminate employee was due to his confrontation with supervisor, and employee failed to show that stated reason was pretextual. Clune v Desmond's Formal Wear, Inc. (2003, ND Ind) 172 BNA LRRM 3177

7. -Local government employees

If inductee is in the employ of any state or political subdivision thereof, it is sense of Congress that such inductee, upon his honorable discharge, should be restored to such position or position of like seniority. McLaughlin v Retherford (1944) 207 Ark 1094, 184 SW2d 461, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62860

Public policy of re-employment provisions to promote recruiting and expansion of military forces of United States, traditionally citizens army, by so-called voluntary enlistments as well as through operation of selective service system, relates to re-employment of employees of any state or political subdivision thereof. Hanebuth v Patton (1946) 115 Colo 166, 170 P2d 526

§ 4302. Relation to other law and plans or agreements

(a) Nothing in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall supersede, nullify or diminish any Federal or State law (including any local law or ordinance), contract, agreement, policy, plan, practice, or other matter that establishes a right or benefit that is more beneficial to, or is in addition to, a right or benefit provided for such person in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].

(b) This chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] supersedes any State law (including any local law or ordinance), contract, agreement, policy, plan, practice, or other matter that reduces, limits, or eliminates in any manner any right or benefit provided by this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], including the establishment of additional prerequisites to the exercise of any such right or the receipt of any such benefit.

Provisions of predecessor statute were enacted pursuant to war powers of Congress [USCS Constitution, Article 1, § 8, cl 12], and were enforced against Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, even though Commonwealth enjoys sovereign immunity accorded to states under Constitution [USCS Constitution, Amendment 11]. Camacho v Public Service Com. (1978, DC Puerto Rico) 450 F Supp 231, 98 BNA LRRM 2653, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10620

2. Relationship with other federal laws

Former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h) granting re-employment rights to returning veterans did not take Veterans Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] decision to withdraw research grant given to medical doctor prior to his term of service out of nonreviewable discretionary exception in 5 USCS § 701(a). Kletschka v Driver (1969, CA2 NY) 411 F.2d 436

42 USCS § 1983 claim could not be based on alleged violation of former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act since statute provided private judicial remedy for its violation. Grady v El Paso Community College (1992, CA5 Tex) 979 F.2d 1111

Principal who sued members of school board, alleging they violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., when they terminated her employment, was not entitled to recover damages under 42 USCS § 1983 for violations of USERRA, and Court of Appeals dismissed member's appeal from district court's ruling that they did not have qualified immunity from liability because appeal was moot. Morris-Hayes v Bd. of Educ. (2005, CA2 NY) 423 F.3d 153, 178 BNA LRRM 2001, 86 CCH EPD ¶ 42089, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10561, 151 CCH LC ¶ 60076

Even though Federal Arbitration Act compelled judicial enforcement of arbitration provision pursuant to 9 USCS § 2, where employment agreement also provided that it would be subject to any and all rights that employee might have under Uniform Services Employment and Re-employment Rights Act (USERRA), there was no clear waiver of rights so that reservation preserved employee's right to bring discrimination and retaliation claims in judicial forum under 38
USCS § 4323(c) rather than submit matters to arbitration; further, 38 USCS § 4302(b) provided that USERRA superseded any contracts, including arbitration agreements, that reduced, limited, or eliminated any rights under USERRA where there was not express waiver of known statutory rights. Breletic v CACI, Inc. (2006, ND Ga) 413 F Supp 2d 1329, 87 CCH EPD ¶ 42235

3. Relationship with state or local laws, generally

Predecessor statute applied to any person who leaves position, other than temporary position, with United States Government, its political subdivisions, or state or its political subdivisions, for training and services in Armed Forces; thrust of statute was protection of re-employment rights of persons who have been inducted in Armed Forces; and, though states are free to establish additional rights or protections for state or local employees, other than those prescribed by statute, states are not free to impose restrictions on re-employment rights granted by statute. Peel v Florida Dep't of Transp. (1977, ND Fla) 443 F Supp 451, 95 BNA LRRM 2308, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13159, affd (1979, CA5 Fla) 600 F.2d 1070, 101 BNA LRRM 3126, 86 CCH LC ¶ 11460 (criticized in Chavez v Arte Publico Press (1995, CA5 Tex) 59 F.3d 539, 35 USPQ2d 1609)

4. -Under particular circumstances

City police department's policy restricting number of police officers eligible to serve as active reservists conflicted directly with language and purpose of predecessor statute. Kolkhorst v Tilghman (1990, CA4 Md) 897 F.2d 1282, 133 BNA LRRM 2807, 114 CCH LC ¶ 12028, cert den (1992) 502 US 1029, 116 L Ed 2d 771, 112 S Ct 865, 139 BNA LRRM 2168, 139 BNA LRRM 2352, 120 CCH LC ¶ 11064

State law which establishes formula for calculation of retirement benefits is preempted to extent it limits increase in pension benefits which veteran would have earned had he not been serving in military. Schell v Ohio State Highway Patrol (1982, SD Ohio) 112 BNA LRRM 2575, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13887

State regulation governing crediting of pension benefits as applied to returning veteran is preempted by statute and state must credit pension benefits to returning veteran for period during her service in Armed Forces. Mazak v Florida Dep't of Admin., Div. of Retirement (1983, ND Fla) 113 BNA LRRM 3217, 97 CCH LC ¶ 10083

State law limiting protected military leave to 6 months conflicted with and was therefore preempted by predecessor statute, which granted unlimited leave for Armed Forces training, even though 6-month provision was reasonable and even generous when compared to other states, because it is responsibility of Congress, rather than states or courts, to draw most appropriate balance between benefits to employee-reservists and costs to employers. Cronin v Police Dep't (1987, SD NY) 675 F Supp 847, 9 EBC 1468, 127 BNA LRRM 2461, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10329

Teacher seeking retirement credit in state public school retirement system for active duty period in state Air National Guard was entitled to all reemployment rights and benefits as returning military service person under predecessor statute, because statute preempted limiting feature of conflicting state law since Congress intended to protect and compensate military personnel, including reservists, and reemployment rights of military service personnel are to be liberally construed. Dailey v Public School Retirement System (1989, ED Mo) 707 F Supp 1087, 10 EBC 2207, 131 BNA LRRM 2189, 111 CCH LC ¶ 11126

Two teachers were entitled to order directing state teachers' retirement board and municipalities where they worked to count their periods of active military service toward retirement credit in state teachers' retirement system, irrespective of state statute which required that individual serve in wartime service in order to have his period of active military duty counted toward retirement credits. Cohen v Massachusetts Teachers' Retirement Bd. (1991, DC Mass) 13 EBC 2218, 139 BNA LRRM 2334, 120 CCH LC ¶ 11023

In action by former employee against his former employer alleging violation of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., regarding reduction of his work hours and his ultimate termination, summary judgment was granted for employer under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c) where, although employee showed that his hours of employment could be considered benefit of his employment under 38 USCS § 4303(2), employee failed to satisfy his burden of showing that his military service was substantial or motivating factor for reduction of his hours because: (1) it was undisputed that employer always scheduled employee's hours in order to accommodate his military obligations and did not deny any request by employee for any leave of absence for military service; (2) employer fulfilled its burden of showing that it would have reduced employee's hours absent his military leave because it was undisputed that prom season was over and employer's business was quite slow; and (3) employee failed to satisfy his burden of showing that his military service was substantial or motivating factor for his termination because employer stated that ultimate decision to terminate employee was due to his confrontation with supervisor, and employee failed to show that stated reason was pretextual. Clune v Desmond's Formal Wear, Inc. (2003, ND Ind) 172 BNA LRRM 3177
Where employee's attendance improvement program (AIP) was extended due to military and Family and Medical Leave Act leave, and where employee was terminated for missing work for other reasons during AIP, summary judgment was inappropriate as to claim under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act; reasonable jury could have found that extinguishment of AIP constituted "benefit of employment" and that employer affected materially adverse change in employee's terms and conditions of employment. Schmauch v Honda of Am. Mfg., Inc. (2003, SD Ohio) 295 F Supp 2d 823, 173 BNA LRRM 2927, 9 BNA WH Cas 2d 360, 149 CCH LC ¶ 34804

District court denied employer's motion to dismiss employee's claims that he was harassed and subjected to hostile work environment upon his return from military service because Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., provided cause of action for harassment due to prior military service as long as employer's conduct was sufficiently pervasive to alter conditions of employment and create abusive working environment and employee was entitled to such "benefit of employment" by virtue of employer policy. Vickers v City of Memphis (2005, WD Tenn) 368 F Supp 2d 842

Montgomery GI Bill benefits accrue to former military personnel based on their military service in one of military departments, but since military departments are not "employers" under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, such benefits are not "benefit of employment" under Act. Appellants were not denied "benefit of employment" under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, since benefit at issue, namely military leave under 5 USCS § 6323, is benefit available solely to employees who are performing active duty or engaging in field or coast defense training as member of Reserves or National Guard; benefit is not available to general population of federal employees. 1. Generally

Given Congress's clear statements as to its original intent in enacting Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act and its wish to have courts apply § 4311(b) in accordance with that intent to all cases regardless of their vintage, district court should not have employed sole-motivation analysis in entering summary judgment against reservist, but should have determined whether there was sufficient evidence from which rational jury could infer that plaintiff's status or conduct as reservist was substantial or motivating factor in his dismissal and, if so, whether as matter of law employer could have discharged him even if he had not been reservist. Gummo v Village of Depew (1996, CA2 NY) 75 F.3d 98, 151 BNA LRRM 2225, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43880, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11477, cert den (1996) 517 US 1190, 134 L Ed 2d 780, 116 S Ct 1678, 152 BNA LRRM 2320

Amendment replacing sole cause standard with motivating factor standard for determining whether military reservists have been discriminated against in employment because of their reservist status cannot be applied retroactively; Congress expressly determined that amendments were prospective. Newport v Ford Motor Co. (1996, CA8 Mo) 91 F.3d 1164, 152 BNA LRRM 2961, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11634, reh, en banc, den (1996, CA8) 1996 US App LEXIS 23954

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act of 1994, 38 USCS §§ 4301-4333, was designed to protect servicemember's rights to employment and reemployment in civilian position, and did not impose tort liability on employer. Gordon v Wawa, Inc. (2004, CA3 NJ) 388 F.3d 78, 175 BNA LRRM 3206

Principal who sued members of school board, alleging they violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., when they terminated her employment, was not entitled to recover damages under 42 USCS § 1983 for violations of USERRA, and Court of Appeals dismissed member's appeal from district court's ruling that they did not have qualified immunity from liability because appeal was moot. Morris-Hayes v Bd. of Educ. (2005, CA2 NY) 423 F.3d 153, 178 BNA LRRM 2001, 86 CCH EPD ¶ 42089, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10561, 151 CCH LC ¶ 60076

Standard of proof which governs cases under Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 2021 et seq.) is set out in Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS § 4311(b)). Graham v Hall-McMillen Co. (1996, ND Miss) 925 F Supp 437, 152 BNA LRRM 2408, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11575

Job applicant's complaint failed to state claim under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA)-applicant asserted that he was veteran, however, he never claimed that decision not to hire him was motivated by his veteran status; thus, applicant's complaint did not assert claim under USERRA. Douris v Bucks County (2005, ED Pa) 16 AD Cas 790, app dismd (2005, CA3 Pa) 2005 US App LEXIS 17759

Although National Guard members alleged existence of conspiracy, they failed to name or identify any actor besides employer; as employer provided for "prompt reemployment" of both members, claim of conspiracy was moot. Vander Wal v Sykes Enters. (2005, DC ND) 377 F Supp 2d 738, 177 BNA LRRM 2915

Settlement agreement covering three EEO complaints did not waive appellant's right to pursue his USERRA discrimination claim regarding his removal with Board since it unambiguously resolved all existing EEO complaints and grievances and only waived appellant's right to pursue his existing allegations through EEOC process. Vandesande v United States Postal Serv. (1997, MSPB) 76 MSPR 190

Where violation of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act is raised as affirmative defense, administrative judge must inform appellant of burdens and methods of proof in petition for remedial action under Act; appellant bears initial burden of showing by preponderance of evidence that military service was substantial or motivating factor in agency's adverse decision, upon which agency must prove that action would have been taken despite protected status. Haynes v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 89 MSPR 9

Veterans Employment Opportunities Act's prohibition against dual proceedings challenging same alleged violation of veterans' preference rules does not apply to Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act claim seeking redress for alleged discrimination on account of military service since it is not seeking redress for violation of veterans' preference rules. Leno v VA (2002, MSPB) 90 MSPR 614

Administrative judge must inform parties of shifting burdens of proof under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act and failure to do so was prejudicial to parties' substantive rights in instant case since agency may have submitted evidence only in rebuttal, not in support of its burden to show that it would have made same selection for valid reason. Matz v Dep't of Veterans Affairs (2002, MSPB) 91 MSPR 265

Veteran's claim that his nonselection violated USERRA because his veterans' preference should have placed him ahead of other candidates did not constitute USERRA claim since USERRA does not provide that veterans will be treated better than non-veterans. Gaston v Corps (2005, MSPB) 100 MSPR 411

2. Jurisdiction

Where veteran claimed federal agency violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4311 et seq., allegations that agency did not hire him due to his military service, and that its reason-that he was not as qualified as selected individual-was pretext, were sufficient to confer jurisdiction of USERRA claim on U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board. Patterson v DOI (2005, CA FC) 424 F.3d 1151, 178 BNA LRRM 2009, 86 CCH EPD ¶ 42075, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10541

Court had subject matter jurisdiction over employee's claim under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4311, because employee did have standing, case was not moot, and case was ripe; employee alleged sufficient casual connection between his injury (lost wages and benefits) and actions of employer, and that injury that could be redressed by favorable decision-i.e., if he prevailed, fact that employer ultimately rehired employee did not erase alleged harm suffered between date he reapplied and date he began working, and employee still had legally cognizable interest in outcome of litigation. Wal v Sykes Enters. (2004, DC ND) 327 F Supp 2d 1075, 175 BNA LRRM 2399

Appellant's allegation that agency removed his law enforcement commission and subjected him to hostile work environment, because of his prior military service, both gave Board jurisdiction over complaint since law enforcement commission falls well within USERRA's definition of benefit of employment, and expansive construction of definition led to conclusion that hostile environment claim also fell within term "benefit"; courts have consistently construed anti-discrimination statutes as proscribing harassment in workplace. Peterson v DOI (1996, MSPB) 71 MSPR 227

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act gave Board jurisdiction to decide appellant's allegation that agency's termination action was discrimination on basis of his status as disabled veteran, notwithstanding that he was serving probationary period. Jasper v United States Postal Serv. (1997, MSPB) 73 MSPR 367 (ovrld in part by Fox v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 381)

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act gave Board jurisdiction to decide appellant's allegation that agency's termination action was discriminatory of his status as handicapped veteran, notwithstanding that he was serving probationary period. Wright v VA (1997, MSPB) 73 MSPR 453

Appellant failed to raise USERRA claim, for, although she indicated that she was veteran and was denied initial employment, she did not allege that agency’s refusal to hire her initially was based on her military service or her status as veteran. McBride v United States Postal Serv. (1998, MSPB) 78 MSPR 411

Appellant's allegations that he performed duty in uniformed service, that he was denied benefit of employment, and that benefit was denied on basis of his performance of duty in uniformed service were sufficient to support prima facie case of discrimination under USERRA, entitling him to jurisdictional hearing. Melvin v United States Postal Serv. (1998, MSPB) 79 MSPR 372, petition den, remanded (2000, MSPB) 86 MSPR 125

Postal Service employees who have not completed one year of current continuous service in same or similar positions qualify as "persons" under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act and thus are not excluded from filing appeals under that statute. Roberson v United States Postal Serv. (1998, MSPB) 77 MSPR 569

Appellant's allegations regarding his termination from employment, disparate treatment and veteran's status could be reasonably viewed as raising Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act claim based on his status as disabled veteran, and appellant thus should have been provided with adequate notice of requirements for establishing Board jurisdiction. Slentz v United States Postal Serv. (2002, MSPB) 92 MSPR 144

Board had jurisdiction of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act appeal since it was not actually litigated in prior action and, although there was filing delay of over 20 months, there are no statutory or regulatory time limits for filing appeal under Act. Johnson v Dep’t of the Air Force (2002, MSPB) 92 MSPR 370

Board had jurisdiction over USERRA claim that appellant was denied initial employment based on his status as disabled veteran, notwithstanding that appellant did not allege that he was denied benefit of employment on basis of his previous performance of military duty. Kirkendall v Dep’t of the Army (2003, MSPB) 94 MSPR 70

3. Discrimination under particular circumstances

District court erred in deciding that 38 USCS § 4311(a), rather than 38 USCS § 4316(b)(1), part of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, (USERRA) must be applied to claims of National Guard and reservist city employees because § 4316(b)(1) was fully applicable to reservists’ short absences from civilian employment for weekend drills or two-week annual training, and district court mistakenly thought that Veterans Reemployment Rights Act, former 38 USCS § 2024(d), was precursor of USERRA § 4316(b)(1); however, USERRA § 4316(b)(1) had no true predecessor and dealt with different subject (non-seniority rights of persons absent for military service) from § 2024(d) (reemployment rights). Rogers v City of San Antonio (2004, CA5 Tex) 392 F.3d 758, 176 BNA LRRM 2129, 85 CCH EPD ¶ 41800

On appeal, military reservist and National Guard employees’ recovery was limited under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4316(b)(1), as they were to be treated equally to such non-seniority rights and benefits as non-military leave employees and district court erred in applying 38 USCS § 4311(a) rather than § 4316(b)(1) to employees' claims because USERRA did not grant escalator protection to service members’ non-seniority rights and benefits. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2004, CA5 Tex) 392 F.3d 758, 176 BNA LRRM 2129, 85 CCH EPD ¶ 41800

Company that interviewed activated reservist for employment position, along with 99 other employees from reservist's company, did not act with discriminatory intent when it did not hire reservist because company thought that reservist was looking for managerial position and did not have any manager positions available. Former employer denied employee benefit of employment under 38 USCS § 4311(a) and within meaning of 38 USCS § 4303(2) when it transferred employee from stable position where he had opportunity to earn bonuses based on his own performance to "back and forth" position where he only could earn bonuses based on other employees' performance. Maxfield v Cintas Corp. No. 2 (2005, CA8 Ark) 427 F.3d 544, 96 BNA FEP Cas 1249, 178 BNA LRRM 2392, 87 CCH EPD &p&t42138, 151 CCH LC &p&t10562, reh den, reh, en banc, den (2005, CA8) 2005 US App LEXIS 27709

Summary judgment should not have been granted to former employer for employee's claim under 38 USCS § 4311(a) because there was question of fact whether employee's reserve status was motivating factor in his transfer where (1) transfer occurred day employee returned from military leave; and (2) discriminatory motive could be inferred from telephone call made by employee's supervisor to sergeant inquiring whether employee was present at military base and from fact that employee's supervisors traveled to military base while employee was on leave to discuss, in part, employee's sales deficit; moreover, employer's evidence concerning circumstances of employee's leave request was sufficient to create genuine issue of fact as to whether it would have terminated employee in any event. Maxfield v Cintas Corp. No. 2 (2005, CA8 Ark) 427 F.3d 544, 96 BNA FEP Cas 1249, 178 BNA LRRM 2392, 87 CCH EPD &p&t42138, 151 CCH LC &p&t10562, reh den, reh, en banc, den (2005, CA8) 2005 US App LEXIS 27709

Membership in U.S. Army Reserves was not benefit of employment with Secret Service so as to find that Secret Service's designating him "key employee" ineligible for being called up in national emergency or mobilization violated USERRA anti-discrimination provisions; USERRA cannot properly be read to convey affirmative right to serve in armed forces, rather prohibits discrimination by employers based on employee's military status. Thomsen v Department of the Treasury (1999, CA FC) 169 F.3d 1378

Employer's refusal to hire reservist was improper under predecessor to statute, where refusal was due to reservist's obligatory college attendance at time of application, because attendance was reserve "obligation" and thus improper basis for discriminating against even first-time applicant, notwithstanding that reservist initially requested college duty. Beattie v Trump Shuttle, Inc. (1991, DC Dist Col) 758 F Supp 30, 136 BNA LRRM 2668, 118 CCH LC ¶ 10738

Air national guard member is entitled to year of lost wages, less his earnings for that year, even though employer presented plenitude of evidence which would have justified terminating "troublemaker" employee for cause, because motivating factor behind his actual termination was company's forcing him to take vacation pay and time for his leave of absence due to military training, and his protestations of that policy. Graham v Hall-McMillen Co. (1996, ND Miss) 925 F Supp 437, 152 BNA LRRM 2408, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11575

Employer is denied summary dismissal of terminated mechanic's 38 USCS § 4311 claim, even though it contends that mechanic was properly terminated for altering his time cards and retaining overpayments in excess of $3,500, because mechanic points to evidence that employer (1) advertised for his position while he was on military leave and prior to investigation of time cards, (2) showed substantial hostility toward his military leave, and (3) suspended him immediately upon his return from leave. Mike v Ron Saxon Ford, Inc. (1997, DC Minn) 960 F Supp 1395

Employer's refusal to hire reservist was improper under predecessor to statute, where refusal was due to reservist's obligatory college attendance at time of application, because attendance was reserve "obligation" and thus improper basis for discriminating against even first-time applicant, notwithstanding that reservist initially requested college duty. Beattie v Trump Shuttle, Inc. (1991, DC Dist Col) 758 F Supp 30, 136 BNA LRRM 2668, 118 CCH LC ¶ 10738

Car dealership is denied summary dismissal of employment discrimination action pursuant to "mixed-motive" rule of 38 USCS § 4311(b), where salesman had to miss important sales event at dealership to attend mandatory physical examination for Army Reserves and was fired less than one week later, because dealership's evidence that salesman was unhappy and unsatisfactory employee might well prevail at trial, but it is insufficiently strong to establish as matter of law that his military service was not motivating factor in decision to terminate him. Robinson v Morris Moore Chevrolet-Buick (1997, ED Tex) 974 F Supp 571, 157 BNA LRRM 2732

Former optical lab technician's claim of violation of Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.) should go to jury, where only facts established are that (1) she was member of Army Reserves and was obligated to attend 2 weeks of military training in April, and (2) she was terminated March 10, same day she informed supervisor that she had joined Reserves, because jury must decide validity of employer's other reasons for firing her and whether her military status was motivating factor. Kelley v Maine Eye Care Assocs., P.A. (1999, DC Me) 37 F Supp 2d 47, 161 BNA LRRM 2024, 76 CCH EPD ¶ 45985

In suit alleging wrongful employment termination in violation of 38 USCS § 4311(c)(1) based on employee's service in military reserves, "sole motivation" standard, rather than "motivating factor" test, applied in analyzing whether employer had based termination on military activities, given that cause of action accrued on date of termination, when time sole motivation standard had been in effect, and that Congress had expressly determined that statutory amendments that modified standard were prospective. Ryan v Berwick Indus., Inc. (1999, MD Pa) 40 F Supp 2d 250, 161 BNA LRRM 2678, 76 CCH EPD ¶ 45988

Both city, as police officer's direct employer, and its director of personnel, who had authority over hiring and firing for city, were subject to liability as "employer" under 38 USCS § 4311 definition of term, for alleged failure to promote officer as result of his affiliation with Army Reserve component and alleged retaliation for officer's exercising his statutory rights. Brandsasse v City of Suffolk, Va. (1999, ED Va) 72 F Supp 2d 608, 163 BNA LRRM 2099

Terminated supervisor's claim that employer violated 38 USCS § 4311 is denied summarily, where record shows he was fired solely for his violation of "no-dating" rule through his personal, sexual relationship with female hourly employee, because, aside from correlation in timing, he offers nothing but his own speculation to establish nexus between his military orders and his termination. Sanguinetti v UPS (2000, SD Fla) 114 F Supp 2d 1313, 79 CCH EPD ¶ 40275, 14 FLW Fed D 23, affd without op (2001, CA11 Fla) 254 F.3d 75

Where neutral employment policy provides that promotional exam must be administered only on particular date to all employees, it may constitute discrimination under 38 USCS § 4311 to refuse to allow veterans away on leave on date in question to take make-up exam upon their return from service. Fink v City of New York (2001, ED NY) 129 F Supp 2d 511, 166 BNA LRRM 2923, 80 CCH EPD ¶ 40592

Defendant could not be held liable for decision not to recommend plaintiff for certification as principal because plaintiff had not shown that his membership in United States Air Force Reserves was motivating factor in defendant's decision not to recommend him for certification, and defendant had shown that it would have made same decision in absence of consideration of plaintiff's military status; therefore defendant's decision did not violate plaintiff's rights under 38 USCS § 4311. Smith v Sch. Bd. (2002, MD Fla) 205 F Supp 2d 1308

City's exclusion of military leave from 27-hour cap on lost Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) overtime violated Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., because when military reservist was forced to use vacation leave in same FLSA cycle as military leave he lost benefit of cap, thereby denying him same benefit otherwise available to non-reservist counterparts. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209

City violated Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., by denying military reservists opportunity to make up for any lost overtime or upgrading and/or training that would have been available to them had they not been on military leave. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209

City is required by Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., to allow absent military reservists to make up any opportunities for upgrading and/or training missed while on duty. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209

City was liable under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., because it considered reservists' military status in offering to them "bonus day" or "perfect attendance" leaves only on reduced basis. Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment on employee's claim of discrimination, brought pursuant to Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act of 1994, because reasonable jury could have found that employee's military status was motivating factor in decision to terminate employee and that employee's performance alone was not reason. Gillie-Harp v Cardinal Health, Inc. (2003, WD Wis) 249 F Supp 2d 1113, 171 BNA LRRM 2956

Where employee's attendance improvement program (AIP) was extended due to military and Family and Medical Leave Act leave, and where employee was terminated for missing work for other reasons during AIP, summary judgment was inappropriate as to claim under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act; reasonable jury could have found that extinguishment of AIP constituted "benefit of employment" and that employer affected materially adverse change in employee's terms and conditions of employment. Schmauch v Honda of Am. Mfg., Inc. (2003, SD Ohio) 295 F Supp 2d 823, 173 BNA LRRM 2927, 9 BNA WH Cas 2d 360, 149 CCH LC ¶ 34804

Summary judgment was denied where employer sought judgment on employee's claims for retaliation and wrongful discharge where its reason for terminating employee for incident with customer was arguably pretextual-if he had been fired for attending National Guard duty. Mills v Earthgrains Baking Cos. (2004, ED Tenn) 175 BNA LRRM 2811

Employer was denied summary judgment on employee's claim of employment discrimination brought under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act where employee was demoted same day that employee informed employer that he was being called for military duty and employee submitted sufficient evidence that change in position significantly affected employee's employment status because loss of status associated with being removed from head coach position would limit coaching career options and advancement opportunities; furthermore, employee presented evidence that employee's military status played major role in decision to remove employee from head coach position. Harris v City of Montgomery (2004, MD Ala) 322 F Supp 2d 1319, 175 BNA LRRM 2070

Employee who was military reserve member successfully defeated employer's motion for summary judgment for denying employee merit increase based upon employee's military status where employee provided evidence of receiving favorable evaluation and then three days later, after informing employer of being called up for military duty, he was given completely revised and completely unsatisfactory evaluation, which resulted in denial of merit increase. Harris v City of Montgomery (2004, MD Ala) 322 F Supp 2d 1319, 175 BNA LRRM 2070

Employee stated cause of action because employee sufficiently alleged, pursuant to Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4311, that employer did not rehire him because of his membership in uniformed services; although employee's complaint did not specifically allege that he was member of uniformed service, he stated that he was ordered to active duty and stationed in Iraq. Wal v Sykes Enters. (2004, DC ND) 327 F Supp 2d 1075, 175 BNA LRRM 2399

Summary judgment was granted in favor of employer because undisputed facts that were presented established that employer was not aware of employee's military status at time that decision was made to terminate employee and employee could not establish that employee's military obligation was not motivating factor in adverse employment decision. Snowman v IMCO Recycling, Inc. (2004, ND Tex) 347 F Supp 2d 338, 176 BNA LRRM 2206

Where employee cited no evidence from which jury could reasonably have found that employee's military service was substantial or motivating factor in employer's employment decisions, including decision not to hire him as full-time test pilot, his employer was entitled to summary judgment on his discrimination claims under 38 USCS § 4311(a), part of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4301 et seq.; both individuals hired for positions had prior or current military experience that employer considered as plus when hiring pilots and, in that regard, court agreed with employer that USERRA does not prohibit employer from weighing job-related skills that various applicants may have acquired in military service. Goico v Boeing Co. (2004, DC Kan) 347 F Supp 2d 955, 176 BNA LRRM 2228, judgment entered (2004, DC Kan) 347 F Supp 2d 986, motion for new trial denied, motion to strike den (2005, DC Kan) 2005 US Dist LEXIS 2768
Terminated employee made sufficient prima facie case that he was discriminated against because of his ongoing service in Army Reserve, pursuant to 38 USCS § 4311; reasonable jury could find that employer's zero-tolerance policy as applied to joking "threat" communicated to another employee was pretextual reason for termination of Reservist's employment. Warren v IBM (2005, SD NY) 358 F Supp 2d 301

District court denied employer's motion to dismiss employee's claims that he was harassed and subjected to hostile work environment upon his return from military service because Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., provided cause of action for harassment due to prior military service. Vickers v City of Memphis (2005, WD Tenn) 368 F Supp 2d 842

Summary judgment was properly granted to several employers in case brought under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS §§ 4301-33, because there was no hostile work environment based on comments made on last day of employment or fact that supervisor participated in unannounced conference call, requested better notice of military leave, and requested that employee train others to minimize disruptions during his absences; constructive discharge was not shown based on claims of unfair accusations, transfer without change in responsibility, title, or benefit, and lack of formal process related to request for leave. Figueroa Reyes v Hosp. San Pablo del Este (2005, DC Puerto Rico) 389 F Supp 2d 205

Appellant timely filed his USERRA appeal where statute does not impose time limit, and filing was within 180-day period set by interim regulations. Martir v Department of the Navy (1999, MSPB) 81 MSPR 421

Appellant's claim alleging discrimination on account of military service based on events pre-dating Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act failed to state claim upon which relief could be granted. Venters v United States Postal Serv. (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 34

Appellant's claim alleging discrimination on account of military service based on events pre-dating Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act failed to state claim upon which relief could be granted. Higgins v United States Postal Serv. (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 64, petition den, remanded (2000, MSPB) 86 MSPR 447

Claim of agency discrimination based on military-connected disability, such as appellant raised, is claim of disability discrimination, not claim covered by Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act. Ray v VA (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 108

Appellant made nonfrivolous allegation that he was not selected for position on basis of his obligation to perform military service and was thus entitled to jurisdictional hearing. Tindall v Dep't of Army (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 230, corrected (1999, MSPB) 1999 MSPB LEXIS 1547

Neither administrative judge nor agency's dismissal notice put appellant on notice of what was required to establish nonfrivolous allegation of discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, requiring remand to give appellant opportunity to establish Board jurisdiction over her claim. Riordan v United States Postal Serv. (1999, MSPB) 84 MSPR 410

Retired career officers in Navy Judge Advocate General Corps failed to show that their nonselection for civilian counsel to Commander position with agency because of discrimination based on their military service in violation of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act; given appellants' experience and that of person ultimately selected, agency's stated reason of wanting individual with Office of General Counsel experience was not pretextual. Fahrenbacher v Dep't of the Navy (2000, MSPB) 85 MSPR 500, affd sub nom Sheehan v Dep't of the Navy (2001, CA FC) 240 F.3d 1009, 166 BNA LRRM 2526

Appellant established prima facie case of discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act by alleging facts which, if proven, could establish that he was not reinstated because of his military service, hence he was entitled to jurisdictional hearing. Perkins v United States Postal Serv. (2000, MSPB) 85 MSPR 545
Right to reassignment in another location is benefit of employment for purposes of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, in light of legislative history and relevant court and Board decisions. Eberhart v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 398

Agency did not fulfill its obligations under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act in reassigning appellant since new position was temporary assignment while his former assignment was permanent and agency failed to show that appellant could return to permanent position upon completion of temporary detail. Rogers v Dep't of the Army (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 610

Essence of appellant's claim was not that agency treated persons who did not perform uniformed service better than those who did, rather lack of animus against veterans generally and instead that agency's displeasure was directed at him personally, hence claims did not establish discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act. Daniels v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 630, affd (2001, CA FC) 25 Fed Appx 970

Appellants failed to offer support for belief that agency harbored hostility toward his military service; even assuming such motivating factor, agency proved that it would have proposed appellant's removal for charged misconduct in absence of military service. Fahrenbacher v Department of Veterans Affairs (2001, MSPB) 89 MSPR 260

Appellant making Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act claim of discrimination should be advised of burden and methods of proof and provided opportunity to submit evidence and argument to meet them, requiring remand. Bloomer v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 90 MSPR 324

Remand was required to advise appellant making Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act claim of discrimination of burden and methods of proof and provide opportunity to submit evidence and argument to meet them. Skellham v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 90 MSPR 361

Appellant stated cognizable claim of discrimination under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act because interview panel was skeptical and curious about his service-connected disability, suggesting some evidence of anti-veteran animus among panelists. Bagunas v United States Postal Serv. (2002, MSPB) 92 MSPR 5

Appellant failed to establish that his nonselection was due to his military status since agency found him ineligible because he did not have his college degree. Williams v Dep't of the Navy (2003, MSPB) 94 MSPR 206, affd (2004, CA FC) 89 Fed Appx 724

Agency did not violate USERRA by ruling that time appellant served as military cadet was not creditable for leave accrual purposes, since 10 USC'S ' 971(b) prevents service as cadet at Coast Guard Academy from being credited for any purpose. Crawford v DOT (2003, MSPB) 95 MSPR 44, affd (2004, CA FC) 373 F.3d 1155, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10386

§ 4312. Reemployment rights of persons who serve in the uniformed services

(a) Subject to subsections (b), (c), and (d) and to section 4304 [38 USCS § 4304], any person whose absence from a position of employment is necessitated by reason of service in the uniformed services shall be entitled to the reemployment rights and benefits and other employment benefits of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] if--

(1) the person (or an appropriate officer of the uniformed service in which such service is performed) has given advance written or verbal notice of such service to such person's employer;

(2) the cumulative length of the absence and of all previous absences from a position of employment with that employer by reason of service in the uniformed services does not exceed five years; and
(3) except as provided in subsection (f), the person reports to, or submits an application for reemployment to, such employer in accordance with the provisions of subsection (e).

(b) No notice is required under subsection (a)(1) if the giving of such notice is precluded by military necessity or, under all of the relevant circumstances, the giving of such notice is otherwise impossible or unreasonable. A determination of military necessity for the purposes of this subsection shall be made pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense and shall not be subject to judicial review.

(c) Subsection (a) shall apply to a person who is absent from a position of employment by reason of service in the uniformed services if such person's cumulative period of service in the uniformed services, with respect to the employer relationship for which a person seeks reemployment, does not exceed five years, except that any such period of service shall not include any service--

(1) that is required, beyond five years, to complete an initial period of obligated service;
(2) during which such person was unable to obtain orders releasing such person from a period of service in the uniformed services before the expiration of such five-year period and such inability was through no fault of such person;
(3) performed as required pursuant to section 10147 of title 10 [10 USCS § 10147], under section 502(a) or 503 of title 32 [32 USCS § 502(a) or 503], or to fulfill additional training requirements determined and certified in writing by the Secretary concerned, to be necessary for professional development, or for completion of skill training or retraining; or
(4) performed by a member of a uniformed service who is-
   (A) ordered to or retained on active duty under section 688, 12301(a), 12301(g), 12302, 12304, or 12305 of title 10 [10 USCS § 688, 12301(a), 12301(g), 12302, 12304, or 12305] or under section 331, 332, 359, 360, 367, or 712 of title 14 [14 USCS § 331, 332, 359, 360, 367, or 712];
   (B) ordered to or retained on active duty (other than for training) under any provision of law because of a war or national emergency declared by the President or the Congress, as determined by the Secretary concerned;
   (C) ordered to active duty (other than for training) in support, as determined by the Secretary concerned, of an operational mission for which personnel have been ordered to active duty under section 12304 of title 10 [10 USCS § 12304];
   (D) ordered to active duty in support, as determined by the Secretary concerned, of a critical mission or requirement of the uniformed services; or
   (E) called into Federal service as a member of the National Guard under chapter 15 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 331 et seq.] or under section 12406 of title 10 [10 USCS § 12406].

(d) (1) An employer is not required to reemploy a person under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] if--
   (A) the employer's circumstances have so changed as to make such reemployment impossible or unreasonable;
(B) in the case of a person entitled to reemployment under subsection (a)(3), (a)(4), or (b)(2)(B) of section 4313 [38 USCS § 4313], such employment would impose an undue hardship on the employer; or
(C) the employment from which the person leaves to serve in the uniformed services is for a brief, nonrecurrent period and there is no reasonable expectation that such employment will continue indefinitely or for a significant period.

(2) In any proceeding involving an issue of whether--
(A) any reemployment referred to in paragraph (1) is impossible or unreasonable because of a change in an employer's circumstances,
(B) any accommodation, training, or effort referred to in subsection (a)(3), (a)(4), or (b)(2)(B) of section 4313 [38 USCS § 4313] would impose an undue hardship on the employer, or
(C) the employment referred to in paragraph (1)(C) is for a brief, nonrecurrent period and there is no reasonable expectation that such employment will continue indefinitely or for a significant period, the employer shall have the burden of proving the impossibility or unreasonableness, undue hardship, or the brief or nonrecurrent nature of the employment without a reasonable expectation of continuing indefinitely or for a significant period.

(e) (1) Subject to paragraph (2), a person referred to in subsection (a) shall, upon the completion of a period of service in the uniformed services, notify the employer referred to in such subsection of the person's intent to return to a position of employment with such employer as follows:
(A) In the case of a person whose period of service in the uniformed services was less than 31 days, by reporting to the employer--
(i) not later than the beginning of the first full regularly scheduled work period on the first full calendar day following the completion of the period of service and the expiration of eight hours after a period allowing for the safe transportation of the person from the place of that service to the person's residence; or
(ii) as soon as possible after the expiration of the eight-hour period referred to in clause (i), if reporting within the period referred to in such clause is impossible or unreasonable through no fault of the person.
(B) In the case of a person who is absent from a position of employment for a period of any length for the purposes of an examination to determine the person's fitness to perform service in the uniformed services, by reporting in the manner and time referred to in subparagraph (A).
(C) In the case of a person whose period of service in the uniformed services was for more than 30 days but less than 181 days, by submitting an application for reemployment with the employer not later than 14 days after the completion of the period of service or if submitting such application within such period is impossible or unreasonable through no fault of the person, the next first full calendar day when submission of such application becomes possible.
(D) In the case of a person whose period of service in the uniformed services was for more than 180 days, by submitting an application for reemployment with the employer not later than 90 days after the completion of the period of service.
(2) (A) A person who is hospitalized for, or convalescing from, an illness or injury incurred in, or aggravated during, the performance of service in the uniformed services shall, at the end of the period that is necessary for the person to recover from such illness or injury, report to the person's employer (in the case of a person described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph (1)) or submit an application for reemployment with such employer (in the case of a person described in subparagraph (C) or (D) of such paragraph). Except as provided in subparagraph (B), such period of recovery may not exceed two years.

(B) Such two-year period shall be extended by the minimum time required to accommodate the circumstances beyond such person's control which make reporting within the period specified in subparagraph (A) impossible or unreasonable.

(3) A person who fails to report or apply for employment or reemployment within the appropriate period specified in this subsection shall not automatically forfeit such person's entitlement to the rights and benefits referred to in subsection (a) but shall be subject to the conduct rules, established policy, and general practices of the employer pertaining to explanations and discipline with respect to absence from scheduled work.

(f) (1) A person who submits an application for reemployment in accordance with subparagraph (C) or (D) of subsection (e)(1) or subsection (e)(2) shall provide to the person's employer (upon the request of such employer) documentation to establish that--

(A) the person's application is timely;
(B) the person has not exceeded the service limitations set forth in subsection (a)(2) (except as permitted under subsection (c)); and
(C) the person's entitlement to the benefits under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] has not been terminated pursuant to section 4304 [38 USCS § 4304].

(2) Documentation of any matter referred to in paragraph (1) that satisfies regulations prescribed by the Secretary shall satisfy the documentation requirements in such paragraph.

(3) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the failure of a person to provide documentation that satisfies regulations prescribed pursuant to paragraph (2) shall not be a basis for denying reemployment in accordance with the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] if the failure occurs because such documentation does not exist or is not readily available at the time of the request of the employer. If, after such reemployment, documentation becomes available that establishes that such person does not meet one or more of the requirements referred to in subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) of paragraph (1), the employer of such person may terminate the employment of the person and the provision of any rights or benefits afforded the person under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].

(B) An employer who reemploys a person absent from a position of employment for more than 90 days may require that the person provide the employer with the documentation referred to in subparagraph (A) before beginning to treat the person as not having incurred a break in service for pension purposes under section 4318(a)(2)(A) [38 USCS § 4318(a)(2)(A)].

(4) An employer may not delay or attempt to defeat a reemployment obligation by demanding documentation that does not then exist or is not then readily available.
(g) The right of a person to reemployment under this section shall not entitle such person to retention, preference, or displacement rights over any person with a superior claim under the provisions of title 5, United States Code, relating to veterans and other preference eligibles.

(h) In any determination of a person's entitlement to protection under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], the timing, frequency, and duration of the person's training or service, or the nature of such training or service (including voluntary service) in the uniformed services, shall not be a basis for denying protection of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] if the service does not exceed the limitations set forth in subsection (c) and the notice requirements established in subsection (a)(1) and the notification requirements established in subsection (e) are met.

I. IN GENERAL

1. Generally

There was no merit to argument that veteran had to accept unconditional offer of re-employment before he could present claim for restoration to pre-active duty status. Stevens v Tennessee Valley Authority (1983, CA6) 699 F.2d 314, 112 BNA LRRM 2849, 96 CCH LC ¶ 14120

2. Leaves of absence

Determination by District Court that extended leave requested by National Guard officer did not meet rule of reasonableness acknowledged by officer to be applicable under statute was not clearly erroneous where, after obtaining original leave, officer did not inform employer for several weeks that he was seeking permission from military to extend training period; officer did not discuss with employer that it was unnecessary for him to complete entire training course in single year; and, after being informed by employer that leave would not be extended, officer did not undertake to discuss with employer the opportunities which were available to him but simply stated that he intended to continue his absence from his civilian duties. Lee v Pensacola (1981, CA5 Fla) 634 F.2d 886, 106 BNA LRRM 2329, 90 CCH LC ¶ 12523

Employer violated predecessor statute when it denied 1 year leave of absence to employee who was military reservist seeking training as licensed practical nurse to qualify for future military promotions where employee gave employer four month's notice of intended absence and there were no apparent nurses training alternatives; burden upon employer to hire and train replacement for employee seeking 1 year leave of absence was insufficient, alone, to overcome reasonableness of request. Gulf States Paper Corp. v Ingram (1987, CA11 Ala) 811 F.2d 1464, 124 BNA LRRM 2873, 106 CCH LC ¶ 12239

Reasonableness standard applies in evaluating employee's leave request and employer's response since application of reasonableness standard is consistent with Congress' joint resolution urging nation's employers to cooperate with Reserve Services scheme, and interpretation of statute that gave employees right to leave on demand for even substantial part of work year without consideration of legitimate needs of civilian employers for continuity and dependability among their work force would be counterproductive to spirit of joint resolution because it could deter hiring of members of Reserve Services. Eidukonis v Southeastern Pennsylvania Transp. Authority (1989, CA3 Pa) 873 F.2d 688, 131 BNA LRRM 2287, 111 CCH
Predecessor to statute must be construed as requiring employer to grant reservists leave of absence in order to participate in military training regardless of whether training is at initiative of reservist or at service’s initiative.  Green v Spartan Stores, Inc. (1982, WD Mich) 112 BNA LRRM 2099, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13847

Under rule evaluating employee's statutory re-employment rights on basis of reasonableness of employee's request for leave of absence, employee's request for 26-day "one-shot deal" voluntary training leave that would allegedly enhance his reserve career was reasonable notwithstanding that (1) he had just returned from 2-week active duty tour, (2) request came during "summer camp" season, (3) 30 to 50 percent of employer's employees were also reservists, and (4) employee's absence would further exacerbate already difficult situation in which management had been filling in for flight instructor reservists with complaints from union for so doing.  Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Duration of military leave protected by predecessor statute is not limited to 90 days, where statutory language expressly grants leave "for period required to perform training in Armed Forces," because (1) in 1968 and again in 1974, Congress reviewed and acted upon Veteran's Reemployment Rights Act but left language of statute intact, and (2) when Department of Labor sought to change longstanding "unlimited" interpretation of statutory protections, Congress issued strong statement of its intent that protected leave period should not have arbitrary time limit.  Cronin v Police Dep't (1987, SD NY) 675 F Supp 847, 9 EBC 1468, 127 BNA LRRM 2461, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10329

Former sheriff's department employee who was granted three year leave of absence to serve on active duty for training with United States Army Reserve was granted reinstatement to position under statute, despite employer's assertion that employee resigned to enter military service, where (1) employee's reinstatement rights were based on applicability of Veterans Reemployment Rights Act, and not result of contractual agreement between parties, and (2) three year absence was not unreasonable.  Lemmon v County of Santa Cruz (1988, ND Cal) 686 F Supp 797, 130 BNA LRRM 2604, 111 CCH LC ¶ 10950

Public employer violated Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (former 38 USCS §§ 2021 et seq.) when it terminated Army reservist's employment, even though reservist had not always been completely candid or prompt with notice to employer of his reservist activities, where employer had always approved of reservist's extended military leaves in past, because reservist acted in good faith in requesting 26-day extension of military leave to complete important military project but employer acted in bad faith by changing its military leave policy as it applied to reservist without warning and discharging him.  Eidukonis v Southeastern Pennsylvania Transp. Authority (1991, ED Pa) 757 F Supp 634, 137 BNA LRRM 2349, 120 CCH LC ¶ 11027

Evidence supported finding that reservist had not made reasonable request for leave where on Sunday, he left his leave request and note indicating that he had been called to reserve duty, when Monday was holiday, and thus gave his superiors no chance to disapprove his leave request, petitioner had opportunity to discuss possible reserve duty with his superiors and to request leave, and even admitted that he could have tried to contact them before departing.  Ellermets v Dep't of the Army (1990, CA) 916 F.2d 702

3. Training duty

Predecessor statute applied to National Guard or reservist's active or inactive duty for training, whether required or not.  Lee v Pensacola (1981, CA5 Fla) 634 F.2d 886, 106 BNA LRRM 2329, 90 CCH LC ¶ 12523

Veteran with active reserve obligation was protected from discharge from employment for attendance at reserve summer camps by predecessor statute, and, upon wrongful discharge from employment, was entitled to reinstatement.  Bankston v Stratton-Baldwin Co. (1977, SD Ala) 441 F Supp 247, 96 BNA LRRM 3292, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10304

Laborer who, had 2-week period of military training been counted, would have had sufficient number of hours to remain in millwright apprentice program in layoff status rather than being laid off, and who would have achieved millwright status 17 months earlier but for hiatus in training program caused by his layoff, was entitled to recover difference in wages for 17-month period, employer having violated provisions of statute. Almond v United States Steel Corp. (1980, ED Pa) 499 F Supp 786, 105 BNA LRRM 2965, 89 CCH LC ¶ 12206

Fact that reservist could not complete initial 12-week training due to service-connected injury does not deprive reservist of rights under predecessor statute. Zeczycki v Trinity Memorial Hospital (1983, ED Wis) 113 BNA LRRM 2163, 97 CCH LC ¶ 10011

Employer is required to make allowances for reservists whose duties force them to miss time at work by providing them with leave of absence, and reservists must be re-employed after active duty; refusal to reinstate employee, or refusal to give employee leave of absence to fulfill reservist obligations, constitutes violation, despite fact that employee resigned in order to serve tour. Micalone v Long Island R. Co. (1983, SD NY) 582 F Supp 973, 115 BNA LRRM 2640, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10606, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10632

Veterans' Re-employment Rights Act applies to training duty whether required or not; employee is covered by re-employment provisions of Act regardless of whether he volunteers for active duty or is compelled to perform such duty. Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Employer in Kansas City, Kansas had obligation under predecessor statute to allow employee who was member of Navy reserve time off from work in order to travel to Memphis, Tennessee to attend military reserve inactive training, including time off for traveling to training location in Memphis, notwithstanding contention that statute, although specifically allowing reservists time off from work to travel from place of training to place of employment, does not cover travel to place of training. Sawyer v Swift & Co. (1985, DC Kan) 610 F Supp 38, 118 BNA LRRM 3269, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11394, revd on other grounds (1988, CA10 Kan) 836 F.2d 1257, 127 BNA LRRM 2274, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10274

4. Effect of extension of term of service
Motor carrier's district supervisor who was commissioned army captain in 1942 and did not leave Army after World War II, in 1948 signed commitment for 3 years' additional active duty, executed voluntary commitments in 1951 and 1952 and was retired in 1953, after having been assigned logistical duties, including maintenance and management of heavy motorized equipment, could not be refused re-employment on grounds that he was not capable of doing his old civilian job nor on grounds that his successor was capable but veteran lost re-employment rights by voluntarily remaining in service after end of 4 years' initial service; re-enlistment was not entry into active duty because veteran was already on active duty; veteran lost his right to re-employment by voluntarily extending his period of military service beyond time when he would have been entitled to discharge. Smith v Missouri Pacific Transp. Co. (1963, CA8 Ark) 313 F.2d 676, 52 BNA LRRM 2547, 46 CCH LC ¶ 18071 (ovrd in part as stated in Paisley v City of Minneapolis (1996, CA8 Minn) 79 F.3d 722, 151 BNA LRRM 2948, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11702) and (criticized in Wrigglesworth v Brumbaugh (2000, WD Mich) 121 F Supp 2d 1126, 166 BNA LRRM 2560)

Veteran, who re-enlisted, was entitled to re-employment rights despite provision of union contract that granting of full seniority rights did not apply to second enlistments. Nunn v Humphrey (1948, DC Pa) 79 F Supp 8

Veteran was not barred from benefits merely because one week elapsed between discharge and re-enlistment where separation was result of inability of Army to handle re-enlistment expeditiously. Fessler v Reading Co. (1955, DC Pa) 138 F Supp 203, 29 CCH LC ¶ 69756

Fact that veteran requested extension of his tour of military duty for 89 additional days did not prevent him from seeking benefits of statute. Fletcher v Commissioner of Civil Service (1971, ED Tenn) 329 F Supp 1398
Under predecessor statute, orders for plaintiff, member of National Guard, to report for full-time training constituted "active duty for training in Armed Forces of the United States"; for purposes of statute, full-time training or full-time duty performed by member of National Guard under 32 USCS § 505, is considered active duty for training. Peel v Florida Dep't of Transp. (1977, ND Fla) 443 F Supp 451, 95 BNA LRRM 2038, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13159, aff'd (1979, CA5 Fla) 600 F.2d 1070, 101 BNA LRRM 3126, 86 CCH LC ¶ 11480 (criticized in Chavez v Arte Publico Press (1995, CA5 Tex) 59 F.3d 539, 35 USPQ2d 1609)

Employee's voluntary extension on active duty was irrelevant to determination of employee's re-employment rights where, but for employer's illegal refusal of employee's request for 26-day training leave, employee would not have resigned his employment, and, but for his resignation, he would not have extended his service on active duty. Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Veteran's rights under predecessor statute were not violated because former employer failed to restore him to former position of refuse collector or similar position with same seniority and pay, notwithstanding that employer under statute was required to offer re-employment to veteran who had been laid off prior to entering active military service, since employer was required to return veteran to re-employment eligibility list of laid off personnel for period of time veteran would have been entitled to remain on list with other laid off employees, had he not entered military service, and period of remaining eligibility to which veteran was entitled expired before employer had available position. Colon v County of Shawnee (1987, CA10 Kan) 815 F.2d 594, 124 BNA LRRM 3213, 106 CCH LC ¶ 12323

Male reservist failed to adequately notify his employer that he would be unable to perform assigned overtime work because of make-up weekend reserve training drill, notwithstanding that reservist informed employer at grievance proceeding approximately one month earlier that make-up drill would occur on first nonholiday weekend in January, since reservist failed to give specific date or to remind employer from time that overtime list was put out until one hour prior to his commitment that he be unable to appear at his place of employment, and that reservist failed to inform anyone that his name should not have been on overtime list or that he could not work because of reserve duties. Sawyer v Swift & Co. (1988, CA10 Kan) 836 F.2d 1257, 127 BNA LRRM 2274, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10274

Pre-employment military service should not be counted toward four-year service limitation for eligibility for reemployment under former § 2024; four-year restriction was designed specifically to address employers' concerns about reemployment rights of indefinite duration and not to penalize veterans on basis of their pre-employment service. Sykes v Columbus & Greenville Ry. (1997, CA5 Miss) 117 F.3d 287, 155 BNA LRRM 2848, 134 CCH LC ¶ 10041

38 USCS § 101(24) should not be incorporated into Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act of 1974 (VRRA) to expand scope and application of VRRA: (1) even though courts construe veterans' statutes liberally, they cannot create rights out of whole cloth; (2) employer complies with VRRA when it rehires employee following his or her discharge from military service; and (3) VRRA does not purport to create additional reemployment rights after employee has been rehired and thereafter is granted disability leave, even if disability is related to his prior military service. Bowlds v GM Mfg. Div. of GMC (2005, CA7 Ind) 411 F.3d 808, 177 BNA LRRM 2529

Employer did not violate Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act of 1974 (VRRA) when it failed to immediately rehire employee, who had returned to work following his discharge from military service, had been placed on disability due to complications from Agent Orange exposure, and had subsequently been medically cleared to return to work: (1) employer met its obligations under VRRA when it rehired employee following his military discharge; (2) employer's VRRA obligations did not extend to employee's return to work following his subsequent disability leave; and (3) employer could not be held liable under former 38 USCS § 2022 for allegedly failing to properly credit employee's pension, because no VRRA violation had occurred. Bowlds v GM Mfg. Div. of GMC (2005, CA7 Ind) 411 F.3d 808, 177 BNA LRRM 2529

Reservist's reemployment rights under predecessor statute did not lapse when reservist chose to convert status from special active duty for training to active duty status where reservist had originally volunteered for training status and converted to active duty status only after training status was terminated by Department of Army and reservist was faced with termination of his commission. Lemmon v County of Santa Cruz (1988, ND Cal) 686 F Supp 797, 130 BNA LRRM 2604, 111 CCH LC ¶ 10950

Reservist's claim under Veteran's Re-Employment Rights Act will not be dismissed summarily, where reservist was called to active duty in September 1990, released from active duty due to lost security clearance in October 1990, re-employed immediately by former employer, but then reduced to part-time status in December and terminated in January 1991, because issues of fact remain, pursuant to § 2024(b)(1) requirements that reservist (1) "must satisfactorily have performed military service," and (2) must have been fired "without cause." Garcia v Ecotech, Inc. (1992, MD La) 786 F Supp 571, 140 BNA LRRM 2866

Employment rights under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.) do not extend to employees who leave their civilian employment to pursue military careers. OPM Case No. S000958 (7/30/99)

II. NATURE OF CESSATION OF EMPLOYMENT

6. Generally

To be restored to his former position, burden is on employee to prove that he left his position which was permanent in its nature in order to perform military training and service in the armed forces. McCarthy v M & M Transp. Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 322, 19 BNA LRRM 2327, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63613

Fact that veteran continues to obtain some commissions from his preservice employment does not prevent finding that he left such employment to enter military service. Travis v Schwartz Mfg. Co. (1954, CA7 Wis) 216 F.2d 448, 35 BNA LRRM 2191, 26 CCH LC ¶ 68775

It makes no difference whether person resigns employment before induction or after induction or does not resign at all if he leaves employment for purpose of performing training and service in Armed Forces. Atkinson v United States (1946, DC Minn) 68 F Supp 99

No prior notice of leaving for military service is necessary, test being whether or not person was required to leave his employment to report for purpose of being inducted or determining by preinduction examination his physical fitness to enter Armed Forces and, where employee was so required by reason of induction order and reported for work following his rejection within period specified by statute, employee must be restored to former job. Fortenberry v Owen Bros. Packing Co. (1966, SD Miss) 267 F Supp 605, 65 BNA LRRM 2627, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11885, affd (1967, CA5 Miss) 378 F.2d 373, 65 BNA LRRM 2629, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11905

Veterans' Re-employment Rights Act applies to training duty whether required or not; employee is covered by re-employment provisions of Act regardless of whether he volunteers for active duty or is compelled to perform such duty. Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Phrase "in order to perform" in former 38 USCS § 2021 meant that employee had to provide good evidence of his or her motive for leaving work. Preda v Nissho Iwai Am. Corp. (1996, SD NY) 152 BNA LRRM 2185, 134 CCH LC ¶ 10001, affd in part and vacated in part, remanded (1997, CA2 NY) 128 F.3d 789, 75 BNA FEP Cas 371, 156 BNA LRRM 2857, 72 CCH EPD ¶ 45071

7. Notice

Fact that employer had no notice that employee was leaving employment in order to enter military service does not amount to waiver of employee's rights under former 38 USCS § 2021 since no such notice was required. Adams v Mobile County Personnel Bd. (1982, SD Ala) 115 BNA LRRM 2936, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13886

Veteran did not leave position to enter service and was not entitled to reinstatement where, on August 9, 1943, he was notified that he had been selected for training in armed services, was ordered to report to draft board for induction on September 3, at which time he was inducted into Army and was released from active duty until September 24, and where, during interim, he continued his work until September 7, at which time he was fired. McCarthy v M & M Transp. Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 322, 19 BNA LRRM 2327, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63613

Promotions were not temporary where carmen helpers were advanced to mechanics prior to their induction pursuant to contract. Employer was liable for discharging foreman because he had asked for Saturday off to meet scheduled reserve unit drill. Cole v Swint (1992, CA5 Tex) 961 F.2d 58, 140 BNA LRRM 2447, 121 CCH LC ¶ 10174

Defendant sufficiently showed that plaintiff's discharge was attributable to his dishonesty and insubordination, not his reserve status, and plaintiff therefore was not entitled to relief under Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act. Gummo v Village of Depew (1998, CA2 NY) 159 F.3d 770, 159 BNA LRRM 2893, 136 CCH LC ¶ 10302

Two copilots who had been released from positions under terms which denoted finality insofar as intention of company was disclosed, and who then entered armed services, did not leave employment "in order to perform such training and service" as would have entitled them to reinstatement rights. Edwards v Capital Airlines, Inc. (1949, App DC) 84 US App DC 346, 176 F.2d 755, 23 BNA LRRM 2464, 25 BNA LRRM 2042, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65027, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65436, cert den (1949) 338 US 885, 94 L Ed 543, 70 S Ct 186, 25 BNA LRRM 2082

Postmaster General must "deem" veteran as having performed service for Post Office Department during period including April 6, 1968, when he left his career position after having been ordered for active duty, and to restore him to former position, if available, or to position of like seniority, status, and salary level, or to position to which he might have been promoted or reassigned while in military service where veteran's discharge from position as federal postal inspector in 1964 was wrongful and Court of Claims awarded him backpay for July 18, 1964 to May 15, 1968 but where Post Office Department made no offer by April 6, 1968, when serviceman entered military service, to reinstate serviceman to position from which he had been removed wrongfully. Fletcher v Commissioner of Civil Service (1971, ED Tenn) 329 F Supp 1398

Where employer delays until after employee is inducted before imposing discipline, discipline does not affect re-employment rights; to hold otherwise would be to permit employer to schedule grievance and arbitration proceedings after employee had reported for training and service. Gall v United States Steel Corp. (1984, WD Pa) 598 F Supp 769, 117 BNA LRRM 3397, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11335

Employer was not collaterally estopped from presenting evidence that employee was fired for insubordination or for not holding driver's license by state unemployment compensation referee's holding that employee was not fired for willful misconduct, where employee must prove he was fired for enlisting in the National Guard in order to prevail on § 2021 claim, since prior adjudication is void of facts relating to central concern of second action. Tuksbrey v Midwest Transit (1993, WD Pa) 822 F Supp 1192, 144 BNA LRRM 2723, 125 CCH LC ¶ 10762, subsequent app (1994, CA3 Pa) 37 F.3d 1489

Terminated employee made sufficient prima facie case that he was discriminated against because of his ongoing service in Army Reserve, pursuant to 38 USCS § 4311; reasonable jury could find that employer's zero-tolerance policy as applied to joking "threat" communicated to another employee was pretextual reason for termination of Reservist's employment; employee's reemployment claim under 38 USCS § 4312 was dismissed. Warren v IBM (2005, SD NY) 358 F Supp 2d 301
Employer violated 38 USCS §§ 4313(a)(2)(A) and 4316(c)(1) by reinstating reservist's employment upon his return from active duty with same title, pay, and benefits, but with greatly diminished job duties, and then discharging him approximately four months later without proving cause, given that timing of reservist's discharge and decisionmaking process that preceded it were not reasonable under circumstances. Duarte v Agilent Techs., Inc. (2005, DC Colo) 366 F Supp 2d 1039, 176 BNA LRRM 3226, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10467

9. Layoff

Veteran laid off by operation of seniority system, with right of recall in seniority order, and with right to accumulate seniority while laid off, has "position (other than temporary) in the employ" of company when he entered service and is entitled to seniority rights on return from service. Kelly v Ford Instrument Co. (1962, CA2 NY) 298 F.2d 399, 49 BNA LRRM 2461, 44 CCH LC ¶ 17371

Veteran was released from employment and was therefore unemployed and was not entitled to reinstatement rights where defendant company sent veteran, prior to entering service, letter stating "it is with regret that I must inform you that, due to your position in the seniority system of the company, it is necessary to place you on furlough until further notice." Barbee v Capital Airlines, Inc. (1951, App DC) 89 US App DC 335, 191 F.2d 507, 28 BNA LRRM 2431, 20 CCH LC ¶ 66471, cert den (1952) 342 US 908, 96 L Ed 680, 72 S Ct 302, 29 BNA LRRM 2285

A person who entered military service while on laid-off status from employer did not lose his right to reinstatement under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) when reached for recall during his military service. Hall v Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (1964, ND Ill) 240 F Supp 797, 59 BNA LRRM 2819, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19686

10. Resignation

Congress intended re-employment rights to apply to veteran who voluntarily quits his job to enlist or to make himself available for induction as well as to veteran who was compelled to quit his job because of induction in usual course. Boston & M. R. R. v Hayes (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 325, 19 BNA LRRM 2434, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63634

Motive of veteran in leaving employment must be to enter Armed Forces to be eligible for reinstatement; evidence clearly showed veteran left employment to enter military service where, on same date veteran quit work, he went to U.S. Employment Office to find out about entering merchant marine, 1 week later he received enlistment papers and the following week signed enlistment papers and in interim he did not obtain nor seek other employment, where he had talked about his plans with wife, sister and fellow employees, together with local board and recruiting officers, and where defendant company never offered nor suggested any other explanation for veteran's leaving employment other than that he intended to enter service. Noble v International Nickel Co. (1948, DC W Va) 77 F Supp 352, 22 BNA LRRM 2066, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64552

11. -From deferred employment

Re-employment rights are granted to any person who resigns from his job as means of terminating his deferment, thereby making himself available for voluntary induction, provided that he does so for purpose of serving, is accepted, and then actually serves, in armed forces. Boston & M. R. R. v Hayes (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 325, 19 BNA LRRM 2434, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63634

Veteran who was deferred from induction because he was engaged in work essential to war effort and who surrendered his position voluntarily in order to be eligible for active duty was entitled to re-employment rights upon discharge. Rudisill v Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (1948, CA4 Va) 167 F.2d 175, 21 BNA LRRM 2692, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64460

Re-employment benefits should be extended to veteran in deferred class who resigns his employment in order to become available for induction into armed forces. Atkinson v United States (1946, DC Minn) 68 F Supp 99
Employee who has been classified and deferred by draft board as essential civilian employee at employer's request but who resigns from employment to volunteer for induction does not forfeit statutory right to be restored on satisfactory completion of military service to position from which he resigned or to one of like seniority, status and pay. Thompson v Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (1947, DC W Va) 76 F Supp 304, 21 BNA LRRM 2358, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64367

12. -Compelled by conduct of employer

Resignation prior to entering upon active duty in military service does not preclude right to re-employment under Veterans' Re-employment Rights Act; employee's resignation to enter service is of even less relevance where employee, who was denied requested leave, resigned as a result of being faced with prospect of termination for taking unexcused absences. Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Employee's voluntary extension on active duty was irrelevant to determination of employee's re-employment rights where, but for employer's illegal refusal of employee's request for 26-day training leave, employee would not have resigned his employment, and, but for his resignation, he would not have extended his service on active duty. Bottger v Doss Aeronautical Services, Inc. (1985, MD Ala) 609 F Supp 583, 118 BNA LRRM 3353, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11393

Returning veteran of National Guard reserves is entitled to statutory protection of Uniformed Services Employment and Re-employment Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.), where his resignation for "administrative purposes," solicited by employer, did not waive his statutory rights, because it is simply subterfuge to pretend, in this scenario, that resignation and collective bargaining agreement are legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for not reemploying returning veteran. Wrigglesworth v Brumbaugh (2000, WD Mich) 121 F Supp 2d 1126, 166 BNA LRRM 2560, summary judgment gr, injunction gr, judgment entered (2001, WD Mich) 129 F Supp 2d 1106, 168 BNA LRRM 2636, 143 CCH LC ¶ 10991

Former city police officer waived whatever reemployment rights he may have had when he resigned his position with police department in connection with his decision to voluntarily extend his active duty with National Guard; fact that resignation was difficult or even that it was precipitated by police department's refusal to extend his leave or to allow him to take promotional exam did not make his waiver equivocal. Paisley v City of Minneapolis (1996, CA8 Minn) 79 F.3d 722, 151 BNA LRRM 2948, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11702, reh, en banc, den (1996, CA8 Minn) 1996 US App LEXIS 11196 and cert den (1996) 519 US 929, 136 L Ed 2d 217, 117 S Ct 298, 153 BNA LRRM 2576 and (criticized in Wrigglesworth v Brumbaugh (2000, WD Mich) 121 F Supp 2d 1126, 166 BNA LRRM 2560)

Where federal employee left civilian service and served for 12 years in military before returning to civilian employment for 20 months, employee's military service was properly excluded in calculating employee's civilian retirement annuity since employee intended to abandon civilian career after first period of civilian service and to commence career service within military; employee withdrew civilian retirement contributions after first period of civilian service and applied for annuity even before separation from second period of civilian service, indicating that resumption of civilian service was intended to qualify employee for annuity rather than to pursue civilian career. Dowling v OPM (2004, CA FC) 393 F.3d 1260

Veteran is entitled to promotion and increase in pay where veteran, accomplished flyer, left employment to take 2 refresher courses to qualify him as instructor of flying cadets since resignation from employment was done with intention of entering military service. Atkinson v United States (1946, DC Minn) 68 F Supp 99

Veteran's motive for leaving job was to enter service where he left employment same day he received notice to report for preinduction physical examination and did not thereafter obtain or seek other employment but proceeded to get ready to leave by settling his business and visiting parents and where he was accepted 10 days after leaving employment and notified employer of his intentions to enter service and was advised by employer not to report for duty on his Veteran had no reinstatement right where he applied for induction in Armed Forces on August 20, 1943, where he was put on October call because August quota was then filled, where he voluntarily resigned from defendant's employ on August 30, and where he began working for second employer on September 8, who was not informed of veteran's induction status; it would be anomalous for statute to be interpreted so as to give veteran alternative rights against successive employers; such circumstances are different from that of man who, knowing he is about to be inducted, leaves permanent employment with intent of taking short preservice vacation and then unexpectedly interrupts vacation to do odd task which both he and his casual employer treat as merely temporary employment. In re United States ex rel. Obum (1948, DC NY) 82 F Supp 36, affd (1948, CA2 NY) 170 F.2d 1009, revd on other grounds (1949) 336 US 806, 93 L Ed 1054, 69 S Ct 921

Veteran who, having resigned from employment, waits period of 6 months before entering armed services, during which period he accepts other employment, has not left position in order to perform military service and is not entitled to re-employment rights. Loker v Allied Bldg. Credits, Inc. (1948, DC Mo) 82 F Supp 143, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64911

Plaintiff was not entitled to reinstatement to police department under predecessor statute where he resigned from police department retroactively to date before entering military service, his resignation was in no way coerced by his employer, and he clearly and unequivocally intended permanent severance of his employment relationship with police department to pursue totally different career choice. Hilliard v New Jersey Army Nat'l Guard (1981, DC NJ) 527 F Supp 405, 108 BNA LRRM 2069, 91 CCH LC ¶ 12808

School board's policy of not reinstating teachers until first school day of succeeding 6-week school term following absences could not be applied to teacher returning from active duty military training, notwithstanding that policy has been evenly applied to minimize disruption of pupils' learning process. Griffin v Tunica County Schools (1982, ND Miss) 112 BNA LRRM 2167, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13844

Air National Guard officer who has voluntarily undertaken active duty assignment was deemed to be on military leave of absence from his employment as airline pilot and flight manager, and was entitled to reinstatement, with seniority and benefits accruing during leave, when he completed active duty, where (1) officer, while on paid vacation from civilian employment, notified airline that he was entering active military duty without suggesting that he was tendering resignation, (2) he did not conduct himself in way which categorically implied resignation, (3) he did not "quit" job and then join Air National Guard, and (4) his 48 month tour of duty is within length of time for military leave of absence provided in statute. Winders v People Express Airlines, Inc. (1984, DC NJ) 595 F Supp 1512, 5 EBC 2433, 117 BNA LRRM 3275, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11258, affd (1985, CA3 NJ) 770 F.2d 1078, 119 BNA LRRM 3071

Policemen's reinstatement right was not lost merely because he resigned before entering service rather than taking leave of absence as permitted by city charter. Borseth v Lansing (1953) 338 Mich 53, 61 NW2d 132

Employee did not either literally or substantially leave his position to perform naval services when as matter of fact he continued to hold position for at least seven months after his entry into naval service. McClayton v W. B. Cassell Co. (1946, DC Md) 66 F Supp 165, 18 BNA LRRM 2096, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63195

Employee who has been inducted, sworn and ordered to report within 3 weeks was entitled to protections of predecessor statute; employee is not without recourse because he has been inducted in armed force but has not yet reported for training. III. REEMPLOYMENT OF VETERAN

A. Application for Reemployment

15. Generally

Veteran who requests more from his employer than he is entitled to under predecessor statute does not lose his right to demand that to which he is justly entitled. Boston & M. R. R. v David (1948, CA1 NH) 167 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2133, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64508

Failure to apply for re-employment within 90 days bars right. Brown v Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. (1955, CA6 Tenn) 221 F.2d 791, 28 CCH LC ¶ 69187

Dismissal of claim asserted on behalf of deceased reserve member against his civilian employer was affirmed because 38 USCS § 4312 did not impose eight-hour "rest period" right to reserve member and fact that employer allegedly ordered employee back to work in shorter period of time did not confer liability on employer under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, 38 USCS §§ 4301-4333. Gordon v Wawa, Inc. (2004, CA3 NJ) 388 F.3d 78, 175 BNA LRRM 3206

Former employee was not entitled to full federal retirement benefits where he did not have valid civil service reemployment rights following his service in Air National Guard. Moravec v OPM (2004, CA FC) 393 F.3d 1263

Requirements that former employee, after completion of his training and service, should receive certificate and that he possess qualifications to perform duties of his former position, and that he make application for re-employment within forty days [now 90 days] after being relieved from service, are conditions which former employee must meet. Bryan v Griffin (1946, DC Ky) 67 F Supp 714, 18 BNA LRRM 2326, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63337, affd (1948, CA6 Ky) 166 F.2d 748, 21 BNA LRRM 2566, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64397

Veteran is given ninety days to apply for his old position and, whatever his plans before applying, upon application within ninety days of discharge, he is entitled, providing all other requisites are met, to be reinstated in his old position. Troy v Mohawk Shop, Inc. (1946, DC Pa) 67 F Supp 721, 18 BNA LRRM 2297, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63306

Reservists are not subject to requirement of presenting certificate to employer at time of application for reinstatement. Micalone v Long Island R. Co. (1983, SD NY) 582 F Supp 973, 115 BNA LRRM 2640, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10606, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10632

Former employee was covered member of Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4301 et seq., where he complied with service duration and notice provisions of statute, and he was thus entitled to reemployment with former employer as matter of law. Jordan v Air Prods. & Chems., Inc. (2002, CD Cal) 225 F Supp 2d 1206, 170 BNA LRRM 3153, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41247, subsequent app (2005, CA9 Cal) 124 Fed Appx 537

16. Burden of proof

Returned veteran has burden of proof to show that he made demand for reinstatement to his old position within ninety days from his discharge. Cummings v Hubbell (1948, DC Pa) 76 F Supp 453, 22 BNA LRRM 2109, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64562

Where testimony for veteran reveals that he had, within 90 days of discharge, applied for re-employment, but testimony of employer shows conclusively that veteran had not made such application and had accepted employment elsewhere during that period, court accepts statements of employer as true and will deny judgment for veteran. Lacek v Peoples Laundry Co. (1950, DC Pa) 94 F Supp 399, 27 BNA LRRM 2113, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66076

Where employer fired employee immediately after employee returned from several weeks of service in U.S. Naval Reserve, even if employee did not offer proof of discrimination, employer

Viewing plain language of 38 USCS § 4312, and mindful of mandate to construe Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act liberally for benefit of service persons, court found that § 4312 creates unqualified right to reemployment to those who satisfy service duration and notice requirements; this benefit is subject only to defenses enumerated in § 4312, i.e. reemployment is unreasonable, impossible or creates undue hardship; 38 USCS § 4312 neither contains nor implies proof of discrimination requirement. Jordan v Air Prods. & Chems., Inc. (2002, CD Cal) 225 F Supp 2d 1206, 170 BNA LRRM 3153, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41247, subsequent app (2005, CA9 Cal) 124 Fed Appx 537

17. Computation of period

Under predecessor to statute, 90 day period in which to apply for re-employment begins to run on date of discharge. Cox v Boston Consol. Gas Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 161 F.2d 680, 20 BNA LRRM 2199, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63797; Parlman v Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (1947, CA3 NJ) 163 F.2d 726, 20 BNA LRRM 2587, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64030; Schreier v M. H. Fishman Co. (1948, CA3 NJ) 176 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2285, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64629

Veteran's right to reinstatement matures at time he receives honorable discharge, not at time he receives certificate of service showing that he has served honorably and is being released to accept employment in essential industry; veteran who received certificate of honorable discharge on April 2, 1945, and applied for reinstatement on May 1, 1945, sufficiently complied with 90-day requirement although on July 28, 1943, he was transferred to enlisted reserve corps and given certificate of service that showed he had honorably served. Schreier v M. H. Fishman Co. (1948, CA3 NJ) 176 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2285, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64629

Employer could not contend that application for re-employment was not timely where employee was released from service prior to his honorable discharge, since time for making such application stemmed from date of honorable discharge. Schreier v M. H. Fishman Co. (1948, CA3 NJ) 176 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2285, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64629

Fact that veteran's certificate showing honorable military discharge was inadvertently not issued until after 90 days from discharge did not bar re-employment rights. Travis v Schwartz Mfg. Co. (1954, CA7 Wis) 216 F.2d 448, 35 BNA LRRM 2191, 26 CCH LC ¶ 68775

90-day period for making request for reemployment did not begin to run until actual discharge where, although plaintiff had been granted release from active military service, he was placed in reserve status in order to enter civilian employment in navy yard. Tipper v Northern P. R. Co. (1945, DC Wash) 62 F Supp 853, 17 BNA LRRM 526, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62866

Veteran did not voluntarily remove himself from protection of re-employment rights statute (former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h)) where his military service did not total more than four years after joining railroad's employment. Hall v Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (1964, ND Ill) 240 F Supp 797, 59 BNA LRRM 2819, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19686

Veteran was not entitled to reemployment with Postal Service under statute, where veteran left Postal Service to seek civil job rather than enter military and served more than 4 years before, and more than 5 years after, 1961, because veteran was outside statute's protection in either case. Thomas v Price (1989, SD Tex) 718 F Supp 598, affd without op (1991, CA5 Tex) 936 F.2d 569 and affd (1992, CA5 Tex) 975 F.2d 231, 19 UCCRS2d 335, reh den (1992, CA5) 1992 US App LEXIS 30193

Reservist who served more than 11 years active duty before seeking restoration to his civilian employment did not have restoration rights. Sheldon v Dep't of the Navy (1990, MSPB) 46 MSPR 88

18. Circumstances constituting discharge

Despite veteran's contention that discharge by War Department Circular providing for discharge of men over 39 years of age who intended to work in defense industry, even though in terms unconditional, gave only nominal release from Army because, if at any time he should cease to be engaged in such essential activity, he would be promptly reinducted and that, therefore, 90-day period should be considered as commencing from time he was released from employment in defense industry, reinstatement was justifiably denied after 90-day period where veteran did not show that he was in any danger of reinduction had he terminated employment in defense industry. Cox v Boston Consol. Gas Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 161 F.2d 680, 20 BNA LRRM 2199, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63797

Veteran who was discharged under provisions of War Department Circular Number, providing for discharge of enlisted man 38 years of age and over to accept employment in essential war industry and who, after accepting employment in essential industry, did not make application for reinstatement to his preservice position until 1 year thereafter, was not entitled to reinstatement; discharge under Circular Number was outright discharge and it could not be contended that 90-day period began to run when employment with defense industry expired. Parliman v Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (1947, CA3 NJ) 163 F.2d 726, 20 BNA LRRM 2587, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64030

Refusal of reinstatement on ground that more than 90 days had elapsed was not justified where plaintiff applied for reinstatement within 90 days after discharge which was other than honorable and was refused on that account and thereafter obtained retroactive change of discharge to honorable, which process took more than 90 days. Robertson v Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. (1959, DC Va) 178 F Supp 734, 45 BNA LRRM 2478, 38 CCH LC ¶ 66022

19. Form and sufficiency of request, generally

Employer is estopped from denying veteran's compliance with statutory requirements where employer's answer duly admits application for re-employment within prescribed time and defendant's refusal to re-employ. United States ex rel. Stanley v Wimbish (1946, CA4 NC) 154 F.2d 773, 17 BNA LRRM 972, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63099

Application for re-employment is made within 90-day period where veteran was discharged December 27, 1944, but had been issued certificate of service and transferred to enlisted reserve corps "to accept employment in essential industry including agriculture" on December 2, 1943, and at such time made application for employment and where such application was of continuing nature. Van Doren v Van Doren Laundry Service, Inc. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 1007, 20 BNA LRRM 2351, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63910

Requirement that application for reinstatement be made within 90 days after discharge was complied with where doctor, while still in service, made 2 requests to hospital for reinstatement to his former position, although his communications during 90-day period after discharge from service apparently requested only that he be hired by hospital as second assistant resident in surgery, position to which he was not entitled under statute, such communications not suggesting that he was no longer interested in his former position as third assistant resident. Martin v Roosevelt Hospital (1970, CA2 NY) 426 F.2d 155, 74 BNA LRRM 2738, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10807

Veteran did not give former employer reasonable notice that he wanted his job back so as to be entitled to relief under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act where he only contacted his former supervisor, who directed him to human resources department to update his employee form, but veteran never did so. McGuire v UPS (1998, CA7 Ill) 152 F.3d 673, 158 BNA LRRM 3085, 135 CCH LC ¶ 10219

Veteran sufficiently applied for reinstatement with former employer by inquiring about job and taking requisite physical examination; fact that veteran did not thereafter communicate with employer for 10 months did not relieve employer of obligation to contact veteran and offer reinstatement. Clayton v United Parcel Service (1982, WD Tenn) 113 BNA LRRM 3447, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13846

Reinstatement right of policemen was not lost where he talked about reinstatement to chief rather than formally applying to board where board considered informal application and rejected it on other grounds. Borseth v Lansing (1953) 338 Mich 53, 61 NW2d 132

20. -Request for leave of absence
Holding that, while request for leave of absence is application for reinstatement because it does not anticipate immediate work or at least work within forty-day [now 90 day] period and that it cannot be held to be application for re-employment is too narrow construction of statutory language. Grasso v Crowhurst (1946, CA3 NJ) 154 F.2d 208, 17 BNA LRRM 821, 10 CCH LC ¶ 63002, cert den (1946) 329 US 714, 91 L Ed 620, 67 S Ct 44, 18 BNA LRRM 2469

Veteran did not lose his right to reinstatement under predecessor to statute by not applying for reinstatement within statutory period, where veteran inquired about reinstatement following his discharge from service and, upon being told that he was eligible, asked for leave of absence because of family responsibility, whereupon employer, although refusing leave of absence, told veteran to come back when he ready to go to work. Angelovic v Lehigh Valley R. Co. (1950, CA3 Pa) 186 F.2d 37, 27 BNA LRRM 2192, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66121

21. -Inquiries

Veteran, who failed to inform former employer of veteran's status as veteran seeking re-employment is not entitled to reinstatement to former position plus backpay for employer's failure to rehire, since conduct of veteran did not constitute making "application for re-employment" within meaning of predecessor statute, but rather amounted to mere inquiry of employment possibility and did not put reasonable employer on notice that returning veteran sought re-employment, where during 90 day period following his honorary discharge he merely inquired at employer's guard shack for job application which he was refused because he was told company was not hiring and then made two unsuccessful inquiries to see or contact to personnel officials. Shadle v Superwood Corp. (1988, CA8 Ark) 858 F.2d 437, 129 BNA LRRM 2770, 110 CCH LC ¶ 10757, 103 ALR Fed 567, reh den, en banc (1988, CA8) 130 BNA LRRM 2072

Telephone call to former supervisor inquiring as to conditions at plant, after which veteran did nothing during 90 day period, did not amount to application for re-employment and rights are lost. Flynn v Ward Leonard Electric Co. (1950, SD NY) 18 CCH LC ¶ 65710

Petitioner was not entitled to reinstatement or to payment of damages for loss of wages, where he merely visited supervisor and inquired as to conditions in plant, but failed to file application. Lacek v Peoples Laundry Co. (1950, DC Pa) 94 F Supp 399, 27 BNA LRRM 2113, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66076

Employer is not liable under former 38 USCS § 2021 where veteran's discussion with employer regarding employment rights was merely inquiry and veteran did not intend to "apply" for work until and unless his attempt to gain admittance to college was not successful. Baron v United States Steel Corp. (1986, ND Ind) 649 F Supp 537, 125 BNA LRRM 2749, 106 CCH LC ¶ 12335

Serviceman fulfills his duty to apply for reinstatement under predecessor statute by applying for reinstatement while still on active duty, although during period after discharge he simply requests to be hired for position to which he is not entitled. Martin v Roosevelt Hospital (1970, CA2 NY) 426 F.2d 155, 74 BNA LRRM 2738, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10807

Returned veteran who, when applying for reinstatement and restoration to his old job refuses offered work of like seniority and pay, and expresses willingness to wait until job of tool and die making is available, does not apply for his old position within meaning of Selective Training and Service Act. Inglot v Columbia Aircraft Products, Inc. (1946, DC NJ) 76 F Supp 599, 19 BNA LRRM 2139, affd (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 433, 21 BNA LRRM 2382, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64361

Veteran who had been apprentice caster and applies for journeyman caster position, and shop workers who apply for apprentice caster position, do not comply with application requirements. Trischler v Universal Potteries, Inc. (1947, DC Ohio) 78 F Supp 609, affd (1948, CA6 Ohio) 171 F.2d 707, 23 BNA LRRM 2242, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64941

Returning veteran was not denied reemployment rights by state conservation department, where veteran never saw personnel director or filed written application, accepted higher-paying out-of-town construction job for 9 months, and subsequently refused department's offer of work at state park 60 miles from his home, because veteran waived rights by never "making application" within meaning of statute, by accepting other job, and by refusing offer of position of like seniority, status and pay. Hayse v Tennessee Dep't of Conservation (1989, ED Tenn) 750 F Supp 298, 136 BNA LRRM 2178, 118 CCH LC ¶ 10624, affd without op (1990, CA6 Tenn) 915 F.2d 1571, 170 BNA LRRM 3024, reported in full (1990, CA6) 1990 US App LEXIS 17835

Agency failed to give appellant notice of his restoration rights and failure constituted good cause for appellant's late filing of restoration request; only notice relating to restoration rights provided by agency was memorandum in appellant's possession before his departure for military service which merely referred to many benefits and rights to which he was entitled and that he should be counseled by employee relations specialist, but there was no evidence that such counseling occurred. Ward v VA (1995, MSPB) 67 MSPR 425, appeal after remand, remanded on other grounds (1997, MSPB) 74 MSPR 171

B. Grounds for Refusal of Reemployment

1. Qualifications of Employee

23. Ability to perform duties of position

It is condition precedent for re-employment rights that veteran be qualified to perform duties of position to which he seeks re-employment; veteran is not entitled to re-employment where he does not show himself to be so qualified. Bryan v Griffin (1948, CA6 Ky) 166 F.2d 748, 21 BNA LRRM 2566, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64397; Wonnacott v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co. (1951, CA10 Utah) 187 F.2d 607, 27 BNA LRRM 2440, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66220; Barisoff v Hollywood Baseball Assn. (1947, DC Cal) 71 F Supp 493, 19 BNA LRRM 2479, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63686, affd (1948, CA9 Cal) 166 F.2d 1023, 22 BNA LRRM 2108, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64519

Re-employment rights are not available where journeyman mechanic is required to be able to read blueprints, do layout work and all classes of fabrication, and to direct fabrication on job and where, at time veteran was performing work of journeyman mechanic work being performed by one in that position was greatly curtailed because of mass production methods. Bryan v Griffin (1948, CA6 Ky) 166 F.2d 748, 21 BNA LRRM 2566, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64397

That incumbent foreman who would be displaced by plaintiff was more personally acceptable to defendant, or even more efficient or able in performance of his duties, was not legal cause for denying the plaintiff his rights under the law; capabilities of returning veteran must be determined by performance on job and not by employer's preconceived notion of his ability. Freeman v Gateway Baking Co. (1946, DC Ark) 68 F Supp 383, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63340

Veteran, former professional baseball player, was not entitled to reinstatement because professional baseball playing is different from ordinary activities, since regular employment of players is determined on basis of skill and ability to meet qualifications required of class and standard in league, which is to be determined by clubs who employ players, all of which is recognized by players in their application for employment and in their contract with club which expressly agrees that their services are terminable at any time at will of baseball club. Barisoff v Hollywood Baseball Assn. (1947, DC Cal) 71 F Supp 493, 19 BNA LRRM 2479, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63686, affd (1948, CA9 Cal) 166 F.2d 1023, 22 BNA LRRM 2108, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64519

Foreman of ship electrical department who had been discharged because employer has ceased shipbuilding operations for United States maritime commission was not entitled to job as foreman of electrical maintenance department where duties of such job were quite different from that which he had formerly held and where he was not competent to perform duties of such job. Kent v Todd Houston Shipbuilding Corp. (1947, DC Tex) 72 F Supp 506, 20 BNA LRRM 2273, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63902

Employer did not violate act where baseball pitcher after return from service was given contract in February, 1946, and was unconditionally released by club in May, 1946, because of inability to pitch. Sundra v St. Louis American League Baseball Club (1949, DC Mo) 87 F Supp 471, 25 BNA LRRM 2208
24. Conduct during military service

In action by veteran for restoration in employment of railroad, railroad could not introduce evidence relative to veteran's conduct while in military service; court may not go behind certificate of discharge as no such authority is given. Hall v Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (1964, ND Ill) 240 F Supp 797, 59 BNA LRRM 2819, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19686

Employer had not shown veteran to be disqualified for re-employment where, at time of assuming employment, veteran was found to be qualified and suited for employment but where, following discharge, he was refused re-employment because of attempted suicide while in Navy and where employer continued to refuse re-employment despite subsequent clinical evaluation that veteran had no psychological problems which would render him dangerous. McCoy v Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. (1973, SD Ill) 360 F Supp 1336, 83 BNA LRRM 2970, 71 CCH LC ¶ 13874

25. Conduct during pre-service employment

Term "qualified" means something more than simply physically and mentally qualified and veteran is not qualified to resume position which he had prior to entering service where his services as director and vice president had been disruptive of company's best interests in past and had caused dissatisfaction among employees of company, where he had made irresponsible charges that company was headed for disaster and that its officers and directors had involved it in difficulties with Securities and Exchange Commission because of certain illegal activities, and where he had threatened to discredit certain directors and had intrigued to disrupt organization and to supplant president and general manager. Trusteed Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639

Fact that stockholders and directors did not approve veteran's prior management and policies as director and president would not interfere with veteran's rights to reinstatement because board of directors may control management and policies and even change duties and authority of president. Houghton v Texas State Life Ins. Co. (1948, CA5 Tex) 166 F.2d 848, 21 BNA LRRM 2432, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64357, cert den (1948) 335 US 822, 93 L Ed 376, 69 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390

In action to compel re-employment of returned veteran to his position as manager of defendant's business, defense of mismanagement must be supported by facts of case. Anderson v Schouweiler (1945, DC Idaho) 63 F Supp 802, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62870

Reservist claiming rights under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(g)(4), whose employment performance as co-pilot did not meet standards of his employer, commercial airline, and who intentionally falsified application for employment with employer, was not entitled to reinstatement to his position of employment. Larsen v Air California (1970, CD Cal) 313 F Supp 218, 75 BNA LRRM 2156, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10897, affd (1972, CA9 Cal) 459 F.2d 52, 79 BNA LRRM 2767, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12493, cert den (1972) 409 US 895, 34 L Ed 2d 151, 93 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13059, reh den (1972) 409 US 1051, 34 L Ed 2d 505, 93 S Ct 511

Reservist returning from active duty was not entitled to reinstatement to his job under statute, where reservist's job performance prior to his departure was lacking and he frequently brought weapons to work, prompting fear for safety of other employees, because reservist was terminated for reasons unrelated to his military service. Winfree v Morrison, Inc. (1990, ED Tenn) 762 F Supp 1310, 118 CCH LC ¶ 10599

Employer was not justified in refusing employment to physically able policemen for reasons based on work prior to military service or because he had withdrawn pension funds when entering service. Borseth v Lansing (1953) 338 Mich 53, 61 NW2d 132

26. Disability
Veteran was not entitled to recover for loss of wages between time of application and acceptance for re-employment two years later when delay was due to physical inability to perform duties of brakeman. Wonnacott v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co. (1951, CA10 Utah) 187 F.2d 607, 27 BNA LRRM 2440, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66220

Veteran was not entitled to re-employment rights where he had been examined several times by company's physician and found to be suffering from war neurosis which affected him in such way that physician advised company that veteran was not capable of holding down position of brakeman to which he seeks reinstatement. Wonnacott v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co. (1951, CA10 Utah) 187 F.2d 607, 27 BNA LRRM 2440, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66220

Refusal to reinstate honorably discharged serviceman because of heart ailment was improper, although decision of police commission was based on report of their official physician, where report of army surgeon who examined petitioner immediately prior to his discharge revealed no heart murmur or any other physical defect which would disqualify him and where testimony of two specialists in heart disease supported petitioner's contention that he was physically qualified to perform duties of guardsman in insular police force. Parbilla v Velarde (1946, DC Puerto Rico) 67 F Supp 260, 18 BNA LRRM 2448, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63348

Employer who refused to reemploy discharged veteran under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) who had timely applied for reemployment had burden of proving veteran's disqualification for reemployment and burden was not met where evidence showed that returning veteran, who had attempted suicide while in Navy, did not suffer any psychological problems which would render him dangerous as employee of explosives company. McCoy v Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. (1973, SD Ill) 360 F Supp 1336, 83 BNA LRRM 2970, 71 CCH LC ¶ 13874

Plaintiff who intentionally concealed back condition, which was subject to further deterioration, from examining physician during his civilian pre-employment physical, was not entitled to veterans reemployment rights under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) upon discharge from armed forces. Greathouse v Babcock & Wilcox Co. (1974, ND Ohio) 381 F Supp 156, 86 BNA LRRM 3014, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10188

Returning disabled veteran who, as result of shrapnel wounds, was unqualified to perform his preservice job as brakeman, was entitled to be placed in clerical position at equivalent seniority status and pay even though new position covered by collective bargaining agreement in seniority system was different from that under which he was employed prior to military service. Armstrong v Baker (1975, ND W Va) 394 F Supp 1380, 89 BNA LRRM 2242, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10874 (superseded by statute as stated in Stevens v Tennessee Valley Auth. (1983, CA6 Tenn) 712 F.2d 1047, 118 BNA LRRM 3201)

Inductee who had been employed as city fireman was not entitled to restoration to such position upon his honorable discharge from military service, where he had not made application for such re-employment within 40 days [now 90 days] after his military discharge and where he also was physically disabled from discharging duties of fireman. McLaughlin v Retherford (1944) 207 Ark 1094, 184 SW2d 461, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62860

27. Disloyalty

Term "qualified", as used in predecessor to statute, means something more than physically and mentally qualified, and veteran's disloyalty to employer prior to entry into military service or his record as disruptive influence may be considered in determining veteran's qualification. Trusteed Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639

Serviceman's disloyalty to corporate employer and interference with corporate operations while on furlough justified employer's refusal of reinstatement on grounds of unreasonableness. Green v Tho-Ro Products, Inc. (1956, CA3 NJ) 232 F.2d 172, 37 BNA LRRM 2842, 30 CCH LC ¶ 69884

28. Incompatibility
Term “qualified” means something more than simply physically and mentally qualified and veteran is not qualified to resume position which he had prior to entering service where his services as director and vice president had been disruptive of company's best interests in past and had caused dissatisfaction among employees of company, where he had made irresponsible charges that company was headed for disaster and that its officers and directors had involved it in difficulties with Securities and Exchange Commission because of certain illegal activities, and where he had threatened to discredit certain directors and had intrigued to disrupt organization and to supplant president and general manager. Trusteed Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639

Employer is justified in refusing to reinstate veteran on grounds that his activities are disruptive of desired harmonious relations between employer and employees where, prior to induction but over a year after strike in which tort was allegedly committed, employee verified complaint for assault by employer, such complaint being served two months later while employee was in military service and where employee, while on military leave, visited employer's plant and informed large number of employees of his law suit against employer. United States v Mayo (1964, SD NY) 230 F Supp 85

29. Nature of military discharge

Serviceman discharged "under other than honorable conditions" is not entitled to re-employment rights under requirement making it applicable to one who "satisfactorily completes period of training in service;" agreement between employer and union for reinstatement of discharged servicemen upon presentation of certificate, as provided by law, or "other proper evidence of release" does not require reinstatement of serviceman discharged under other than honorable conditions. Anglo Canadian Shipping Co. v United States (1956, CA9) 238 F.2d 18

Plaintiff, who was refused employment because his certificate of discharge did not qualify him, and whereupon brought proceedings resulting in antedated honorable discharge, was entitled to re-employment under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) although he did not receive honorable discharge until expiration of ninety days. Robertson v Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. (1959, DC Va) 178 F Supp 734, 45 BNA LRRM 2478, 38 CCH LC ¶ 66022

Employee with less than honorable discharge from service has not satisfactorily completed service and is not entitled to re-employment. Browning v General Motors Corp., Fisher Body Div. (1974, SD Ohio) 387 F Supp 985, 89 BNA LRRM 2177, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10917

Veteran was entitled to reemployment where discharged inductee, within forty-day period [now 90 days], reported to his employer and requested time off to get himself in shape for work, employer did not refuse him such time off but turned him over to company doctor who convinced him that he was not fit for employment; that action was in derogation of his rights, and since he was actually qualified to perform duties of his old position he was entitled to reinstatement. Grasso v Crowhurst (1946, CA3 NJ) 154 F.2d 208, 17 BNA LRRM 821, 10 CCH LC ¶ 63002, cert den (1946) 329 US 714, 91 L Ed 620, 67 S Ct 44, 18 BNA LRRM 2469

Veteran was entitled to position of train dispatcher when he returned, because of his seniority; positions had been given to persons of less seniority while plaintiff was in service and he received no notice of vacancies at that time and could not "bid" for jobs until he returned. Morris v Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (1948, CA7 Ind) 171 F.2d 579, 23 BNA LRRM 2179, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64874, cert den (1949) 336 US 967, 93 L Ed 1118, 69 S Ct 938, 24 BNA LRRM 2027, reh den (1949) 337 US 927, 93 L Ed 1735, 69 S Ct 1167

It is no defense to action to compel veteran's re-employment that he has resorted to state court to obtain from his employer what he feels is due him for services performed prior to his induction into army. Anderson v Schouweiler (1945, DC Idaho) 63 F Supp 802, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62870

Under agreement providing that when permanent vacancy occurs in any occupation covered by agreement, employee with greatest length of continuous service on occupation immediately preceding vacant occupation must be offered promotion to vacancy, provided his ability to perform work and his physical fitness are relatively equal to that of other employees in same line of promotion, and further providing that should such employee be unable to fill vacancy because of no fault of his own, next qualified employee in line must temporarily be assigned to vacancy pending return to work of first-mentioned employee, effect is to entitle veteran, who is physically fit and able to perform work, to first permanent vacancy in position of second-class repairman, in accordance with his seniority as first-class repairman helper; since petitioner was unable to fill such vacancy due to military absence, assignment of his immediate junior to vacancy was temporary, as in case of emergency, and veteran is entitled to receive credit for time worked by his junior on occupation; attempted exclusion of employees in military service from operation of agreement, entered into in their absence, is discriminatory and ineffective. Armstrong v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co. (1947, DC Ala) 73 F Supp 329, 20 BNA LRRM 2396, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63941

Plaintiff who was rejected by military was entitled to restoration to his former job and was not required by former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to explain why he was leaving when called to report for induction. Fortenberry v Owen Bros. Packing Co. (1966, SD Miss) 267 F Supp 605, 65 BNA LRRM 2627, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11885, affd (1967, CA5 Miss) 378 F.2d 373, 65 BNA LRRM 2629, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11905

Former employee's claim against former employer and president of company for violation of 38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq. is not denied summarily, where employee demonstrated (1) she was member of Army Reserves, (2) she was dismissed from her employment, and (3) employer threatened to fire her if she was not at work on day she was to report for military training, but where defendants claimed she was fired for job abandonment and insubordination, because conflict between employee's evidence establishing prima facie case and defendants' evidence of nondiscriminatory reasons creates issue of fact to be resolved by factfinder after trial. Novak v Mackintosh (1996, DC SD) 919 F Supp 870, 152 BNA LRRM 2420, 68 CCH EPD ¶ 44041, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11538, judgment entered (1996, DC SD) 937 F Supp 873, 155 BNA LRRM 2985, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11658

2. Change in Circumstances of Employer

31. Generally

Discharged veteran on his return to his former employment was entitled under provisions of Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 to his old position or its equivalent, even though at time of his application plant was closed down and no work was available, unless the private employer's circumstances had so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to restore him. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Provision in predecessor to statute excusing employer where reinstatement is impossible or unreasonable is intended to provide for cases where necessary reduction of employer's operating force or discontinuance of some particular department or activity would necessitate creation of useless job in order to re-employ veteran, but is not intended to include case where it would simply make for greater efficiency for company to retain workers who took veteran's place, rather than to rehire veteran. Kay v General Cable Corp. (1944, CA3 NJ) 144 F.2d 653, 15 BNA LRRM 523, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62857

Employer may avoid liability for failure to re-employ veteran where employer's circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to employ returning veteran but term "unreasonable" means something more than inconvenient or undesirable. Levine v Berman (1947, CA7 Ill) 161 F.2d 386, 20 BNA LRRM 2102, 12 CCH LC ¶ 51232, cert den (1947) 332 US 792, 92 L Ed 374, 68 S Ct 102, 20 BNA LRRM 2677, Smith v Lestershire Spool & Mfg. Co. (1949, DC NY) 86 F Supp 703, 25 BNA LRRM 2074, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65448

Ultimate determination of whether reinstatement of veteran is impossible or unreasonable depends upon examination of particular facts in each case, with employer being under no obligation to reinstate veteran where these facts tend to evidence unreasonable situation with regard to re-employment. Meyers v Barenburg (1947, CA4 Md) 161 F.2d 850, 20 BNA LRRM
32. Obligation of employer, generally

Employer need not reinstate veteran where, prior to entering service, veteran was physician employed on part-time basis and, after discharge, there was no particular need for his reinstatement nor was existence of comparable position necessary; employer is not required to re-establish position for benefit of veteran where there is no longer need for particular type of position in company. Featherston v Jersey Cent. Power & Light Co. (1947, CA3 NJ) 161 F.2d 1000, 20 BNA LRRM 2135, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63777

Employer who, because of adverse economic conditions, discontinues veteran's position but offers him best jobs available, is not required to continue job of restored veteran purely because employee is veteran. Ruesterholtz v Titeflex, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 335, 21 BNA LRRM 2384, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64360

Employer's duty is to consider and offer like position rather than making bald refusal where employer feels that exact restoration to position held by veteran prior to entering service is impossible or unreasonable. Houghton v Texas State Life Ins. Co. (1948, CA5 Tex) 166 F.2d 848, 21 BNA LRRM 2432, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64357, cert den (1948) 335 US 822, 93 L Ed 376, 69 S Ct 44, 22 BNA LRRM 2564

Although predecessor statute was designed to protect rights of veterans and should be liberally construed, even most liberal construction cannot require creation of job for returned veteran. McFadden v Dienelt (1946, DC Cal) 68 F Supp 951, 19 BNA LRRM 2093, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63478

There is nothing which requires employer to seek other work or to do any other thing in order that it might have or continue to have position for returning veteran and employ him therein; search for position for employee or his restoration to position of higher or lower status, or higher or lower pay, or of different seniority, is not required as it would unduly disturb employer and his employees and disrupt his organization. Kent v Todd Houston Shipbuilding Corp. (1947, DC Tex) 72 F Supp 506, 20 BNA LRRM 2273, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63902

Creation of useless job for returning veteran is not contemplated. Gallant v Segal (1947, DC NH) 74 F Supp 78, 21 BNA LRRM 2227, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64225

Predecessor statute did not require employer to find veteran another job where, on date plaintiff entered military service she did not have position with company to return to after termination of her military service for reason that her craft, of string knitting, no longer existed in company because market for string knitting products had become nonexistent. Dyer v Holston Mfg. Co. (1964, ED Tenn) 237 F Supp 287, 59 BNA LRRM 2121, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19565

33. Abolition of position

Circumstances of employer had not so changed as to render "unreasonable" reinstatement of veteran where veteran, prior to entering service, was employed as salesman, and where, while veteran was in service, employer reorganized business so that job of salesman on active solicitation basis was done away with transferring those who had previously been employed as salesmen to home office in capacity of salesmen by means of indirect communications rather than personal contact, and where, although manner of sales had changed, sales function had not disappeared. Allyn v Abad (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 901, 21 BNA LRRM 2437, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64377

Veteran was not entitled to reinstatement and back pay where his shift has been abolished and neither collective bargaining agreement nor custom required employer to transfer layed-off employees to other installations of company, even though veteran would probably have been transferred if he had been employed at time shift was laid off. Horton v United States Steel Corp. (1961, CA5 Ala) 286 F.2d 710, 47 BNA LRRM 2504, 41 CCH LC ¶ 16745
Employer was absolved from duty to reinstate veteran where veteran, prior to entering service, was sales manager of defendant employer and where, during veteran's absence, employer was changed from corporation to individual with arrangement with single purchaser whereby all goods manufactured by defendant employer were to be sold exclusively to such purchaser, abrogating need for sales manager position. Gallant v Segal (1947, DC NH) 74 F Supp 78, 21 BNA LRRM 2227, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64225

Abolition of one department, where employer still employs number of people, is no excuse for failure to re-employ veteran. Loeb v Kivo (1947, DC NY) 77 F Supp 523, 21 BNA LRRM 2331, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64267, affd (1948, CA2 NY) 169 F.2d 346, 22 BNA LRRM 2392, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64678, cert den (1948) 335 US 891, 93 L Ed 429, 69 S Ct 246, 23 BNA LRRM 2137

Although agency would have abolished returning veteran's position if he had been present when it reorganized, it was required to present evidence that there were no equivalent positions for which appellant was qualified and that position in which he was placed was next best available position. DePascale v Dep't of the Air Force (1993, MSPB) 59 MSPR 186

If position of government employee who was restored was abolished during one-year period after his return to duty civil service commission, under predecessor statute and applicable regulations, was required, if necessary in order to make reasonable offer of assignment to continuing position, that preference eligibles in subgroup having equal or greater retention be displaced. (1949) 41 Op Atty Gen 16

34. Change in requirements of position

It would be unreasonable for employer baseball club to re-employ returning veteran baseball player where club's standards had increased during veteran's absence and veteran was no longer capable of meeting new standards. Barisoff v Hollywood Baseball Asso. (1947, DC Cal) 71 F Supp 493, 19 BNA LRRM 2479, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63686, affd (1948, CA9 Cal) 166 F.2d 1023, 22 BNA LRRM 2108, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64519

Veteran baseball players were not entitled to redress for alleged violations by baseball club of their statutory re-employment rights as members of armed forces of United States where it appeared that when petitioners returned and sought re-employment with club, club's situation in league had changed, and class and standard of players had become greater and was recognized as better than when petitioners entered the military service, thereby making it impossible and unreasonable to require club to re-employ them. Barisoff v Hollywood Baseball Asso. (1947, DC Cal) 71 F Supp 493, 19 BNA LRRM 2479, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63686, affd (1948, CA9 Cal) 166 F.2d 1023, 22 BNA LRRM 2108, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64519

Circumstances of defendant employer had so changed since veteran's induction and prior to his discharge as to make it unreasonable for company to reinstate him where veteran had originally been exclusive sales agent within given territory for employer and, during time he was in service, employer created new type of representation, giving to his new office great deal more authority than was originally vested in veteran and also making important changes in methods used in selling type of contracts utilized for that purpose. Rosenbaum v Ceco Steel Products Corp. (1947, DC Dist Col) 84 F Supp 954

35. General economic conditions

Collecting attorney for physician, who at time of entering service was drawing salary and commission in 1942 for working on accounts totaling $32,000, was properly denied reinstatement on salary basis in 1945 where total amount of accounts has dropped to $6,000. Meyers v Barenburg (1947, CA4 Md) 161 F.2d 850, 20 BNA LRRM 2169, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63796

Adverse economic conditions constitute legitimate basis for making re-employment unreasonable. Ruesterholtz v Titeflex, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 335, 21 BNA LRRM 2384, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64360

Notwithstanding great decrease in work both in character and amount, foreman in machine repair department was entitled to be reinstated to his former salaried position where employer's circumstances had not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to re-employ such
Returning veteran was not entitled to restoration to his job of electrician helper and compensation for loss of wages where, after his reinstatement on his return from service with the armed forces, he was laid off because of reduction in force. Maloney v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (1947, DC Mo) 72 F Supp 124, 20 BNA LRRM 2171, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63834

Veteran had no right of re-employment where defendant employer was organized during war emergency solely to oversee shipyard and equipment owned by United States Maritime Commission and to construct ships for Commission and to do nothing else, and where, after end of war, when necessity for construction of ships ceased, defendant's work ended and veteran's former position as foreman of ship electrical department ceased; there was nothing which required defendant employer to seek other work of ship construction or to do any other thing in order that it might continue to have position for veteran and re-employ him therein. Kent v Todd Houston Shipbuilding Corp. (1947, DC Tex) 72 F Supp 506, 20 BNA LRRM 2273, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63902

Employer's contention that it had suffered post-war cutback in orders and was forced to reduce personnel laying off 26 skilled men, including veteran, and further contention that veteran was hired in wartime inflation which had subsided, was contradicted by facts that, when veteran was inducted in 1945, employer was hiring 107 persons and that when veteran applied for reinstatement in 1947, employer was hiring 170 persons. Smith v Lestershire Spool & Mfg. Co. (1949, DC NY) 86 F Supp 703, 25 BNA LRRM 2074, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65448

36. Change in operating methods or organization

It was not impossible nor unreasonable, due to change in circumstances, for employer to re-employ returning veteran to former position as rug salesman in particular territory at commission of 10 percent where territory which veteran had covered exclusively prior to entering service was now divided into 3 parts because of substantial increase in volume of sales with majority of salesmen's commissions cut to 7 1/2 percent. Levine v Berman (1947, CA7 Ill) 161 F.2d 386, 20 BNA LRRM 2102, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63746, cert den (1947) 332 US 792, 92 L Ed 374, 68 S Ct 102, 20 BNA LRRM 2677

Company's circumstances had not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to re-employ veteran where, 4 months after veteran had qualified for re-employment, there was change in method of operation and during these 4 months employer has completely ignored lawful obligation to re-employ veteran except to write him that, if he would move to another town, it would put him to work, which letter also stated that employer no longer has type of work for which veteran qualified in town where he was residing, and where, when veteran reported for duty, he was told by employer that circumstances had changed further so that no more positions were open. Watkins Motor Lines, Inc. v De Galliford (1948, CA5 Ga) 167 F.2d 274, 22 BNA LRRM 2009, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64475

Employer had no duty to reinstate returning veteran where employer, due to age, was required to either close his business or bring in 2 brothers with new capital, which latter alternative occurred between time veteran was discharged and time he applied for re-employment; such change in structure of employer's business was not done intentionally for purpose of avoiding responsibility owed to veteran and, in fact, redistributed stock ownership in such way that employer's circumstances had so changed as to make it unreasonable to restore veteran to former position or position of like seniority, status, and pay. Gimpelson v Kaufman (1948, CA9 Cal) 167 F.2d 672, 22 BNA LRRM 2052, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64478

Outside salesman for wholesale grocery was entitled to restoration to his former position although his employer had changed his method of doing business and orders were taken over telephone from customers. Allyn v Abad (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 901, 21 BNA LRRM 2437, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64377

It is no justification for refusing to reinstate veteran where employer's business has so increased from time veteran was inducted until time he applied for re-employment that there is no necessity for traveling salesman in position of type previously occupied by veteran; function of selling is skill carried on although orders are taken at home office without necessity for visiting customers or attempting to drum up trade as distinguished from those cases where there is abandonment of sales by representatives and return to mail-order business or where entire output of employer is sold exclusively to one buyer making salesmen totally unnecessary.  Loeb

Employer's circumstances had not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to bookkeeping functions from one affiliated corporation to another in same hotel chain system, without any other change in conduct, composition, ownership or control of such office.  Sullivan v

Milner Hotel Co. (1946, DC Mich) 66 F Supp 607, 18 BNA LRRM 2295, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63329

Restructure of copartnership into corporation does not amount to change in circumstances so

BNA LRRM 2559, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63656

Employer's circumstances had not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to re-employ veteran and restore him to original position and salary at $600 per month where, prior to entering service, veteran had been employed as president and general manager of employer and, at same time owned one-fourth of issued and outstanding stock of employer corporation, where, throughout military service, veteran continued to hold office of president of employer corporation, and where, during war, functions of general manager were divided among members of executive committee with veteran's former position being held by 2 others who, in turn, received raises in salary from $300 per month to $600 per month.  Parker v Maynard Boyce, Inc.
(1947, SD Cal) 74 F Supp 581, 18 BNA LRRM 2441

Employer's restoration of veteran to position with somewhat different duties, which was of

37. Loss of efficiency or economy in operation

Where doctor who had been employed by company as medical director and by health association to give treatment for ills not connected with compensable injuries was not re-employed by health association when his military service was terminated, fact that it might make for greater efficiency to have same physician for both company and health association was not such change in the company's circumstances as to make it unreasonable for company to re-engage him.  Kay v General Cable Corp. (1944, CA3 NJ) 144 F.2d 653, 15 BNA LRRM 523,
10 CCH LC ¶ 62857

Employee should be restored to his position even though he has been temporarily replaced

Wimbish (1946, CA4 NC) 154 F.2d 773, 17 BNA LRRM 972, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63099

Defendant employer was not obligated to re-employ veteran where such re-employment render re-employment "unreasonable."  Van Doren v Van Doren Laundry Service, Inc. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 1007, 20 BNA LRRM 2351, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63910

Reinstatement is not rendered unreasonable or impossible by slight loss in efficiency or economy of operation.  Allyn v Abad (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 901, 21 BNA LRRM 2437, 14
CCH LC ¶ 64377
Mere fact that re-employment may involve some additional expense, and be less desirable or result in loss in efficiency, does not give rise to "changed circumstances" which would make it "impossible" or "unreasonable" to reinstate employee. Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

38. Former position filled by another

Fact that another employee was taken on in veteran's former position does not render it impossible or unreasonable for employer to reinstate veteran. Trusteed Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639; Houghton v Texas State Life Ins. Co. Employer's circumstances at time of demotion of veteran had not so changed as to make it unreasonable to retain veteran at former position where job, to which veteran had been reinstated and from which he had been demoted, had changed in sense that, after his transfer, job was filled by female employee who could not and did not perform all functions which had been required of job previously. Foor v Torrington Co. (1948, CA7 Ind) 170 F.2d 487, 23 BNA LRRM 2100, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64823

Returning veteran's former position is not unavailable simply because it is occupied by another; returning veteran is not to be denied his rightful position because employer will be forced to displace another employee. Nichols v Department of Veterans Affairs (1993, CA FC) 11 F.3d 160, 94 Daily Journal DAR 3809, 144 BNA LRRM 2952

School district, state subdivision, was liable in damages under predecessor statute for failure to reinstate qualified teacher returning from military service; fact that position was filled by another teacher was immaterial. Schaller v Board of Education (1978, ND Ohio) 449 F Supp 30, 98 BNA LRRM 2320, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10558

Internecine warfare within corporate body was not recognized by predecessor statute as valid reason for refusing to reinstate veteran where family quarrel between veteran and employer, a small corporation organized by father of veteran and undergoing reorganization when veteran received discharge and applied for re-employment, were reasons given by employer for not reinstating veteran in pre-service position. Van Doren v Van Doren Laundry Service, Inc. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 1007, 20 BNA LRRM 2351, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63910

Employer fails to establish that there is no available position for which veteran is qualified at time of discharge from employment where it is shown that there is another job in different department which veteran had previously done on various occasions but for which he had not been given opportunity to try out to determine his capacity for it where veteran, upon discharge and re-employment for a period of 4 days, was notified that his services would not be needed after 5 additional days. Combustion Engineering Co. v Miller (1948, CA6 Tenn) 165 F.2d 372, 21 BNA LRRM 2224, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64224

Employer's circumstances had not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to restore veteran's position where veteran had held position of journeyman mechanic prior to entering service and at time he sought reinstatement there were 21 such workers employed at employer's plant as compared with 15 or less in 1941, when employer secured Navy contract, and where some 16 of these were journeymen mechanics, so that more of these positions existed than at time when veteran was first employed. Bryan v Griffin (1948, CA6 Ky) 166 F.2d 748, 21 BNA LRRM 2566, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64397

Notwithstanding great decrease in work, both in character and amount, company's circumstances did not change so as to make it impossible or unreasonable to re-employ veteran. Burkhardt v Crucible Steel Co. (1946, DC NJ) 68 F Supp 802, 18 BNA LRRM 2423, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63385

Veteran could not be restored to former position where, prior to induction into armed forces veteran had sold intoxicating liquor at golf club in Polk County, Florida, receiving profits from sale... thereof where intoxicating liquors, other than light wines and beers, could not be sold in Polk County except by incorporated clubs to its members, where license taken out by golf club for such sale was not transferable and where, if bar concessions were restored to veteran, sale by him would be unlawful and club officers and members would be parties to such unlawful enterprise; therefore, he could not be restored to his position as concessionaire at the golf club. Brook v Winter Haven Golf Club, Inc. (1946, DC Fla) 69 F Supp 399, 19 BNA LRRM 2140, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63536

Employer has no grounds for refusing reinstatement to returning veteran where employer moves its store from one location to another in same city, where old store at which veteran had worked for 11 years prior to entering service was no longer in existence, and where new store is physically larger in size than old one, requiring more help in handling greater quantity of merchandise and doing more business. Mihelich v F. W. Woolworth Co. (1946, DC Idaho) 69 F Supp 497, 19 BNA LRRM 2282, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63570

Provisions of predecessor statute did not require creation of useless position to accommodate returning veteran where employer, in good faith, attempted to act in conformity with statute; thus, where teacher entered Officers Training School without indication to school board that he might return, and, due to change in family circumstances, was honorably discharged from Air Force without accepting commission and sought re-employment in former teaching position, and school board, which had previously hired permanent teacher as replacement for veteran, offered veteran part-time position for present school year and full-time position for subsequent school year, it was "unreasonable" within meaning of former 38 USCS § 2021 to require school board to discharge replacement hired when veteran first entered service, or to require school board to create unnecessary position to accommodate veteran. Mowdy v Ada Board of Education (1977, ED Okla) 440 F Supp 1184, 97 BNA LRRM 2981, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10411

Sale of business in which veteran has been employed constitutes such change in employer's circumstances as to make reemployment "impossible or unreasonable." Anthony v Basic American Foods, Inc. (1984, ND Cal) 600 F Supp 352, 117 BNA LRRM 3099, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11250

School district violated former teacher's right to reemployment under predecessor statute, despite fact that immediate rehire would violate collective bargaining agreement and state law and despite district's alleged budget restrictions and full staff, because federal law preempted state and local provisions and district had ample notice of teacher's impending return and could have made necessary arrangements. Fitz v Board of Education (1985, ED Mich) 662 F Supp 1011, 124 BNA LRRM 3100, 105 CCH LC ¶ 12026, affd without op (1986, CA6 Mich) 802 F.2d 457, 125 BNA LRRM 2615

C. Reemployment by Successor in Interest

40. Generally

Right to re-employment does not survive death of employer. McFadden v Dienelt (1946, DC Cal) 68 F Supp 951, 19 BNA LRRM 2093, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63478

If successor employer has available in its company position of like seniority, status, and pay to that held by veteran under predecessor employer it is duty of successor to re-employ veteran. Tannenbaum v P. Ballentine & Sons (1947, DC NJ) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63808

41. Determination of status of employer

Successor employer was not obligated to re-employ veteran where original employer went out of business and successor did not take over original employer's property, equipment, and business. Kicinski v Constable Hook Shipyard, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 168 F.2d 404, 22 BNA LRRM 2143, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64561

Federal district court erred in granting summary judgment for defendant employer corporation, in action brought by discharged veteran under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h), on ground that defendant was not "successor in interest" of another corporation, since pleadings
40. Successors in Business

Contention that employer’s obligation applies to purchaser of industrial plant from actual pre-induction employer and that veteran who had been employed prior to his entry into service as assistant plant manager is entitled to rights of returned employee of such purchaser is without merit. Hastings v Reynolds Metals Co. (1947, CA7 Ill) 165 F.2d 484, 21 BNA LRRM 2049, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64117

Purchaser of industrial plants, but not of large portion of corporate assets, was not bound to re-employ veteran who was employee of vendor prior to induction, particularly as veteran waived re-employment rights by entering employment contract with purchaser while still on terminal leave, which contract was terminable at will of either party. Hastings v Reynolds Metals Co. (1947, CA7 Ill) 165 F.2d 484, 21 BNA LRRM 2049, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64117

Company purchasing part of business of former employer of the veteran did not assume obligation to hire the veteran on his return from service where former employer still remained in Successor employer was not required to maintain in his employ those veterans who had been re-employed by predecessor employer and were still within first year of re-employment. Sullivan v West Co. (1946, DC Pa) 67 F Supp 177, 18 BNA LRRM 2307, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63303

Successor in interest was not justified in failing to re-employ veteran where there was substantial continuity of business operations, successor knew of plaintiff's claim for re-employment, no hardship defense was raised, and it appeared seller of business and successor agreed to deny veteran re-employment. Di Lauro v Riley's Tavern, Inc. (1948, ND Ohio) 14 CCH LC ¶ 64513

§ 4313. Reemployment positions

(1) Except as provided in paragraphs (3) and (4), in the case of a person whose period of service in the uniformed services was for less than 91 days--
   (A) in the position of employment in which the person would have been employed if the continuous employment of such person with the employer had not been interrupted by such service, the duties of which the person is qualified to perform; or
   (B) in the position of employment in which the person was employed on the date of the commencement of the service in the uniformed services, only if the person is not qualified to perform the duties of the position referred to in subparagraph (A) after reasonable efforts by the employer to qualify the person.

(2) Except as provided in paragraphs (3) and (4), in the case of a person whose period of service in the uniformed services was for more than 90 days--

   (B) in the position of employment in which the person was employed on the date of the commencement of the service in the uniformed services, or a position of like seniority, status and pay, the duties of which the person is qualified to perform, only if the person is not qualified to perform the duties of a position referred to in subparagraph (A) after reasonable efforts by the employer to qualify the person.

(3) In the case of a person who has a disability incurred in, or aggravated during, such service, and who (after reasonable efforts by the employer to accommodate the disability) is not qualified due to such disability to be employed in the position of employment in which the person would have been employed if the continuous employment of such person with the employer had not been interrupted by such service--
(A) in any other position which is equivalent in seniority, status, and pay, the duties of which the person is qualified to perform or would become qualified to perform with reasonable efforts by the employer; or
(B) if not employed under subparagraph (A), in a position which is the nearest approximation to a position referred to in subparagraph (A) in terms of seniority, status, and pay consistent with circumstances of such person's case.

(b) (1) If two or more persons are entitled to reemployment under section 4312 [38 USCS § 4312] in the same position of employment and more than one of them has reported for such reemployment, the person who left the position first shall have the prior right to reemployment in that position.

(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), in any other position of employment referred to in subsection (a)(1) or (a)(2), as the case may be (in the order of priority set out in the applicable subsection), that provides a similar status and pay to a position of employment referred to in paragraph (1) of this subsection, consistent with the circumstances of such person's case, with full seniority.

(B) In the case of a person who has a disability incurred in, or aggravated during, a period of service in the uniformed services that requires reasonable efforts by the employer for the person to be able to perform the duties of the position of employment, in any other position referred to in subsection (a)(3) (in the order of priority set out in that subsection) that provides a similar status and pay to a position referred to in paragraph (1) of this subsection, consistent with circumstances of such person's case, with full seniority.

§ 4316. Rights, benefits, and obligations of persons absent from employment for service in a uniformed service

(a) A person who is reemployed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] is entitled to the seniority and other rights and benefits determined by seniority that the person had on the date of the commencement of service in the uniformed services plus the additional seniority and rights and benefits that such person would have attained if the person had remained continuously employed.

(b) (1) Subject to paragraphs (2) through (6), a person who is absent from a position of employment by reason of service in the uniformed services shall be--
   (A) deemed to be on furlough or leave of absence while performing such service; and
   (B) entitled to such other rights and benefits not determined by seniority as are generally provided by the employer of the person to employees having similar seniority, status, and pay who are on furlough or leave of absence under a contract, agreement, policy, practice, or plan in effect at the commencement of such service or established while such person performs such service.

(2) (A) Subject to subparagraph (B), a person who--
   (i) is absent from a position of employment by reason of service in the uniformed services, and
   (ii) knowingly provides written notice of intent not to return to a position of employment after service in the uniformed service, is not entitled to rights and benefits under paragraph (1)(B).
   (B) For the purposes of subparagraph (A), the employer shall have the burden of proving that a person knowingly provided clear written notice of intent not to return to a position of employment after service in the uniformed service and, in doing so, was aware of the specific rights and benefits to be lost under subparagraph (A).

(3) A person deemed to be on furlough or leave of absence under this subsection while serving in the uniformed services shall not be entitled under this subsection to any benefits to which the person would not otherwise be entitled if the person had remained continuously employed.

(5) The entitlement of a person to coverage under a health plan is provided for under section 4317 [38 USCS § 4317].

(6) The entitlement of a person to a right or benefit under an employee pension benefit plan is provided for under section 4318 [38 USCS § 4318].

(1) within one year after the date of such reemployment, if the person's period of service before the reemployment was more than 180 days; or

(2) within 180 days after the date of such reemployment, if the person's period of service before the reemployment was more than 30 days but less than 181 days.

(d) Any person whose employment with an employer is interrupted by a period of service in the uniformed services shall be permitted, upon request of that person, to use during such period of service any vacation, annual, or similar leave with pay accrued by the person before the commencement of such service. Inglot v Columbia Aircraft Products, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 433, 21 BNA LRRM 2382, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64361

Employer who feels that exact restoration to position held by veteran prior to military service is impossible or unreasonable has duty to consider and offer another like position instead of making bald refusal. Houghton v Texas State Life Ins. Co. (1948, CA5 Tex) 166 F.2d 848, 21 BNA LRRM 2432, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64357, cert den (1948) 335 US 822, 93 L Ed 376, 69 S Ct 44, 22 BNA LRRM 2564

Veteran on his return is entitled to his old position or its equivalent even though at time of his application plant is closed down, for retooling, and no work is available and he is entitled to be recalled to work in accordance with his seniority; his position exists though no work is then available and slackening of work which causes him to be laid off by operation of seniority system is not removal, dismissal, or discharge from position in any normal sense. Boston & M. R. R. v David (1948, CA1 NH) 167 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2133, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64508

In case of petition for remedial action under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, or where violation of Act is raised as affirmative defense, administrative judge must inform appellant of burdens of proof and different methods of proving claim under Act, to enable appellant to make reasoned decision on methods he wishes to use in supporting his claim, and AJ must then determine methods appellant wishes to use to support his claim. Fox v United States Postal Serv. (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 381

Predecessor to statute contemplated that employee whose position has been abolished must be restored to position of like seniority, status, and pay and that every effort must be made to accomplish this. (1941) 40 Op Atty Gen 152

2. Comparability of positions, generally

Employer's offer to place veteran in position which, while not identical to position held before entering service, was similar in seniority, status, and pay, discharged employer's obligation under predecessor to statute. Court will not grant specific performance of collective bargaining agreement's seniority provisions if such relief will nullify preferences given by Congress to returning veterans. International Union, United Auto., etc. v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947) 140 NJ Eq 177, 53 A2d 339, 20 BNA LRRM 2455, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63798

8. Application of agreements, generally

Although predecessor to statute, regulating veteran's re-employment rights, did not itself create seniority system but accepted that set forth in applicable collective bargaining agreement, it required application of principles of that system in manner that would not deprive veteran of benefits, in terms of restoration to position and advancement in status, for which Congress had provided. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

It cannot be presumed that Congress, in failing to amend National Labor Relations Act, intended to permit concerted action of collective bargaining agency and employer to destroy or whittle down statutory right of veteran to restoration to security and seniority in his job. Bryant v Brotherhood R. Trainmen (1947, DC La) 74 F Supp 510, 21 BNA LRRM 2061, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64143

Veteran employed 3 months before induction was not entitled to seniority where 6 months' employment is required by union agreement before seniority begins. Meredith v Industrial Rayon Corp. (1949, DC Ohio) 117 F Supp 815

Petitioner, who was in the service on July 12, 1945, when employee in his classification was laid off, which lay-off continued until March 14, 1949, when petitioner was rehired, lost his seniority as of July 12, 1948, under terms of collective bargaining agreement extending seniority for a three-year period in event of lay-off. Carr v New York Shipbuilding Corp. (1952, DC NJ) 106 F Supp 711, 30 BNA LRRM 2511, 22 CCH LC ¶ 67141

Reinstated employee who entered service after working 89 days was not entitled to seniority from original employment date where collective bargaining agreement then effective provided for no seniority credit until after 3 months' employment. Venzel v National Tube Co. (1952, DC Ohio) 117 F Supp 385, affd (1953, CA6 Ohio) 209 F.2d 185, 33 BNA LRRM 2252, 24 CCH LC ¶ 68025, cert den (1954) 348 US 838, 99 L Ed 661, 75 S Ct 26, 34 BNA LRRM 2898

Employee, who at time of his induction in army was treated by his employer as being in temporary status because of collective bargaining agreement requiring new employees to serve 90 days on probation before establishing seniority rating, was entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to seniority credit for time spent in armed forces. Brickner v Johnson Motors (1969, ND Ill) 299 F Supp 1005, 71 BNA LRRM 2321, 60 CCH LC ¶ 10154, affd (1970, CA7 Ill) 425 F.2d 75, 74 BNA LRRM 2135, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10861

9. -Agreements executed during term of military service

Under predecessor to statute, discharged veteran who is restored to his former position in employ of private employer was given status of one who has been on furlough or leave of absence but was uninterruptedly member of working force, and in this way he was protected from being prejudiced by any change in terms of collective bargaining agreement because he was on furlough or leave of absence, but he was not favored on that ground as against his fellow employees. Aeronautical Industrial Dist. Lodge v Campbell (1949) 337 US 521, 93 L Ed 1513, 69 S Ct 1287, 24 BNA LRRM 2173, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65206

Employee absent in war service was bound by nondiscriminatory arrangements made between bargaining unit and employer during his absence. Gauweiler v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. Upon return from service, veteran was entitled to seniority rating as permanent employee where, prior to entering service, veteran's position enjoyed no enforceable status but, during his absence in service, union agreement elevated position from seasonal to permanent status. United States ex rel. Unruh v North American Creameries, Inc. (1947, DC ND) 70 F Supp 36, 19 BNA LRRM 2341, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63594

Provisions of any union contract entered into between employer and union during veteran's absence which discriminate against veteran are void. Armstrong v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co. (1947, DC Ala) 73 F Supp 329, 20 BNA LRRM 2396, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63941

Returning veteran is bound by agreements made between union and employer during veteran's absence in military service. Cushiner v Ford Motor Co. (1950, DC Mich) 89 F Supp 491, 25 BNA LRRM 2385, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65616

10. -Closed-shop agreements

Agreement providing for closed-shop put into effect during veteran's absence in military service has no effect on veteran's right to re-employment after discharge from service. Curtis v Railroad Perishable Inspection Agency (1947, DC Mass) 71 F Supp 153, 20 BNA LRRM 2038

Fact that employer considered veteran, prior to entering service, to be "temporary" employee because veteran was not member of Local No. 830, with whom employer had "closed-shop" agreement, was not determinative where it is also shown that veteran was member of Local No. 107 of same union where veteran has alleged that he was employed by employer with assent of Local No. 830 because veteran could not obtain truck driver from Local No. 830 especially where veteran's employment with employer was not conditioned upon becoming member of Local No. 830 and that it was custom and practice of union to permit member of one of its local unions to work for employer under exclusive jurisdiction of another of its locals. Daniels v Barfield (1947, DC Pa) 71 F Supp 884, 19 BNA LRRM 2576

If, prior to veteran's induction into military service, employer obtained the union contract under which veteran would not be qualified to obtain job unless he was member of union, such agreement would not in any way discriminate against veteran where veteran left job, as truck driver, on nonunion contract which was to terminate within few months and, when he left, it was not certain where work under next contract would be located and veteran would be subject to transfer to new job wherever it was or free to quit and seek other employment; there is nothing which precludes employer from entering into closed-shop agreement with union. Bozar v Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping & Constr. Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 803, 20 BNA LRRM 2663, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64077

11. -Preferences for union officers

Veteran was not entitled to greater benefits, based upon length of service with company, than those afforded to union officials under agreement negotiated while veteran was absent in service under which agreement union officials were given seniorities superior to that of union members, irrespective of actual seniority gained by length of service; if, during absence of some employees for purposes of military service, remaining employees get together and create union offices for themselves so that everyone has office and then proceed to provide top seniority for union officers, court would void such agreement as device simply to discriminate against absentee fighting men. Gauweiler v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 448, 20 BNA LRRM
Union section steward must be restored to position and veteran could not recover for loss of wages where union contract entered into while veteran was in service modified seniority provisions giving certain union officials higher seniority than anyone else. Di Maggio v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 544, 20 BNA LRRM 2145, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63784

Employee absent in war service was bound by collective bargaining agreement provided agreement did not discriminate as to veterans and returning veteran had no right to displace nonveteran union official of less actual seniority who had been given top seniority under agreement. Payne v Wright Aeronautical Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 549, 20 BNA LRRM 2149, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63786

Seniority rights given veteran by predecessor to statute were not infringed where employer laid off veteran prior to laying off union chairman although chairman was junior to veteran in seniority where new collective bargaining agreements, made while veteran was in military service, provided that employees thereafter who served as union chairmen were entitled to be retained in case of layoffs regardless of their length of service in plant and where this agreement expressed honest desire for protection of interest of all members of union and was not skillful device of hostility to veterans. Bozar v Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping & Constr. Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 803, 20 BNA LRRM 2663, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64077

Collective bargaining agreement whereby employer, in determining relative seniority of employment among its employees, allowed credit for pre-employment as well as post-employment military service was valid, as such agreement violated neither Selective Training and Service Act (50 USCS § 308) nor National Labor Relations Act (29 USCS §§ 141 et seq.). Ford Motor Co. v Huffman (1953) 345 US 330, 97 L Ed 1048, 73 S Ct 681, 31 BNA LRRM 2548, 23 CCH LC ¶ 67505

Discrimination in collective bargaining agreement wholly unrelated to veteran's absence in service was not forbidden by predecessor to statute, and veteran was not statutorily entitled to have his seniority determined as of date of original employment where bargaining agreement provided otherwise. Veteran’s attaining position of Electrical Repairman Grade A must be readjusted for seniority and promotion purposes so that he will be considered to have been Motor Inspector Grade B as of Jan. 1, 1966, although for salary adjustment he is considered to have been promoted as of Feb. 2, 1966, date upon which he actually completed work required under provisions that existed when he departed from military service where veteran was reinstated in former position as Electrical Repairman Grade B upon completion of military service, but subsequent collective bargaining agreement abolished job of Electrical Repairman, replacing it with similar craft job of Motor Inspector, with provision that Electrical Repairman who had attained Grade A by Dec. 31, 1965, were slotted to become Motor Inspectors Grade B and that those who were in Grade B or C of Electrical Repairmen would become Motor Inspectors Grade C and where plaintiff, who had by Dec. 31, 1965, less than 1,040 hours of Electrical Repairman Grade B, was slotted in new craft job as Motor Inspector Grade C on Jan. 1, 1966, although his co-employees, who had not taken leave of absence for military service and who were equal or behind him in rank at time he entered military service, made Electrical Repairman Grade A during 1965 and were classified as Motor Inspectors Grade B on Jan. 1, 1966; intervention of new collective bargaining agreement cannot affect rights secured by Congress. It would be unwarranted frustration of Congressional intent to permit collective bargaining agreement, which provided that time spent on leave of absence for military service of 5 days or longer could not be counted as time worked in computing progression periods for progression wage increases, to prevail over Universal Military Training Act. Haynes v United Chemical Workers (1950) 190 Tenn 165, 228 SW2d 101

C. Seniority Rights

1. In General

13. Generally

Statutory rights of returning veterans are subject to changes in conditions of their employment which have occurred in regular course during their absence in military service, where changes are not hostile devices discriminating against veterans. Ford Motor Co. v Huffman (1953) 345 US 330, 97 L Ed 1048, 73 S Ct 681, 31 BNA LRRM 2548, 23 CCH LC ¶ 67505

Although predecessor to statute did not itself create seniority system, it required application of principles of applicable system in manner that would not deprive veteran of benefits of restoration and advancement in status for which Congress has provided. McKinney v Missouri K.
T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

Veteran's seniority rights under predecessor to statute are not defeated by possibilities that work of particular type might not have been available, that veteran would not have worked satisfactorily during period of absence, that he might not have elected to accept higher position, or that sickness might have prevented him from continuing employment. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 578, 55 BNA LRRM 2374, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18748, reh den (1964) 376 US 966, 11 L Ed 2d 984, 84 S Ct 1121, 49 CCH LC ¶ 18844

Seniority provision under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h) did not guarantee veteran increase in seniority, but was restricted to protecting veteran against loss of seniority. Selgrat v Field Enterprises, Inc. (1952, DC Ill) 105 F Supp 179, 30 BNA LRRM 2548

Veterans are to be given seniority rights only to extent that they would have had such rights if, instead of being in military service, they had been on job, and veterans are just as subject to seniority rules, including limitations on seniority based on time of company service, which prevail in their employment, as any other employee. Haynes v United Chemical Workers (1950) 190 Tenn 165, 228 SW2d 101

14. Construction of statute, generally

Predecessor to statute is not to be read as granting veteran increase in seniority over what he would have had if he had never entered Armed Forces. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 86 S Ct 768, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110; Hewitt v System Federation No. 152, etc. (1947, CA7 Ind) 161 F.2d 545, 20 BNA LRRM 2084, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63724; Gauweiler v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 448, 20 BNA LRRM 2140, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63783; Koury v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 544, 20 BNA LRRM 2145, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63784; Di Maggio v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 546, 20 BNA LRRM 2146, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63785

Since predecessor to statute used term "seniority" without definition, court must look to conventional uses of seniority system in process of collective bargaining. Aeronautical Industrial Dist. Lodge v Campbell (1949) 337 US 521, 93 L Ed 1513, 69 S Ct 1287, 24 BNA LRRM 2173, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65206

Term "seniority" as used in predecessor to statute was not to be limited by technical definition, but must be given meaning that was consonant with intention of Congress to preserve for returning veterans such rights and benefits which would have automatically accrued to them had they remained in private employment. Accardi v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1966) 383 US 225, 15 L Ed 2d 717, 86 S Ct 768, 1 EBC 1016, 61 BNA LRRM 2385, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11073

Underlying purpose of former provisions of Military Selective Service Act was to make certain that veteran did not lose seniority rights because of time spent in military service. Jackson v Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975, CA10 Kan) 517 F.2d 1322, 1 EBC 1116, 89 BNA LRRM 2642, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10937

By using such words as "temporary position" and "seniority," rights created by predecessor to statute are to be interpreted in relation to collective bargaining agreement, if one was in existence; seniority system was not created by the statute, but if there was one in collective bargaining agreement, then statute allowed veteran to step back at precise point he would have occupied had he kept his position continuously during war. Wright v Ford Motor Co. (1961, ED Mich) 196 F Supp 538, 48 BNA LRRM 2920, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17163; Fees v Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1971, WD Pa) 335 F Supp 487, 79 BNA LRRM 2408, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12343

15. Limitation period

Veteran’s restored seniority standing under re-employment provisions ends with completion of first year of his re-employment and does not last as long as employment continues. Trailmobile Co. v Whirls (1947) 331 US 40, 91 L Ed 1328, 67 S Ct 982, 19 BNA LRRM 2531, 12 CCH LC ¶ 51247

Where mechanics brought action against employer to enforce their seniority rights, court had no power to “freeze” contractual rights of parties or of plaintiffs to their jobs as mechanics after statutory one year. Spearmon v Thompson (1949, CA8 Ark) 173 F.2d 452, 23 BNA LRRM 2472, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65028

16. Rights conferred by statute, generally

If, within statutory period, veteran was demoted, he would be discharged from such position; but guarantee against discharge did not on its face suggest grant of preference to veteran over and above that which was accorded by seniority of such position. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Upon reinstatement under predecessor to statute, veteran who had been employed by subsidiary company prior to induction was not entitled to any greater seniority rights than those accorded to all employees of subsidiary by bargaining agreement entered into by new owner, whereby all employees of subsidiary were given seniority dated as of time of corporate reorganization. Britt v Trailmobile Co. (1950, CA6 Ohio) 179 F.2d 569, 25 BNA LRRM 2314, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65541, 29 ALR2d 1272, cert den (1950) 340 US 820, 95 L Ed 603, 71 S Ct 52

Veteran’s seniority in position to which he was promoted shortly after return to work was retroactive to time when first of those who were junior to him in his old job classification were promoted to same position he held after his promotion. Under law of state, state civil service employee was entitled to seniority credit in state position for time spent for reservist training, such time being subject to provisions of statute. In re Fidek (1978) 76 NJ 340, 387 A2d 1185

17. -Rights between veterans as to positions

Treatment accorded returning veteran with regard to his rights of re-employment may be such as to discriminate between veteran and other returning servicemen or between veteran and other employees who did not enter service. Veterans, who were on temporary upgraded list at time they were called to military service and who after returning completed sufficient number of hours to qualify for permanent list, were entitled to seniority on permanent list ahead of nonveterans who were junior to ones on temporary list but who had qualified for permanent list ahead of veterans during their absence in military service. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747; Brooks v Missouri P. R. Co. In action under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, veterans who returned to former position with railroads as "Rule 154" carmen and who were entitled under collective bargaining agreement to retroactive seniority status for time spent in military service upon completing railroad's usual 1040-day waiting period required for journeyman status, were entitled to immediate credit against 1040-day requirement for time spent in military service with result that veterans had sufficient seniority to prevent layoff as opposed to nonveteran journeymen-carmen who were not laid off, where journeyman status was not dependent upon proficiency or employer discretion. 19. Rights as to transfers and promotions

Under predecessor to statute, regulating veteran's re-employment rights, railroad employee who, prior to his induction into armed forces, was employed in position classified under applicable collective bargaining agreement in group 2, and who after his separation from military service was re-employed with group 1 seniority, and, after abolishment of that position, was reduced to group 2 position, was not entitled to claim seniority rights to group 1 position in place of nonemployee who had been assigned to that position after it had been "bulletined" while veteran was in service, where applicable collective bargaining agreement, although providing that returning employee may exercise seniority rights to any position bulletined during his leave of absence, made promotion from group 2 to group 1 depend, not only seniority, but also upon fitness and ability, and fact of actual employment in higher position did not enlarge veteran's rights under either collective bargaining agreement or statute; since employer was not obligated to give veteran higher position at all, when it did so it was not bound to give him seniority date earlier than that to which any employee similarly promoted would have been entitled, this date being date on which veteran's pay in group 1 position commenced, and not month earlier when position had first been bulletined. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613.

Veteran who was employed as apprentice machinist in one city prior to service, resumed apprenticeship after discharge, and was transferred to another city, was entitled to seniority status in latter city where, but for military service, he probably would have achieved seniority status in latter city by virtue of continuous satisfactory employment. On his return from service, veteran was not entitled to have his name placed on seniority list as carman helper before eight car cleaners who had been junior to him but had been promoted where collective bargaining agreements between railroad and its car cleaners and carman helpers provided for separate seniority rights among themselves, where there was no provision whereby employee classified as car cleaner might transfer and be classified as carman helper on...

It was misconception to conclude simply because sheet-metal work was being done by mechanics in employer's shops, even by mechanic junior to veteran on that work, that veteran was entitled to re-employment where petitioner was not qualified for status of mechanic, his permanent status being only that of sheet-metal worker's helper and where, under collective bargaining agreement, seniority did not cross craft lines but was in status and furthermore where, under agreement, veteran, as helper, had no right to be assigned to mechanic's work when mechanics were available to do it, their superior status carrying with it superior rights to employment; veteran was entitled to be given employment on sheet-metal work only when such work became available to one in his status and his position and framework of seniority in employer's shops; only if it should appear that some employee with same or inferior craft

There was no sound basis for contention that veteran was entitled to displace nonveteran in employer had agreed that, in absence of veterans' rights, departmental seniority took been veteran he could not have "bumped" nonveteran.  Oil Workers International Union CIO v

Under rule that military service of veteran returning to position in private industry was counted as service in plant so that veteran did not lose ground in seniority hierarchy by reason of absence, rehired veterans subsequently displaced from skilled trade jobs in work force reduction were entitled to reinstatement at higher seniority level where veterans, prior to leave of absence for military service, had participated in skilled trade program, where only perquisite of participation in skilled trade program for over four years was advanced seniority, where veterans had not achieved advance seniority at time of military leave and where nonveteran workers, who entered skilled trade programs after veterans, had achieved such seniority and had retained skilled trade jobs after work force reduction.  United States ex rel. Adams v General Motors Corp.

Veteran was entitled to adjustment of seniority ranking in local police force due to time

District court erred in deciding that 38 USCS § 4311(a), rather than 38 USCS § 4316(b)(1), part of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, (USERRA) must be applied to claims of National Guard and reservist city employees because § 4316(b)(1) was fully applicable to reservists' short absences from civilian employment for weekend drills or two-week annual training, and district court mistakenly thought that Veterans Reemployment Rights Act, former 38 USCS § 2024(d), was precursor of USERRA § 4316(b)(1); however, USERRA § 4316(b)(1) had no true predecessor and dealt with different subject (non-seniority rights of persons absent for military service) from § 2024(d) (reemployment rights). On appeal, military reservist and National Guard employees' recovery was limited under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4316(b)(1), as they were to be treated equally to such non-seniority rights and benefits as non-military leave employees and district court erred in applying 38 USCS § 4311(a) rather than § 4316(b)(1) to employees' claims because USERRA did not grant escalator protection to service members' non-seniority rights and benefits. Seniority acquired by veterans as laborers prior to their induction could not be counted as seniority on machinists' helpers' seniority roster prior to veterans' actual promotion to positions as helpers where classification of laborer and that of machinist's helper in employer railroad's employment fell within separate crafts or classes and wages, rules, and working conditions of employee within each of such classifications, including seniority and seniority rights, were established and governed by completely separate and distinct collective bargaining agreements between employer and separate and distinct statutory collective bargaining representatives for each of separate crafts or classes within which such job classification fell; seniority in one class did not constitute seniority in another; great presumption or strong probability that veterans would have been promoted had they remained at work during period of military service did not entitle them to seniority in promoted position. 2. Determination of Rights

Predecessor to statute, requiring that private employers reinstate their former employees who are honorably discharged veterans to their former position or to position of like seniority, status, and pay, and providing that such person "shall be so restored without loss of seniority," mean that for purpose of determining seniority, returning veteran is to be treated as though he had been Veteran was fully restored to former "position" where he was permitted to take up seniority at precise point which he would have occupied had he kept his position continuously during war and where he was promptly placed by employer on roster of employees in veteran's old permanent rating of sheet-metal worker's helper with accumulated seniority therein even though operation of seniority system in effect in employer's shop required that veteran be placed on furlough instead of put to work. Boston & M. R. R. v David (1948, CA1 NH) 167 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2133, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64008

Employer's refusal to credit veteran's time in military service toward achievement of company employment status, which would give veteran increased job security, constituted unlawful deprivation of veteran's opportunity to continue progression towards journeyman rating, based solely upon veteran's absence on military duty, since refusal to grant such status resulted in veteran being displaced by nonveteran employee with greater job security. United States ex rel. Adams v General Motors Corp. (1975, CA6 Mich) 525 F.2d 161, 90 BNA LRRM 3132, 77 CCH LC ¶ 11073

Under normal circumstances, upon completion of requisite period of training, veteran returning to his former employment was entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to adjustment of his seniority date. Derkowski v Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1969, DC Md) 316 F Supp 310, 74 BNA LRRM 2561, 63 CCH LC ¶ 10978

Burden of proof is upon veteran seeking reinstatement under predecessor to statute to establish date from which seniority should be determined; and, in action for reinstatement, promotion, and seniority in promoted position, where veteran did not sustain burden of proof as to when seniority in promoted position would have occurred, date of seniority would be date of reinstatement. Thomas v Pacific Northwest Bell Tel. Co. (1977, DC Or) 434 F Supp 741, 94 BNA LRRM 3153, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13136

Veterans on their return to employment enjoyed by them before they entered military service were to be given seniority rights only to extent that they would have had such rights if, instead of being in military service, they had been on job, and they were just as subject to seniority rules, including limitations on seniority based on time of company service, which prevailed in their employment, as were any other employees. Haynes v United Chemical Workers (1950) 190 Tenn 165, 228 SW2d 101

22. Seniority status, generally

In computing seniority to which veteran is entitled upon returning from service and being re-employed in his preservice position, veteran has right to be restored to same status which he would have occupied had his employment not be interrupted by military service; veteran does not step back on seniority escalator at point he stepped off, but steps back on at precise point he would have occupied had he kept his position continuously during war. Veteran steps back upon escalator of employment as of time of his request for re-employment but if escalator moves down instead of up, veteran is required to accept that detriment precisely as employer is required to carry burden of increased salary if escalator turns upward. Former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) merely guaranteed returning serviceman seniority rights he would have had had he not entered service. It did not create or vest in veteran additional rights beyond what he would have had he not have gone into service; this is sometimes referred to as escalator principle, and it simply means that all his rights, including seniority, move on as though he had not left employ of the company. McKinney v Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. (1956, CA10 Okla) 240 F.2d 8, 39 BNA LRRM 2312, 31 CCH LC ¶ 64874. Veteran had never got on "seniority escalator" where plaintiff was employed by his employer less than six months' period required by union agreement and was on probationary basis; he was not continued as employee within terms of agreement after his induction into military service so as to be entitled to seniority rights which entitled him to employment in preferred status upon his return to employer. Meredith v Industrial Rayon Corp. (1949, DC Ohio) 117 F Supp 815. Cases interpreting predecessors of statute, established what is known as "escalator principle" of veterans' reemployment rights, which provided that returning draftee did not step back on security escalator at point he stepped off, but stepped back on at precise point he would have occupied had he kept his position continuously during period of service; by enacting statute, Congress approved "escalator principle" and employer was not to deny returning draftee any seniority, promotions, changes in status, raises in pay, etc. which veteran would have automatically received had his employment not been interrupted by military service and statutes required that veteran receive those benefits which would have been his simply by virtue of continued employment; veteran was not required to show that he necessarily would have received any benefit in issue had he not been drafted, and it was sufficient to show that at time he left employment, it was reasonably certain that change of status would have occurred. Thomas v Pacific Northwest Bell Tel. Co. (1977, DC Or) 434 F Supp 741, 94 BNA LRRM 3153, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13136.

23. Employee serving probationary period

Even though pilot had completed only 7 of 12 months' probationary period provided for in collective bargaining agreement when he entered military service, he was entitled to have time spent in service included in determining his seniority where pay increases were based entirely on seniority. Moe v Eastern Air Lines, Inc. (1957, CA5 Fla) 246 F.2d 215, 40 BNA LRRM 2302. Copilot who entered military service while serving probationary period with airline was entitled to seniority rights, notwithstanding collective bargaining agreement to the contrary, where there was reasonable expectation that employment would be continuous. Moe v Eastern Air Lines,
Veteran who left job during probationary period was entitled to seniority status dating from time of entering into service despite company's unilateral prerogative to fire for no reason any probationary employee, power exercised as to one out of every 10 such employees, since this did not constitute sufficient "managerial discretion" so as to preclude returning veteran from establishing that his probationary status was dependent solely upon continuing employment, since such right, even though regularly exercised by company, was not affirmative discretionary factor in management's advancement selection criteria. Montgomery v Southern Electric Steel Co. (1969, CA5 Ala) 410 F.2d 611, 71 BNA LRRM 2174, 60 CCH LC ¶ 10027

Veteran who had, prior to entering service, been employed on probationary basis requiring that he spend at least 90 days in employ of defendant in order to obtain position entitling him to seniority, was not entitled, upon return from service, to be re-employed on basis of seniority which would have been obtained had he not been called to service. Johnson v Interstate Transit Lines (1946, DC Utah) 71 F Supp 882, 18 BNA LRRM 2090, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63202, affd (1947, CA10 Utah) 163 F.2d 125, 20 BNA LRRM 2483, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63960, 172 ALR 1242

Veteran returning from military service was entitled to seniority rights based upon position he held at printing company when he left employment with company to enter military service and veteran's seniority was to be computed from date prior to veteran's entry into military service, where, although veteran had not, prior to entering service, completed probationary period for position and company apparently had power to decline to promote any employee it found to be incompetent, company had never failed to promote person in veteran's position, and veteran's failure to satisfy requirement of probationary period was direct result of entry into military service; despite fact that collective bargaining agreement required veteran, when promoted to position he held prior to entering service, to register such promotion with union, fact that veteran did not so register was insufficient to defeat veteran's rights of re-employment. Plaintiff who, while employed as carman apprentice, left to enter army and shortly after his discharge was re-employed in same capacity with seniority as of his first employment, and upon completion of his four year apprenticeship was promoted to carman with seniority from that date, was not entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to seniority as carman as of date he would have completed apprenticeship had he not been in service, where promotion was not automatic but in discretion of employer. Jones v United States (1958, CA10 Okla) 258 F.2d 81

Airline pilot was entitled to seniority status he claimed where it appeared, as matter of foresight, that pilot trainees who successfully completed airline's training course were regularly advanced to flight officer status and where it appeared, as matter of hindsight, that pilot veteran would have probably completed his training in normal course had it not been interrupted by military service. Pomrenig v United Air Lines, Inc. (1971, CA7 Ill) 448 F.2d 609, 78 BNA LRRM 2241, 66 CCH LC ¶ 12039

Seniority date of veteran who was apprentice boilermaker when he left to perform military service and resumed apprenticeship after termination of service was properly determined by subtracting length of military service from date on which servicemen actually completed apprenticeship; predecessor to statute did not require that returning veteran, who had yet to complete apprenticeship before being entitled to retroactive seniority date, receive credit for days not actually worked, where such absences were unrelated to military service. Earls v Atchison, T. & S. F. Railway (1976, CA9 Cal) 532 F.2d 133, 91 BNA LRRM 2943, 78 CCH LC ¶ 11340

Veteran who, prior to entry into service, took union-sponsored apprenticeship qualification examination and was placed on list of qualified applicants for year in which examination was administered, and who entered service prior to being selected from list of qualified applicants, was not eligible for re-employment under provisions of predecessor to statute; provisions of statute included relationship in which employee rendered regular and continuing service to another and to equate applicant for apprenticeship position with individual rendering regular and continuing service to another would abuse language of predecessor to statute, as applicant was not subject to direction and control as to method and manner of performing his duties and in result to be accomplished. Wilson v Toledo Area Sheet Metal Joint Apprenticeship Committee (1977, CA6 Ohio) 560 F.2d 222, 96 BNA LRRM 2004, 82 CCH LC ¶ 10074

Apprentice machinist, who completed apprenticeship after return from service, was entitled to seniority retroactive to date when apprenticeship would have been completed if he had not entered service, despite collective bargaining provisions that apprentice did not accumulate seniority during apprenticeship. Veteran, railroad employee, who had completed approximately one half of his apprenticeship in Kentucky, and was transferred to Ohio, served two years in armed forces, was rehired and completed his apprenticeship in Ohio, was entitled to seniority under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h) on the Ohio list as of date he would have completed his apprenticeship had he not served in armed forces. Plaintiffs, former railroad firemen, were entitled to measure period of seniority as engineers beginning on date on which they contended they would have become engineers had it not been for military service where railroad's advancement of employees to engineer was not discretionary but rather was based on completion of training and examinations, where it was reasonably foreseeable that plaintiffs would have become engineers in normal course had it not been for military service, and where, after service, plaintiffs in fact completed training and exams and advanced to engineering status. D. Fringe Benefits

1. In General

26. Generally

Generally, presence of work requirement was strong evidence that employee benefit under bargaining agreement was intended as form of compensation so as to make it benefit to which returning veteran was not entitled under predecessor to statute, which insured returning veteran right to be restored to his job with same levels of seniority, status, and pay that he would have enjoyed if he had held job during his time in military service; where work requirement was so insubstantial that it appeared plainly designed to measure time on payroll rather than hours on job, statute required that benefit be granted to returning veterans, but where work requirement constituted bona fide effort to compensate for work actually performed, fact that it correlated only loosely with benefit was not enough to invoke statutory guarantee.  Foster v Dravo Corp. (1975)

Returning veteran was entitled to benefits which automatically would have been accorded to him if he had remained in continuous service of his employer; he was not entitled to benefits which required more than continuous status, such as work requirement demanding actual

27. Purpose of statute

Predecessor to statute, providing that returning veterans be entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits offered by employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence in effect with employer at time such person was inducted into Armed Forces, was intended to add certain protections to veteran and not to take away those which conferred upon veterans right to be reinstated without loss of seniority.
BNA LRRM 2385, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11073

Employer is not required by former 38 USCS § 2021(b)(3) to make work scheduling accommodations for employee-reservists not made for other employees; former § 2021(b)(3) was enacted for a limited purpose of protecting employee-reservist against discriminations in discharge and promotion motivated solely by reserve status; Congress did not intend that reservists be entitled to all "incidents or advantages of employment" accorded during their absence to working employees conditioned upon actual performance on job.  Monroe v

28. Construction of statute

In determining whether particular benefit was right of seniority secured to veteran by § 9 of the former Military Selective Service Act, which required that veteran returning to employment after having left to enter military be restored to his former position or "to a position of like seniority, status, and pay," private employment benefit would be considered a "perquisite of seniority" protected by § 9 if it would have accrued, with reasonable certainty, had veteran seeking benefit been continuously employed by private employer, and if it was in nature of regard for length of service; but if, on other hand, veteran's right to benefit at time he entered military was subject to significant contingency, or if benefit was in nature of short term compensation for services rendered, it was not aspect of seniority within coverage of § 9. Alabama Power Co. v Davis (1977) 431 US 581, 52 L Ed 2d 595, 97 S Ct 2002, 1 EBC 1158, 95 BNA LRRM 2569, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13255

Employer's supplemental unemployment benefits plan, which tied duration of benefits to employee's length of service prior to being laid off, must be regarded as perquisite of seniority to which veteran is entitled under former 38 USCS § 2021, entitling veteran to receive amount of benefits to which he would have been entitled had he been employed during his time in service. Coffy v Republic Steel Corp. (1980) 447 US 191, 65 L Ed 2d 53, 100 S Ct 2100, 2 EBC 2446, 104 BNA LRRM 2488, 88 CCH LC ¶ 12074

"Perquisites of seniority" constituted those seniority benefits which rewarded longevity rather than those which compensated for work actually performed. Smith v Industrial Employers & Distributors Asso. (1976, CA9 Cal) 546 F.2d 314, 1 EBC 1154, 93 BNA LRRM 3037, 94 BNA LRRM 2735, 79 CCH LC ¶ 11770, cert den (1977) 431 US 965, 53 L Ed 2d 1061, 97 S Ct 2921, 95 BNA LRRM 2642

Employer was required to make cash contributions to profit-sharing plan on behalf of returning veterans for years during their military service as "prerequisite of seniority" where it reasonably appeared such contributions would have been made on behalf of employees had they not entered military service. Raypole v Chemi-Trol Chemical Co. (1983, ND Ohio) 4 EBC 2204, 114 BNA LRRM 2449, 98 CCH LC ¶ 10490

Employee's right of ownership in stock of employer acquired under restricted stock purchase plan was prerequisite of seniority where, under terms of plan, longer one is employed by employer, more of shares become freed from restriction on transferability; predecessor to statute protecting right of re-employment without loss of seniority of person on military leave of absence applied to protect benefit of periodic release from restrictions. Winders v People Express Airlines, Inc. (1984, DC NJ) 595 F Supp 1512, 5 EBC 2433, 117 BNA LRRM 3275, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11258, affd (1985, CA3 NJ) 770 F.2d 1078, 119 BNA LRRM 3071

Life insurance benefits were not prerequisite of seniority entitled to protection under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 where, inter alia, insurance policy benefits were directly tied to employee's compensation for a particular year, and certain features of life insurance benefits appeared to be in nature of short-term compensation for services rendered. Petry v Delmarva Power & Light Co. (1986, DC Del) 631 F Supp 1532, 123 BNA LRRM 3189

2. Insurance Benefits

29. Life insurance
Widow was not entitled to have deceased husband's employer credit 2 weeks of earnings for time deceased spent in National Guard for purposes of determining life insurance death benefits since, inter alia, life insurance benefits were not perquisite of seniority entitled to protection under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, where, inter alia, insurance policy benefits were directly tied to employee's compensation for a particular year, and certain features of life insurance benefits appeared to be in nature of short-term compensation for services rendered. Petry v Delmarva Power & Light Co. (1986, DC Del) 631 F Supp 1532, 123 BNA LRRM 3189

30. Unemployment insurance

Maximum supplemental unemployment benefits plan whereby employee who has completed 2 years of continuous service prior to being laid off is entitled to receive one week of benefits for each credit unit he had accumulated, up to maximum of 52 credits, generally based on number of weeks he has worked any hours, cannot be denied to returning veteran who is reinstated in layoff status, notwithstanding provision in plan whereby returning veteran is credited upon reinstatement only with credit units actually accumulated by him prior to entry into service. Coffy v Republic Steel Corp. (1980) 447 US 191, 65 L Ed 2d 53, 100 S Ct 2100, 2 EBC 2446, 104 BNA LRRM 248, 88 CCH LC ¶ 12074

Supplemental unemployment benefit plan which granted credits to employees at rate of one unit per week of layoff which made no distinction between employee who worked one hour during week and one who worked 40 hours during week established "seniority rights" protected by former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b) and returning veteran was entitled to credits he would have earned while in military service. Hoffman v Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1973, CA3 Pa) 477 F.2d 860, 82 BNA LRRM 3066, 70 CCH LC ¶ 13562

Returning veterans are entitled to accrue credit units for unemployment benefits where they lost no seniority while in military service and are not required to perform actual work in order to receive benefits and collective bargaining agreement which expressly provides that employee is not entitled to accrue benefits while in military service is required to give way. Akers v General Motors Corp. (1974, CA7 Ind) 501 F.2d 1042, 86 BNA LRRM 3185, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10239

3. Vacation Benefits

31. Generally

Vacation rights which employee has earned and would have received as matter of course but for his induction are protected by predecessor to statute. MacLaughlin v Union Switch & Signal Co. (1948, CA3 Pa) 166 F.2d 46, 21 BNA LRRM 2327, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64316

Failure of railroad, in calculating employee's vacation benefits, to credit him for time spent in armed forces violated his seniority rights under former subsec. (c) of 50 USCS Appx § 459. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. v Craton (1968, CA5 Fla) 405 F.2d 41, 69 BNA LRRM 2963, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13106

Intent of predecessor to statute was to place veterans in precise position with regard to vacation rights which they would have occupied had they kept their employment continuously during war. Conner v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1949, App DC) 85 US App DC 233, 177 F.2d 854, 24 BNA LRRM 2362, 25 BNA LRRM 2570, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65276, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65702, cert den (1950) 339 US 919, 94 L Ed 1343, 70 S Ct 622, 25 BNA LRRM 2570 and cert den (1950) 339 US 919, 94 L Ed 1343, 70 S Ct 624

Returned veterans were not entitled to vacation pay during the period they were in military services. Woods v Glen Alden Coal Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 871, 20 BNA LRRM 2681, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64089

32. Right to vacation benefits, generally

Term "other benefits" as used in predecessor statute did not include vacation pay. Eagar v Magma Copper Co. (1967) 389 US 323, 19 L Ed 2d 557, 88 S Ct 503, 66 BNA LRRM 2728, 56
Since vacation rights are not pay unless they are for work actually done, and since they are not merely a perquisite of seniority, they must fall under heading of "other benefits"; hence, veterans must be treated like nonveteran employees on furlough or leave of absence, and where nonveteran employees on leave of absence for more than half a year would not be entitled to vacation pay for that year, veterans would not be so entitled. Siaskiewicz v General Electric Co. (1948, CA2 NY) 166 F.2d 463, 21 BNA LRRM 2434, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64362

Although it is unlawful to attempt by contract to provide that veteran be deemed not to be "in the employ" of company while he is serving in army, it is not unlawful to deny him vacation, unless it is "established rule of the company" to give vacations to those who are on "leave of absence." Dwyer v Crosby Co. (1948, CA2 NY) 167 F.2d 567, 22 BNA LRRM 2044, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64487

Vacation pay did not come within term "other benefits" as used in predecessor statute, but vacation rights were protected under seniority provision. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. v Craton (1968, CA5 Fla) 405 F.2d 41, 69 BNA LRRM 2963, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13106

Vacation rights were properly categorized as "other benefits", rather than as "seniority benefits", within the meaning of former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) which required that returning servicemen be restored to their former positions without loss of seniority. Kasmeier v Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. (1971, CA10 Okla) 437 F.2d 151, 76 BNA LRRM 2363, 64 CCH LC ¶ 11489

Vacation pay was "perquisite of seniority" and seniority rights preserved for returning veteran rights and benefits which would have been automatically granted to him had he been retained in private employment rather than responding to call of military service. Locaynia v American Airlines, Inc. (1972, CA9 Cal) 457 F.2d 1253, 79 BNA LRRM 3036, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12537, cert den (1972) 409 US 982, 34 L Ed 2d 246, 93 S Ct 317, 81 BNA LRRM 2609, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13118

Length of vacation which was tied to substantial work requirement was not "seniority" right protected by Military Selective Service Act. Jackson v Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975, CA10 Kan) 517 F.2d 1322, 1 EBC 1116, 89 BNA LRRM 2642, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10937

Vacation rights have been classified as "other benefits" in which veteran is entitled to participate under Universal Military Training and Service Act § 459(c)(1). Dugger v Missouri P. R. Co. (1967, SD Tex) 276 F Supp 496, 73 BNA LRRM 2504, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12476, affd (1968, CA5 Tex) 403 F.2d 719, 71 BNA LRRM 2253, 60 CCH LC ¶ 10110, cert den (1969) 395 US 907, 23 L Ed 2d 222, 89 S Ct 1752, 71 BNA LRRM 2254

Employee is entitled to have amount of time spent in military service included in computation of vacation benefits where, under employment contract, vacation benefits are dependent upon years of "compensated service" rendered since such benefits come within term "seniority" in Universal Military Training and Service Act and are also within escalator principle contained within provision of Act that returning servicemen shall be restored to former position with such status as he would have enjoyed had he remained in such employment continuously. Saleck v Great N. R. Co. (1967, DC Minn) 277 F Supp 936, 67 BNA LRRM 2214, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12367

Vacation benefits were not "perquisite of seniority" which must be granted to employee upon return from military service; veteran was not entitled, under former Universal Military Training and Service Act [50 USCS Appendix § 459] to vacation pay for 1969 and 1970 where he left employment for military service prior to Dec. 31, 1968, and did not return until after Dec. 31, 1969, where controlling collective bargaining agreement stated that, for employee to be entitled to vacation benefits during year, he must have been on payroll on Dec. 31 of preceding year and where employer did not provide vacation benefits to employees on nonmilitary leave or furlough from employment. Connett v Automatic Electric Co. (1971, ND Ill) 323 F Supp 1373, 76 BNA LRRM 2287, 65 CCH LC ¶ 11592

Vacation pay was not perquisite of "seniority" status as term was used in former 50 USCS Appx § 459(c)(1) and (2); "seniority" did not include paid vacations not otherwise attached to seniority of nonveterans, and was not sufficient to satisfy bona fide work requirement of collective bargaining agreement applicable to all employees. Li Pani v Bohack Corp. (1973, ED NY) 368 F
Vacation rights might or might not be "perquisites of seniority" under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) depending entirely on how those rights were fashioned by applicable bargaining agreements; vacation benefits for plaintiffs were "perquisites of seniority" where bargaining agreement established no work requirement as condition to vacation entitlement and required only that employees be in "continuous service" of employer during preceding year and where, as matter of law, plaintiffs were in "continuous service" under provisions of 50 USCS Appx § 459(c)(2). United States ex rel. Aiello v Detroit Free Press, Inc. (1974, ED Mich) 397 F Supp 1401, 88 BNA LRRM 2098, 75 CCH LC ¶ 10347, reh den (1975, ED Mich) 90 BNA LRRM 2110 and revd on other grounds (1978, CA6 Mich) 570 F.2d 145, 97 BNA LRRM 2628, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10335

Plaintiff is entitled under statute to reimbursement for earned vacation time for which he was charged by police department employer while he was away on weekend drills fulfilling his National Guard responsibilities. Hilliard v New Jersey Army Nat'l Guard (1981, DC NJ) 527 F Supp 405, 108 BNA LRRM 2069, 91 CCH LC ¶ 12808

33. -Effect of employer work requirement

Under employment contracts providing that employee must receive vacation benefits during single calendar year computed on basis of service rendered during preceding calendar year in event of induction into armed forces, it is logical to interpret these contracts as providing that, in event of induction or enlistment, veteran will be entitled to claim those vacation rights which he had earned in his last year of service with the company at time when he resumes that service with company; statute tolls running of calendar year so as to keep veteran "in the same situation as if he had not gone to war." MacLaughlin v Union Switch & Signal Co. (1948, CA3 Pa) 166 F.2d 46, 21 BNA LRRM 2327, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64316

Where employment contract provided that if employees were engaged with continuity of service they must work a period of six months before receiving vacation for which they were eligible, and group of veterans had returned to their pre-service occupation during months of July, August, and September, making it impossible for them to complete work period of 6 months in that year, veterans were not entitled to vacation benefits greater than employees treated as nonveteran employees on furlough or leave of absence; to grant veterans such vacation pay would be to discriminate in favor of them as veterans and against nonveteran employees. Siaskiewicz v General Electric Co. (1948, CA2 NY) 166 F.2d 463, 21 BNA LRRM 2434, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64362; Brown v Watt Car & Wheel Co. Veteran who was in service during part of period comprised by years determining eligibility for vacation was not eligible to receive vacation benefits where requirement for vacation benefits was that employee must have been in employ of employer for given number of years just preceding his request for such benefit. Mentzel v Diamond (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 299, 21 BNA LRRM 2521, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64395; Conner v Pennsylvania R. Co. Veteran was not entitled to vacation benefits for year in which he is re-employed, where employer’s vacation plan provided that employee receive vacation benefits during calendar year computed on basis of service rendered during preceding calendar year, and returning veteran was in service during year previous to year in which he sought vacation benefits. Dougherty v General Motors Corp. (1949, CA3 NJ) 176 F.2d 561, 24 BNA LRRM 2369, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65298, cert den (1950) 338 US 956, 94 L Ed 590, 70 S Ct 494, 25 BNA LRRM 2395; Foster v General
Veteran was not entitled to two weeks vacation with pay, which was given as a result of union contract in April of 1945 to all employees with five years service, where veteran worked from 1941 to 1942 and after service returned to work in December, 1945. Brown v Watt Car & Wheel Co. (1950, CA6 Ohio) 182 F.2d 570, 26 BNA LRRM 2284, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65826, cert den (1950) 340 US 875, 95 L Ed 636, 71 S Ct 121, 27 BNA LRRM 2032

Allowing vacation credits only for work actually performed is not unreasonable where offered to returning veterans on same basis as to other employees returning from nonmilitary leaves. Austin v Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1974, CA9 Cal) 504 F.2d 1033, 1 EBC 1520, 87 BNA LRRM 2640, 75 CCH LC ¶ 10429

Veteran was not entitled to vacation pay where vacation benefits were based upon work actually done during previous year and no provision was made for vacation pay to be given employees on furlough or leave of absence and where veteran had been in armed services during year for which he sought vacation pay. Woods v Glen Alden Coal Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 871, 20 BNA LRRM 2681, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64089

Where test of vacation benefits is mere seniority, veteran is entitled to benefits, but where test is seniority plus added factor of work at some time during certain period, veteran is not entitled to benefits since time in service does not count where certain amount of work is required. Cushiner v Ford Motor Co. (1950, DC Mich) 89 F Supp 491, 25 BNA LRRM 2385, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65616

Veterans who fail to meet work requirements for vacation pay and holiday pay are not entitled to such benefits. Tuttle v U. S. Plywood Corp. (1968, DC Or) 293 F Supp 401, 70 BNA LRRM 3166, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13309

Whether the right to vacation benefits was categorized as "perquisite of seniority" or "other benefit", there was no obligation under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to grant vacation benefits to returning veterans who had neither met single day work requirement nor minimum work requirement. Connett v Automatic Electric Co. (1971, ND Ill) 323 F Supp 1373, 76 BNA LRRM 2867, 65 CCH LC ¶ 11592

Returning veteran is not entitled to vacation benefits where work requirement is bona fide effort to compensate for work actually performed and related vacation benefits are not intended to accrue automatically. Kind v Penn Cent. Transp. Co. (1975, ED Pa) 391 F Supp 162, 88 BNA LRRM 3299, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10843

34. -Effect of collective bargaining agreement

Although returning veteran seeking vacation benefits provided under collective bargaining agreement, which agreement conditions earning of full vacation benefits in calendar year upon employee's working minimum of 25 weeks in such year, is not entitled to either (1) full vacation rights under predecessor to statute due to veteran's failure to meet bona fide work requirement in collective bargaining agreement, or (2) pro rata share of vacation benefits under statute alone for 7 and 13 week portions of calendar years in which he worked for his employer prior to and immediately after his service in military, or (3) pro rata vacation benefits as purely contractual matter under collective bargaining agreement provision allowing pro rata vacation rights to employees who are unable to accumulate minimum 25 weeks of employment because of layoffs, nevertheless returning veteran may be entitled to pro rata benefits under "other benefits" provision of predecessor to statute which states that returning veteran who is restored to position is considered as having been on furlough or leave of absence during his time of training and service, is to be restored without loss of seniority, and is to be entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits offered by employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence in effect with employer at time veteran was inducted into service when such provision is read in conjunction with collective-bargaining agreement provision giving pro rata vacation rights to employees who are unable to satisfy 25-week employment requirement because of layoffs, if layoff referred to in collective-bargaining agreement includes furlough or leave of absence, or equivalent of either. Foster v Dravo Corp. (1975) 420 US 92, 43 L Ed 2d 44, 95 S Ct 879, 1 EBC 1164, 88 BNA LRRM 2671, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10658

Predecessor to statute, which insured returning veteran right to be restored to his job with same levels of seniority, status, and pay that he would have enjoyed if he had held his job during military service, should be applied with respect to employee vacation benefits only where it clearly appeared that vacations were intended to accrue automatically as function of continued association with company. Foster v Dravo Corp. (1975) 420 US 92, 43 L Ed 2d 44, 95 S Ct 879, 1 EBC 1164, 88 BNA LRRM 2671, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10658

In the absence of any showing that there is intended discrimination against veteran in favor of nonveteran, vacation pay provisions cannot be declared illegal as to veteran simply because their effect is to deny him vacation pay for year preceding his discharge and re-employment and court cannot, merely because contract unfortunately fails to include special provision for returning veterans, carve out exception for veteran; where, in union agreement, vacation benefits are computed on basis of graduated percentages of gross earnings of employee for preceding year and veteran, since he had been in service during preceding year, has no gross earnings as employee, company may therefore determine that stated percentage of zero is zero and veteran is entitled to nothing. Dougherty v General Motors Corp. (1949, CA3 NJ) 176 F.2d 561, 24 BNA LRRM 2369, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65298, cert den (1950) 338 US 956, 94 L Ed 590, 70 S Ct 494, 25 BNA LRRM 2395

Veteran is not entitled to count time spent in service in computing 5 year eligibility period necessary to obtain 2 week vacation where, in order to be entitled to 2 weeks' vacation with pay, collective bargaining agreement requires employee to have been in employ of company for a period of 5 years and nonveteran employees on furlough or leave of absence are not permitted, by rules and practices of employer, to count such time toward 5 years' continuous employment; although veteran is not to be discriminated against he is nevertheless not to be treated with any greater benevolence than is shown to nonveteran employees. Brown v Watt Car & Wheel Co. (1950, CA6 Ohio) 182 F.2d 570, 26 BNA LRRM 2284, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65826, cert den (1950) 340 US 875, 95 L Ed 636, 71 S Ct 121, 27 BNA LRRM 2032

Where contract of employment providing that gross earnings of employees for year 1945 were basis for determining amount of vacation pay to be received for year 1946, in contrast to previous collective bargaining agreements wherein gross earnings for current year were basis for determining amount of vacation pay for that year, applied with equal force to all employees who were on furlough or leave of absence whether veterans or nonveterans, it therefore did not violate predecessor statute despite contention that agreement was not reached in good faith and that it was made for purpose of discriminating against veterans in service. Veteran had no right to vacation pay for 1964 where veteran was denied vacation pay for 1964 for sole reason that he was not on defendant employer's active payroll at end of work year because of military service and where, under applicable collective bargaining agreement and employer's rules, employee on furlough or leave of absence for period that veteran was in service had no right to vacation pay. Hollman v Pratt & Whitney Aircraft (1970, CA5 Fla) 435 F.2d 983, 76 BNA LRRM 2197, 76 BNA LRRM 2688, 64 CCH LC ¶ 11356

Under former 50 USCS Appx § 459 denial of vacation benefits to employees for year they entered armed forces was improper even though union contract required employee to be on company's payroll on last day of year. Hollman v Pratt & Whitney Aircraft (1970, CA5 Fla) 435 F.2d 983, 76 BNA LRRM 2197, 76 BNA LRRM 2688, 64 CCH LC ¶ 11356

Returning veteran was not entitled to vacation benefits where collective bargaining agreement required that paid vacation benefits must be earned by actual work. Austin v Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1974, CA9 Cal) 504 F.2d 1033, 1 EBC 1520, 87 BNA LRRM 2640, 75 CCH LC ¶ 10429
Under predecessor to statute, veterans were not entitled to have time spent in military credited toward computation of vacation and sick leave benefits where prerequisite for such benefits under collective bargaining agreement was bona fide work requirement, nor were veterans entitled to have time spent in military counted toward accrual of such benefits by virtue of statute, which entitles returning servicemen to same treatment given employees on leave of absence, notwithstanding employer's policy of allowing employees on leave of absence to continue to acquire vacation and sick leave benefits, where maximum leave of absence entitlement on the contract was 8 weeks as opposed to 2 year military service period. Li Pani v Bohack Corp. (1976, CA2 NY) 546 F.2d 487, 94 BNA LRRM 2073, 79 CCH LC ¶ 11774

Returning veterans were not entitled to vacation benefits where collective bargaining agreement clearly specified that eligibility for vacation benefits was conditioned upon work requirement demanding actual performance on job. Aiello v Detroit Free Press, Inc. (1978, CA6 Mich) 570 F.2d 145, 97 BNA LRRM 2628, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10335

Veteran who was re-employed on January 7, 1946, was not entitled to vacation pay for such year where he had not worked 26 weeks prior to July 1, 1946, as required by union contract. Dwyer v Crosby Co. (1947, DC NY) 69 F Supp 384, 19 BNA LRRM 2167, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63556, affd (1948, CA2 NY) 167 F.2d 567, 22 BNA LRRM 2044, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64487

Returning veteran could recover vacation pay, for both year in which he entered military service and year which followed his discharge from it, where contract between labor union and employer provided that employees could take vacations only during current year of employment; claim for vacation pay for year of induction into service ignored provision in labor contract that vacations could be taken only during the current year; although predecessor to statute restored seniority rights to veteran it could not restore vacation which is impossible by passage of time. Porter v Kappie Motors, Inc. (1947, DC NY) 72 F Supp 28

Provision in collective bargaining contract requiring "work at some time" in each of preceding five years in order to qualify for two weeks vacation, was not discriminatory per se against veteran, if veteran was treated no differently than employees on leave or furlough. Cushiner v Ford Motor Co. (1950, DC Mich) 89 F Supp 491, 25 BNA LRRM 2385, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65616

Veteran was not entitled to have time spent in service used to compute vacation eligibility where employment contract provided that after employee had 5 years' seniority and has worked minimum of 160 days during each of the preceding 5 years he was eligible for 2 weeks' vacation and where no provision in agreement or established rules and practices of employer provided that time spent on furlough or leave of absence could be used to compute eligibility. Monticue v Baltimore & O. R. Co. (1950, DC Ohio) 91 F Supp 561, 26 BNA LRRM 2407, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65926

Veteran who entered military service in 1963 and returned to employment in September, 1965, and did not render 110 days of compensated service in 1965, was not entitled to paid vacation in 1965 or 1966 where labor agreement between employer and employees provided that employee who did not render 110 days of compensated service in preceding calendar year due to leave of absence would not be entitled to paid vacation in following year, since, under Universal Military Training and Service Act, employee was only entitled to participate in vacation benefits to extent that they were offered by employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence and labor agreement represented employer's "established rules and practices" relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence. Dugger v Missouri P. R. Co. (1967, SD Tex) 276 F Supp 496, 73 BNA LRRM 2504, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12476, affd (1968, CA5 Tex) 403 F.2d 719, 71 BNA LRRM 2253, 60 CCH LC ¶ 10110, cert den (1969) 395 US 907, 23 L Ed 2d 222, 89 S Ct 1752, 71 BNA LRRM 2254

Veteran was entitled, in computation of benefits, to credit for period of military service as "compensated service" even though, by terms of collective bargaining agreement, employees could not count time on furlough or leave of absence as "compensated service," where, under collective bargaining agreement, vacation benefits were based upon number of years of continuous service in which employee rendered "compensated service," since vacation benefits were element of "seniority" to which escalator principle contained in Universal Military Training and Service Act was applicable, and they were not one of "other benefits" eligibility for which was governed by rules and practice of employer regarding furlough or leave of absence. Barry v Smith (1968, DC Mass) 285 F Supp 801, 58 CCH LC ¶ 12793

Vacation eligibility was benefit to which veteran was not entitled if he had not fulfilled work requirement for eligibility; veteran was not entitled to vacation benefits for year 1968 where, on Nov. 19, 1968, veteran was reinstated in pre-service job but was placed on layoff status and in fact performed no work in 1968 and where under terms of collective bargaining agreement in force both at time of veteran's induction and return, certain eligibility factors had to be met and vacation pay was not automatic and where veteran failed to satisfy eligibility factor of having worked 6 consecutive months in preceding calendar year nor worked 6 of 12 months immediately preceding claimed vacation; in such case vacation benefit was not "perquisite of seniority" but "other benefit" under Selective Service Act of 1967. Fees v Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1971, WD Pa) 335 F Supp 487, 79 BNA LRRM 2408, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12343

Vacation rights might or might not be "perquisites of seniority" under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) depending entirely on how those rights were fashioned by applicable bargaining agreements; vacation benefits for plaintiffs were "perquisites of seniority" where bargaining agreement established no work requirement as condition to vacation entitlement and required only that employees be in "continuous service" of employer during preceding year and where, as matter of law, plaintiffs were in "continuous service" under provisions of 50 USCS Appx § 459(c)(2). United States ex rel. Aiello v Detroit Free Press, Inc. Returning veteran was not entitled to vacation benefits where work requirement under collective bargaining agreement was bona fide effort to compensate for work actually performed and related vacation benefits were not intended to accrue automatically. Kind v Penn Cent. Transp. Co. (1975, ED Pa) 391 F Supp 162, 88 BNA LRRM 3299, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10843

Returning veteran was entitled to pro rata vacation rights where collective bargaining agreement provided for such rights to those employees who were unable to accumulate minimum of 25 weeks because of lay-offs, which term included furlough or leave of absence under liberal construction. Foster v Dravo Corp. (1975, WD Pa) 395 F Supp 536, 89 BNA LRRM 2988, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10996

35. Allowance of credit for military service, generally

Veteran who has been re-employed was entitled to use time spent in service in computing total time spent in employ of defendant, so as to determine number of weeks vacation to which he might be entitled. Mentzel v Diamond (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 299, 21 BNA LRRM 2521, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64395

By language of predecessor to statute, veteran who was restored to position was considered as having been on furlough or leave of absence and, absent agreement or custom showing that employee on furlough or leave of absence was entitled to have absent time considered in computing necessary time for vacation allowances, returning veteran was not entitled to have time spent in military service considered in the computation of vacation entitlement. Dwyer v Crosby Co. (1948, CA2 NY) 167 F.2d 567, 22 BNA LRRM 2044, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64487

Employee was entitled to have amount of time spent in military service included in computation of vacation benefits where, under employment contract, vacation benefits were dependent upon years of compensated service rendered, since such benefits came within term "seniority" and Universal Military Training and Service Act. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. v Craton (1968, CA5 Fla) 405 F.2d 41, 69 BNA LRRM 2963, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13106

Re-employed veteran was entitled, under predecessor to statute, to use time spent in service in computing total time spent in employ of defendant for purpose of determining number of weeks' vacation to which he was entitled. Edwards v Clinchfield R. Co. (1969, CA6 Tenn) 408 F.2d 5, 70 BNA LRRM 2912, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13343
That returning veteran was to be treated as though he had been continuously employed during period spent in Armed Forces did not necessarily mean that employer was required to pay veteran for vacation during periods when he was not in its employ because of military service. Aiello v Detroit Free Press, Inc. (1978, CA6 Mich) 570 F.2d 145, 97 BNA LRRM 2628, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10335

Railroad employee who had spent time in military service and returned to his former employment was entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to vacation benefits that he would have been entitled to had he continued to work at that job since vacations were connected with seniority and seniority was protected under that section. Saleck v Great N. R. Co. (1967, DC Minn) 277 F Supp 936, 67 BNA LRRM 2214, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12367

Employer must count time employee spends in armed service as "compensated service" upon which vacation privileges are based. Kelly v Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. (1968, WD Okla) 293 F Supp 423, 70 BNA LRRM 3183, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13315

On his discharge from service and return to work, veteran was entitled to all vacation rights which would have accrued to him had he not gone off to war where union agreement entered into while he was in service provided that employees should receive one week vacation after one year's work and two weeks after five years. Mentzel v Diamond (1948, CA3 NJ) 167 F.2d 299, 21 BNA LRRM 2521, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64395

Contention by returning employees that they were entitled to have their military service time counted towards accrual of vacation and sick leave benefits provided under collective bargaining agreement by virtue of statute was without merit where granting returning servicemen such rights would have effect of placing them in better position than other employees. Li Pani v Bohack Corp. (1976, CA2 NY) 546 F.2d 487, 94 BNA LRRM 2073, 79 CCH LC ¶ 11774

4. Other Particular Benefits

37. Severance pay

Under predecessor to statute, requiring that private employers reinstate their former employees who were honorably discharged veterans to their former position or to a position of like seniority and providing that such person "shall be restored without loss of seniority," years spent in Armed Forces were to be included in amount of separation allowances due to firemen under railroad-union agreement under which amount of such allowances was determined by length of "compensated service" with railroad. Accardi v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1966) 383 US 225, 15 L Ed 2d 717, 86 S Ct 768, 1 EBC 1016, 61 BNA LRRM 2385, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11073

Veterans are clearly not in position to demand more than employee on furlough or leave of absence and, where terms of contract between union and employer provide that, in computing severance pay, length of service of employee must be total years of full-time continuous employment and, further, that time spent on leave of absence must not count as service time in determining severance pay, it follows that time spent in armed forces is not includable in determining severance pay of veterans employed under such agreement. Seattle Star, Inc. v Randolph (1948, CA9 Wash) 168 F.2d 274, 22 BNA LRRM 2162, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64543

Severance pay was "perquisite of seniority", and not one of "other benefits" that only entitled veteran under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to be treated as though he were on furlough or leave, and actual work time requirements could not justify failure to credit veterans' military time toward qualifying employment period for severance pay; right to credit for time spent in military service expressed real nature of severance pay, which was based essentially on employment for particular period of time, as inherently part of seniority, and guaranteed equal competitive status. Palmarozzo v Coca--Cola Bottling Co. (1973, CA2 NY) 490 F.2d 586, 85 BNA LRRM 2033, 72 CCH LC ¶ 14171, cert den (1974) 417 US 955, 41 L Ed 2d 673, 94 S Ct 3083, 86 BNA LRRM 2643, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10081, 75 CCH LC ¶ 10339

Returning serviceman was entitled to severance pay in lieu of reinstatement under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) even though award allowing severance pay had lapsed prior to his return, since, had he not left for service, he could have quit his job and received severance pay. Taylor v Southern Pacific Co. (1969, ND Cal) 308 F Supp 606, 74 BNA LRRM 2189, 62 CCH LC ¶10845

Monthly displacement allowances which were computed by term of actual service are benefits in nature of rewards for length of service and were therefore governed by Readjustment Act. Brown v Consolidated Rail Corp. (1985, ND Ohio) 605 F Supp 629, 118 BNA LRRM 2894, 102 CCH LC ¶11437

38. Sick leave

Sick leave credits which were tied to substantial work requirement were not "seniority" rights protected by Military Selective Service Act. Jackson v Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975, CA10 Kan) 517 F.2d 1322, 1 EBC 1116, 89 BNA LRRM 2642, 77 CCH LC ¶10937

Veterans are not entitled to have time spent in military service credited toward computation of sick leave benefits where prerequisite for such benefits is bona fide work requirement. Li Pani v Bohack Corp. (1976, CA2 NY) 546 F.2d 487, 94 BNA LRRM 2073, 79 CCH LC ¶11774

FBI agent, who resigned to serve in Armed Forces and subsequently returned to agency, was not entitled to accrued sick leave benefits since such benefits were denied employees in nonpay status, either on military duty or on leave of absence, for entire year by 5 USCS § 6307 and pertinent regulations. Carman v United States (1979) 221 Ct Cl 165, 602 F.2d 946

Returning veterans were entitled to accrue sick leave privileges for period they were in military service where contract provided for sick leave privileges at rate of one working day per month so that accumulation was incidental to seniority. Nichols v Kansas City Power & Light Co. (1975, WD Mo) 391 F Supp 833, 88 BNA LRRM 2737, 88 BNA LRRM 3550, 76 CCH LC ¶10649, 76 CCH LC ¶10836

Predecessor to statute did not require that employers afford to returning veterans, as distinguished from nonveterans, any specific benefits in the nature of insurance; statute required only that participation by re-employed veterans in insurance programs offered by employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence in effect at time veteran was inducted into armed forces must be same as nonveteran employees. Seattle Star, Inc. v Randolph (1948, CA9 Wash) 168 F.2d 274, 22 BNA LRRM 2162, 14 CCH LC ¶64543

Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, did not require annual cash contributions by chemical company to company's profitsharing plan in trust on behalf of veterans for period of time they spent in military service, since true nature of company's profitsharing plan was short-term compensation for work performed, and since veterans' rights to contributions under plan were subject to significant contingency at time they entered military service. Raypole v Chemi-Trol Chemical Co. (1985, CA6 Ohio) 754 F.2d 169, 6 EBC 1058, 118 BNA LRRM 2984, 102 CCH LC ¶11372, 83 ALR Fed 893

National Guard member held entitled to holiday pay from employer for holidays which occurred while he participated in annual 2-week military training period notwithstanding that under collective bargaining agreement governing his employment National Guard member's absence did not meet specific exemptions from holiday pay prerequisites since exempting those on military leave establishes equality of treatment of National Guard members with those in other exempt categories whose work absence is involuntary; it was appropriate to review treatment of group of employees compensated and exempt from holiday pay work prerequisite, as opposed to measuring treatment of larger group of employees subject to work requirement. Waltermyer v Aluminum Co. of America (1986, CA3 Pa) 804 F.2d 821, 7 EBC 2493, 123 BNA LRRM 2990, 105 CCH LC ¶12060

Veterans were not entitled to paid absence allowance credit for year during which they were absent in military service where collective bargaining agreement stipulated that employee would be eligible for allowance provided he had one year's seniority as of his eligibility date and had worked at least 13 pay periods during eligibility year since, under such agreement, paid-absence allowance was not prerequisite of seniority but was based upon actual performance of work during specified number of pay periods in eligibility year. Bradley v General Motors Corp. (1968, ED Mo) 283 F Supp 481, 68 BNA LRRM 2113, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12699

Predecessor to statute did not sanction interfering with and disrupting usual, carefully adjusted relations among employees themselves regarding opportunities for advancement. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

Re-employed veteran who satisfactorily completes his interrupted training is entitled to enjoy seniority status which he would have acquired simply by virtue of continued employment but for his absence in military service, and is entitled to advancement which was reasonably certain to occur as matter of foresight, and which did in fact occur as matter of hindsight. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747

Purpose of predecessor to statute was to preserve to those who entered military service full benefits of position which they occupied at time of entering service but such purpose does not justify strained construction of facts in order to give returning veteran higher position than one he occupied at time of entering service or new position created after he was in service. Meehan v National Supply Co. (1947, CA10 Okla) 160 F.2d 346, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63645

Where employee had no fixed or absolute right to promotion and where his right to promotion depended upon qualification over and above mere length of service, employer had fully complied with terms of Selective Training and Service Act when he restored veteran to same position or one of like seniority and pay which he held at time of his induction into service; in subsequently promoting employee, employer was not required to pay him more than wage or salary attached to his new rank at time he assumed it. Harvey v Braniff International Airways, Inc. (1947, CA5 Tex) 164 F.2d 521, 21 BNA LRRM 2081, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64159

Employee is entitled to his old job or equivalent job upon his release from armed services but is not entitled to advance to higher classification, in absence of some particular agreement of employment, during his service with armed forces. Special Service Co. v Delaney (1949, CA5 La) 172 F.2d 16, 23 BNA LRRM 2294, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64940

Inasmuch as veteran, at time of entry into service, had no fixed or absolute right to promotion to position of payroll clerk upon occurrence of vacancy in such position, and, inasmuch as right to promotion to such position did not depend solely upon length of continuous service in position of assistant payroll clerk, together with fact of established practice of employer not to consider any of its salaried employees for promotion while they were on leave of absence, veteran was not entitled, upon being re-employed by employer following discharge from military service, to be employed in position of payroll clerk. Bond v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co. (1947, DC Ala) 73 F Supp 333, 20 BNA LRRM 2422, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63956

Veteran had no right to promotion upon returning from military service where, although employees with less seniority than veteran had been advanced to available openings during veteran’s absence in service, established practice of defendant at time veteran was inducted was that employee on furlough or leave of absence lost opportunity to fill vacancy which would have been his had he been on active duty. Trischler v Universal Pottery Inc., Ironton, Ohio (1947, DC Ohio) 78 F Supp 609, affd (1948, CA6 Ohio) 171 F.2d 707, 23 BNA LRRM 2424, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64941

If promotion depends on mere passage of time, it is seniority right to which returning veteran is entitled; however, if promotion depends on exercise of discretion on part of employer rather than mere passage of time, promotion is not guaranteed. Almond v United States Steel Corp. (1980, ED Pa) 499 F Supp 786, 105 BNA LRRM 2965, 89 CCH LC ¶ 12206

Returning veteran had no claim to any common-law right to promotion upon his reinstatement under predecessor to statute. Cutts v Tinning (1947) 81 Cal App 2d 423, 184 P2d 171

41. Standards and criteria for promotion, generally

Employer complies with terms of predecessor to statute when he restores veteran to same position or one of like seniority and pay which veteran held at time of entry into service and where employee has no fixed or absolute right to promotion and where his right to promotion depends upon qualifications over and above mere length of service; in subsequently promoting veteran, employer is not required to pay him more than wage or salary attached to his new rank at time he assumed it. Harvey v Braniff International Airways, Inc. (1947, CA5 Tex) 164 F.2d 521, 21 BNA LRRM 2412, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64159

Railroad fireman was not entitled to promotion to engineer as if he had never entered service and had passed all examination and qualified as engineer, where promotion from fireman to engineer did not result merely from seniority. Jefferson v Atlantic C. L. R. Co. (1962, CA5 Ga) 303 F.2d 522, 50 BNA LRRM 2412, 45 CCH LC ¶ 17660

Universal Military Training and Service Act only provided that returning serviceman be advanced to extent he would have been as matter of right had he not been called to active duty and this was referred to as “escalating seniority”; advancements or promotions based on employer discretion or on employee merit, as in passage or completion of prescribed set of conditions precedent, were not within category of advancements given as matter of right and thus, where veteran’s advancement from flight engineer status to copilot-pilot status demanded fulfillment of instrument certification and graduation from employer’s copilot school and veteran had fulfilled neither of these at time of recall to active duty, he was not entitled, upon return from service, to advancement to copilot-pilot seniority list in same status he would have occupied had he not been recalled and had he met employer’s requirements and qualifications. Stewart v American Airlines, Inc. (1968, ND Tex) 288 F Supp 160, 69 BNA LRRM 2974, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13061

If promotion depends on mere passage of time, it is seniority right to which returning veteran is entitled; however, if promotion depends on exercise of discretion on part of employer rather than mere passage of time, promotion is not guaranteed. Almond v United States Steel Corp. (1980, ED Pa) 499 F Supp 786, 105 BNA LRRM 2965, 89 CCH LC ¶ 12206

42. Ability and training

Predecessor to statute did not entitle veteran to demand assignment to position higher than that which he formerly held when promotion to such position, under applicable collective bargaining agreement, depended on fitness, ability, and exercise of managerial choice. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613
While under predecessor to statute, veteran, upon returning from service, need not be considered for promotion or seniority purposes as if he had continued to work on job and returning veteran could not claim promotion that depended solely upon satisfactory completion of prerequisite period of employment training unless he first worked that period, nevertheless upon satisfactorily completing that period, he could insist upon seniority date reflecting delay caused by military service.  Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 10378

Trial court erred in concluding that veteran did not establish that he would have been promoted had he not gone into service, where he would have obtained training requisite to promotion merely by passage of time.  Brandt v Minneapolis, N. & S. R. Co. (1983, CA8 Minn) 714 F.2d 793, 113 BNA LRRM 3774, 98 CCH LC ¶ 10757

Court could not speculate that employee veteran, had he not entered military service, would as result of length of service alone have been promoted to higher job classification than that which was assigned to him upon reinstatement where differences in classification were based upon particular skill and ability and not merely upon length of service.  Polansky v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1948, DC NJ) 78 F Supp 74, 22 BNA LRRM 2223, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64563

Contention that veteran, immediately upon re-employment, was entitled to be made electrician and given seniority status on electrician's roster ahead of any employee who, having been junior to him on electricians' helpers' roster, was made electrician during his absence ignored rule which required that, before being assigned to higher position, it was necessary for veteran to demonstrate his qualifications therefor.  Little v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1951, DC Md) 95 F Supp 631, 27 BNA LRRM 2424, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66233

Returning veteran was not entitled to seniority in higher classification until after serving 4 years of training where 4 years of practical experience were required for advancement of carman helper to carman mechanic. 43. -Discretion of employer

Promotions and other changes in job classification are employer prerogatives and not matters of right gained by veteran solely because of amount of time spent by him in military service. Electrician helper, returning to job after military service, although entitled to credit for time in Army, was not automatically entitled to promotion to electrician where right of selection was left... entirely to employer by contract. Poore v Louisville & N. R. Co. (1956, CA5 Ala) 235 F.2d 687, 38 BNA LRRM 2461, 30 CCH LC ¶ 70126

Plaintiff who, while employed as a carman apprentice, left to enter army and shortly after his discharge was re-employed in same capacity with seniority as of his first employment, upon completion of his four year apprenticeship was promoted to carman with seniority from that date, was not entitled to seniority as carman as of date he would have completed apprenticeship had he not been in service, where promotion was not automatic but in discretion of employer. Jones v United States (1958, CA10 Okla) 258 F.2d 81

Returning veteran was entitled to recover difference between salary for position in which he was re-employed and higher salary for position to which two men who were promoted during veteran's absence advance "in order of seniority," where, although under collective bargaining agreement employer could exercise discretion in making promotions, in actual practice promotion was virtually automatic and not result of employer's discretion and where there was no showing that men promoted had greater ability than veteran or that they were given tests which veteran could not have passed and no evidence that veteran's services had not continued satisfactorily before he entered military service. Power v Northern Illinois Gas Co. (1968, CA7 Ill) 388 F.2d 427, 67 BNA LRRM 2166, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12389

To be entitled to advancement upon return from military service, veteran must show with reasonable certainty that he would have enjoyed such advancement simply by virtue of continuous employment during absence; where advancement depends upon discretionary choice of employer, choice which was not exercised prior to departure, veteran is not entitled to advancement upon return from military service. Cox v International Longshoremen's Asso. (1972, SD Tex) 343 F Supp 1292, 80 BNA LRRM 2639, 68 CCH LC ¶ 12876, affd (1973, CA5 Tex) 476 F.2d 1287, 83 BNA LRRM 2290, 71 CCH LC ¶ 13687, cert den (1973) 414 US 1116, 38 L Ed 2d 743, 94 S Ct 849, 84 BNA LRRM 2961, 72 CCH LC ¶ 14214

On application for reemployment, veteran was not entitled to demand that he be assigned position higher than that to which he formerly held when promotion to such position depended, not simply on seniority or some other form of automatic progression but on exercise of discretion on part of employer; however, presence of broad management discretion concerning promotions could defeat veteran's re-employment case only where claimed advancement depended on employer's discretionary choice not exercised prior to entry into service. Chernoff v Pandick Press, Inc. (1976, SD NY) 419 F Supp 1192, 93 BNA LRRM 2422, 79 CCH LC ¶ 11723

Predecessor to statute gave veteran full benefit of whatever added rights he would have acquired had he remained in his position instead of being inducted into service; if seniority accumulated during time spent in service entitles veteran to better job classification then he had at time he entered service, it is duty of employer to give him better classification. Hewitt v System Federation No. 152, etc. (1947, CA7 Ind) 161 F.2d 545, 20 BNA LRRM 2084, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63724

Veterans who, before entering the service, were employed as electrician's helpers were not entitled to be re-employed after discharge in capacity of electricians, merely on basis that time spent in service should be used in computing seniority for promotion from electrician's helper to electrician, since seniority provided by collective bargaining agreement applied only within single job classification and did not apply with regard to promotions from one classification to another; while electrician's helper oldest in point of service was usually given preference in filing vacancies on electricians' roster particular qualifications required consideration; predecessor to statute guaranteed veterans their seniority in subdivision of electrical workers but did not guarantee promotions to vacancies occurring in subdivision of electricians. Raulins v Memphis Union Station Co. (1948, CA6 Tenn) 168 F.2d 466, 22 BNA LRRM 2189, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64550

It is duty of employer to give veteran better classification where seniority accumulated by veteran during time in service entitles him to better job classification than he had at time he left to enter service. Apprentice carman, reinstated on same job, who completed training and was promoted to carman with seniority as of date training was completed, was not entitled to seniority 2 years earlier because of 2 years spent in service, where promotion from carman apprentice to carman was not automatic but in discretion of employer. Jones v United States (1958, CA10 Okla) 258 F.2d 81

Veteran who returned to former position of railroad switchman after 1968 military discharge and who was thereafter given promotion to position of fireman in 1970, was entitled to pre-1970 seniority date for latter position, where veteran had initially been employed as locomotive fireman prior to 1964 termination under arbitration award, veteran was rehired in 1965 as switchman prior to 1966 induction into Armed Forces, and railroad conceded that veteran would have been given opportunity to transfer to fireman's position at time of railroad's 1966 canvass of employees with prior experience as firemen had he not been in military service at such time. Barrett v Grand Trunk W. R. Co. (1978, CA7 Ill) 581 F.2d 132, 99 BNA LRRM 2066, 84 CCH LC ¶ 10707, cert den (1979) 440 US 946, 59 L Ed 2d 634, 99 S Ct 1423, 100 BNA LRRM 2739, 85 CCH LC ¶ 11145

Armstrong v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co. (1947, DC Ala) 73 F Supp 329, 20 BNA LRRM 2396, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63941

Veteran becoming eligible for promotion while on military service was entitled to seniority from date of eligibility for promotion rather than from date of return to work where employer had established practice of promoting from laborer to carman helper on basis of seniority. Wilson v Illinois C. R. Co. (1957, DC Ill) 147 F Supp 513, 39 BNA LRRM 2483, 31 CCH LC ¶ 70472

Plaintiffs were not entitled to seniority at first accorded them as laborers by railroad, upon their promotion to helper classification following their return from military service; returning veterans were entitled to seniority in new positions only after promotion to such position, even though others with less seniority had received promotions in serviceman's absence. Poling v Baltimore & O. R. Co. (1958, DC W Va) 166 F Supp 710, 43 BNA LRRM 2030, 36 CCH LC ¶ 65019

Returning veteran could assume that promotion would have been automatic if he had remained with employer rather than going into service, and was not entitled to additional compensation because of failure of promotion where ability as well as seniority was taken into consideration in making promotions. Palmquist v Buhl Sons Co. (1959, DC Mich) 179 F Supp 638, 45 BNA LRRM 2987, 39 CCH LC ¶ 66305

Railroad employee in job classification of electrician's helper was entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to retain his seniority in that job category upon his return to work after military service, but was not entitled to automatic advancement to category of electrician under collective bargaining contract which provided that such advancement could take place only after fixed length of service in lower category and then only by selection by employer, so that fact that his military service added to his actual time worked may have totaled minimum length of service did not, of itself, give him right to promotion. Poore v Louisville & N. R. Co. (1956, CA5 Ala) 235 F.2d 687, 38 BNA LRRM 2461, 30 CCH LC ¶ 70126

Veteran could note claim that time spent in military service entitled him to advance seniority when such seniority could not be acquired if he had been on furlough or leave of absence where there was certain requirement of actual work service in order to qualify employee for advanced position. Zaversnik v Union P. R. Co. (1949, DC Wyo) 95 F Supp 209

Seniority rights of veterans would be defeated if court allowed employer railroad to make promotion from Rule 154 carmen to journeyman carmen contingent on work time rather than seniority where promotion was actually independent of any achievement of proficiency or employer discretion, journeyman carmen status was not contingent upon any test measuring proficiency, four-year period required was free from any formalized instruction or training, change in status did not result in change in duties or increase in wages, and attainment of journeyman status after four years was virtually automatic. 46. Probability of promotion, generally

It was not necessary, as a condition for insuring veteran's seniority rights under predecessor to statute, to establish absolute certainty, as matter of foresight when he entered military service, that all circumstances essential to obtaining advancement in status would later occur; his seniority rights were not defeated by possibilities that work of particular type might not have been available, that he would not have worked satisfactorily during period of his absence, that he might not have elected to accept higher position, or that sickness might have prevented him from continuing his employment. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747

Veteran, whose preservice employment included right to bid for advertised dispatcher's position, was entitled under predecessor to statute to demand and receive seniority in dispatcher's position to which he would have been entitled had he been able to bid on that position during time he was in service, where 2 such vacancies had been filled by men junior to veteran on seniority roster during veteran's service. Mere fact that management might have given veteran's work group different job options was insufficient to withhold opportunity to become switchman from veteran where, had veteran remained at job as fireman, he undeniably would have been given opportunity to become switchman and if veteran was denied same choice of jobs offered to his peers during his absence, he would be, in effect, penalized for having served his country in military service. Where it was predictable that airline pilot, except for interruption of military induction, would have completed his training program with class to which he was originally assigned and would have thereupon been immediately promoted to flight officer status and where in fact he did subsequently complete training program, he was entitled under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to pilot's seniority number he would have obtained had he completed training program with class to which he was originally assigned. Pomrening v United Air Lines, Inc. (1971, CA7 Ill) 448 F.2d 609, 78 BNA LRRM 2241, 66 CCH LC ¶ 12039

Re-employed veteran who, upon returning from military service, satisfactorily completed his interrupted training was entitled to enjoy seniority status which he would have acquired by virtue of continued employment but for his absence in military service; this requirement was met if, as matter of foresight, it was reasonably certain that advancement would have occurred, and if, as matter of hindsight, it did in fact occur. Tilton v Missouri P. R. Co. (1964) 376 US 169, 11 L Ed 2d 590, 84 S Ct 595, 55 BNA LRRM 2369, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18747

It was necessary that employer treat defendant under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) as if he had been continuously working for that employer upon his return from service where it was reasonably certain that plaintiff’s advancement would have occurred during time he was in military service had he continued in defendant’s employ instead. Hatton v Tabard Press Corp. (1969, CA2 NY) 406 F.2d 593, 70 BNA LRRM 2519, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13281

Employer’s restructuring of positions, distributing veteran’s former duties between 2 other positions, one of which was more responsible and lucrative than former position, did not entitle veteran to new, more responsible position, since it was not reasonably certain that veteran would have been promoted to it. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, etc. v Helton (1969, CA5 Ala) 413 F.2d 1380, 71 BNA LRRM 3014, 60 CCH LC ¶ 10259

Fact that discretionary choice that would have given employee opportunity to transfer but for his military service, had not been exercised and might not have been foreseeable at time employee entered military service, did not affect veteran’s right to like status and position under predecessor to statute since statute required only that there be reasonable certainty that veteran would have enjoyed status he claimed but for his service. Veteran who was draftsman at pay grade 5 when he entered military service was entitled to recover difference in pay between grade 5, in which he was re-employed, and grade 8 where, during time veteran was in service, two vacancies in grade 8 were filled by promoting men who were veteran’s juniors on roster where collective bargaining agreement provided that when vacancy in job title and grade was to be filled, employee senior in next lower rating on roster would be entitled to promotion if qualified by fitness and ability as determined by company, in view of fact that in 16 years there had been 105 promotions but no employee had been passed over for promotion in veteran’s division of company and in view of presumption that veteran would have remained in employ of company performing satisfactorily and would have taken requisite steps to assure himself of benefits of status; it was reasonably certain that promotion would have automatically accrued to veteran and, although bargaining agreement required that, for promotion, employer make determination of fitness and ability, veteran, as result of customary practices of his employer, might have acquired right to promotion. Burke v Boston Edison Co. (1968, DC Mass) 279 F Supp 853, 67 BNA LRRM 2535, 57 CCH LC ¶ 12452

Railway firemen rehired by employer after military discharge were entitled to computation of seniority from date seniority would have been achieved had advancement not been delayed by military service where achievement of seniority status as engineer depended upon completion of training course and passage of two examinations, where it was reasonably foreseeable that firemen would have advanced upon completion of training period, where firemen were advanced upon return from military service, and where employer does not exercise discretion in selection of firemen for advancement. McArthur v Norfolk & W. R. Co. (1975, SD Ill) 405 F Supp 158, 91 BNA LRRM 2370, 78 CCH LC ¶ 11211

Returning veterans are entitled to be re-employed at wage rate they would have attained if they had remained if continuous employment during time spent in military service, where merit increases are virtually automatic in actual practice. Nichols v Kansas City Power & Light Co. (1975, WD Mo) 391 F Supp 833, 88 BNA LRRM 2737, 88 BNA LRRM 3550, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10649, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10836

Reservist denied reinstatement is entitled to recover backpay less whatever he earned during period of self-employment; absent evidence as to amount of pay raises reservist may have received had he been employed, court assumes that he would earn constant salary for period during which he was denied reinstatement. Micalone v Long Island R. Co. (1983, SD NY) 582 F Supp 973, 115 BNA LRRM 2640, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10606, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10632

Virgin Islands Government violated former 38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq. by failing to pay plaintiff appropriate salary when it reemployed him as legal counsel to Commissioner of Economic Development and Agriculture, even though executive orders under which raises were given to counsel's co-workers during his one and one-half years away on military active duty explicitly did not vest in any employee right to have salary adjusted, because even if governor purported to retain discretion concerning salary increases, he in fact increased salary of all individuals in plaintiff's classification, and it is violation of Act to withhold similar salary increase from returning veteran. Glasser v Government of the Virgin Islands (1994, DC VI) 30 VI 97, 853 F Supp 852, 130 CCH LC ¶ 11395, app den, reconsideration den (1995, DC VI) 130 CCH LC ¶ 11396

51. Basis for increases, generally

Veteran was not entitled to include his service in Army for purpose of determining his rate of pay where periodic pay raises were determined on basis of merit and proficiency at particular job and not on basis solely of seniority in particular position. Nevins v Curtiss-Wright Corp. (1949, CA6 Ohio) 172 F.2d 535, 23 BNA LRRM 2305, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64943

Employer violated predecessor to statute by refusing to credit reinstated veteran with time spent in military service for pay purposes, where pay increases were generally geared to number of years on job and annual reviews were confined to granting increases or discharging employees for unsatisfactory performance, since pay increases in such circumstances depended essentially upon continuing employment, not upon exercise of management discretion. Hatton v Tabard Press Corp. (1969, CA2 NY) 406 F.2d 593, 70 BNA LRRM 2519, 59 CCH LC ¶ 13281

Time spent in military service should have been considered in computing re-employed veterans' positions on teachers' salary schedule for teachers who served in teaching district before and after their military service, since it was undisputed that veterans would have advanced on salary schedule with reasonable certainty, and predominant nature of vertical advance on salary schedule was reward for continued future service as annual service increase, where once minimum teaching days requirement is met teachers are entitled to advancement on schedule regardless of their performance or whether they benefit from previous year's experience. Lang v

Veteran, who had two years experience in newspaper writing upon entry into service, and who was paid an increased wage, pursuant to collective bargaining contract consummated in his absence, based on two years experience, was not entitled under former 50 USC Appx § 459(b)-(h) to wage for additional three years experience based on three years service in the army. Selgrat v Field Enterprises, Inc. (1952, DC Ill) 105 F Supp 179, 30 BNA LRRM 2548

Under contract providing for periodic increases for each year of experience on job, returned veteran was not entitled to pay increase based upon time spent in service. Brown v Denver Post, Inc. (1956, DC Colo) 145 F Supp 351, 39 BNA LRRM 2015, 31 CCH LC ¶ 70228

Veteran was not entitled under predecessor to statute to have his time spent in service used in computing time necessary to make him entitled to pay increase under step-rate system, since such system differed from seniority in sense that it required actual experience rather than passage of time alone. Altgens v Associated Press (1951, CA5 Tex) 188 F.2d 727, 28 BNA LRRM 2022, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66318

Veteran’s time spent in service was to be included in determining veteran’s eligibility for pay increases based entirely on seniority. Moe v Eastern Air Lines, Inc. (1957, CA5 Fla) 246 F.2d 215, 40 BNA LRRM 2302, cert den (1958) 357 US 936, 2 L Ed 2d 1550, 78 S Ct 1380, 42 BNA LRRM 2354, reh den (1958) 358 US 858, 3 L Ed 2d 92, 79 S Ct 13

Army Reservist was entitled to reinstatement at pay rate of $7 per hour, because she would have received $0.50 raise had she been at job instead of serving in Desert Storm, and military personnel who return from active duty are entitled to seniority and salary increases to which they would have been entitled had they been continuously employed. Novak v Mackintosh (1996, DC SD) 937 F Supp 873, 155 BNA LRRM 2985, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11658

53. Step-rate system

Step-rate system under which employee was required to have given amount of experience before becoming entitled to increase did not correspond with seniority and differed from seniority in sense that such system required actual experience and not just passage of time alone; veteran was not entitled to have time spent in service used in computing time necessary to make him entitled to pay increase; step-rate system placed monetary value on on-the-job experience and seniority system did not require veteran to be placed in position that he could not have attained had he not had certain amount of experience. Altgens v Associated Press (1951, CA5 Tex) 188 F.2d 727, 28 BNA LRRM 2022, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66318

In step-rate system where veteran contended that because progress in step-rate system followed accomplishment of each period or step without examination or other test of efficiency and because resulting increases in pay were automatic with passage of time, veteran’s contention that step-rate system and seniority were synonymous was without merit where simple fact that progress in step-rate system was based solely on clerical experience or college training, where veteran had been given credit for every day spent in clerical work in military service; time otherwise spent in military service, however praiseworthy it might be, was not clerical experience. Huffman v Norfolk & W. R. Co. (1947, DC Va) 71 F Supp 564, 20 BNA LRRM 2209, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63765

Step-rate system of compensation was something separate and distinct from seniority which began when employee’s pay began and continued so long as he was in employment regardless of lay-off, vacation, and military service; step-rate system placed monetary value on experience and veterans are credited with seniority for time spent in military service, but no credit was given to step-rates by time spent in service; step-rates credit was given only by on-the-job-service. Brown v Denver Post, Inc. (1956, DC Colo) 145 F Supp 351, 39 BNA LRRM 2015, 31 CCH LC ¶ 70228
Under system dividing job rate into six steps of 4 cents per hour per step, step raises being granted every 6 months to those not dismissed, demoted, or transferred, on theory that productivity increased with time on job, returning veteran was entitled to rate he would have earned if he had stayed at job and received step raises. Alfarone v Fairchild Stratos Corp. (1963, ED NY) 218 F Supp 446, 53 BNA LRRM 2634, 47 CCH LC ¶ 18361

Employer violated predecessor to statute by reinstating returning veteran to his former position without granting step pay increases which veteran would have accrued under employer's salary increment plan under which pay raises were predicated on length of service. Adams v Indiana, Dep't of Mental Health, Richmond State Hospital (1983, SD Ind) 113 BNA LRRM 3021, 97 CCH LC ¶ 10015

54. Retroactive increases

Veteran would be penalized if he were denied equal pay for equal work merely because he was in armed forces on October 10, 1943, where retroactive pay increase was granted to employees by agreement between union and company under which eligibility or participation was limited to those employees in employ of company on October 10, 1943, and where veteran had been employee of company and entered armed services prior to October 10, 1943; it would be patent discrimination not to give retroactive wage increase to re-employed veterans. Flynn v Ward Leonard Electric Co. (1949, DC NY) 84 F Supp 399, 24 BNA LRRM 2245

Employees absent in military service have status only of employees on leave of absence and where retroactive pay increase is made effective only as to employees actively engaged in work on specified date and there is no showing that such date is fixed with purpose of discriminating against veteran, veteran is not entitled to retroactive pay. Flynn v Ward Leonard Electric Co. (1950, SD NY) 18 CCH LC ¶ 65710

Under agreement between union and company, entered into while veteran was absent in military service, wherein it was provided that all employees on active payroll as of May 16, 1943, were entitled to receive retroactive pay increases, veteran was not entitled to retroactive pay increase since agreement had equal application to all nonveterans employees of company who were on leave of absence and not on active payroll as of May 26, 1943. Zagaiski v Carboloy Co. (1950, DC Mich) 88 F Supp 162

G. Other Particular Matters

55. Job assignments

Opportunity to retain distinct job assignment is “incident or advantage of employment” guaranteed to reservists under predecessor to statute. Hawes v General Motors Corp. (1979, ND Ohio) 102 BNA LRRM 3041, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11713

56. Overtime

Employer was required to grant employee overtime work opportunities he missed by reason of his reserve service or pay him for unworked overtime since collective bargaining agreement to which employer was party provided that overtime opportunities would be distributed equally among employees. Carney v Cummins Engine Co. (1979, CA7 Ind) 602 F.2d 763, 102 BNA LRRM 2820, 86 CCH LC ¶ 11438, cert den (1980) 444 US 1073, 62 L Ed 2d 754, 100 S Ct 1018, 103 BNA LRRM 2668, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11824

Former subsec. (c)(3) of 50 USCS Appx § 459 entitled a reservist, who could not take advantage of overtime work because of his military duty, to be equated with a person who was able to work overtime and where the latter person drew overtime pay, unless he voluntarily selected not to exercise the opportunity, the reservist could not be marked up for overtime if he could not take advantage of it because of his military duty. Lott v Goodyear Aerospace Corp. (1975, ND Ohio) 395 F Supp 866, 89 BNA LRRM 3025, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10985

Right to work overtime and collect overtime premium pay may be characterized as entitlement contingent upon employee’s fulfilling bona fide work requirement rather than right which vests in employee by his continued association with employer; therefore, company does not violate predecessor to statute by charging reservist's overtime equalization record for overtime that employee was unable to accept because of duty since collective bargaining agreement did not guarantee absolute opportunity to work overtime and collect overtime compensation but instead conditioned opportunity on employee's acceptance of overtime work opportunity at time it was offered; if company were required to refrain from charging employee record with opportunities to be offered during period of duty, employee whose attendance at drills caused him to decline overtime work would be given preferential treatment contrary to legislative purpose of insuring that all workers received equal treatment. Breeding v TRW, Inc., Ross Gear Div. (1979, MD Tenn) 477 F Supp 1177, 102 BNA LRRM 2542, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11597, 51 ALR Fed 882, affd without op (1981, CA6 Tenn) 665 F.2d 1043, 92 CCH LC ¶ 12972 and (criticized in Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209)

57. Schedules and hours

Employer is not required by to make work scheduling accommodations for employee-reservists not made for other employees; predecessor to statute was enacted for a limited purpose of protecting employee-reservist against discriminations in discharge and promotion motivated solely by reserve status; Congress did not intend that reservists be entitled to all "incidents or advantages of employment" accorded during their absence to working employees conditioned upon actual performance on job. Monroe v Standard Oil Co. (1981) 452 US 549, 69 L Ed 2d 226, 101 S Ct 2510, 107 BNA LRRM 2633, 91 CCH LC ¶ 12796 (superseded by statute as stated in Hansen v Town of Irondequoit (1995, WD NY) 896 F Supp 110, 150 BNA LRRM 2508, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43881, 130 CCH LC ¶ 11399) and (superseded by statute as stated in Gummo v Village of Depew (1996, CA2 NY) 75 F.3d 98, 151 BNA LRRM 2225, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43880, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11477) and (superseded by statute as stated in Newport v Ford Motor Co. (1996, CA8 Mo) 91 F.3d 1164, 152 BNA LRRM 2961, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11634) and (superseded by statute as stated in Key v Hearst Corp. (1997, SD NY) 963 F Supp 283, 156 BNA LRRM 2509, 71 CCH EPD ¶ 44819, 134 CCH LC ¶ 10014) and (superseded by statute as stated in Sheehan v Dep't of the Navy (2001, CA FC) 240 F.3d 1009, 166 BNA LRRM 2526) and (superseded by statute as stated in Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209) and (superseded by statute as stated in Rogers v City of San Antonio (2003, WD Tex) 172 BNA LRRM 2240)

Collective bargaining agreement which guaranteed 40 hours of work per week on condition that employee was not absent or tardy required employer to accommodate employee and provide guaranteed 40-hour work-week undiminished by employee's reserve obligation where employer concedes that it can accommodate employee's duty schedule. West v Safeway Stores, Inc. (1980, CA5 Tex) 609 F.2d 147, 103 BNA LRRM 2150, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11755

Employee has right to be scheduled to work 40 hours per week as incident or advantage of employment within meaning of predecessor to statute but statute does not impose on employer affirmative duty to accommodate employee's military reserve obligation by bestowing upon him rights and privileges not generally afforded fellow employees; employer need not alter rules to permit employee to work 40 hour week where there is no unconditional right to work 40 hours per week; predecessor to statute merely required that reservists be treated equally with fellow employees. Monroe v Standard Oil Co. (1980, CA6 Ohio) 613 F.2d 641, 103 BNA LRRM 2317, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11801, affd (1981) 452 US 549, 69 L Ed 2d 226, 101 S Ct 2510, 107 BNA LRRM 2633, 91 CCH LC ¶ 12796 (superseded by statute as stated in Hansen v Town of Irondequoit (1995, WD NY) 896 F Supp 110, 150 BNA LRRM 2508, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43881, 130 CCH LC ¶ 11399) and (superseded by statute as stated in Gummo v Village of Depew (1996, CA2 NY) 75 F.3d 98, 151 BNA LRRM 2225, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43880, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11477) and (superseded by statute as stated in Newport v Ford Motor Co. (1996, CA8 Mo) 91 F.3d 1164, 152 BNA LRRM 2961, 132 CCH LC ¶ 11634) and (superseded by statute as stated in Key v Hearst Corp. (1997, SD NY) 963 F Supp 283, 156 BNA LRRM 2509, 71 CCH EPD ¶ 44819, 134 CCH LC ¶ 10014) and (superseded by statute as stated in Sheehan v Dep't of the Navy (2001, CA FC) 240 F.3d 1009, 166 BNA LRRM 2526) and (superseded by statute as stated in Rogers v City of San Antonio (2002, WD Tex) 211 F Supp 2d 829, 170 BNA LRRM 2108, 83 CCH EPD ¶ 41209) and Directive requiring state correctional officers to change their pass days (days off) to correspond with their military reservist obligations, although it violated collective bargaining agreement, did not violate Act; directive did not reduce plaintiffs' compensation, or affect their promotion or pension rights or opportunity to earn overtime pay, and, although plaintiffs lost privilege of working 24 hours and being paid for 40, directive did not penalize them or treat them differently than other non-reservist correction officers. Rumsey v New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. (1994, CA2 NY) 19 F.3d 83, 145 BNA LRRM 2780, 128 CCH LC ¶ 11107, cert den (1994) 513 US 875, 130 L Ed 2d 132, 115 S Ct 202, 147 BNA LRRM 2448, 129 CCH LC ¶ 11193 and cert den (1994, US) 147 BNA LRRM 2448

State does not violate predecessor to statute by providing that days off and shift assignments of employees in National Guard and Reserves may be revised to avoid military drills during working hours. Rumsey v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services (1983, ND NY) 569 F Supp 358, 114 BNA LRRM 2045, 98 CCH LC ¶ 10492, vacated on other grounds (1984, ND NY) 580 F Supp 1052

Employer in Kansas City, Kansas had obligation under predecessor to statute to allow employee who was member of Navy reserve time off from work in order to travel to Memphis, Tennessee to attend military reserve inactive training, including time off for traveling to training location in Memphis, notwithstanding contention that statute, although allowing reservists time off from work to travel from place of training to place of employment, did not cover travel to place of training. Sawyer v Swift & Co. (1985, DC Kan) 610 F Supp 38, 118 BNA LRRM 3269, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11394, revd on other grounds (1988, CA10 Kan) 836 F.2d 1257, 127 BNA LRRM 2274, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10274

II. WAIVER OF REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS

58. Generally

For veteran to waive re-employment rights it must be shown that he aware of rights he gave up and that he fully intended to abandon them. Loeb v Kivo (1948, CA2 NY) 169 F.2d 346, 22 BNA LRRM 2392, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64678, cert den (1948) 335 US 891, 93 L Ed 429, 69 S Ct 246, 23 BNA LRRM 2137

Waiver by veteran of his or her statutory rights under former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act must be clearly and unequivocally indicated. Ryan v Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Ctr. (1994, CA7 Ill) 15 F.3d 697, 145 BNA LRRM 2401, 127 CCH LC ¶ 10989

Waiver of re-employment rights must be clearly established. Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

It is rule of law that when someone is held to have waived legal rights, waiver must be clearly established and preparer of contract waiving benefits of re-employment rights must specifically and in letters large enough not to be overlooked by veteran state that he is waiving statutory rights. Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

59. Acceptance of different position

Veteran does not disqualify himself by accepting other employment after being refused reinstatement in his preservice position. Loeb v Kivo (1948, CA2 NY) 169 F.2d 346, 22 BNA LRRM 2392, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64678, cert den (1948) 335 US 891, 93 L Ed 429, 69 S Ct 246, 23 BNA LRRM 2137

Plaintiff did not waive right to reinstatement by employer to pre-military service position pursuant to former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b) by failing to specify particular position in application or by accepting another job with same employer and remaining for seven months during which time plaintiff's father-in-law held position, in light of plaintiff's repeated requests for position, employer's rejection of requests, and employer's breach of written agreement to reinstate plaintiff.
O'Mara v Petersen Sand & Gravel Co. (1974, CA7 Ill) 498 F.2d 896, 86 BNA LRRM 2702, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10107

Under predecessor to statute, veteran waived rights where he was employed in defendant's temporary shipbuilding division upon entrance in service and, upon return, accepted position in permanent business organization of defendant where he worked for three years. Walsh v Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. (1949, DC Ill) 90 F Supp 322 (superseded by statute as stated in Stevens v Tennessee Valley Auth. (1983, CA6 Tenn) 712 F.2d 1047, 118 BNA LRRM 3201)

Party who claimed benefits under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h) never sought to return to position he had when inducted into military service, but returned under separate and distinct contract of employment to perform work of distinctly different nature at very substantial increase in pay was not entitled to benefits when discharged from his employment within one year of his return from service. Rix v Turnbull-Novak, Inc. (1958, DC Mo) 159 F Supp 199, 42 BNA LRRM 2416, 34 CCH LC ¶ 71542, affd (1958, CA8 Mo) 260 F.2d 785, 43 BNA LRRM 2116, 36 CCH LC ¶ 65009

Veteran's acceptance of position other than that which he held prior to induction did not constitute waiver of his right to be restored to original employment, where evidence did not support conclusion that veteran was aware of rights and fully intended to surrender them. Rix v Turnbull-Novak, Inc. (1958, CA8 Mo) 260 F.2d 785, 43 BNA LRRM 2116, 36 CCH LC ¶ 65009

60. Application for different position

Assuming that veteran is entitled to re-employment in some position, veteran does not necessarily lose all rights merely because, in applying for re-employment, he couples such application with demand for higher position he erroneously believes to be his due. Trusted Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639

Although veteran, in applying for re-employment, requests higher position in employer's organization than one to which he is entitled veteran does not lose re-employment rights where employer is not misled in any way or prejudiced in its defense, especially where veteran erroneously believed that higher position was due him. Boston & M. R. R. v David (1948, CA1 NH) 167 F.2d 722, 22 BNA LRRM 2133, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64508

Veteran did not waive rights to prior position by negotiating contract for higher position; veteran waived no rights where he entered into contract with employer granting him higher position of assistant manager of branch architectural firm at $700 per month rather than take pre-service position of inspector at $500 per month and where, within 45 days after re-employment at higher position, owner of firm died and branch at which veteran had become assistant manager was sold. Rix v Turnbull-Novak, Inc. (1958, CA8 Mo) 260 F.2d 785, 43 BNA LRRM 2116, 36 CCH LC ¶ 65009

61. Arbitration

Veteran waives cause of action under former Act by consenting to arbitration of re-employment rights under contract providing that there should be no appeal from arbitrator's decision and that arbitrator's decision should be final and binding on union, members, employees, and employer. Wright v Ford Motor Co. (1961, ED Mich) 196 F Supp 538, 48 BNA LRRM 2920, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17163

62. Delay

Fact that employer heard nothing from veteran between time he declined re-employment with less pay and less seniority than that which he would have had he remained in employer's employ during war, which was October 25, 1945, to August, 1946, when employer received letter from office of United States Attorney, did not amount to abandonment or waiver of veteran's employment rights. Thompson v Chesapeake & O. R. Co. (1947, DC W Va) 76 F Supp 304, 21 BNA LRRM 2358, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64367
Mere delay which is not accompanied by conduct tantamount to abandonment of rights created by predecessor to statute does not defeat veteran's rights. Coon v Liebmann Breweries, Inc. (1949, DC NJ) 86 F Supp 333, 24 BNA LRRM 2514, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65330

63. Refusal of position offered
Veteran did not waive rights by quitting in protest against employer's insistence on treating employee as "new-hire" upon re-employment. Hanna v American Motors Corp. (1977, CA7 Wis) 557 F.2d 118, 95 BNA LRRM 2806, 14 CCH EPD ¶ 7657, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13293

Plaintiff was not required to accept position that did not approximate former position as apprentice electrician in pay, status, and seniority and his refusal to accept position that did not fully comply with predecessor to statute should not be held against his reemployment rights. Hembree v Georgia Power Co. (1981, CA5 Ga) 637 F.2d 423, 106 BNA LRRM 2535, 90 CCH LC ¶ 12579

Employee does not waive her rights under former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act by refusing to accept inferior position. Ryan v Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Ctr. (1994, CA7 Ill) 15 F.3d 697, 145 BNA LRRM 2401, 127 CCH LC ¶ 10989

Navy reservist did not waive her rights under former VRRA by refusing to accept inferior position when she returned after leave for active duty. Ryan v Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Ctr. (1994, CA7 Ill) 15 F.3d 697, 145 BNA LRRM 2401, 127 CCH LC ¶ 10989

Veteran did not waive re-employment rights where, prior to entering service, he had been on salary basis and following discharge salary position was no longer in existence, where employer offered nonsalaried position upon condition that veteran fully acknowledge that employer was performing his full duty toward him, and where veteran refused to accept such offer, being fearful that character of waiver which was required of him would interfere with his rights as returning veteran. Burkhardt v Crucible Steel Co. (1946, DC NJ) 68 F Supp 802, 18 BNA LRRM 2423, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63385

Veteran's refusal to accept temporary position not approximating premilitary job was not waiver of rights to re-employment. Chaltry v Ollie's Idea, Inc. (1982, WD Mich) 546 F Supp 44, 113 BNA LRRM 3702, 95 CCH LC ¶ 13749, 63 ALR Fed 120

Veteran waived re-employment rights where, within 3 months following veteran's discharge, defendant offered to immediately restore him to position which he had before entering service and where veteran refuses to accept such position. Tsang v Kan (1947) 78 Cal App 2d 275, 177 P2d 630, 20 BNA LRRM 2348

Veteran was not barred from reemployment rights where veteran sought reinstatement to his prewar job, manager of firm represented that company had no obligation to rehire him in view of changed circumstances of business and where, on this basis, veteran was induced to sign contract; whether fraudulently or mistakenly misled, veteran was not barred from relief. Loeb v Kivo (1948, CA2 NY) 169 F.2d 346, 22 BNA LRRM 2392, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64678, cert den (1948) 335 US 891, 93 L Ed 429, 69 S Ct 246, 23 BNA LRRM 2137

III. DISCHARGE OF REINSTATED EMPLOYEE
A. In General

65. Generally
Successor in interest to original employer of veteran should be able to discharge veteran without cause since Congress never intended that rights granted veteran should extend to purchaser of industrial property by whom veteran had never been in fact employed especially where veteran waives rights of re-employment under terms of contract with such successor in interest. Hastings v Reynolds Metals Co. (1947, CA7 Ill) 165 F.2d 484, 21 BNA LRRM 2049, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64117
Offer on part of employer to reinstate veteran who had been employed since release from service and subsequently discharged was not admission that discharge was not for cause. Saccavino v Churchward & Co. (1946, DC Conn) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63336

District Court found that term "period of service" in 38 USCS § 4316(c), refers to consecutive days of duty before reemployment; statute provides extra protection from discharge for those who are absent from work for extended, isolated periods of time; employee's claim under § 4316(c) in instant case was dismissed. Warren v IBM (2005, SD NY) 358 F Supp 2d 301

66. Construction of statute, generally

Congress did not intend that availability of man with greater skills who could turn out more work would justify discharging returning veteran within one year. Paredez v Pillsbury Co. (1966, CD Cal) 259 F Supp 493, 63 BNA LRRM 2322, 54 CCH LC ¶ 11582

67. -Discharge

Word "discharge", as used in predecessor statute, normally means termination of employment relationship or loss of position, and demotion without cause is tantamount to discharge. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 SCt 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

"Discharge" presumptively means that veteran's employer no longer needs or desires veteran's services and that all contractual relations between veteran and his employer are at end. Droste v Nash-Kelvinator Corp. (1946, DC Mich) 64 F Supp 716, 17 BNA LRRM 760, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62947

Plaintiff who upon return from military service continued in employ of corporation in same position and at same salary could not complain that animosity encountered upon his return, forcing him to resign, was violation of his rights under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h). Koury v Bonnie-Frances Lingerie Co. (1965, La App 4th Cir) 175 So 2d 372

68. -Cause

"Cause" need not be legal cause but can be such cause as fair-minded person may act upon and where dismissal is not arbitrarily taken with purpose of avoiding statute, it is not "without cause". Keserich v Carnegie--Illinois Steel Corp. (1947, CA7 Ind) 163 F.2d 889, 20 BNA LRRM 2679, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64048

Word "cause" does not mean "legal cause"; cause justifying discharge of re-employed veteran need not necessarily be cause which would furnish employee with cause of action against employer because of dismissal or discharge but neither may the cause be mere excuse or arbitrary action on part of employer to avoid impact of statute and test which must be applied is whether or not discharge by employer is "reasonable one within the circumstances." Kemp v John Chatillon & Sons, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 169 F.2d 203, 22 BNA LRRM 2289, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64624

"Cause" contemplates something more than sheer arbitrariness and it must be based upon reason; ground for discharge that does not violate any law when applied to unprotected employee, such as fact that employer may simply dislike employee, does not constitute sufficient cause under statute and employer must go further than asserting his subjective feelings and must be prepared to show that veteran has been discharged for some cause based upon some objective standards. Carter v United States (1968, App DC) 132 US App DC 303, 407 F.2d 1238, 9 ALR Fed 205

To hold that term "cause" cannot result from change in employer's situation, as in complete abandonment of type of work in which employee had been engaged, would be to give term too narrow meaning. Bernstein v Mincow (1946, SD NY) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63441

Words "without cause" mean absence of any legal ground or excuse in performance of person's work, which would warrant his being laid off; it implies that only "cause" which would warrant discharge would be lack of skill, competence, diligence, or loyalty in performance of Term "cause" does not have to be legal cause but rather such cause as fair-minded person might act upon and where discharge is not arbitrary it is not "without cause". Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

Discharge, if not arbitrary with purpose of avoiding statute, is not "without cause" and need not be legal cause. Sundra v St. Louis American League Baseball Club (1949, DC Mo) 87 F Supp 471, 25 BNA LRRM 2208

"Cause" does not mean legal cause but such cause as fair-minded person may act upon when not arbitrarily taken as excuse to avoid statute. Cavanagh v Pinkerton's Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 198 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185

Although "cause" as used in 38 USCS § 4316(c) is not defined in Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA), to be consistent with USERRA's stated purpose to encourage service in armed services by eliminating or minimizing disadvantages members of armed services experience in their civilian careers and employment as result of their military services, 38 USCS § 4301(a)(1), term "cause" must be construed and applied narrowly. Duarte v Agilent Techs., Inc. (2005, DC Colo) 366 F Supp 2d 1039, 176 BNA LRRM 3226, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10467

Requirement in former 38 USCS § 2021 that returning veteran not be discharged "without cause" does not preclude agency from demoting individual who has been promoted to supervisory or managerial position for not satisfactorily completing probationary period under 5 USCS § 3321; cause need not be legal cause, but may not be mere excuse or arbitrary action to avoid statutory restoration requirement. Hawkins v Department of Treasury (1992, MSPB) 52 MSPR 686

69. Application of statute, generally

Veteran was protected under former 50 Appx USCS § 459(b)-(h) from discharge only for one year after restoration, and after expiration of that period there was nothing which prevented employer from discharging him, with or without cause. Travis v Schwartz Mfg. Co. (1954, CA7 Wis) 216 F.2d 448, 35 BNA LRRM 2191, 26 CCH LC ¶ 68775

Veteran’s right to seniority by virtue of Selective Training and Service Act for his restoration to former employment without loss of seniority and protecting him from discharge without cause within one year after such restoration did not extend beyond expiration of first year of his re-employment. Zaversnik v Union P. R. Co. (1949, DC Wyo) 95 F Supp 209

70. -Demotion

Guarantee of predecessor to statute that discharged veteran returning to position of former employment not be discharged from such position without cause within one year after restoration is applicable to demotions. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

It is crystal clear that demotion is equivalent of discharge and reasonable interpretation of effect of transferring person to position paying less money is that it is demotion. Foor v Torrington Co. (1948, CA7 Ind) 170 F.2d 487, 23 BNA LRRM 2100, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64823

Unless employer is justified in firing re-employed veteran, it is not justified in demoting him in order to replace him with somewhat better workmen during one year period. Skiffington v Sage-Allen & Co. (1948, DC Conn) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64625

Demotion without cause is tantamount to discharge. Paredez v Pillsbury Co. (1966, CA 10) 259 F Supp 493, 63 BNA LRRM 2322, 54 CCH LC ¶ 11582

71. -Layoff

Provisions of Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 for return of discharged veteran to his former civilian employment without loss of seniority and with immunity from discharge therefrom without cause for period of 12 months did not protect him from layoffs while non-veterans with higher seniority were continued at work. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Guaranty of predecessor to statute that discharged veteran returning to his position in his former employment "shall not be discharged from such position without cause within one year after such restoration" covers demotions but does not protect veteran from layoffs. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Furlough for more than thirty days without pay, of government employee with veteran's preference, was within provision of predecessor to statute that trainee restored to his old position shall not be discharged therefrom without cause within one year after such prescribing that trainee restored to his old position not be discharged therefrom without cause within one year after such restoration. Hilton v Sullivan (1948) 334 US 323, 92 L Ed 1416, 68 S Ct 1020, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64557

Returning veteran laid off by operation of seniority system and put on waiting list for reassignment was not considered to have been discharged. Ford Motor Co. v Huffman (1953) 345 US 330, 97 L Ed 1048, 73 S Ct 681, 31 BNA LRRM 2548, 23 CCH LC ¶ 67505; Combustion Engineering Co. v Miller (1948, CA6 Tenn) 165 F.2d 372, 21 BNA LRRM 2224, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64224; Droste v Nash-Kelvinator Corp. (1946, DC Mich) 64 F Supp 716, 17 BNA LRRM 760, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62947; Lord Mfg. Co. v Nemenz (1946, DC Pa) 65 F Supp 711, 18 BNA LRRM 2011, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63122

Veterans employed in positions which were temporary are excluded from benefits which they seek to enjoy, and employer was within its rights in laying them off within year after their reinstatement because of changing circumstances due to termination of war production. Gualtieri v Sperry Gyroscope Co. (1946, DC NY) 67 F Supp 219, 18 BNA LRRM 2202, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63282

72. -Transfer

Transfer is demotion equivalent to discharge and is without cause where, although transfer was made in good faith for purpose of assisting employer in meeting production demands, it is not prompted by any behavior on part of veteran and is not result of change of economic situation making it unreasonable to retain veteran in former position. Foor v Torrington Co. (1948, CA7 Ind) 170 F.2d 487, 23 BNA LRRM 2100, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64823

Veteran's resignation is "equivalent to voluntary relinquishment of his status as an employee" rather than discharge, where veteran's employer attempts to transfer him to another one of employer's offices into similar position which would not have affected veteran's status, seniority, or pay and which attempted transfer caused veteran to resign. Cohen v Schaulsky (1947, DC NJ) 13 CCH LC ¶ 64026

Resignation induced by transfer to position of reduced status, when such transfer is made or attempted without justification, is equivalent to discharge. Skiffington v Sage-Allen & Co. (1948, DC Conn) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64625

73. -Discharge pursuant to collective bargaining agreement

Discharge of veteran for failure to join union in plant subject to closed-shop provisions of contract between union and employer was not discharged "without cause"; if employer had insisted upon retaining veteran in employment it would have breached terms of contract with union and, moreover, would have run substantial risk of disrupting labor relations which might reasonably have precipitated strike. Kemp v John Chatillon & Sons, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 169 F.2d 203, 22 BNA LRRM 2289, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64624

Employer was not liable in damages for discharging veterans 30 days after restoration to former jobs on ground that they were not members of union, which had entered into closed shop agreement with employer pending election to determine representative, where union had represented that it represents majority of employees. Iob v Los Angeles Brewing Co. (1950, CA9 Cal) 183 F.2d 398, 26 BNA LRRM 2401, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65869

Discharge pursuant to terms of collective bargaining agreement was not without cause where agreement provided that any brakeman who had actually worked as brakeman for period of time less than 528 days must be examined for promotion to conductor and that any employee who refused to take any of 3 such examinations must be discharged and where veteran fell within terms of agreement and refused to take examination; labor agreement did not conflict with veteran's rights where such agreement was uniformly effective as to all employees whether actually at work, in military service, or on furlough or leave of absence and where such agreement was entered into as result of normal bargaining process, in good faith, and without intention or purpose to discriminate against veterans. Fries v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1952, CA7 Ind) 195 F.2d 445, 29 BNA LRRM 2689, 21 CCH LC ¶ 66853

Employer complies with Act where returned veteran, formerly nonunion truck driver, refused to accept position as nonunion truck driver, in another town where job where he worked had been completed, and where he refused to join union to qualify for other work employer had available. Bozar v Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping & Constr. Co. (1947, DC Pa) 73 F Supp 803, 20 BNA LRRM 2663, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64077

Refusal to join union with whom veteran's employer had closed-shop contract was cause for discharge even where veteran was member or probationary member of different union prior to entering service, which union was succeeded by another union after veteran's discharge from service and re-employment. Jensen v Baker (1949, SD Cal) 16 CCH LC ¶ 65264

74. -Seniority rights

One year period of protection against discharge under predecessor statute is also applicable to seniority rights. Trailmobile Co. v Whirls (1947) 331 US 40, 91 L Ed 1328, 67 S Ct 982, 19 BNA LRRM 2531, 12 CCH LC ¶ 51247

Expiration of one year of re-employment does not terminate veteran's rights to seniority to which he is entitled by virtue of statutory treatment of him as though he had remained continuously in civilian employment and does not open door to discrimination against him as veteran; seniority is, of course, subject to advantages and limitations applicable to other employees. Oakley v Louisville & N. R. Co. (1949) 338 US 278, 94 L Ed 87, 70 S Ct 119, 25 BNA LRRM 2038, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65409

Veteran's seniority status under predecessor to statute, providing that he shall be restored to his former position "without loss of seniority," continues beyond first year after such restoration, within which employer is prohibited by same provision from discharging him without cause. Accardi v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1966) 383 US 225, 15 L Ed 2d 717, 86 S Ct 768, 1 EBC 1016, 61 BNA LRRM 2385, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11073

In action to enforce re-employment rights, courts have no power to "freeze contractual rights" of parties or veterans to their jobs after statutory one year period. Spearmon v Thompson (1949, CA8 Ark) 173 F.2d 452, 23 BNA LRRM 2472, 16 CCH LC ¶ 65028

Discharge is for cause where veteran is permanently laid off and where employer continues to respect veteran's seniority rights and stands ready to recall veteran should veteran's position reopen. Maloney v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (1947, DC Mo) 72 F Supp 124, 20 BNA LRRM 2171, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63834; Mikczynski v North American Aviation, Inc. (1947, SD Cal) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63814

Veteran has right of action where he was laid off 3 years after re-employment because he was not restored to proper seniority and re-employed despite one year limitation on protections provided by statute. Rader v Northwest Exterminating Co. (1954, DC NY) 120 F Supp 244, 34 BNA LRRM 2001, 25 CCH LC ¶ 68333

If position of government employee who was restored was abolished during one-year period after his return to duty civil service commission, under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) and applicable regulations, must require, if necessary in order to make reasonable offer of assignment to continuing position, that preference eligibles in subgroup having equal or greater retention be displaced.

(1949) 41 Op Atty Gen 16

76. Waiver of rights
Veteran waived rights under predecessor to statute and re-employment rights were to be governed by terms of contract where veteran, who had been plant manager, director and president of father's corporation prior to entering service, which corporation was sold while veteran was in service, contracted with purchaser of father's corporation for employment at salary of $500 per month and where veteran was discharged apparently without cause after 45 days of re-employment under terms of employment contract which provided that either party could terminate contract at any time without cause.
Hastings v Reynolds Metals Co. (1947, CA7 Ill) 165 F.2d 484, 21 BNA LRRM 2049, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64117

Baseball player veteran, discharged by employer after one month of spring training on ground that he was unable to comply with and meet accepted standards of performance, professional skill, proficiency, and stamina required of player on baseball club, did not waive rights by signing contract, upon return from military service, which provided "this contract may be terminated at any time by the Club or by any assignee by giving official release notice to the player"; although veteran could waive benefits of statute by entering into contract, veteran had to sign contract as it was presented to him or face choice of playing no baseball at all and baseball club had, under rules of organized baseball, no choice but to tender him contract as it was written or face fine and suspension from baseball league and, contrary to termination provision of contract, contract also provided that its terms were subject to legislation respecting military service.
Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

B. Grounds For Discharge

1. Conduct of Employee

77. Generally
Ultimate criterion by which court judges whether employer discharged veteran for cause is same one generally applied where employment contract is terminated by employer because of employee misconduct and reasonableness of such discharge is determined by asking whether it was fair to discharge veteran because of his conduct and by asking whether veteran had notice, express or fairly implied, that such conduct would be grounds for discharge.

Words "without cause" refer to absence of any legal ground or excuse in performance of veteran's work which would warrant his being laid off and only "cause" which would warrant discharge of veteran would be lack of skill, competence, diligence or loyalty in performance of one's duties.
Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

No different standard of conduct is prescribed for veteran than is prescribed for nonveteran and veteran's rights to retain former position for period of one year after restoration is based upon compliance with reasonable and ordinarily accepted standards of personal conduct and performance of duty expected of all employees.
Manowitz v Einhorn Wholesale Grocery (1946, DC NY) 68 F Supp 907, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63507

Veteran may be discharged for cause.
Pelot v Schott (1947, DC Pa) 70 F Supp 981, 19 BNA LRRM 2481, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63663

"Cause" may result from failure of veteran to comply with reasonable and ordinarily accepted standards of personal conduct in performance of duty expected of all employees.
Koons v Lebanon Steel Foundry (1950, DC Pa) 92 F Supp 914, 26 BNA LRRM 2633, 18 CCH LC ¶ 66002

"Cause" may result from series of irritations, petty in themselves, but cumulatively "more straw than the reasonable backs of the assistant managers could bear" and petty annoyances.
must not be tested by "artificial piece by piece analysis" but are to be weighed as totality.
Cavanagh v Pinkerton's Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 198 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185

78. Absences or tardiness

District court did not err in concluding that air carrier's motivation for firing veteran was his own irresponsible conduct, whatever his military status, in refusing to show up for work when scheduled, then making up excuse for his absence, and flaunting his lack of responsibility by getting drunk at firm's Christmas party when he was supposedly too sick to work. Pignato v American Trans Air (1994, CA7 Ill) 14 F.3d 342, 145 BNA LRRM 2269, 127 CCH LC ¶ 11005, cert den (1994) 512 US 1205, 129 L Ed 2d 810, 114 S Ct 2675, 146 BNA LRRM 2640

Unexplained lateness and absence from employment without notifying employer warranted employer in discharging veteran within one year after reinstatement; where veteran, on resuming position, was late every day during first week of employment and during second week appeared for only one work day, he did not need required standards and consequently could be discharged. Manowitz v Einhorn Wholesale Grocery (1946, DC NY) 68 F Supp 907, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63507

Returning veteran's unauthorized absences and frequent tardiness in reporting for work is sufficient cause for discharge. Coley v Buildings Equipment & Supply Corp. (1949, ED Va) 16 CCH LC ¶ 65205

National Guard reservist was not required to allege that he is "still qualified" to perform duties of previous employment in order to state claim under statute, where reservist sought but was denied 2-week leave for military training and then was terminated for unexcused absence from work, because "still qualified" language concerns only those plaintiffs returning from active military service after induction and is not pleading requirement for reservists who are less likely to return disabled. Fann v Modlin (1988, ED NC) 687 F Supp 218, 128 BNA LRRM 2279, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10335

79. Fraudulent employment application

Veteran was discharged for cause where veteran, in application for employment, failed to answer completely questions regarding past employment and in fact intentionally deleted reference to past employment with 2 commercial airlines, one of which had discharged veteran after 5 weeks of employment, and where present employer would not have employed veteran had it known about veteran's past employment record; discharge was in good faith and for cause where veteran intentionally falsified employment application. Larsen v Air California (1970, CD Cal) 313 F Supp 218, 75 BNA LRRM 2156, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10897, affd (1972, CA9 Cal) 459 F.2d 52, 79 BNA LRRM 2767, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12493, cert den (1972) 409 US 895, 34 L Ed 2d 151, 93 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13059, reh den (1972) 409 US 1051, 34 L Ed 2d 505, 93 S Ct 511

Employer rebutted presumption that veteran was qualified for position he held at time he was inducted into armed services where returning serviceman had falsified medical records to conceal back condition which would have prevented his original employment and where his physical condition had further deteriorated. Greathouse v Babcock & Wilcox Co. (1974, ND Ohio) 381 F Supp 156, 86 BNA LRRM 3014, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10188

80. Improper time or expense records

Veteran was discharged for cause where timecards of veteran had been tampered with and, despite lack of direct testimony to effect that veteran was guilty party, there was nevertheless strong circumstantial evidence that he was guilty of tampering with his timecards. Dunkerley v Wright Aeronautical Corp. (1946, DC NJ) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63597

Discharge was for cause where re-employed veteran submitted "padded" time and expense reports. Cavanagh v Pinkerton's Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 196 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185

81. Insubordination
Employer's discharge of veteran re-employed as floor craneman in steel works was for cause where employer cited cumulative effect of veteran's past record of violations of company's safety rules, cited specific infraction by veteran of safety regulation in causing or allowing crane which he was operating to collide with another crane which incident caused great danger to veteran's fellow employees and to employer's property and where employer cited veteran's belligerent attitude in refusing to co-operate in subsequent investigation of such incident conducted by committee of fellow employees. Batton v Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. (1946, ND Ala) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63517

Veteran's insubordination, disobedience to valid orders, and other undesirable character traits affecting job performance were valid reasons for discharging veteran re-employed under predecessor to statute. Basham v Virginia Brewing Co. (1946, DC Va) 66 F Supp 718, 18 BNA LRRM 2217, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63295; Pelot v Schott (1947, DC Pa) 70 F Supp 981, 19 BNA LRRM 2481, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63663; Daniels v Barfield (1948, DC Pa) 77 F Supp 283, 22 BNA LRRM 2029, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64459; Cavanagh v Pinkerton's Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 198 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185

Discharge was for cause where, although veteran employed by brewery sold and delivered beer in his own territory without complaint, he performed other duties grudgingly and only under threat of discharge, using loud, profane and vulgar language in front of defendant's customers and on one occasion refusing to deliver beer sold by another salesman who was out sick. Basham v Virginia Brewing Co. (1946, DC Va) 66 F Supp 718, 18 BNA LRRM 2217, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63295

Veteran was discharged with cause where he had refused to follow orders, had been impertinent and disrespectful to superiors, had caused damage to machines at work by carelessness and neglect and where his general attitude and demeanor was one of dissatisfaction which resulted in detrimental effect upon morale of other employees. Ronzo v Allied Latex Corp. (1947, DC NJ) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63807

Willful disobedience to employer's orders and directions, especially where it causes accident or damage, is ground for discharge with cause; where veteran disobeyed instructions given him as to manner in which he should drive truck which was assigned to him with result that second truck belonging to employer was damaged, discharge was for reasonable cause. Pelot v Schott (1947, DC Pa) 70 F Supp 981, 19 BNA LRRM 2481, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63663

Discharge was without good cause where veteran, who had been employed by defendant for 7 years prior to entering military service, was discharged for insubordination and basis for charge of insubordination was that veteran was not running his district office properly and had not sent into home office satisfactory amount of remittances and that, when criticized by division manager at open meeting of district managers, veteran defended himself. Pylant v Life Ins. Co. (1948, ND Fla) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64841

Discharge was not without cause where, on number of occasions, veteran had been rude to important customer of employer and where his conduct, throughout his employment, was bad, troublemaking, and discourteous to employer's customers resulting in complaints to employer and union officials of veteran's insubordination. Daniels v Barfield (1948, DC Pa) 77 F Supp 283, 22 BNA LRRM 2029, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64459

Discharge was for cause where it was based upon veteran's lack of loyalty and co-operation, tardiness and unauthorized absences from work, especially in view of probable role of veteran in fomenting unrest among fellow employees regarding new manager. Coley v Buildings Equipment & Supply Corp. (1949, ED Va) 16 CCH LC ¶ 65205

Technician's allegation of discrimination under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act was denied, where technician was suspended and eventually terminated after making numerous complaints concerning his treatment as reservist, because evidence showed only tenuous connection between supervisors' actions and technician's status as reservist, but direct causal relationship between technician's severe insubordination and attitude problem and his justified termination. Britt v Georgia Power Co. (1987, ND Ga) 677 F Supp 1169, 127 BNA LRRM 3192, 109 CCH LC ¶ 10622
82. Intoxication

Drunkeness on job was valid reason for discharge of re-employed veteran under predecessor to statute. Manowitz v Einhorn Wholesale Grocery (1946, DC NY) 68 F Supp 907, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63507

Predecessor to statute did not require employer to continue employment where employee persisted, after repeated warnings, in course of conduct unacceptable to employer and discharge was for cause where on numerous occasions during 4 month period veteran failed to report for work and on numerous other occasions was unable to perform duties due to intoxication which resulted in numerous breakdowns, damage, and destruction of portions of employer's plant and machinery. Desrochers v St. Marys Kraft Corp. (1947, SD Ga) 13 CCH LC ¶ 64068

83. Neglect of duties

Veteran's neglect of assigned duties and refusal to perform assigned tasks were sufficient to justify discharge under predecessor to statute. Keserich v Carnegie--Illinois Steel Corp. (1947, CA7 Ind) 163 F.2d 889, 20 BNA LRRM 2679, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64048; Koons v Lebanon Steel Foundry (1950, DC Pa) 92 F Supp 914, 26 BNA LRRM 2633, 18 CCH LC ¶ 66002

Employer had cause for discharging veteran where veteran, as assistant loading foreman in steel mill yard, was requested to remain in plant during strike but left plant and was unable to return to plant through picket lines; employer had right to look for performance of whatever lawful and reasonable tasks were assigned to nonunion foreman to protect and preserve employer's property. Keserich v Carnegie--Illinois Steel Corp. (1947, CA7 Ind) 163 F.2d 889, 20 BNA LRRM 2679, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64048

Veteran's conduct in employment as welder justified employer's discharge where veteran habitually failed to occupy his time with other tasks when his primary duties were not needed; conduct which consists in failure without proper excuse to attend to reasonable and generally prevailing work demands of management and which thus tends to impair proper discipline and efficiency of place of employment is "cause" for discharge. Saccavino v Churchward & Co. (1946, DC Conn) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63336

Veteran who held position as mixer in employer's plant was discharged for cause where veteran caused damage to machines in employer's plant by carelessness and neglect of work. Ronzo v Allied Latex Corp. (1947, DC NJ) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63807

Discharge was for cause where veteran has been found dozing or sleeping while at controls of airliner carrying passengers and where fellow employees had complained that veteran's attitude and personality created disturbing effect on fellow crew members. Larsen v Air California (1970, CD Cal) 313 F Supp 218, 75 BNA LRRM 2156, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10897, affd (1972, CA9 Cal) 459 F.2d 52, 79 BNA LRRM 2767, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12493, cert den (1972) 409 US 895, 34 L Ed 2d 151, 93 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13059, reh den (1972) 409 US 1051, 34 L Ed 2d 505, 93 S Ct 511

84. Outside activities or employment

Doctor employed by company as medical director was entitled to restoration to his position upon termination of his military service, although he also maintained his own office outside plant where he received his private patients but where he was also required to receive and treat such employees as company might send him. Kay v General Cable Corp. (1944, CA3 NJ) 144 F.2d 653, 15 BNA LRRM 523, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62857

Veteran's off duty activities could constitute cause for discharge under predecessor to statute, where such activities were inimical to employer's interests. Gottschalk v Railway Express Agency, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 1004, 21 BNA LRRM 2414, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64371

Discharge of employer's attorney was for cause where attorney's spare time activities as attorney for certain city policemen included arranging questionable employment with defendant employer resulting in much adverse publicity for defendant with harmful effect on its relations with other employees since veteran placed himself in position of serving 2 masters and of choosing to use his position and influence with defendant to benefit private client at defendant's expense and of violating loyalty and duty owed by veteran to defendant. Gottschalk v Railway Express Agency, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 1004, 21 BNA LRRM 2414, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64371

Veteran discharged from his job with Federal Bureau of Investigation within first year after restoration of job was entitled to trial under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) on question of whether his conduct in engaging in heterosexual petting and sleeping with woman without engaging in sexual intercourse was understood by average employee of bureau as being outside standards of personal conduct to which they must adhere or be discharged. Carter v United States (1968, App DC) 132 US App DC 303, 407 F.2d 1238, 9 ALR Fed 205

Veteran’s servicing of his own peanut-vending machines on evenings and weekends did not interfere with his work during regular hours as drycleaning route salesman and collector and did not justify discharge for cause on ground that his spare time activities conflicted with employer’s interests. Watkins v Glenn (1950, WD Ky) 88 F Supp 70, 50-1 USTC ¶ 9196, 38 AFTR 1392

85. Theft

Discharge was without cause where employer accused veteran of stealing 5 cases of beer during delivery as truck driver and veteran denied theft and refused to pay for missing items; not only was evidence insufficient to justify assumption that veteran had taken beer, but it was significant that employer was willing to retain veteran if he would pay for beer, thus creating presumption that employer would employ dishonest employee who had made restitution but that it would not retain veteran, who insisted on his innocence, even though by paying a comparatively small amount of money he could have been retained in his job. Mannato v Dutch Sales Co. (1948, DC NJ) 14 CCH LC ¶ 64418

Theft by veteran or veteran’s dishonesty was valid cause for discharge under predecessor to statute. Cavanagh v Pinkerton’s Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 198 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185; Larsen v Air California (1970, CD Cal) 313 F Supp 218, 75 BNA LRRM 2156, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10897, affd (1972, CA9 Cal) 459 F.2d 52, 79 BNA LRRM 2767, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12493, cert den (1972) 409 US 895, 34 L Ed 2d 151, 93 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13059, reh den (1972) 409 US 1051, 34 L Ed 2d 505, 93 S Ct 511

86. Union activities

Employer was justified in discharging veteran and discharge was for cause where veteran disobeyed employer’s orders not to solicit for union membership during working hours. Mitchell v Greeneville Laundry Co. (1947, ED Tenn) 13 CCH LC ¶ 63918

Veteran’s unauthorized activities on behalf of union, on company time and on company property, justified discharge of veteran under predecessor to statute; discharge was for cause where veteran was union member in closed-shop company and, during working hours, solicited fellow employees to join different union disturbing and annoying other employees and interfering with their work, resorting to intimidation and threats. Azzerone v W. B. Coon Co. (1947, DC NY) 73 F Supp 869, 20 BNA LRRM 2613, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64044

Even if Naval reservist’s reserve status played a role in his termination from employment, there was sufficient other nonpretextual reasons irrelevant to his military status to support termination, where reservist had disciplinary problems predating his joining reserve unit by nearly 2 years and reservist had pattern of absenteeism starting shortly after his employment began. Sawyer v Swift & Co. (1988, CA10 Kan) 836 F.2d 1257, 127 BNA LRRM 2274, 108 CCH LC ¶ 10274

Employer’s discharge of rehired veteran was for just cause where veteran made comments to two coworkers to effect that he would or could sabotage audit reports and work papers in effort to embarrass his supervisor; veteran occupied important position in state government and one demanding trustworthiness. Hillman v Arkansas Highway & Transp. Dept (1994, CA8 Ark) 39 F.3d 197, 147 BNA LRRM 2723, 65 CCH EPD ¶ 43395, 129 CCH LC ¶ 11209

Veteran, having deserted post of duty because of grievance between himself and employer relating to premium pay and under such circumstances as to cause complete shutdown of his department and slowing down of other departments could be discharged for cause. Koons v Lebanon Steel Foundry (1950, DC Pa) 92 F Supp 914, 26 BNA LRRM 2633, 18 CCH LC ¶ 66002

Detective agency justifiably discharged veteran who padded report of time spent, falsely advised prospective customers that agents had machine guns and leg irons, wrongfully stored property and engaged in hard words and uncomfortable jostling when directed to remove it, talked instead of checking tickets, and was guilty of unseemly conduct and general insubordination. Cavanagh v Pinkerton's Nat'l Detective Agency, Inc. (1961, DC Mass) 198 F Supp 50, 48 BNA LRRM 3126, 43 CCH LC ¶ 17185

Predecessor to statute did not require court to disregard aspects of basic employment relationship which would make continued or renewed employment unreasonable; reservist's dismissal from sheriff's department within six months was for cause where he failed to answer time checks, used profane language, was repeatedly found reading on duty, refused to perform patrol duty without backup unit, failed to wear required uniform, and generally had poor attitude. Henry v Anderson County, Tennessee Office of Sheriff (1981, ED Tenn) 522 F Supp 1112, 108 BNA LRRM 2646, 92 CCH LC ¶ 13105

Probationary police officer states no valid claim under former 38 USCS § 4301(b)(3), even though decision to terminate him was made several days after he informed police department of his order to report for active military duty, because officer had already been placed on "disciplinary hold pending termination" prior to receiving order due to numerous disciplinary violations, and there is no other evidence to support his contention that he was terminated because of his military leave. Kitsakos v Brown (1994, SD NY) 848 F Supp 459, 148 BNA LRRM 2702, 127 CCH LC ¶ 11031

2. Qualifications of Employee

88. Generally

Veteran may become unqualified to perform duties of his previous position where such position has substantially changed due to technological advances. Bryan v Griffin (1948, CA6 Ky) 166 F.2d 748, 21 BNA LRRM 2566, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64397

Veteran's inability, gross inefficiency, or incompetence was valid cause for discharge under predecessor to statute. Sundra v St. Louis American League Baseball Club (1949, DC Mo) 87 F Supp 471, 25 BNA LRRM 2208; Larsen v Air California (1970, CD Cal) 313 F Supp 218, 75 BNA LRRM 2156, 62 CCH LC ¶ 10897, affd (1972, CA9 Cal) 459 F.2d 52, 79 BNA LRRM 2767, 67 CCH LC ¶ 12493, cert den (1972) 409 US 895, 34 L Ed 2d 151, 93 S Ct 116, 81 BNA LRRM 2390, 69 CCH LC ¶ 13059, reh den (1972) 409 US 1051, 34 L Ed 2d 505, 93 S Ct 511

89. Competence

Professional baseball player rehired after military service was discharged without cause where he had not been given adequate opportunity to prove himself upon joining team especially where veteran had been chosen outstanding second baseman of league in 1941 and, since re-employment in 1946, he had played 5 games, 3 of which were won by his team, and veteran had made but one error in those 5 games. Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

Discharge was without cause where veteran, re-employed as hog buyer for defendant meat packer, was discharged for not purchasing as many hogs as he did prior to entering service where such failure was due to shrunken market caused by war conditions and restrictions and not due to lack of skill on part of veteran. Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

Unless employer was justified in firing veteran, it was not permitted to demote him in order to replace him with better workman; demotion was without cause where veteran was transferred from outside selling job to in-store job at same rate of pay subsequent to one month illness in which veteran's replacement proved to be much better salesman and where veteran's outside work was reasonably satisfactory with relatively minor complaints. Skiffington v Sage-Allen & Co. (1948, DC Conn) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64625

Baseball player was discharged for cause where his services are terminated one week after opening of regular season after re-employment after 3 years military service; status of professional baseball player is unlike that of other employees because position of player is continuously open to personal competition and business can only live through patronage of public which constantly demands that highest in skill and ability be furnished and therefore player's status as employee is always subject to jeopardy of competition. Juelich v Syracuse Baseball Club, Inc. (1948, ND NY) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64689

Employer was neither responsible nor liable to veteran where veteran's services were not satisfactory to employer and where services of veteran were terminated by mutual agreement between employer and veteran. Braschler v S. H. Kress, Inc. (1948, WD Wash) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64738

Mere fact that veteran lacked confidence to perform duties of position to which he had been promoted did not warrant his complete discharge where veteran, upon re-employment, performed his duties so satisfactorily that he was promoted to higher position from which he was discharged for allowing too many errors; if veteran was not qualified to perform duties of position to which he was promoted, he was at least entitled to hold position for which he was qualified and which he had held prior to his induction into military service. O'Neill v American Stores Co. (1949, DC NJ) 17 CCH LC ¶ 65573

Veteran baseball player's discharge was for cause resulting from his lack of skill in ability to pitch in major leagues and was not mere excuse or arbitrary action to avoid provisions of predecessor to statute where, after 2 years military service, player was re-employed until 2 months after opening season began at which time he was discharged and where there was ample evidence that veteran was not as good as when he was inducted into service. Sundra v St. Louis American League Baseball Club (1949, DC Mo) 87 F Supp 471, 25 BNA LRRM 2208

Employer had just cause to terminate employee under 38 USCS § 2021(b)(1), where employer restored employee to flight engineer position on different aircraft at his request after he returned from active military service, and employer terminated employee on grounds that employee failed to perform at level to qualify as flight engineer, and senior official submitted 2 affidavits outlining reasons for employee's discharge, including employee's failure of aircraft training program and extreme nature of his incompetence. Couture v Evergreen Int'l Airlines (1996, DC Del) 950 F Supp 614, 154 BNA LRRM 2582

90. Efficiency

Veteran was discharged for cause under predecessor to statute where cumulative weight of 15 separate charges against veteran based upon inefficiency outweighed veteran's contention that discharge was due to animosity caused by forced dismissal of employee who had held veteran's position during veteran's absence. Sells v United States (1959) 146 Ct Cl 1 (superseded by statute as stated in Lovshin v Dep't of the Navy (1985, CA) 767 F.2d 826)

Availability of more efficient and skilled worker would not warrant company's removal of employee who had been properly restored to his preinduction job, under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h), and employee discharged under such circumstances would be entitled to recover difference between wages he received during year and amount he would have received had he maintained his position for entire year. Paredez v Pillsbury Co. (1966, CD Cal) 259 F Supp 493, 63 BNA LRRM 2322, 54 CCH LC ¶ 11582

91. Physical capacity

Veteran was discharged for cause where employment as stockman was terminated because of physical disability to perform duties and because of unsatisfactory performance of them. Braschler v S. H. Kress, Inc. (1948, WD Wash) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64738

3. Other Particular Matters
92. Change in circumstances of employer

Employer's lack of work was not good cause for discharge of veteran re-employed under predecessor to statute. Combustion Engineering Co. v Miller (1948, CA6 Tenn) 165 F.2d 372, 21 BNA LRRM 2224, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64224

93. -Adverse economic conditions

Adverse economic conditions constituted legitimate basis for discharging re-employed veteran where re-employed veteran was released after strike and change in employer's economic status. Ruesterholtz v Titeflex, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 335, 21 BNA LRRM 2384, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64360

Adverse economic conditions justified discharge for cause where, during war, 98 percent of total production of employer was devoted to war materials employing more than 4,000 employees in 11 plants and where, since end of war, employer's work force dwindled to 500 persons and only one plant enjoyed any appreciable degree of activity and where, after strike, employer rehired only 225 employees. Ruesterholtz v Titeflex, Inc. (1948, CA3 NJ) 166 F.2d 335, 21 BNA LRRM 2384, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64360

Although cause for discharge could arise from severe adverse economic conditions, which necessitated retrenchment and dissolution in good faith of existing jobs, such was not the case where veteran's job remained after his transfer from it to one of lower-paying category and was filled by female employee having less seniority than veteran despite testimony that employer believed position to which veteran had been restored following discharge and from which he had been transferred was materially changed because woman replacement could not and did not perform all functions which had been required of job previously. Foor v Torrington Co. (1948, CA7 Ind) 170 F.2d 487, 23 BNA LRRM 2100, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64823

Change in circumstances of employer so as to make it impossible or unreasonable for him to continue veteran in employment was sufficient cause for discharging veteran, even though there was no claim that veteran's work had been unsatisfactory; change in circumstances was substantiated where employer averaged $279,00 in years 1943 through 1945 but would average $189,000 in year of veteran's discharge and where employer made profit in 1943 and 1944 but would suffer losses in 1945 and 1946, and where, in 1943, employer operated 18 stores but was, during year of discharge, operating only 9 stores. Bernstein v Mincow (1946, SD NY) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63441

Discharge for cause was justified by economic reasons where employer, which had been organized in 1941 as war emergency project solely for purpose of constructing ships for United States Maritime Commission, such activity being defendant's sole and only activity, ceased building ships; statute did not require employer to seek other work or ship construction or do any other thing in order that it might have or continue to have position in which it could employ veteran. Kent v Todd Houston Shipbuilding Corp. (1947, DC Tex) 72 F Supp 506, 20 BNA LRRM 2273, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63902

Former police chief was terminated for "cause" under 38 USCS § 4316(c)(1) less than one year after returning from active military duty where evidence established that his termination was based on severe budgetary constraints that small village that had employed him was facing. Ferguson v Walker (2005, CD Ill) 397 F Supp 2d 964

Judgment awarding licensed practical nurse lost wages and prejudgment interest because she was discharged from her employment due to her membership in National Guard was affirmed since sufficient evidence supported finding of improper termination, where before termination, nurse's supervisor expressed view that women had no place in military and that military women were promiscuous or homosexual, supervisor also questioned nurse about her National Guard affiliation and duties, and refused to give nurse explanation for her termination, while subsequent explanations for nurse's termination were either pretextual or post hoc rationalizations of supervisor's action. Weber v Logan County Home for Aged (1986, CA8 ND) 804 F.2d 1058, 123 BNA LRRM 3002
Judicially created requirement for termination for cause under predecessor statute providing that employer give sufficient notice of termination to reservist is satisfied when reservist's 15 minute notice of three week leave of absence was so blatantly detrimental to employer that reservist had to know such notice would trigger employer's subsequent decision to demote or to terminate reservist. Burkart v Post-Browning, Inc. (1988, CA6 Ohio) 859 F.2d 1245, 129 BNA LRRM 2679, 110 CCH LC ¶ 10770 (superseded by statute as stated in Gummo v Village of Depew (1996, CA2 NY) 75 F.3d 98, 151 BNA LRRM 2225, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43880, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11477)

National Guard reservist was not discharged from employment in violation of predecessor to statute, since reservist was terminated for cause when reservist deliberately disregarded needs of employer by giving only 15 minutes notice prior to impending three-week leave, where reservist could have easily avoided short notice notwithstanding that reservist could not get appointment to see relevant company official where reservist could have informed his immediate supervisor, or sent written notice to official. Burkart v Post-Browning, Inc. (1988, CA6 Ohio) 859 F.2d 1245, 129 BNA LRRM 2679, 110 CCH LC ¶ 10770 (superseded by statute as stated in Gummo v Village of Depew (1996, CA2 NY) 75 F.3d 98, 151 BNA LRRM 2225, 67 CCH EPD ¶ 43880, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11477)

Veteran with active reserve obligation is protected from discharge from employment for attendance at reserve summer camps by statute, and, upon wrongful discharge from employment, is entitled to reinstatement. Bankston v Stratton-Baldwin Co. (1977, SD Ala) 441 F Supp 247, 96 BNA LRRM 3292, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10304

Physician who served as reservist in Desert Shield/Desert Storm is entitled to reinstatement and back wages pursuant to former 38 USCS § 2021(b)(1)(A), where hospital staff had used pretext to suspend physician without pay from his position as administrator of state hospital during his absence, because state failed to carry its burden of showing proper cause for suspending physician. Simmons v Didario (1992, ED Pa) 796 F Supp 166, 144 BNA LRRM 2852

Employer violated 38 USCS §§ 4313(a)(2)(A) and 4316(c)(1) by reinstating reservist's employment upon his return from active duty with same title, pay, and benefits, but with greatly diminished job duties, and then discharging him approximately four months later without proving cause, given that timing of reservist's discharge and decisionmaking process that preceded it were not reasonable under circumstances. Duarte v Agilent Techs., Inc. (2005, DC Colo) 366 F Supp 2d 1039, 176 BNA LRRM 3226, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10467

§ 4317. Health plans
(a) (1) In any case in which a person (or the person's dependents) has coverage under a health plan in connection with the person's position of employment, including a group health plan (as defined in section 607(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1167(1)]), and such person is absent from such position of employment by reason of service in the uniformed services, or such person becomes eligible for medical and dental care under chapter 55 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 1071 et seq.] by reason of subsection (d) of section 1074 of that title [10 USCS § 1074], the plan shall provide that the person may elect to continue such coverage as provided in this subsection. The maximum period of coverage of a person and the person's dependents under such an election shall be the lesser of--
(A) the 24-month period beginning on the date on which the person's absence begins; or
(B) the day after the date on which the person fails to apply for or return to a position of employment, as determined under section 4312(e) [38 USCS § 4312(e)].
(2) A person who elects to continue health-plan coverage under this paragraph may be required to pay not more than 102 percent of the full premium under the plan (determined in the same manner as the applicable premium under section 4980B(f)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 [26 USCS § 4980B(f)(4)]) associated with such coverage for the employer's other employees, except that in the case of a person who performs service in the uniformed services for less than 31 days, such person may not be required to pay more than the employee share, if any, for such coverage.

(3) In the case of a health plan that is a multiemployer plan, as defined in section 3(37) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1002(37)], any liability under the plan for employer contributions and benefits arising under this paragraph shall be allocated--
   (A) by the plan in such manner as the plan sponsor shall provide; or
   (B) if the sponsor does not provide--
      (i) to the last employer employing the person before the period served by the person in the uniformed services, or
      (ii) if such last employer is no longer functional, to the plan.

(b) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), in the case of a person whose coverage under a health plan was terminated by reason of service in the uniformed services, or by reason of the person's having become eligible for medical and dental care under chapter 55 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 1071 et seq.] by reason of subsection (d) of section 1074 of that title [10 USCS § 1074], an exclusion or waiting period may not be imposed in connection with the reinstatement of such coverage upon reemployment under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] if an exclusion or waiting period would not have been imposed under a health plan had coverage of such person by such plan not been terminated as a result of such service or eligibility. This paragraph applies to the person who is reemployed and to any individual who is covered by such plan by reason of the reinstatement of the coverage of such person.

(2) Paragraph (1) shall not apply to the coverage of any illness or injury determined by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to have been incurred in, or aggravated during, performance of service in the uniformed services.

(3) In the case of a person whose coverage under a health plan is terminated by reason of the person having become eligible for medical and dental care under chapter 55 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 1071 et seq.] by reason of subsection (d) of section 1074 of that title [10 USCS § 1074] but who subsequently does not commence a period of active duty under the order to active duty that established such eligibility because the order is canceled before such active duty commences, the provisions of paragraph (1) relating to any exclusion or waiting period in connection with the reinstatement of coverage under a health plan shall apply to such person's continued employment, upon the termination of such eligibility for medical and dental care under chapter 55 of title 10 [10 USCS §§ 1071 et seq.] that is incident to the cancellation of such order, in the same manner as if the person had become reemployed upon such termination of eligibility.

§ 4318. Employee pension benefit plans

(a) (1) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), in the case of a right provided pursuant to an employee pension benefit plan (including those described in sections 3(2) and 3(33) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1002(2), (33)]) or a right provided under any Federal or State law governing pension benefits for governmental employees, the right to pension benefits of a person reemployed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall be determined under this section.

(B) In the case of benefits under the Thrift Savings Plan, the rights of a person reemployed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall be those rights provided in section 8432b of title 5 [5 USCS § 8432b]. The first sentence of this subparagraph shall not be construed to affect any other right or benefit under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].

(2) (A) A person reemployed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall be treated as not having incurred a break in service with the employer or employers maintaining the plan by reason of such person's period or periods of service in the uniformed services.

(B) Each period served by a person in the uniformed services shall, upon reemployment under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], be deemed to constitute service with the employer or employers maintaining the plan for the purpose of determining the nonforfeitability of the person's accrued benefits and for the purpose of determining the accrual of benefits under the plan.

(b) (1) An employer reemploying a person under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall, with respect to a period of service described in subsection (a)(2)(B), be liable to an employee pension benefit plan for funding any obligation of the plan to provide the benefits described in subsection (a)(2) and shall allocate the amount of any employer contribution for the person in the same manner and to the same extent the allocation occurs for other employees during the period of service. For purposes of determining the amount of such liability and any obligation of the plan, earnings and forfeitures shall not be included. For purposes of determining the amount of such liability and for purposes of section 515 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1145] or any similar Federal or State law governing pension benefits for governmental employees, service in the uniformed services that is deemed under subsection (a) to be service with the employer shall be deemed to be service with the employer under the terms of the plan or any applicable collective bargaining agreement. In the case of a multiemployer plan, as defined in section 3(37) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1002(37)], any liability of the plan described in this paragraph shall be allocated--

(A) by the plan in such manner as the sponsor maintaining the plan shall provide;

or

(B) if the sponsor does not provide--

(i) to the last employer employing the person before the period served by the person in the uniformed services, or

(ii) if such last employer is no longer functional, to the plan.

(2) A person reemployed under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] shall be entitled to accrued benefits pursuant to subsection (a) that are contingent on the making of, or derived from, employee contributions or elective deferrals (as defined in section 402(g)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 [26 USCS § 402(g)(3)]) only to the extent the person makes payment to the plan with respect to such contributions or deferrals. No such payment may exceed the amount the person would have been permitted or required to contribute had the person remained continuously employed by the employer throughout the period of service described in subsection (a)(2)(B). Any payment to the plan described in this paragraph shall be made during the period beginning with the date of reemployment and whose duration is three times the period of the person's service in the uniformed services, such payment period not to exceed five years.

(3) For purposes of computing an employer's liability under paragraph (1) or the employee's contributions under paragraph (2), the employee's compensation during the period of service described in subsection (a)(2)(B) shall be computed-

(A) at the rate the employee would have received but for the period of service described in subsection (a)(2)(B), or

(B) in the case that the determination of such rate is not reasonably certain, on the basis of the employee's average rate of compensation during the 12-month period immediately preceding such period (or, if shorter, the period of employment immediately preceding such period).

(c) Any employer who reemploys a person under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] and who is an employer contributing to a multiemployer plan, as defined in section 3(37) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [29 USCS § 1002(37)], under which benefits are or may be payable to such person by reason of the obligations set forth in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.], shall, within 30 days after the date of such reemployment, provide information, in writing, of such reemployment to the administrator of such plan.

2. Credit for time in military service

Veteran was entitled to continuous service credit for entire length of his military service for purposes of determining whether his pension vested where pension agreement between employer and union required employee to accumulate 10 years continuous service before pension vests; but for purposes of computing amount of his pension, veteran was entitled to continuous service credit only for portion of military service which coincided with open hostilities during Korean War. Veteran was entitled to credit all time spent in military service toward vesting of rights in pension plan and in computation of pension payments under plan where, under employer's policy, each employee ordinarily received one year of credited service for each calendar year in which he worked 1700 or more compensated hours, where employee working less than 1700 compensated hours for calendar year would receive pro rata credit to nearest tenth of year and where vesting under plan occurred after 10 years; true nature of pension payment was reward for length of service rather than compensation for services performed and existence of "compensated hours" work requirement did not change essential nature of pension benefits. Beckley v Lipe-Rollway Corp. (1978, ND NY) 448 F Supp 563, 98 BNA LRRM 2087, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10547

Before veteran was entitled under statute to have his period of military service included in his credited employment service for pension benefits, where he did not join plan until after returning from military service, he must show that benefit of membership would have accrued with "reasonable certainty" had he been continuously employed rather than entering service, i.e., that he would have elected to join pension plan at earlier date, but for absence due to military service; allegation that veteran joined plan at first available time after returning from military service was sufficient to state claim that but for military service he would have joined at earlier date and employer could not defeat claim by relying on veteran's lack of pre-service interest in plan. Letson v Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (1981, ND Ga) 523 F Supp 1221, 2 EBC 1970, 108 BNA LRRM 3067, 92 CCH LC ¶ 12994, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 746

City could not deny employee reservist's right to full retirement in 1990 after 15 years on police force, where city claimed part of employee's 13-month military training leave in 1985-86 was not protected under statute so that he would not qualify for full retirement as having last 5 years of continuous employment, because statute provides reservist shall return from leave "with

§ 4319. Employment and reemployment rights in foreign countries

(a) Liability of controlling United States employer of foreign entity. If an employer controls an entity that is incorporated or otherwise organized in a foreign country, any denial of employment, reemployment, or benefit by such entity shall be presumed to be by such employer.

(b) Inapplicability to foreign employer. This subchapter [38 USCS §§ 4311 et seq.] does not apply to foreign operations of an employer that is a foreign person not controlled by an United States employer.

(c) Determination of controlling employer. For the purpose of this section, the determination of whether an employer controls an entity shall be based upon the interrelations of operations, common management, centralized control of labor relations, and common ownership or financial control of the employer and the entity.

(d) Exemption. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 4311 et seq.], an employer, or an entity controlled by an employer, shall be exempt from compliance with any of sections 4311 through 4318 of this title [38 USCS §§ 4311 through 4318] with respect to an employee in a workplace in a foreign country, if compliance with that section would cause such employer, or such entity controlled by an employer, to violate the law of the foreign country in which the workplace is located.

(i) Inapplicability of State statute of limitations. No State statute of limitations shall apply to any proceeding under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].
(j) Definition. In this section, the term "private employer" includes a political subdivision of a State.

Explanatory notes:

A prior § 4323 was redesignated 38 USCS § 7623.

Amendments:

1996. Act Oct. 9, 1996 (effective 10/13/94, as provided by § 313(a) of such Act, which appears as 38 USCS § 4301 note), in subsec. (a), in para. (1), deleted "of an unsuccessful effort to resolve a complaint" following "4322(e)", and, in para. (2)(A), substituted "under section 4322(a)" for "regarding the complaint under section 4322(c)".

1998. Act Nov. 11, 1998 (applicable as provided by § 211(b) of such Act, which appears as a note to this section) substituted this section for one which read:

"§ 4323. Enforcement of rights with respect to a State or private employer

"(a)(1) A person who receives from the Secretary a notification pursuant to section 4322(e) relating to a State (as an employer) or a private employer may request that the Secretary refer the complaint to the Attorney General. If the Attorney General is reasonably satisfied that the person on whose behalf the complaint is referred is entitled to the rights or benefits sought, the Attorney General may appear on behalf of, and act as attorney for, the person on whose behalf the complaint is submitted and commence an action for appropriate relief for such person in an appropriate United States district court.

"(2) A person may commence an action for relief with respect to a complaint if that person-

"(A) has chosen not to apply to the Secretary for assistance under section 4322(a);

"(B) has chosen not to request that the Secretary refer the complaint to the Attorney General under paragraph (1); or

"(C) has been refused representation by the Attorney General with respect to the complaint under such paragraph.

"(b) In the case of an action against a State as an employer, the appropriate district court is the court for any district in which the State exercises any authority or carries out any function. In the case of a private employer the appropriate district court is the district court for any district in which the private employer of the person maintains a place of business.

"(c)(1)(A) The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction, upon the filing of a complaint, motion, petition, or other appropriate pleading by or on behalf of the person claiming a right or benefit under this chapter--

"(i) to require the employer to comply with the provisions of this chapter;

"(ii) to require the employer to compensate the person for any loss of wages or benefits suffered by reason of such employer's failure to comply with the provisions of this chapter; and

"(iii) to require the employer to pay the person an amount equal to the amount referred to in clause (ii) as liquidated damages, if the court determines that the employer's failure to comply with the provisions of this chapter was willful.

"(B) Any compensation under clauses (ii) and (iii) of subparagraph (A) shall be in addition to, and shall not diminish, any of the other rights and benefits provided for in this chapter.
"(2)(A) No fees or court costs shall be charged or taxed against any person claiming rights under this chapter.

"(B) In any action or proceeding to enforce a provision of this chapter by a person under subsection (a)(2) who obtained private counsel for such action or proceeding, the court may award any such person who prevails in such action or proceeding reasonable attorney fees, expert witness fees, and other litigation expenses.

"(3) The court may use its full equity powers, including temporary or permanent injunctions, temporary restraining orders, and contempt orders, to vindicate fully the rights or benefits of persons under this chapter.

"(4) An action under this chapter may be initiated only by a person claiming rights or benefits under this chapter, not by an employer, prospective employer, or other entity with obligations under this chapter.

"(5) In any such action, only an employer or a potential employer, as the case may be, shall be a necessary party respondent.

"(6) No State statute of limitations shall apply to any proceeding under this chapter.

"(7) A State shall be subject to the same remedies, including prejudgment interest, as may be imposed upon any private employer under this section."

Other provisions:

Application of section. Act Nov. 11, 1998, P. L. 105-368, Title II, Subtitle B, § 211(b), 112 Stat. 3330, provides:

"(1) Section 4323 of title 38, United States Code, as amended by subsection (a), shall apply to actions commenced under chapter 43 of such title [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] on or after the date of the enactment of this Act, and shall apply to actions commenced under such chapter before the date of the enactment of this Act that are not final on the date of the enactment of this Act, without regard to when the cause of action accrued.

"(2) In the case of any such action against a State (as an employer) in which a person, on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act, is represented by the Attorney General under section 4323(a)(1) of such title as in effect on such day, the court shall upon motion of the Attorney General, substitute the United States as the plaintiff in the action pursuant to such section as amended by subsection (a)."

I. IN GENERAL

1. Generally

   One who brings an action to enforce a veteran's re-employment right under predecessor to statute sues not simply as employee under collective bargaining agreement but as veteran asserting special rights bestowed upon him in furtherance of federal policy to protect those who have served in Armed Forces. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

   Under re-employment provision discharged soldier who is refused re-employment by his former employer can maintain action in federal district court to recover compensation he would have earned if he had been re-employed in accordance with law when first making application therefor. Hall v Union Light, Heat & Power Co. (1944, DC Ky) 53 F Supp 817, 14 BNA LRRM 563, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62858

Congress did not intend 38 USCS § 2021(b)(3) to require mandatory reinstatement. Graham v Hall-McMillen Co. (1996, ND Miss) 925 F Supp 437, 152 BNA LRRM 2408, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11575

Re-employment provisions are not applicable to suits for damages. Tsang v Kan (1947) 78 Cal App 2d 275, 177 P2d 630, 20 BNA LRRM 2348

2. Application to states and subdivisions

Polygraph examiner's failure-to-promote claim against state police department must fail, even though rights secured by Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.) are expressly made enforceable against state as employer in appropriate U.S. District Court by § 4323, where USERRA was not enacted pursuant to Fourteenth Amendment but pursuant to War Powers Clause, because Supreme Court has now made it clear that Congress has authority to abrogate states' Eleventh Amendment immunity only when it legislates pursuant to § 5 of Fourteenth Amendment. Palmatier v Michigan Dep't of State Police (1997, WD Mich) 981 F Supp 529, 156 BNA LRRM 2765, 134 CCH LC ¶ 10021

Eleventh Amendment bars state employee from suing state in federal court for violating USERRA (38 USCS §§ 4311 et seq.) Velasquez v Frapwell (1998, SD Ind) 994 F Supp 993, 157 BNA LRRM 2690, affd (1998, CA7 Ind) 160 F.3d 389, 159 BNA LRRM 2782, 74 CCH EPD ¶ 45585, vacated, in part (1999, CA7 Ind) 165 F.3d 593, 160 BNA LRRM 2319

Eleventh Amendment bars former employee's claim that state university violated Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4311 et seq.) by terminating his employment based upon his service in National Guard, where university is state entity and Indiana has not waived its immunity from suit in federal court, even though Congress clearly intended to abrogate states' sovereign immunity in 38 USCS § 4323(b), because Congress (1) did not act pursuant to its enforcement powers under § 5 of Fourteenth Amendment, and (2) may not abrogate states' sovereign immunity when exercising its Article I powers, including its war powers. Velasquez v Frapwell (1998, SD Ind) 994 F Supp 993, 157 BNA LRRM 2690, affd (1998, CA7 Ind) 160 F.3d 389, 159 BNA LRRM 2782, 74 CCH EPD ¶ 45585, vacated, in part (1999, CA7 Ind) 165 F.3d 593, 160 BNA LRRM 2319

does supersede otherwise valid and enforceable arbitration agreements that impose arbitration as prerequisite for obtaining substantive relief for claims brought under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA). 38 USCS §§ 4301-4334; because Congress does not provide for arbitration as means to obtain rights granted in USERRA, 38 USCS § 4302(b) requires that arbitration agreement, which requires plaintiff to seek relief in arbitral forum, be superseded because such agreement improperly imposes additional prerequisite to exercise of plaintiff's rights under USERRA. Lopez v Dillard's, Inc. (2005, DC Kan)

6. Election

Right of veteran to sue in United States district court, free of costs and with United States attorney as his counsel, does not deprive him of right to sue in state courts, but he cannot sue in federal court after identical issues between same parties have been adjudicated against him in state court. Tsang v Kan (1949, CA9 Cal) 173 F.2d 204, 23 BNA LRRM 2394, 16 CCH LC ¶
64979, cert den (1949) 337 US 939, 93 L Ed 1744, 69 S Ct 1515, 24 BNA LRRM 2189

7. Exhaustion of administrative remedies

Before bringing suit under predecessor to statute to enforce his claim to re-employment rights as a veteran, a railroad employee was not obliged to pursue remedies possibly available under the grievance procedure set forth in the applicable collective bargaining agreement or before the National Railway Adjustment Board. McKinney v Missouri K. T. R. Co. (1958) 357 US 265, 2
L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

It was not mandatory that veteran proceed under settlement machinery provided, but if veteran so chose he could proceed by petition or he could proceed by motion, petition, or other appropriate pleading specifically to require an employer to comply with statute; where veteran sought assistance in obtaining reinstatement to employment, every possible effort to effect settlement of his claim should be exhausted before resort to court action was had. Kay v General Cable Corp. (1946, DC NJ) 63 F Supp 791, 17 BNA LRRM 768, 10 CCH LC ¶ 62989

8. Declaratory relief

Declaratory judgment was not warranted where complaint did not allege that plaintiff was threatened with loss of employment as result of denial of seniority which he claimed or that other employees wrongfully asserted seniority superior to his or claim right to employment which belonged to him. Johnson v Interstate Transit Lines (1947, CA10 Utah) 163 F.2d 125, 20 BNA LRRM 2483, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63960, 172 ALR 1242

Since re-employment benefits are reserved exclusively to returned veterans, action for declaratory judgment regarding seniority status of returned servicemen employees of corporation, brought by corporation against union representing employees of such corporation, must be dismissed, since court had no jurisdiction over subject matter of action. Trailmobile Co. v International Union, etc. (1946, DC Ohio) 67 F Supp 53, 18 BNA LRRM 2166, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63251, affd (1947, CA6 Ohio) 162 F.2d 720, 20 BNA LRRM 2677, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64080

9. Injunctive relief

Injunction compelling reinstatement for 10 months was not excessive as statutory provision that veteran shall not be discharged without cause within one year after restoration creates period which runs from date of order and not from date of veteran's military discharge or application for reinstatement. O'Mara v Petersen Sand & Gravel Co. (1974, CA7 Ill) 498 F.2d 896, 86 BNA LRRM 2702, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10107

Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act and False Claims Act both required employee to show irreparable harm to obtain preliminary injunctive relief; employee's claim that termination would have resulted in deterioration of his skills as physician was not irreparable harm and, likewise, lost income, damaged reputation, and inability to find another job was not irreparable harm were not irreparable harms. Bedrossian v Northwestern Mem. Hosp. (2005, CA7 Ill) 409 F.3d 840, 177 BNA LRRM 2471, 151 CCH LC ¶ 10491

Court may enjoin union from interfering with seniority status of veteran. Riggle v Cincinnati Union Terminal (1947, DC Ohio) 71 F Supp 456, 19 BNA LRRM 2579, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63681

B. Damages

1. In General

10. Right to recovery of damages, generally

Veteran does not necessarily lose all his rights merely because in applying for re-employment he couples such application with demand for something he erroneously believes to be his due; if employer then makes him offer of re-employment which is in full compliance with employer's obligation, and veteran rejects offer, this forecloses any claim for interim damages for so long as veteran stands on such rejection. Trusted Funds, Inc. v Dacey (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 413, 19 BNA LRRM 2465, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63639

Veteran was not entitled to compensation where plaintiff, bus driver, was offered position at top of "extra list" pending next quarterly pick of runs, which he refused, where such position was similar to his prewar job and where he did not allege or prove that he availed himself of privileges extended to him under union contract or that such contract was less favorable to him than practice in force when he entered military service. Feore v North Shore Bus Co. (1947, CA2 NY) 161 F.2d 552, 20 BNA LRRM 2132, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63760

Veteran could not recover for loss of wages where employee was inducted in Navy October 9, 1943, on June 19, 1944, new labor contract was negotiated by employer and union, which modified seniority provisions giving certain union officials higher seniority than anyone else; on discharge from service, veteran was re-employed in his former position on December 18, 1945;
on January 18, 1946, section steward, junior in service to veteran, but senior under contract, was laid off; veteran was laid off March 1, 1946; and section steward was restored to his job after arbitration under contract. Gauweiler v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1947, CA3 NJ) 162 F.2d 448, 20 BNA LRRM 2140, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63783; Koury v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. Veteran was not entitled to damages where he was restored to former job at higher salary even though bonus was less than before entering service due to changed conditions in plant. Donner v Levine (1956, CA2 Conn) 232 F.2d 185, 37 BNA LRRM 2808, 30 CCH LC ¶ 69880

Employer did not violate Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act of 1974 (VRRA) when it failed to immediately rehire employee, who had returned to work following his discharge from military service, had been placed on disability due to complications from Agent Orange exposure, and had subsequently been medically cleared to return to work: (1) employer met its obligations under VRRA when it rehired employee following his military discharge; (2) employer's VRRA obligations did not extend to employee's return to work following his subsequent disability leave; and (3) employer could not be held liable under former 38 USCS § 2022 for allegedly failing to properly credit employee's pension, because no VRRA violation had occurred. Bowlds v GM Mfg. Div. of GMC (2005, CA7 Ind) 411 F.3d 808, 177 BNA LRRM 2529

Damages will not be awarded where there is no showing that veteran actually suffered monetary loss by not having been re-employed, since damages are not held to follow as matter of course upon employer's failure or refusal to re-employ veteran. Williams v Walnut Park Plaza, Inc. (1946, DC Pa) 68 F Supp 957, 18 BNA LRRM 2380, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63356

Returned veteran was not entitled to re-employment or compensation for refusal to re-employ when position held prior to induction was temporary job. The Trillora II (1947, DC SC) 76 F Supp 50

Veteran was entitled to no compensation where veteran's services were not satisfactory to employer and where services of veteran were terminated by mutual agreement between employer and veteran. Braschler v S. H. Kress, Inc. (1948, WD Wash) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64738

If, following discharge, veteran earned and received wages or other compensation in excess of amount he would have received from employer who was alleged to have wrongfully refused employment, veteran sustained no damage. United States v Mayo (1964, SD NY) 230 F Supp 85

Award of damages was proper remedy under predecessor to statute where school district, state subdivision, failed to employ qualified teacher who returned from military service. Schaller v Board of Education (1978, ND Ohio) 449 F Supp 30, 98 BNA LRRM 2320, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10558

Individual who was denied pension benefits in violation of predecessor to statute requiring re-employment at like seniority, status, and pay of person who has left "other than temporary" position to serve in Armed Forces was entitled to damages notwithstanding contention that, since he worked 4 more years after his initial request for pension was denied and earned substantially more during such period than he would have received if retired, he sustained no compensable economic loss. Akers v Arnett (1983, SD Tex) 597 F Supp 557, 115 BNA LRRM 2893, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10677, affd (1984, CA5 Tex) 748 F.2d 283, 118 BNA LRRM 3034

Employee was not entitled to liquidated damages under 38 USCS § 4323(d)(1)(C) because his employer did not willfully violate Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA) in reemploying and subsequently terminating him; although employer's actions constituted violations of USERRA's provisions, they were based on exercise of business judgment in response to financial hardship that did not warrant finding of willful conduct. Duarte v Agilent Techs., Inc. (2005, DC Colo) 366 F Supp 2d 1039, 176 BNA LRRM 3226, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10467
There is little authority interpreting Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994’s liquidated damages provision, but other federal statutes, most notably Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), contain similar provisions and corresponding case law is helpful on this issue; term "willful" under ADEA has been construed as meaning that employer engaged in conduct known to be prohibited or engaged in conduct with reckless disregard of its prohibition. Duarte v Agilent Techs., Inc. (2005, DC Colo) 366 F Supp 2d 1039, 176 BNA LRRM 3226, 150 CCH LC ¶ 10467

11. -Incidental damages

In action under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) to compel reinstatement to pre-military service position, veteran was not precluded from compensatory damages for period of employer's refusal to rehire him, for lost overtime, and for loss due to change of employment, by subsequently having accepted, after intercession of Department of Labor, another job with employer at same salary. O'Mara v Petersen Sand & Gravel Co. (1974, CA7 Ill) 498 F.2d 896, 86 BNA LRRM 2702, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10107

Court can grant incidental damages in suit by veteran for reinstatement to old employment. Steffen v Farmers Elevator Service Co. (1952, DC Iowa) 109 F Supp 16, 31 BNA LRRM 2228, 22 CCH LC ¶ 67313

In action by veteran by former employer for wrongful termination, court's power to award compensation is limited to any loss of wages or benefits resulting from wrongful termination and court has no power to award damages for mental anguish, loss of reputation, loss of credit and for being forced into bankruptcy. Randall v Giant Food Markets, Inc. (1974, ED Tenn) 390 F Supp 1064, 89 BNA LRRM 2580, 77 CCH LC ¶ 10987

12. -Interest

Although as general rule, assessment of prejudgment interest is discretionary, trial court does not have unbridled discretion to deny such award; employer's good faith attempt to comply with former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act is not defense to assessment of prejudgment interest and where it is clear veteran was deprived of re-employment rights created by Congress, it is abuse of discretion to deny veteran prejudgment interest. Hembree v Georgia Power Co. (1981, CA5 Ga) 637 F.2d 423, 106 BNA LRRM 2535, 90 CCH LC ¶ 12579

Trial judge abused discretion by denying prejudgment interest in action under former 38 USCS §§ 2021 et seq. without considering policy of making whole returning veteran. Hanna v American Motors Corp. (1984, CA7 Wis) 724 F.2d 1300, 115 BNA LRRM 2393, 33 CCH EPD ¶ 34055, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10681, amd on other grounds (1984, CA7 Wis) 115 BNA LRRM 2543 and cert den (1984) 467 US 1241, 82 L Ed 2d 821, 104 S Ct 3512, 116 BNA LRRM 2632, 34 CCH EPD ¶ 34425

States found to have violated former Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act and held liable for backpay and other damages may also be charged with prejudgment interest on award consistent with Eleventh Amendment. Brown v Consolidated Rail Corp. (1985, ND Ohio) 614 F Supp 289

In determining amount of prejudgment interest to be awarded to plaintiffs who were held to have been entitled to monthly displacement allowances, state law interest rate governed, and state law also controlled question whether judgment entered before date of statutory rate increase should earn interest at new rate from effective date of statute. Veteran denied reemployment as assistant manager at fast food restaurant could not recover punitive damages, where employer failing to reemploy veteran was required to "compensate such person for any loss of wages or benefits suffered by reason of such employer's unlawful action" under former 38 USCS § 4302, because statutory language facially suggested that punitive damages were not warranted, and case law indirectly supported that proposition. Wallace v Hardee's of Oxford (1994, MD Ala) 860 F Supp 806

Puerto Rico Air National Guard member's $2 million punitive damages claim is unwarranted, even if he could prove that his termination from civilian job was due to discrimination on basis of his military status, because only remedies authorized by 38 USCS § 4323 are reinstatement and lost wages and benefits. Municipal employer which wrongfully failed to rehire veteran pursuant to statute failed to show that veteran did not mitigate damages by exercising reasonable diligence in seeking comparable work where employer could only introduce copies of 7 want ads for work available during period of veteran's unemployment, none of which was comparable to position wrongfully denied, and veteran showed that he checked want ads, applied at Job Services Office and took two public employment examinations. Thomas v Juneau (1986, DC Alaska) 638 F Supp 303, 122 BNA LRRM 3160, 104 CCH LC ¶ 11924

Burden is on defendant to prove plaintiff's failure to mitigate damages. Graham v Hall-McMillen Co. (1996, ND Miss) 925 F Supp 437, 152 BNA LRRM 2408, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11575

21. Credits against damages, generally
In fixing amount of damages for discharge without cause, credit must be given for amounts earned during year and for approximate amount representing unemployment compensation received by veteran. Mannato v Dutch Sales Co. (1948, DC NJ) 14 CCH LC ¶ 64418

Damages will be mitigated by employee's other earned income during layoff periods and unemployment compensation payments. Chernoff v Pandick Press, Inc. (1977, SD NY) 440 F Supp 822, 96 BNA LRRM 3078, 82 CCH LC ¶ 10196 (criticized in Fink v City of New York (2001, ED NY) 129 F Supp 2d 511, 166 BNA LRRM 2923, 80 CCH EPD ¶ 40592)

22. -Actual earnings

Since it is intent of Congress only to make returning veterans whole, not redress public injury, district court's discretionary authority to award damages includes authority to reduce amount of damages claimed where veteran has received earnings from other employment. Boston & M. R. R. v Bentubo (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 326, 19 BNA LRRM 2435, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63631

Award of damages for wrongful refusal to reemploy veteran, in amount of $6500, would be reduced by $3000, amount veteran might have earned with reasonable effort in period in question. John S. Doane Co. v Martin (1947, CA1 Mass) 164 F.2d 537, 20 BNA LRRM 2445, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63917

Employer is entitled to credit for earnings made by petitioner from date suit is commenced to date of reinstatement. Dacey v Bethlehem Steel Co. (1946, DC Mass) 66 F Supp 161, 18 BNA LRRM 2060, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63177

Court, in awarding damages less mitigation, would deduct regular daytime earnings from wages but would not also subtract nighttime earnings where veteran, denied re-employment rights, worked for another employer for regular 40-hour week during day and also worked 9 hours part-time at night for still another employer. MacKnight v Twin Cities Broadcasting Corp. (1947, DC Minn) 13 CCH LC ¶ 64067

In absence of any provision for subrogation and in absence of any obligation for veteran to repay government, payment of unemployment allowances must be construed as gratuity from third party in no way effecting employer's liability and employer is not entitled to credit for sum of amount paid to veteran under Unemployment Readjustment Allowance Act. Allyn v Abad (1948, DC NJ) 81 F Supp 140, 23 BNA LRRM 2117, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64976

23. -Readjustment allowance

Since readjustment allowance of veteran does not constitute earnings in other employment, employer is not entitled to credit such sum against loss of wages caused by its unlawful actions. Troy v Mohawk Shop, Inc. (1946, DC Pa) 67 F Supp 721, 18 BNA LRRM 2297, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63306

Readjustment allowance paid to returning veteran by United States does not constitute earnings in another employment and employer is not entitled to have payments made under such allowance credited against loss of wages caused by its unlawful actions. Hoyer v United Dressed Beef Co. (1946, DC Cal) 67 F Supp 730, 18 BNA LRRM 2180, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63271

24. -Subsistence allowance

Employer was not entitled to credit against damages awarded to veteran for improper denial of re-employment for money paid to veteran by United States for subsistence allowance while veteran was attending trade school where veteran had no other earnings during period covered by damages. Noble v International Nickel Co. (1948, DC W Va) 77 F Supp 352, 22 BNA LRRM 2066, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64552

25. -Unemployment compensation

In fixing amount of damages for discharge without cause, credit must be given for amounts earned during year and for approximate amount representing unemployment compensation received by veteran. Mannato v Dutch Sales Co. (1948, DC NJ) 14 CCH LC ¶ 64418
Damages will be mitigated by employee's other earned income during layoff periods and unemployment compensation payments. Chernoff v Pandick Press, Inc. (1977, SD NY) 440 F Supp 822, 96 BNA LRRM 3078, 82 CCH LC ¶ 10196 (criticized in Fink v City of New York (2001, ED NY) 129 F Supp 2d 511, 166 BNA LRRM 2923, 80 CCH EPD ¶ 40592)

III. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

A. In General

26. Generally

Employer is estopped from denying veteran's compliance with statutory requirements where employer's answer duly admits application for re-employment within prescribed time and defendant's refusal to re-employ. United States ex rel. Stanley v Wimbish (1946, CA4 NC) 154 F.2d 773, 17 BNA LRRM 972, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63099

Right of veteran to award of damages is not matter of law and right but rests solely within discretion of trial court where veteran is refused reemployment. Levine v Berman (1949, CA7 Ill) 178 F.2d 440, 25 BNA LRRM 2210, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65534, cert den (1950) 339 US 982, 94 L Ed 1386, 70 S Ct 1024, 26 BNA LRRM 2261

District court abused its discretion in denying, without hearing, motion by veteran under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) for damages resulting from lost wages due to employer's unlawful action in refusing reinstatement to pre-military service position. O'Mara v Petersen Sand & Gravel Co. (1974, CA7 Ill) 498 F.2d 896, 86 BNA LRRM 2702, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10107

27. Right to trial by jury

Use of jury in cause of action for reinstatement to employment and compensation for lost wages under former Veterans Reemployment Rights Act was error. Troy v Hampton (1985, CA4 Va) 756 F.2d 1000, 118 BNA LRRM 2996, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11384, 1 FR Serv 3d 1470, cert den (1985) 474 US 864, 88 L Ed 2d 151, 106 S Ct 182, 120 BNA LRRM 2728, 103 CCH LC ¶ 11552

Veteran who returned to job as FBI clerk was entitled to jury trial on issue of whether his conduct in sleeping in same bedroom and in same bed with girlfriend, although not having sexual relations with her, was something that average FBI clerical employee should and did know violates "ordinarily expected standards of personal conduct" required of them, breach of which was cause for discharge. Carter v United States (1968, App DC) 132 US App DC 303, 407 F.2d 1238, 9 ALR Fed 205

Proceeding in which veteran asked for order directing re-employment in same position or equivalent in which he was employed prior to enlistment in Army was not suit at common law within Seventh Amendment which limits right of trial by jury to "suits at common law" and veteran was therefore not entitled to trial by jury. Streititz v Surrey Classics, Inc. (1946, DC NY) 7 FRD 101

Although veteran is not entitled to jury trial with regard to issue of reinstatement, he is nevertheless entitled to have jury decide questions relating strictly to legal issues, such as specific issue of compensation. Murray v Henry Rosenfeld, Inc. (1946, SD NY) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63119

Action brought under re-employment provisions of Selective Service Act of 1940 raised issues and defenses which were equitable in nature and therefore not triable to jury. Conrocode v Ohio Bell Tel. Co. (1951, DC Ohio) 11 FRD 303

Veteran who sought declaration as to right to re-employment under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) and for damages for refusal of re-employment was entitled to trial by jury. Steffen v Farmers Elevator Service Co. (1952, DC Iowa) 109 F Supp 16, 31 BNA LRRM 2228, 22 CCH LC ¶ 67313

Suit brought pursuant to predecessor to statute for back wages allegedly due was to be determined by court without intervention of jury. Mowdy v Ada, Bd. of Education (1977, ED Okla) 76 FRD 436, 96 BNA LRRM 2905, 82 CCH LC ¶ 10181, 24 FR Serv 2d 717
Suit brought under predecessor to statute by veteran for restoration of lost seniority status and back pay was suit for equitable remedy of restitution and for equitable claim of reinstatement, and was triable by court and not by jury. Cox v Kansas City (1977, WD Mo) 76 FRD 459, 96 BNA LRRM 3297, 82 CCH LC ¶ 10197, 24 FR Serv 2d 920

There is no right to jury trial under statute. Pomon v General Dynamics Corp. (1983, DC RI) 574 F Supp 147, 115 BNA LRRM 2494, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11306

28. Application of res judicata and collateral estoppel

Right of veteran to sue in United States district court, free of costs and with United States attorney as his counsel, did not deprive him of right to sue in state courts, but he could not sue in federal court after identical issues between same parties had been adjudicated against him in state court. Tsang v Kan (1949, CA9 Cal) 173 F.2d 204, 23 BNA LRRM 2394, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64979, cert den (1949) 337 US 939, 93 L Ed 1744, 69 S Ct 1515, 24 BNA LRRM 2189

Declaratory judgment in action brought by parent corporation to determine seniority rights of veterans over nonveterans of subsidiary corporation was res judicata to action by veteran employees to determine their seniority, but it was not res judicata for alleged illegal discharges by parent corporation. Britt v Trailmobile Co. (1950, CA6 Ohio) 179 F.2d 569, 25 BNA LRRM 2314, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65541, 29 ALR2d 1272, cert den (1950) 340 US 820, 95 L Ed 603, 71 S Ct 52

Reservist was collaterally estopped from bringing action against employer who terminated him when he was called to active duty under statute where (1) state administrative body decided identical issues and reservist had full and fair opportunity to participate, even though decision was not reviewable, because nothing in text or legislative history of statute warrants conclusion that such decisions should not be given preclusive effect. Romano v Thunder Projects, Inc. (1988, ND NY) 696 F Supp 831, 130 BNA LRRM 2786, 113 CCH LC ¶ 11671

29. Costs and fees

Even though judgment went against veteran in his action to obtain re-employment as guaranteed by costs, costs were not be awarded against him. Salzman v London Coat of Boston, Inc. (1946, CA1 Mass) 156 F.2d 538, 18 BNA LRRM 2252, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63277, cert den (1946) 329 US 806, 91 L Ed 688, 67 S Ct 501, 19 BNA LRRM 2177

Court did not err in assessing costs against employer though court decided in favor of employer on question of damages, since action for damages was predicated on employer's wrongful refusal to reinstate veteran. Levine v Berman (1949, CA7 Ill) 178 F.2d 440, 25 BNA LRRM 2210, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65534, cert den (1950) 339 US 982, 94 L Ed 1386, 70 S Ct 1024, 26 BNA LRRM 2261

Veteran who unsuccessfully sought reinstatement to job was not entitled to attorney fees. Wimberly v Mission Broadcasting Co. (1975, CA10 Colo) 523 F.2d 1260, 90 BNA LRRM 3037, 77 CCH LC ¶ 11123

Rule 37(f) prohibits assessment of attorney's fees against United States as counsel for plaintiff pursuant to former § 2022 of Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment and Assistance Act for plaintiff's failure to timely respond to defendant's request for production; attorney's fees will not be assessed against plaintiff personally where United States was responsible for delay. Hembree v Georgia Power Co. (1978, ND Ga) 26 FR Serv 2d 843

Veteran was authorized to proceed without prepayment of costs on appeal in effort to receive Vietnam-era veterans' assistance under predecessor to statute, because no-taxation-of-costs provision of predecessor to statute was intended to apply to all court proceedings. Campbell v Roach (1990, DC Md) 741 F Supp 566

Job applicant's motion for full benefits of former 38 USCS § 4302's "no taxation of costs" provision is granted with clarification, where applicant seeks benefits equal to 28 USCS § 1915's "in forma pauperis" status and automatic shifting of all his litigation expenses to defendant employer and U.S., because court must clarify its present view that only persons who U.S. Attorney believes have meritorious claims are entitled to benefit, and its understanding that "fees and court costs" include only items enumerated in 28 USCS § 1920, of which applicant is relieved.
but with which no one is taxed until conclusion of litigation. Newport v Michelin Aircraft Tire Corp. (1994, WD Mo) 851 F Supp 1406, 148 BNA LRRM 2491

Employment discrimination plaintiff is entitled to generous attorney's fee award at hourly rates of $275 per partner, $225 per senior associate, and $150 per junior associate, even though prevailing rates are only $200-250, $200, and $100 respectively, where case involved novel and difficult issues arising under new federal statute, because slightly higher rates are warranted by circumstances but requested rates of $350, $250, and $200 are just too far outside range of prevailing rates. Fink v City of New York (2001, ED NY) 154 F Supp 2d 403

B. Jurisdiction

30. Federal courts, generally

Action against insular police commission to obtain reinstatement in former position as insular policeman could not be maintained in district court of Puerto Rico. Insular Police Com. v Lopez (1947, CA1 Puerto Rico) 160 F.2d 673, 19 BNA LRRM 2573, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63665, cert den (1947) 331 US 855, 91 L Ed 1863, 67 S Ct 1743, 24 BNA LRRM 2613

Federal district court did not have jurisdiction of action to enforce re-employment rights of reserve officer in armed forces of United States discharged while he was on training duty, as sole jurisdiction of such action was vested in State courts, under former subsec. (g) of 50 USCS Appx § 459. Christner v Poudre Valley Co-op. Asso. (1956, CA10 Colo) 235 F.2d 946, 38 BNA LRRM 2371, 30 CCH LC ¶ 70119

Congress's amendment of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act conferring jurisdiction only on state courts over suits against state employer prohibited federal court from assuming jurisdiction over such suit, and since Congress's intent to limit such suits was unmistakable jurisdiction did not survive under general federal question jurisdictional statute, 28 USCS § 1331. United States v Muhammad (1999, CA5 Tex) 165 F.3d 327 (criticized in In re Grand Jury Empaneling of the Special Grand Jury (1999, CA3 NJ) 171 F.3d 826) and cert den (1999) 526 US 1138, 143 L Ed 2d 1022, 119 S Ct 1795 and subsequent app (2003, CA9 Cal) 64 Fed Appx 629

Federal court for western district of Louisiana had jurisdiction of action brought by United States attorney for such district on behalf of residents of such district, veteran plaintiffs, to protect their rights thereunder relative to obtaining for them same seniority with brotherhood of railroad trainmen and Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. that they had at time that they went into armed forces of United States. Bryant v Brotherhood R. Trainmen (1947, DC La) 74 F Supp 510, 21 BNA LRRM 2061, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64143

Court had no power to exercise discretion in matter of jurisdiction and must deny employer's motion to have case removed from district court in district within which employer maintained business to district court in jurisdiction in which veteran resided. O'Connor v Yardley Golf Club (1947, DC Pa) 79 F Supp 264

Employer had no cause of action under statute and could not invoke federal jurisdiction thereunder to determine relative rights of employees under former Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act and under collective bargaining agreement. Minneapolis, N. & S. Railway v United Transp. Union (1980, DC Minn) 490 F Supp 335, 105 BNA LRRM 2525, 89 CCH LC ¶ 12198

Fact that Regional Rail Act (45 USCS § 777) addresses arbitration does not indicate intention to repeal or overlay rights and procedures contained in former § 2022. Brown v Consolidated Rail Corp. (1985, ND Ohio) 605 F Supp 629, 118 BNA LRRM 2894, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11437

31. -Amount of claim

Suit by employee arising out of wage increase while employee was in armed forces does not depend upon jurisdictional amount, since predecessor to statute contained its own jurisdictional requirements, and provided for no particular amount in controversy. Flynn v Ward Leonard Electric Co. (1949, DC NY) 84 F Supp 399, 24 BNA LRRM 2245
Predecessor to statute providing for reinstatement of reserve officers performing training duty does not give federal courts special jurisdiction and action for reinstatement cannot be maintained thereunder where less than jurisdictional amount is involved. Christner v Poudre Valley Co-operative Asso. (1955, DC Colo) 134 F Supp 115, 36 BNA LRRM 2688, 28 CCH LC ¶ 69447, affd (1956, CA10 Colo) 235 F.2d 946, 38 BNA LRRM 2371, 30 CCH LC ¶ 70119

32. -Subject matter of claim

Former employee who was discharged from service under other than honorable conditions was not entitled to re-employment rights under predecessor to statute and federal district court has jurisdiction to set aside award of railroad adjustment board, under 45 USCS § 153(p) ordering employer to return such former employee to service and pay retroactive compensation. Anglo Canadian Shipping Co. v United States (1956, CA9) 238 F.2d 18

District Court had subject matter jurisdiction under general federal question statute 28 USCS § 1331, to determine declaratory judgment brought under former 38 USCS § 2024 to determine whether employee's request for leave of absence from employment to seek training to qualify for future military promotions in military reserves. Gulf States Paper Corp. v Ingram (1987, CA11 Ala) 811 F.2d 1464, 124 BNA LRRM 2873, 106 CCH LC ¶ 12239

Court had jurisdiction to consider FBI agent's claim to accrued sick leave since claim to rightful promotion and accrued sick leave devolved from former 50 USCS Appx § 459, arose on account of same event, and shared basic facts. Carman v United States (1979) 221 Ct Cl 165, 602 F.2d 946

Since re-employment benefits were reserved exclusively to returned veterans, action for declaratory judgment regarding seniority status of returned servicemen employees of corporation, brought by corporation against union representing employees of such corporation, must be dismissed, since court had no jurisdiction over subject matter of action. Trailmobile Co. v International Union, etc. (1946, DC Ohio) 67 F Supp 53, 18 BNA LRRM 2166, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63251, affd (1947, CA6 Ohio) 162 F.2d 720, 20 BNA LRRM 2677, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64080

Court had jurisdiction over employee's discrimination claim brought under Uniform Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act, 38 USCS § 4311, because under 38 USCS § 4323(b)(3), employer was municipality, not state, and, thus, municipality was considered private employer. Harris v City of Montgomery (2004, MD Ala) 322 F Supp 2d 1319, 175 BNA LRRM 2070

Expiration of term of employment guaranteed by Selective Training and Service Act, at time of rendition of judgment in action by war veteran who had been laid off by his employer while non-veterans with higher seniority have been continued at work, for determination of his rights under Selective Training and Service Act, in which labor union, claiming that lay-off was warranted by its collective bargaining agreement with employer, was permitted to intervene, did not render moot issue thus raised, so as to require dismissal of union's appeal from judgment awarding to veteran compensation for lost pay. Fishgold v Sullivan Drydock & Repair Corp. (1946) 328 US 275, 90 L Ed 1230, 66 S Ct 1105, 18 BNA LRRM 2075, 11 CCH LC ¶ 51232, 167 ALR 110

Federal court did not have jurisdiction to hear case by non-veteran against veteran and his employer allegedly involving constitutionality of statute, since suit was not brought by veteran claiming any benefits under it and no other ground for federal court jurisdiction existed. Lindsey v Leewright (1948, CA5 Tex) 171 F.2d 542, 23 BNA LRRM 2155, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64896

District Court had jurisdiction over claim against multi-employer pension plan fund even though fund was not literally "employer" of returning veteran, since narrow reading of word "employer" as used in predecessor to statute was inconsistent with statute as whole. Imel v Laborers Pension Trust Fund (1990, CA9 Cal) 904 F.2d 1327, 12 EBC 1680, 134 BNA LRRM 2313, 115 CCH LC ¶ 10102, cert den (1990) 498 US 939, 112 L Ed 2d 308, 111 S Ct 343, 12 EBC 2784

Court of Claims has jurisdiction of action by federal employee, who had already been restored to his former position, to recover difference in salary which improper civil service classification caused him to lose. Kephart v United States (1948) 109 Ct Cl 654, 75 F Supp 1020

Court had jurisdiction over National Guard member's Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA), 38 USCS 4301-4334, claim against her former employee because, even though claim was subject to otherwise valid arbitration agreement, arbitration agreement was superseded by 38 USCS § 4323; USERRA did not provide for arbitration as means to obtaining relief under USERRA, and, therefore, mandatory arbitration could not be imposed upon member pursuant to 9 USCS § 2 because doing so would impose additional prerequisite on exercise of member's USERRA rights in violation of 38 USCS § 4323(b). Lopez v Dillard's, Inc. (2005, DC Kan) 382 F Supp 2d 1245

34. State courts

Right accorded veteran to sue for re-employment or for compensation in United States District Court does not deprive veteran of right to sue in state court. Tsang v Kan (1949, CA9 Cal) 173 F.2d 204, 23 BNA LRRM 2394, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64979, cert den (1949) 337 US 939, 93 L Ed 1744, 69 S Ct 1515, 24 BNA LRRM 2189

35. Miscellaneous

Board lacked jurisdiction of restoration action against state national guard since regulations regarding restoration define agency in such way as to exclude state organization such as state national guard. Kostan v Ariz. Nat'l Guard (1990, MSPB) 45 MSPR 173, remanded (1990, CA) 925 F.2d 1478

Board lacks jurisdiction over restoration appeals by state National Guard technicians since such employer is not "agency". Sanford v Conn. Nat'l Guard (1990, MSPB) 45 MSPR 576, remanded (1991, MSPB) 1991 MSPB LEXIS 302

C. Parties

36. Generally

United States could by amendment be stricken out as plaintiff where action was brought in name of United States for veteran, so that complaint would stand in name of real party in interest if proceeding should properly be in name of veteran. United States ex rel. Deavers v Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. (1949, CA5 Tex) 171 F.2d 961, 23 BNA LRRM 2250, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64918, cert den (1949) 337 US 958, 93 L Ed 1757, 69 S Ct 1533, 24 BNA LRRM 2227

Veteran was not barred from bringing action under predecessor to statute against anyone other than immediate employer, since "necessary party" language allowed veteran to chose to sue others, such as union or pension fund, while it deprived employer of right to bring in such other parties or to dismiss action. Bunnell v New England Teamsters & Trucking Industry Pension Fund (1980, DC Mass) 486 F Supp 714, 107 BNA LRRM 3164, 88 CCH LC ¶ 11988, affd (1981, CA1 Mass) 655 F.2d 451, 2 EBC 1654, 107 BNA LRRM 3286, 92 CCH LC ¶ 12933, cert den (1982) 455 US 908, 71 L Ed 2d 446, 102 S Ct 1253, 109 BNA LRRM 2304, 92 CCH LC ¶ 13200

Individual claiming that his employment with airline had been terminated in violation of Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, and that airline had violated Act by repurchasing his shares in airline for price he had paid rather than alleged market value, had standing to sue under Act notwithstanding that individual, who claimed that he had not resigned but had entered into military leave of absence when he returned to active duty with Air National Guard, was still on active duty and was not in position to demand reinstatement. Winders v People Express Airlines, Inc. (1984, DC NJ) 595 F Supp 1512, 5 EBC 2433, 117 BNA LRRM 3275, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11258, affd (1985, CA3 NJ) 770 F.2d 1078, 119 BNA LRRM 3071

In suit filed in behalf of student firemen against railroad for reinstatement, district court could grant permission to railroad to file counterclaim, and it could also allow intervention of interested parties.  Brotherhood of Locomotive F. & E. v United States (1950, CA5 Tex) 183 F.2d 65, 26 BNA LRRM 2292, 18 CCH LC ¶ 65847

38. Interpleader

In any action brought under former Veterans Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS § 2021 et seq.), only employer was necessary party, and employer's interpleader actions against employee and union, or employer's cross-claim against union, could be dismissed.  Stewart v United States Steel Corp. (1984, ND Ind) 594 F Supp 180, 117 BNA LRRM 2101, 101 CCH LC ¶ 11138

39. Joinder

In action to compel recognition of seniority due returned veteran who, when taken into military service, had position with company as fireman, court could dismiss complaint because veteran refused, after order so requiring, to join as defendants with employing company other firemen who would be affected by giving veteran seniority status which he claimed.  United States ex rel. Deavers v Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. (1949, CA5 Tex) 171 F.2d 961, 23 BNA LRRM 2250, 16 CCH LC ¶ 64918, cert den (1949) 337 US 958, 93 L Ed 1757, 69 S Ct 1533, 24 BNA LRRM 2227

A controversy of kind described in former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) was solely between the returned veteran and the former employer and no one else need be joined as a party litigant.  McKinney v Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. (1956, CA10 Okla) 240 F.2d 8, 39 BNA LRRM 2312, 31 CCH LC ¶ 70418, affd (1958) 357 US 265, 2 L Ed 2d 1305, 78 S Ct 1222, 42 BNA LRRM 2287, 35 CCH LC ¶ 71613

Federal court has jurisdiction of subject matter and parties to action by checkweighman at coal mine against local union and officers thereof to compel compliance with statute, although coal loaders and machine men who elected him, indispensable parties, were not joined as respondents, since judgment rendered in case, whether for petitioner or for respondents, would not affect rights of any person who was not party and nothing else was required to enable court to proceed with case and to adjudicate rights of parties who were before it.  Mouell v United Mine Workers (1948, DC W Va) 81 F Supp 151, 23 BNA LRRM 2001, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64845

In action under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) by veteran to compel his employer to advance his position on seniority work roster where employer moved to have joined as necessary parties those employees who would be affected by changing plaintiff's seniority status and labor union, defendant's motion was denied since issue to be decided was solely between plaintiff and his employer and to join others in controversy would serve only to encumber proceedings and to militate against speedy disposition of veteran's claim.  Evancho v United States Steel Corp. (1963, ED Pa) 32 FRD 227, 52 BNA LRRM 2384, 46 CCH LC ¶ 18049, 6 FR Serv 2d 377

Defendant employer, in action brought under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) by returning veteran of armed services seeking advancement on the seniority in his job unit, could not use Rule 19 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to compel the joinder, as defendants in the action, of the international union, the local union, and the other employees whose status would be affected if the plaintiff should prevail, and such result was prohibited in the instant case by virtue of the provisions of the statute.  Muir v United States Steel Corp. (1967, ED Pa) 41 FRD 428, 64 BNA LRRM 2435, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11742, 10 FR Serv 2d 500

Employer that refused to amend seniority date of reemployed veteran could not assert possible prejudice to third party employees who would be "bumped" down because of veteran's new seniority date to sustain its defense of laches as junior employees had no vested right to senior position which violated veteran's right under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h).  Muscianese v United States Steel Corp. (1973, ED Pa) 354 F Supp 1394, 82 BNA LRRM 2922, 70 CCH LC ¶ 13342

Complaint stated cause of action within purview of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure where plaintiff alleged that he had been employed by defendant employer, that such employment had been terminated by reason of his induction into Armed Forces, and that upon discharge from service he had made effort to be restored to same employment but was denied this right by defendant. Weinrib v American Binder Co. (1946, DC NY) 5 FRD 514; Loker v Allied Bldg. Credits, Inc. (1947, DC Mo) 7 FRD 358, 20 BNA LRRM 2234, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63859

Although examination of complaint for re-employment with seniority did not disclose clear and unequivocal statement of plaintiff's seniority rights, it was conceivable that, under allegations of his complaint, plaintiff could, upon trial, establish case which would entitle him to advance from position of hostler helper to that of machinist helper, motion to dismiss for insufficiency of statement must therefore be overruled. Dodson v St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co. (1948, DC Mo) 81 F Supp 356, 23 BNA LRRM 2326

41. Burden of proof of employee

Veteran had burden to prove that he left position to enter service and was not entitled to reinstatement where he failed in such burden where, on August 9, 1943, he was notified that he had been selected for training in armed services, was ordered to report to draft board for induction on September 3, at which time he was inducted into Army and was released from active duty until September 24, and where, during interim, he continued his work until September 7, at which time he was fired. McCarthy v M & M Transp. Co. (1947, CA1 Mass) 160 F.2d 322, 19 BNA LRRM 2327, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63613

In order to establish a violation of former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) veteran was required to show, in addition to knowledge, that there was purpose or motive to discriminate against him. Alvado v General Motors Corp. (1962, CA2 NY) 303 F.2d 718, 50 BNA LRRM 2292, 45 CCH LC ¶ 17642, cert den (1962) 371 US 925, 9 L Ed 2d 233, 83 S Ct 293, 51 BNA LRRM 2616, 46 CCH LC ¶ 17942, reh den (1963) 371 US 965, 9 L Ed 2d 513, 83 S Ct 540 and reh den (1963) 375 US 871, 11 L Ed 2d 101, 84 S Ct 27, 48 CCH LC ¶ 18528 and reh den (1964) 379 US 870, 13 L Ed 2d 76, 85 S Ct 12, 50 CCH LC ¶ 19259 and reh den (1966) 384 US 1028, 16 L Ed 2d 1047, 86 S Ct 1905, 53 CCH LC ¶ 11291 and reh den (1967) 387 US 915, 18 L Ed 2d 640, 87 S Ct 1682, 55 CCH LC ¶ 11919

Plaintiff in action brought under Vietnam Veterans Readjustment Act bears burden of proof throughout case: (1) plaintiff must first establish his prima facie case of intentional discrimination by offering evidence to raise inference that he was discharged or otherwise mistreated because he belonged to protected group, (2) once plaintiff has established prima facie case, burden of production shifts to defendant to articulate legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for employee's removal, and (3) plaintiff than has opportunity to demonstrate that defendant's articulated reason for terminating him is mere pretext for discrimination. Pignato v American Trans Air (1994, CA7 Ill) 14 F.3d 342, 145 BNA LRRM 2269, 127 CCH LC ¶ 11005, cert den (1994) 512 US 1205, 129 L Ed 2d 810, 114 S Ct 2675, 146 BNA LRRM 2640

Burden was on veteran to show that he has made demand for reinstatement within 90-day period following discharge. Cummings v Hubbell (1948, DC Pa) 76 F Supp 453, 22 BNA LRRM 2109, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64562

Veteran failed to establish loss by reason of discharge and failed to establish damages recoverable where, although veteran had been discharged without good cause, he was nevertheless self-employed during period following discharge by employer and drew income from that endeavor which was not less than that which he would have drawn from employment from which he was discharged. Watkins v Glenn (1950, WD Ky) 88 F Supp 70, 50-1 USTC ¶ 9196, 38 AFTR 1392

Burden of proof was upon veteran seeking reinstatement under statute to establish date from which seniority should be determined; and, in action for reinstatement, promotion, and seniority in promoted position, where veteran did not sustain burden of proof as to when seniority in promoted position would have occurred, date of seniority would be date of reinstatement. Thomas v Pacific Northwest Bell Tel. Co. (1977, DC Or) 434 F Supp 741, 94 BNA LRRM 3153, 81 CCH LC ¶ 13136
42. Burden of proof of employer

Employer failed to establish that there was no available position to which re-employed veteran was entitled at time he received separation notice where employer assigned "lack of work" as reason for dismissal and employer had burden of proving that there were no available positions to which veteran was entitled. Combustion Engineering Co. v Miller (1948, CA6 Tenn) 165 F.2d 372, 21 BNA LRRM 2224, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64224

Burden of proving defense that circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable for corporation to re-employ veteran is on corporate employer. Watkins Motor Lines, Inc. v De Galliford (1948, CA5 Ga) 167 F.2d 274, 22 BNA LRRM 2009, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64475

Trial court improperly concluded that employer met burden of proving affirmative defense of mitigation where evidence showed veteran made repeated and continuous effort to secure comparable work. Hanna v American Motors Corp. (1984, CA7 Wis) 724 F.2d 1300, 115 BNA LRRM 2393, 33 CCH EPD ¶ 34055, 99 CCH LC ¶ 10681, amd on other grounds (1984, CA7 Wis) 115 BNA LRRM 2543 and cert den (1984) 467 US 1241, 82 L Ed 2d 821, 104 S Ct 3512, 116 BNA LRRM 2632, 34 CCH EPD ¶ 34425

Burden of proving that discharge of veteran was for cause was on employer. Carter v United States (1968, App DC) 132 US App DC 303, 407 F.2d 1238, 9 ALR Fed 205

Burden must be placed upon employer to prove defense of discharge for cause by fair preponderance of evidence. O'Neill v American Stores Co. (1949, DC NJ) 17 CCH LC ¶ 65573

Burden is upon employer to prove that veteran is discharged with cause. Watkins v Glenn (1950, WD Ky) 88 F Supp 70, 50-1 USTC ¶ 9196, 38 AFTR 1392; Pylant v Life Ins. Co. (1948, ND Fla) 15 CCH LC ¶ 64841

In action brought by reservist alleging wrongful discharge within six months in violation of statute, burden of justifying discharge is on employer. Henry v Anderson County, Tennessee Office of Sheriff (1981, ED Tenn) 522 F Supp 1112, 108 BNA LRRM 2646, 92 CCH LC ¶ 13105

Once employee presents evidence that discharge from employment is due to his or her membership in the military, burden shifts to employer to prove that employee was discharged for good cause. Weber v Logan County Home for Aged (1985, DC ND) 623 F Supp 711, 120 BNA LRRM 2485, 103 CCH LC ¶ 11536, affd (1986, CA8 ND) 804 F.2d 1058, 123 BNA LRRM 3002

43. Presumptions

Great presumption or strong probability that veterans would have been promoted had they remained at work during period of military service did not entitle them to seniority in promoted position. Gregory v Louisville & N. R. Co. (1951, CA6 Ky) 191 F.2d 856, 29 BNA LRRM 2022, 20 CCH LC ¶ 66577, cert den (1952) 343 US 903, 96 L Ed 1323, 72 S Ct 634, 29 BNA LRRM 2606

Employer rebutted presumption that veteran was qualified for position he held at time he was inducted into armed services where returning serviceman had falsified medical records to conceal back condition which would have prevented his original employment and where his physical condition had further deteriorated. Greathouse v Babcock & Wilcox Co. (1974, ND Ohio) 381 F Supp 156, 86 BNA LRRM 3014, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10188

44. Evidence

Exclusion of evidence of defendant's drunkenness while at work was in error since it was relevant to issue of qualifications of employee. John S. Doane Co. v Martin (1947, CA1 Mass) 164 F.2d 537, 20 BNA LRRM 2445, 13 CCH LC ¶ 63917

Offer on part of employer to reinstate veteran who had been employed since release from service and subsequently discharged was not admission that discharge was not for cause. Saccavino v Churchward & Co. (1946, DC Conn) 11 CCH LC ¶ 63336

There was no further duty on part of employer to show intent on part of veteran to defraud employer as condition precedent to employer's discharging veteran for good cause where re-employed veteran was discharged on basis of direct proof that veteran's time cards had been tampered with coupled with strong circumstantial evidence that veteran was guilty party. Dunkerley v Wright Aeronautical Corp. (1946, DC NJ) 12 CCH LC ¶ 63597

In action under former 50 USCS Appx § 459(b)-(h) by veteran to restoration in employment of railroad, railroad could not introduce evidence relative to veteran's conduct while in military service; court cannot go behind certificate of discharge as no such authority was given under that section. Hall v Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (1964, ND Ill) 240 F Supp 797, 59 BNA LRRM 2819, 51 CCH LC ¶ 19686

Court could not summarily direct employer to reinstate discharged veteran merely on showing that reinstatement has been refused. Green v Tho-Ro Products, Inc. (1954) 31 NJ Super 327, 106 A2d 756, 26 CCH LC ¶ 68578

45. Miscellaneous

Waiver of re-employment rights must be clearly established. Niemiec v Seattle Rainier Baseball Club, Inc. (1946, DC Wash) 67 F Supp 705, 18 BNA LRRM 2189, 11 CCH LC ¶ 63258

Where testimony for veteran revealed that he had, within 90 days of discharge, applied for re-employment, but testimony of employer showed conclusively that veteran had not made such application and had accepted employment elsewhere during that period, court accepts statements of employer as true and would deny judgment for veteran. Lacek v Peoples Laundry Co. (1950, DC Pa) 94 F Supp 399, 27 BNA LRRM 2113, 19 CCH LC ¶ 66076

Claim of plaintiff, alleging that upon his return from active duty employer refused to reemploy him in violation of Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.), is not denied summarily, where employer offered former job to plaintiff but failed to confirm position after supervisor said he would get back to plaintiff, and where plaintiff repeatedly tried to contact supervisor, because material issue of fact exists as to whether plaintiff was ever truly offered restoration to his position as required by § 4301(a)(2)(B)(i). Wallace v Hardee's, Inc. (1995, MD Ala) 874 F Supp 374, 148 BNA LRRM 2587

Where employee's attendance improvement program (AIP) was extended due to military and Family and Medical Leave Act leave, and where employee was terminated for missing work for other reasons during AIP, summary judgment was inappropriate as to claim under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act; there was genuine issue of material fact regarding whether employee suffered damages merely by reason of employer's extension of AIP. Schmauch v Honda of Am. Mfg., Inc. (2003, SD Ohio) 295 F Supp 2d 823, 173 BNA LRRM 2927, 9 BNA WH Cas 2d 360, 149 CCH LC ¶ 34804

Even though Federal Arbitration Act compelled judicial enforcement of arbitration provision pursuant to 9 USCS § 2, where employment agreement also provided that it would be subject to any and all rights that employee might have under Uniform Services Employment and Re-employment Rights Act (USERRA), there was no clear waiver of rights so that reservation preserved employee's right to bring discrimination and retaliation claims in judicial forum under 38 USCS § 4323(c) rather than submit matters to arbitration; further, 38 USCS § 4302(b) provided that USERRA superseded any contracts, including arbitration agreements, that reduced, limited, or eliminated any rights under USERRA where there was not express waiver of known statutory rights. Breletic v CACI, Inc. (2006, ND Ga) 413 F Supp 2d 1329, 87 CCH EPD ¶ 42235
E. Limitation of Actions

46. Generally

Provision of predecessor to statute that veteran restored to former position not be discharged without cause within one year of restoration did not establish one year statute of limitations so as to preclude veteran from entertaining complaint to enforce seniority rights. Oakley v Louisville & N. R. Co. (1949) 338 US 278, 94 L Ed 87, 70 S Ct 119, 25 BNA LRRM 2038, 17 CCH LC ¶ 65409

Statutory right to reemployment of returning veteran was contractual in nature and if doctrine of laches or statute of limitations was to apply at all, former 50 USC Appendix § 459(b)-(h), creating right to reemployment of returning veteran, should be considered part of veteran's employment contract. Muscianese v United States Steel Corp. (1973, ED Pa) 354 F Supp 1394, 82 BNA LRRM 2922, 70 CCH LC ¶ 13342

Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act, which contains no express statute of limitations and specifically bars use of state statutes of limitations, does not authorize borrowing statute of limitations from another federal law; court should focus solely on doctrine of laches in determining whether individual's claim is time barred. Wallace v Hardee's, Inc. (1995, MD Ala) 874 F Supp 374, 148 BNA LRRM 2587

47. Governing law

Predecessor to statute, barring applicability of state statutes of limitations to veterans' re-employment rights actions, did not mean that such statutes were applicable prior to enactment of statute. Hirschberg v Braniff Airways, Inc. (1975, ED NY) 404 F Supp 869, 90 BNA LRRM 3306, 78 CCH LC ¶ 11200

Use of state statute of limitations by analogy to claims under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 would thwart congressional intent that no state statute limit veteran's federal rights; thus burden remained on deceased employee's employer to show that widow's delay in alleging that employer failed to credit deceased with earnings for 2 weeks spent while on unpaid leave with National Guard in determining deceased's life insurance benefits was inexcusable and prejudicial to employer. Petry v Delmarva Power & Light Co. (1986, DC Del) 631 F Supp 1532, 123 BNA LRRM 3189

Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act, which contains no express statute of limitations and specifically bars use of state statutes of limitations, does not authorize borrowing statute of limitations from another federal law; court should focus solely on doctrine of laches in determining whether individual's claim is time barred. Wallace v Hardee's, Inc. (1995, MD Ala) 874 F Supp 374, 148 BNA LRRM 2587

48. Accrual of cause of action

Under predecessor to statute cause of action accrues when veteran demands and is refused re-instatement to position to which he believes himself entitled. Walsh v Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. (1949, DC Ill) 90 F Supp 322 (superseded by statute as stated in Stevens v Tennessee Valley Auth. (1983, CA6 Tenn) 712 F.2d 1047, 118 BNA LRRM 3201)

49. Delay in commencement of action, generally
Long delay in bringing suit not only deprives court of opportunity of rendering prompt aid to those entitled to it but places defendant employer at disadvantage in being lulled into false sense of security; such delay amounts to acquiescence by veteran to action of employer. Daniels v Barfield (1948, DC Pa) 77 F Supp 283, 22 BNA LRRM 2029, 14 CCH LC ¶64459

Veteran is not allowed to permit inordinate amount of time to elapse before initiating action; action will be barred where veteran waits too long after rights come into existence to maintain action upon them. Noble v International Nickel Co. (1948, DC W Va) 77 F Supp 352, 22 BNA LRRM 2066, 14 CCH LC ¶64552; Zaversnik v Union P. R. Co. (1949, DC Wyo) 95 F Supp 209

For defense of laches to be valid it must be sustained by certain established elements, namely, lack of diligence or inexcusable delay in prosecution of veteran's rights with resulting prejudice to or impairment of rights of defendant employer. Coon v Liebmann Breweries, Inc. (1949, DC NJ) 86 F Supp 333, 24 BNA LRRM 2514, 17 CCH LC ¶65330

State statute of limitations was only one element to be considered in determining whether length of delay was unreasonable and whether potential for prejudice was great. Blake v Columbus (1984, SD Ohio) 605 F Supp 567, 118 BNA LRRM 3244, 102 CCH LC ¶11426

Equitable doctrine of laches is applicable to claims made under Act; to prevail on laches defense, defendant must prove that plaintiff's delay in bringing suit is inexcusable, and that defendant was prejudiced by delay. Jordan v Kenton County Bd. of Educ. (1995, ED Ky) 154 BNA LRRM 2731

50. -Delay not attributable to plaintiff

Although it might be true that veterans waited from 2 to more than 3 years after their respective discharges from service to bring suit on claims for retroactive pay raises instituted during time they were in service, reason for delay was excusable where union had undertaken to act in behalf of veterans but had failed to prosecute action diligently so that it became necessary for veterans to bring suit themselves in which defendant employer had not shown prejudice by reason of lapse of time. Flynn v Ward Leonard Electric Co. (1949, DC NY) 84 F Supp 399, 24 BNA LRRM 2245

Delay of 14 months from discharge by employer before instituting suit, where such delay was not attributable to inexcusable neglect and where veteran sought assistance of Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs], was not barred. Coon v Liebmann Breweries, Inc. (1949, DC NJ) 86 F Supp 333, 24 BNA LRRM 2514, 17 CCH LC ¶65330

In action by reemployed veteran against employer claiming that employer had not given him full seniority adjustment to which, as veteran, he was entitled, since action was filed after lapse of 6-year state period of limitation applicable to action for damages, burden was on veteran to aver and prove circumstances making it inequitable to apply laches to his case; veteran successfully sustained such burden where delay in bringing action was largely due to misstatements by his employer and union about his seniority rights, and there was no showing that defendants have been prejudiced by delay. Whitmore v Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. (1969, ND Ohio) 73 BNA LRRM 2001

Veteran's action for restoration of seniority and back pay under former 50 USCS Appx §459(b)(h) was not barred by laches, despite lapse of 10 years, where veteran (1) sought advice of union representative upon learning of seniority position and was led to believe that filing grievance would be futile; (2) sought assistance of Department of Labor upon learning that similar claim had been upheld by federal court; (3) governing law throughout period was uncertain; and
(4) his employer, by its own actions, made substantial contribution to delay. Gruca v United States Steel Corp. (1973, ED Pa) 360 F Supp 38, 83 BNA LRRM 2906, 71 CCH LC ¶ 13804, revd on other grounds (1974, CA3 Pa) 495 F.2d 1252, 86 BNA LRRM 2171, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10056 (superseded by statute as stated in Stevens v Tennessee Valley Auth. (1983, CA6 Tenn) 712 F.2d 1047, 118 BNA LRRM 3201)

51. Delay attributable to government

Veteran was not guilty of laches and his claim was not barred where veteran applied for reinstatement within statutory period following discharge from service and employer rejected application upon veteran's refusal to work for price less than that paid him at time he was inducted and where veteran sought advice of one who was in charge of Veterans' Division [now Department of Veterans Affairs] who in turn investigated claim thoroughly, sending veteran to office of United States Attorney, whereupon suit was commenced. Karas v Klein (1947, DC Minn) 70 F Supp 469, 19 BNA LRRM 2559, 12 CCH LC ¶ 63656

Veteran who had delayed 20 months in filing suit has waited unreasonable time and was not entitled to compensation for that period, although he had taken matter up with local board for assistance as statute contemplated; veteran could not wait indefinitely with consent and acquiescence of local board and hold employer for damages in interim if such delay in enforcing veteran's rights was through no fault of employer. Noble v International Nickel Co. (1948, DC W Va) 77 F Supp 352, 22 BNA LRRM 2066, 14 CCH LC ¶ 64552

Three year delay from time reemployed veteran complained to Department of Labor of his employer's failure to give him proper seniority status and time government brought suit on veteran's behalf was not chargeable to veteran, where veteran neither acquiesced in delay nor abandoned his claim, and veteran complained to his employer of his seniority status at various times. Stinner v U.S. Steel Corp. (1974, WD Pa) 85 BNA LRRM 2567

In veteran's action under reemployment provisions of former Military Selective Service Act, as amended (50 USCS Appx § 459), where tender by veteran of prosecution of his case to government occurred at time when laches would not have barred his action, delay occasioned by government's handling of case would not be attributed to veteran. Barrett v Grand Truck Western Railroad Co. (1975, ND Ill) 89 BNA LRRM 2371, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10860

Action was not time barred where law in effect at time of rehiring prohibited application of state statutes of limitation and where delay in prosecution of claim was attributable to Department of Labor, Justice Department and US Attorney's office. Hirschberg v Braniff Airways, Inc. (1975, ED NY) 404 F Supp 869, 90 BNA LRRM 3306, 78 CCH LC ¶ 11200

In action by reemployed veterans against employer for wages lost because employer has failed to grant them their proper seniority status under predecessor to statute, 4-year delay in bringing action did not constitute laches, where time was devoted to investigation, negotiation, and preparation of suit on their behalf by Departments of Labor and Justice. Kelly v Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1976, ND Ind) 93 BNA LRRM 2568

Government agency's failure to notify veteran of her restoration rights, despite her numerous expressions of dissatisfaction about restoration decision, satisfied veteran's obligation to pursue with due diligence appeal of employment decision concerning her promotion consideration during military service absence and barred government from asserting laches as defense. Cobb v Prokop (1983, DC Mass) 557 F Supp 391

Former serviceman's suit against former employer under Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 arising from refusal to rehire plaintiff was barred by laches, where, inter alia, suit was filed approximately 9 years after his discharge under other than honorable conditions and approximately 51/2 years after discharge was upgraded to honorable, and employer's witness to events surrounding plaintiff's alleged termination had died; delay of 11/2 to 2 years caused by government's investigation of claim could not be excused. Farries v Stanadyne/Chicago Div. (1985, ND Ind) 618 F Supp 1324, 120 BNA LRRM 2791, aff'd (1987, CA7 Ind) 832 F.2d 374, 126 BNA LRRM 2497, 107 CCH LC ¶ 10147, 9 FR Serv 3d 189

Veteran’s action against former employer was barred under doctrine of laches where not commenced until more than 9 years after it accrued and more than 6 years after exhausting other courses of action, due to prejudice to employer arising from wages paid and promotions awarded to alternate employees. Lingenfelter v Keystone Consol. Industries, Inc. (1982, CA7 Ill) 691 F.2d 339, 111 BNA LRRM 2770, 97 CCH LC ¶ 10051

Doctrine of laches did not bar widow’s claim that deceased husband’s employer should have credited his account for 2 weeks of earnings while on unpaid leave in National Guard for purposes of determining life insurance benefits since employer failed to show it was prejudiced in any way by widow’s delay in asserting claim notwithstanding that employer’s insurance benefits coordinator and employee were both deceased and widow’s memory of receiving insurance benefits had faded since employer failed to show that any of these witnesses would testify to facts that could establish prejudice to employer. Petry v Delmarva Power & Light Co. (1986, DC Del) 631 F Supp 1532, 123 BNA LRRM 3189

53. -Circumstances warranting allowance of action

Veteran’s claim to retroactive seniority was not barred by laches where he had made claim within 30 days from discharge and consulted various federal officials before starting suit 4 months later. Norris v Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co. (1957, DC Tenn) 150 F Supp 431, 32 CCH LC ¶ 70815

Veterans who took no action for more than 3 years after seniority dates were assigned to them are not barred by laches from asserting claims where defendant employer is not prejudiced. Conseglino v Pennsylvania R. Co. (1962, SD NY) 211 F Supp 567, 51 BNA LRRM 2693, 46 CCH LC ¶ 17948

Claim under former Veterans Reemployment Rights Act (38 USCS § 2221 et seq.), brought more than 5 years after cause of action accrued, was not time barred where veteran’s diligence in bringing claim to notice of his union grievance man and Department of Labor prevented application of doctrine of laches, and destruction of employer’s records did not prejudice employer. Stewart v United States Steel Corp. (1984, ND Ind) 594 F Supp 180, 117 BNA LRRM 2101, 101 CCH LC ¶ 11138

Reservist’s action seeking reinstatement under Veterans Reemployment Rights Act is not barred by laches where delay of two years and six months, which included one year of government investigation, from time county mailed its letter denying reemployment to filing of action is not unreasonable. Lemmon v County of Santa Cruz (1988, ND Cal) 686 F Supp 797, 130 BNA LRRM 2604, 111 CCH LC ¶ 10950

Delay of two and one-half years is not enough by itself to bar suit under Veterans’ Reemployment Rights Act through doctrine of laches. Wallace v Hardee’s, Inc. (1995, MD Ala) 874 F Supp 374, 148 BNA LRRM 2587

54. -Circumstances warranting dismissal of action

Veteran’s suit to recover alleged shortage in bonus payments is barred by laches where he had been reinstated and worked 3 years before leaving employer and bringing suit. Donner v Levine (1956, CA2 Conn) 232 F.2d 185, 37 BNA LRRM 2808, 30 CCH LC ¶ 69880

Delay of 17 years in bringing suit for reemployment plaintiff was thoroughly capable and records and witnesses had become unavailable amounted to laches and such suit was barred. Carmalt v General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1962, CA3 Pa) 302 F.2d 589, 50 BNA LRRM 2052, 44 CCH LC ¶ 17565

Veteran is guilty of laches under predecessor to statute so that his claim is barred where he waited more than 9 years after re-employment to enforce seniority rights. Gruca v United States Steel Corp. (1974, CA3 Pa) 495 F.2d 1252, 86 BNA LRRM 2171, 74 CCH LC ¶ 10056 (superseded by statute as stated in Stevens v Tennessee Valley Auth. (1983, CA6 Tenn) 712 F.2d 1047, 118 BNA LRRM 3201)

Veteran’s action for back pay was barred where veteran waited over 5 years before contacting Department of Labor, and Department’s further tardiness accrued against veteran who sought its aid. Churma v United States Steel Corp. (1975, CA3 Pa) 514 F.2d 589, 88 BNA LRRM 3425, 76 CCH LC ¶ 10771

In suit brought by veterans against employer under predecessor to statute to recover for alleged violation of their reemployment rights, District Court did not abuse its discretion in dismissing complaint recovered for alleged violation of their reemployment rights with prejudice on basis of doctrine of laches, even though Department of Labor delayed processing of veteran's claims, where veterans voluntarily chose to rely upon services of Department rather than secure private counsel, employer was prejudiced by delay of unavailability of relevant testimony, delay by veterans caused prejudice to employer resulting from reliance upon Department's prior endorsement of employer's practice, and only minimal deprivation of statutory rights could have resulted from employer's practices.  Goodman v McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1979, CA8 Mo) 606 F.2d 800, 102 BNA LRRM 2441, 87 CCH LC ¶ 11583, 53 ALR Fed 436, cert den (1980) 446 US 913, 64 L Ed 2d 267, 100 S Ct 1844, 103 BNA LRRM 3175, 88 CCH LC ¶ 12004

Veteran's action against former employer for failure to reinstate veteran to former position was barred by laches, since veteran failed to diligently pursue claim for reinstatement under statute, where 8 years had elapsed since veteran was discharged from Air Force under conditions other than honorable, 6 years had elapsed since date that veteran's discharge was upgraded to honorable, and employer sustained substantial prejudice by delay as the employee who refused to rehire veteran had died prior to filing of suit, and amount of back wages to be paid to veteran was substantial.  Farries v Stanadyne/Chicago Div. (1987, CA7 Ind) 832 F.2d 374, 126 BNA LRRM 2497, 107 CCH LC ¶ 10147, 9 FR Serv 3d 189

Employer was not responsible for delay and would not be penalized because of it where veteran was discharged from service April 4, 1946, re-employed by defendant employer on April 22, 1946, continuing employment until November 5, 1946, at which time he was discharged and where veteran thereafter waited 6 months, until May, 1947, to demand reinstatement and further month before commencing action which did not seek reinstatement but solely sought money judgment for compensation for loss of wages between date of discharge from employment and date he was employed elsewhere; such delay by veteran was unreasonable and amounted to acquiescence in employer's conduct resulting in forfeiture of incidental right to demand compensation for loss of wages; delay further precluded court from determining, during period of protection accorded by statute, whether or not discharge was without cause and whether plaintiff was entitled to reinstatement and incidental compensation for loss of wages or benefits.  Azzerone v W. B. Coon Co. (1947, DC NY) 73 F Supp 869, 20 BNA LRRM 2613, 13 CCH LC ¶ 64044

Veteran was deemed to have abandoned claim and is barred by laches from asserting rights where, although claiming to have been informed by employer of employer's intention not to re-employ veteran and also to have been fully aware of rights, instead of immediately instituting suit, veteran took up residence and accepted employment in distant state and did not return or renew his request for re-employment for period of 9 months.  Cummings v Hubbell (1948, DC Pa) 76 F Supp 453, 22 BNA LRRM 2109, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64562

There was no obstacle which could be attributed to employer and veteran was guilty of laches in pursuing his remedies and claim would be denied where veteran was re-employed in December of 1945, objecting to his status at that time though agreeing to "be patient" and again objecting when he resumed work in August of 1946 but without real affirmative actions or objections; where veteran sought assistance of United States Attorney and suit was instituted on January 21, 1947, with little at that time to indicate that veteran had raised any determined objection or attempted any real effort to reach settlement with employer until institution of suit some 13 months after re-employment; and where there is nothing to indicate any effort on veteran's behalf to enlist aid of personnel division or to negotiate through any other of the means provided by employer.  Polansky v Elastic Stop Nut Corp. (1948, DC NJ) 78 F Supp 74, 22 BNA LRRM 2223, 15 CCH LC ¶ 64563

Veteran was barred from reinstatement and recovery because of delay in asserting his rights where veteran was denied re-employment by letter dated July 13, 1946, and made no attempt to assert any rights until April of 1947, and where suit was not instituted until August 11, 1948, more than 2 years after employer's refusal to re-employ veteran, during which time veteran was

Veteran who failed to bring action under predecessor statute until 8 years after first refusal of reinstatement was barred by laches even though 2 of those years were spent in prison, where reinstatement would prejudice employer with shop union. Hicks v United States Radiator Co.

In action by former employee of airline, who, after discharge from armed services, was reemployed by defendant employer and after additional flight training was requested to resign and did, veteran was guilty of inordinate and unexcused delay in prosecution of his action, where at all times since leaving employment he had financial ability to prosecute litigation by private attorney, delay in processing his claim by Department of Labor was acquiesced in by veteran, and Labor's delay was substantially worsened by veteran's conduct. Smith v Continental § 4324. Enforcement of rights with respect to Federal executive agencies

(a) (1) A person who receives from the Secretary a notification pursuant to section 4322(e)
[38 USCS § 4322(e)] may request that the Secretary refer the complaint for litigation before the Merit Systems Protection Board. The Secretary shall refer the complaint to the Office of Special Counsel established by section 1211 of title 5 [5 USCS § 1211].

(2) (A) If the Special Counsel is reasonably satisfied that the person on whose behalf a complaint is referred under paragraph (1) is entitled to the rights or benefits sought, the Special Counsel (upon the request of the person submitting the complaint) may appear on behalf of, and act as attorney for, the person and initiate an action regarding such complaint before the Merit Systems Protection Board.

(B) If the Special Counsel declines to initiate an action and represent a person before the Merit Systems Protection Board under subparagraph (A), the Special Counsel shall notify such person of that decision.

(b) A person may submit a complaint against a Federal executive agency or the Office of Personnel Management under this subchapter [38 USCS §§ 4321 et seq.] directly to the Merit Systems Protection Board if that person--

(1) has chosen not to apply to the Secretary for assistance under section 4322(a) [38
USCS § 4322(a)];
(2) has received a notification from the Secretary under section 4322(e) [38 USCS § 4322(e)];
(3) has chosen not to be represented before the Board by the Special Counsel pursuant to subsection (a)(2)(A); or
(4) has received a notification of a decision from the Special Counsel under subsection (a)(2)(B).

(c) (1) The Merit Systems Protection Board shall adjudicate any complaint brought before the Board pursuant to subsection (a)(2)(A) or (b), without regard as to whether the complaint accrued before, on, or after October 13, 1994. A person who seeks a hearing or adjudication by submitting such a complaint under this paragraph may be represented at such hearing or adjudication in accordance with the rules of the Board.

(2) If the Board determines that a Federal executive agency or the Office of Personnel Management has not complied with the provisions of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] relating to the employment or reemployment of a person by the agency, the Board shall enter an order requiring the agency or Office to comply with such provisions and to compensate such person for any loss of wages or benefits suffered by such person by reason of such lack of compliance.

(3) Any compensation received by a person pursuant to an order under paragraph (2) shall be in addition to any other right or benefit provided for by this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] and shall not diminish any such right or benefit.

(4) If the Board determines as a result of a hearing or adjudication conducted pursuant to a complaint submitted by a person directly to the Board pursuant to subsection (b) that such person is entitled to an order referred to in paragraph (2), the Board may, in its discretion, award such person reasonable attorney fees, expert witness fees, and other litigation expenses.

(d) (1) A person adversely affected or aggrieved by a final order or decision of the Merit Systems Protection Board under subsection (c) may petition the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit to review the final order or decision. Such petition and review shall be in accordance with the procedures set forth in section 7703 of title 5 [5 USCS § 7703].

(2) Such person may be represented in the Federal Circuit proceeding by the Special Counsel unless the person was not represented by the Special Counsel before the Merit Systems Protection Board regarding such order or decision.

1. Generally

Board had jurisdiction under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of removal appeal, although appellant did not mention Act or allege discrimination against her on account of her Army Reserve duty, since she did assert that she served on reserve duty and while doing so missed her 30-day evaluation in connection with training program, and that when she returned from reserve duty, Postal Service failed to extend her training period or make up for two weeks she had lost while on reserve duty. Yates v MSPB (1998, CA FC) 145 F.3d 1480, 158 BNA LRRM 2720, on remand, remanded (1998, MSPB) 1998 MSPB LEXIS 1044

Merit Systems Protection Board erred in refusing to hold hearing on veteran's claim that he had been discriminated against in violation of Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 USCS § 4311, where its reasoning that 38 USCS §
4324 referred to USERRA claims as complaints rather than appeals, thereby making 5 USCS § 7701(a) inapplicable, defied common sense, Board's interpretation would have provided less procedural protection to veterans, and Board's interpretation contradicted its own regulations, which recognized that USERRA claims were appeals under 5 USCS § 7701. Kirkendall v Dep't of Army (2005, CA FC) 412 F.3d 1273, 177 BNA LRRM 2666

Board had jurisdiction of claim that appellant was entitled to restoration rights provided in former 38 USCS § 4304 since he was member of Massachusetts National Guard ordered to duty under 32 USCS §§ 502-505 as Reserve of armed forces or member of National Guard which gives Reservists and National Guardsmen who were federal employees same restoration rights that applied to other persons. Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act gave Board jurisdiction to decide appellant's allegation that agency's termination action was discrimination on basis of his status as disabled veteran, notwithstanding that he was serving probationary period. Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act gave Board jurisdiction to decide appellant's allegation that agency's termination action was discriminatory of his status as handicapped veteran, notwithstanding that he was serving probationary period. Wright v VA (1997, MSPB) 73 MSPR 453

Board had authority to adjudicate actions pre-Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act which arose under predecessor statute, Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act, however, as the prior existing law contained no provision upon which appellant could base claim of discrimination because of his veteran status, there was no complaint which Board could adjudicate. Williams v Department of the Army (1999, MSPB) 83 MSPR 109

Claim that agency discriminated against appellant on basis of his veteran's status when it refused to restore or reassign him occurred after Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act's enactment and fell within broad category of matters appealable to Board under Act. Harris v United States Postal Serv. (2000, MSPB) 85 MSPR 159

Board lacked jurisdiction under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act over complaint against Tennessee Valley Authority since it is not executive department within scope of that jurisdiction. Hereford v TVA (2001, MSPB) 88 MSPR 201

Board's authority with regard to Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act complaints or appeals does not extend beyond complained-of discrimination because of military status, does not allow for decision on merits of underlying matter except to extent necessary to address appellant's military status discrimination claims, and thus does not include review of other claims of prohibited discrimination. 2. Immunity from suit

Action by employee of government printing office against public printer and commissioners of United States civil service commission to compel public printer to place plaintiff in supervisory position of principal technical assistant in government printing office by virtue of rights claimed under predecessor statute, being in effect suit against United States, could not be maintained without its consent. (d) This section may not be construed--
   (1) as prohibiting an employee of an agency referred to in subsection (a) from seeking information from the Secretary regarding assistance in seeking reemployment from the agency under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.] or information relating to the rights and obligations of employees and Federal agencies under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.]; or
   (2) as prohibiting such an agency from voluntarily cooperating with or seeking assistance in or of clarification from the Secretary or the Director of the Office of Personnel Management of any matter arising under this chapter [38 USCS §§ 4301 et seq.].

§ 5100. Definition of "claimant"
For purposes of this chapter [38 USCS §§ 5100 et seq.], the term "claimant" means any individual applying for, or submitting a claim for, any benefit under the laws administered by the Secretary.

Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit reviewed regulations promulgated by Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096 (codified in scattered sections of 38 USCS) and with exception of one regulation, 38 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1), which was inconsistent with VCAA, and therefore invalid, regulations regarding claims procedures under 38 C.F.R. §§ 3.156 and 1.159 were affirmed as regulations were not on their face arbitrary, capricious, and contrary to various statutory provisions. Paralyzed Veterans of Am. v Sec'y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 345 F.3d 1334

Plain language of 38 USCS § 5100 requires that notice to Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) claimant pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096, be provided "at time" that, or "immediately after," Secretary of Veterans Affairs receives complete or substantially complete application for VA-administered benefits. (b) (1) A claim by a surviving spouse or child for compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation shall also be considered to be a claim for death pension and accrued benefits, and a claim by a surviving spouse or child for death pension shall be considered to be a claim for death compensation (or dependency and indemnity compensation) and accrued benefits.

(2) A claim by a parent for compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation shall also be considered to be a claim for accrued benefits.

(c) (1) Any person who applies for or is in receipt of any compensation or pension benefit under laws administered by the Secretary shall, if requested by the Secretary, furnish the Secretary with the social security number of such person and the social security number of any dependent or beneficiary on whose behalf, or based upon whom, such person applies for or is in receipt of such benefit. A person is not required to furnish the Secretary with a social security number for any person to whom a social security number has not been assigned.

(2) The Secretary shall deny the application of or terminate the payment of compensation or pension to a person who fails to furnish the Secretary with a social security number required to be furnished pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection. The Secretary may thereafter reconsider the application or reinstate payment of compensation or pension, as the case may be, if such person furnishes the Secretary with such social security number.

(3) The costs of administering this subsection shall be paid for from amounts available to the Department of Veterans Affairs for the payment of compensation and pension.

Explanatory notes:

Amendments:

1991. Act May 7, 1991 redesignated this section, formerly 38 USCS § 3001, as 38 USCS § 5101, and amended the references in this section to reflect the redesignations made by §§ 401(a)(4) and 402(b) of such Act (see Table II preceding 38 USCS § 101).

No. 103-446, 108 Stat. 4645 (1994), does not require that remanded cases be advanced on Board of Veterans' Appeals' docket pursuant to 38 USCS § 7107(a)(2) and 38 C.F.R. § 20.900(c); therefore, veteran was not entitled to writ of mandamus requiring Secretary of Veterans Affairs to advance veteran's disability benefits case on Board's docket. Dailey v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 61, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 285

2. Persons entitled to file claims

Declaration for pension filed by feeble-minded widow under guardianship in her own name was valid. 1932 ADVA 101

Letter from rehabilitation official written on behalf of widow did not qualify as filing of pension request if no power of attorney was executed at time letter in question was written. 1934 ADVA 270

Under former 38 USC § 370, widow was entitled to complete pending claim of deceased veteran. 1938 ADVA 435

3. Filing date of claim

Claim executed by veteran on December 13, 1943 but forwarded to Veterans’ Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] subsequent to veteran's death is filed with Veterans’ Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] as of date of its execution. 1944 ADVA 566

4. Effect of death of claimant

38 USCS § 3001 [now 38 USCS § 5101] does not require a second claim to be filed after the death of a claimant. Devany v United States (1966, CA2 NY) 366 F.2d 807 (criticized in Seymour v Principi (2001, CA FC) 245 F.3d 1377)

Even if children of veteran's widow could be substituted as parties in appeal as to accrued benefits claim, their notice of widow's death was filed more than one year after her death and therefore untimely and widow's DIC application was filed more than 23 years after servicemember's death. § 5102. Application forms furnished upon request; notice to claimants of incomplete applications cxxxviiiDiscussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual

(c) Time limitation.
(1) If information that a claimant and the claimant's representative, if any, are notified under subsection (b) is necessary to complete an application is not received by the Secretary within one year from the date such notice is sent, no benefit may be paid or furnished by reason of the claimant's application.

(2) This subsection shall not apply to any application or claim for Government life insurance benefits.

§ 5103. Notice to claimants of required information and evidence

Discussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual
(a) Required information and evidence. Upon receipt of a complete or substantially complete application, the Secretary shall notify the claimant and the claimant's representative, if any, of any information, and any medical or lay evidence, not previously provided to the Secretary that is necessary to substantiate the claim. As part of that notice, the Secretary shall indicate which portion of that information and evidence, if any, is to be provided by the claimant and which portion, if any, the Secretary, in accordance with section 5103A of this title [38 USCS § 5103A] and any other applicable provisions of law, will attempt to obtain on behalf of the claimant.

(b) Time limitation.

   (1) In the case of information or evidence that the claimant is notified under subsection (a) is to be provided by the claimant, such information or evidence must be received by the Secretary within one year from the date such notice is sent.

   (2) This subsection shall not apply to any application or claim for Government life insurance benefits.

   (3) Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed to prohibit the Secretary from making a decision on a claim before the expiration of the period referred to in that subsection.

Explanatory notes:

A prior § 5103 was transferred by Act May 7, 1991, P. L. 102-40, Title IV, § 402(b)(1), 105 Stat. 238, and appears as 38 USCS § 8303.

Such section related to incomplete applications.

Amendments:

2003. Act Dec. 16, 2003 (effective as if enacted on 11/9/2000, immediately after enactment of Act Nov. 9, 2000, P. L. 106-475, as provided by § 701(c) of the 2003 Act, which appears 38 USCS § 5102 note), in subsec. (b), in para. (1), substituted "such information or evidence must be received by the Secretary within one year from the date such notice is sent" for "if such information or evidence is not received by the Secretary within one year from the date of such notification, no benefit may be paid or furnished by reason of the claimant's application", and added para. (3).

Procedures for readjudication of certain claims; construction on providing renotification. Act Dec. 16, 2003, P. L. 108-183, Title VII, § 701(d), (e), 117 Stat. 2670, provides:

"(d) Procedures for readjudication of certain claims. (1) The Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall readjudicate a claim of a qualified claimant if the request for such readjudication is received not later than the end of the one-year period that begins on the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(2) For purposes of this subsection, a claimant is qualified within the meaning of paragraph (1) if the claimant--

"(A) received notice under section 5103(a) of title 38, United States Code, requesting information or evidence to substantiate a claim;
“(B) did not submit such information or evidence within a year after the date such notice was sent;

“(C) did not file a timely appeal to the Board of Veterans’ Appeals or the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims; and “(D) submits such information or evidence during the one-year period referred to in paragraph (1).

“(3) If the decision of the Secretary on a readjudication under this subsection is in favor of the qualified claimant, the award of the grant shall take effect as if the prior decision by the Secretary on the claim had not been made.

“(4) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to establish a duty on the part of the Secretary to identify or readjudicate any claim that--

“(A) is not submitted during the one-year period referred to in paragraph (1); or

“(B) has been the subject of a timely appeal to the Board of Veterans’ Appeals or the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims.

“(e) Construction on providing renotification. Nothing in this section, or the amendments made by this section [amending 38 USCS §§ 5102 and 5103(b)], shall be construed to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs--

“(1) to provide notice under section 5103(a) of such title with respect to a claim insofar as the Secretary has previously provided such notice; or

“(2) to provide for a special notice with respect to this section and the amendments made by this section [amending 38 USCS §§ 5102 and 5103(b)].”.

1. Applicability
Revised notice requirements in 38 USCS § 5103(a) and 8 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1) (2003), Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA) regulations implementing amended 38 USCS § 5103(a), apply to cases pending before VA on November 9, 2000, date of enactment of Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096, even if initial agency of original

Notice provisions under Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096 (Nov. 9, 2000), did not apply to veteran's request for waiver of indebtedness under 38 USCS § 5302 because: (1) waiver of overpayment was not claim for benefits under chapter 51 of title 38, USCS, but, rather, application for waiver of overcompensation under chapter 53, and VCAA notice provisions of 38 USCS § 5103(a) did not apply to chapter 53; and (2) 38 USCS § 5302(a) contained notice provision specific to request for waiver of overpayment and specific notice provisions of 38 USCS § 5302(a) superseded general VCAA notice provisions. 2. Retroactivity

Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106-475, § 3(a), 114 Stat. 2096, 2096-2097, which enacted 38 USCS § 5103, does not apply retroactively to require that proceedings that were complete before Department of Veterans Affairs and were on appeal to Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims or Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit be remanded for readjudication under new statute. Bernklau v Principi (2002, CA FC) 291 F.3d 795 (ovrd in part as stated in Jones v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 248, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 536)

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims properly denied remand of veteran's claim to Board of Veterans Appeals for retroactive application of amended notice requirements of Veterans Claims Assistance Act set forth in 38 USCS §§ 5103, 5103A, because there was no expressed Congressional intent for retroactive application of provisions, and Karnas v. Derwinski, 1 Vet. App. 308 (1991) and Holliday v. Principi, 14 Vet. App. 280 (2001), were overruled to extent they indicated different result. Kuzma v Principi (2003, CA FC) 341 F.3d 1327, cert den (2004) 540 US 1182, 158 L Ed 2d 85, 124 S Ct 1421

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims erred in remanding matter to Board of Veterans Appeals for compliance with enhanced notice and assistance requirements codified at 38 USCS § 5103(a) where veteran's appeal to Board was final before notice and assistance requirements were enacted and where Congress did not intend requirements to be applied retroactively. Hayslip v Principi (2004, CA FC) 364 F.3d 1321

3. Notice requirements

When veteran has made application to reopen claim and Secretary of Veterans' Affairs is on notice of evidence which may prove to be new and material but has not been submitted with application, Secretary has duty under § 5103 to inform claimant of evidence that is necessary to complete application. Quartuccio v Principi (2002) 16 Vet App 183, 2002 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 443

38 USCS § 5103(a) and 8 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1) provide that, before initial unfavorable AOJ decision is issued on claim, service-connection claimant must be given notice in accordance with Words "upon receipt" in 38 USCS § 5103(a) mandate that notice precede initial unfavorable agency of original jurisdiction decision on service-connection claim, next major adjudication-process milestone after application is filed. Pelegrini v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 112, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 370

4. -Particular circumstances

Board of Veterans' Appeals did not err in finding that Secretary of Veterans Affairs met his statutory duty to notify veterans' surviving spouse under 38 USCS § 5103 where (1) communications from Veterans Affairs as whole informed spouse regarding information and evidence necessary to substantiate claim; (2) spouse failed to submit evidence with regard to how she was prejudiced, pursuant to 38 USCS § 7261(b)(2), by Secretary's alleged failure to inform spouse about who should provide what information and evidence; (3) there was no indication that spouse had pertinent evidence in her possession that she did not provide; and (4) there was lack of actual prejudice from noncompliance with timing of notice. Mayfield v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 103, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 197, reh, en banc, den (2005, US) 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 304

38 USCS § 5103(a) requires Secretary of Veterans Affairs to notify 38 USCS § 1318 dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) claimant of any information and evidence, not of record, that is "necessary to substantiate" § 1318 DIC claim; this includes information and evidence necessary to substantiate § 1318 DIC claim on basis that veteran was "hypothetically entitled to receive" disability compensation for service-connected disability that was rated totally disabling for at least 10 years prior to his death, pursuant to 38 USCS § 1318(b). Rodriguez v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 275, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 523

Supplemental Statement of Case did not include notice of information or evidence necessary to substantiate 38 USCS § 1318 dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) claim on basis that veteran was "entitled to receive," let alone "hypothetically entitled to receive," disability compensation for service-connected disability that was rated totally disabling for at least 10 years prior to his death, pursuant to 38 USCS § 1318(b); accordingly, Secretary of Veterans Affairs did not fulfill his 38 USCS § 5103(a) duty to notify appellant about what information or evidence was needed to substantiate her 38 USCS § 1318 DIC claim. Rodriguez v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 275, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 523

Department of Veterans Affairs breached its 38 USCS § 5103(a) duty to notify appellant claimant as to information and evidence needed to substantiate her claim when it failed to advise her that Philippine Veterans Affairs Office document she had submitted was inadequate for purposes of showing qualifying service, and failed to notify her about what would constitute acceptable evidence of qualifying military service. Pelea v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 296, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 537

5. Validity of regulations
38 C.F.R. § 19.9(a)(2)(ii) was invalid because it was contrary to 38 USCS § 5103(b), which provided claimant one year to submit evidence; however, 38 C.F.R. § 20.903 was not contrary to 38 USCS § 5103, and 38 C.F.R. § 20.1304’s requirement of good cause and ninety-day response period does not conflict with 38 USCS § 5103’s notice and time limitations. Disabled Am. Veterans v Sec’y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 327 F.3d 1339

Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit reviewed regulations promulgated by Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096 (codified in scattered sections of 38 USCS) and with exception of one regulation, 38 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1), which was inconsistent with VCAA, and therefore invalid, regulations regarding claims procedures under 38 C.F.R. §§ 3.156 and 1.159 were affirmed as regulations were not on their face arbitrary, capricious, and contrary to various statutory provisions. Paralyzed Veterans of Am. v Sec’y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 345 F.3d 1334

Veteran’s Court violated its statutory obligations under 38 USCS § 7261(b)(2) when it refused to consider whether difference between notice actually given to veteran and notice required by 38 USCS § 5103(a) prejudiced veteran; there was nothing that hinted that Congress intended to exempt § 5103(a) from general scheme. Conway v Principi (2004, CA FC) 353 F.3d 1369, on remand, remanded (2004, US) 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 643

Where Board of Veterans’ Appeals (BVA) erred by failing to adequately discuss amended duty to notify in 38 USCS § 5103, BVA’s error was non-prejudicial under 38 USCS § 7261(b)(2) because brother's averment that he was brother of deceased veteran was uniquely within brother's knowledge, and under 38 USCS § 101(14) brother was ineligible for dependency and indemnity compensation as matter of law on basis of sibling relationship with veteran. Valiao v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 229, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 612

Because veteran’s surviving spouse had received compliant notice, any Board of Veterans’ Affairs reasons-or-bases deficiency in discussion how 38 USCS § 5103(a)/38 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1) notice had been satisfied in case would of necessity be nonprejudicial to claimant pursuant to 38 USCS § 7261(b)(2); court's review was not hindered by any reasons-or-bases deficiency in Board decision, and remand under 38 USCS § 7104(a) and (d)(1) for reasons-or-bases error would be of no benefit to spouse and would therefore be pointless. Mayfield v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 103, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 197, reh, en banc, den (2005, US) 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 304

Veteran’s claim that Secretary of Veterans Affair failed to provide notice required by 38 USCS § 5103(a) failed to allege with specificity any particular inadequacy regarding Board's finding that adequate notice was provided; accordingly, U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims could not review this issue. Coker v Nicholson (2006) 19 Vet App 439, 2006 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 34

7. -Waiver of notice issue

8. -Exhaustion of administrative remedies

Appellant must exhaust all administrative remedies before bringing appeal to Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims, including error under 38 USCS § 5103, and Court will decline to exercise jurisdiction on issue of whether Secretary had duty to inform appellant what specific evidence should be submitted to well-ground claim where appellant and representative did not raise issue in notice of disagreement, in substantive appeal, or in presentation to Board, and

9. Nonprejudicial notice error

Although appellant veteran did not receive notice required by Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096, 2096-97, benefit for damage to underwear was not permitted by law, 38 USCS § 1162, and because veteran had actual knowledge of what was required to receive clothing allowance and because she was not legally entitled to clothing allowance based on facts as averred by her, any notice error was nonprejudicial. Short Bear v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 341, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 585

Where claimant for veterans benefits was not entitled to reimbursement for rental expenses incurred at community residential care facility based on express prohibition of such payments under 38 USCS § 1730(b)(3); any failure to give notice was nonprejudicial error. Beverly v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 394, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 836

10. Remand to Board of Veterans' Appeals

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims did not determine whether remand was warranted solely for compliance with Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096, and amended notice requirements, because court remanded Board for readjudication when Board did not provide adequate reasons or bases for its findings, and court ordered Board to comply with requirements of VCAA. § 5103A. Duty to assist claimants

Duty to assist.

(1) The Secretary shall make reasonable efforts to assist a claimant in obtaining evidence necessary to substantiate the claimant's claim for a benefit under a law administered by the Secretary.

(2) The Secretary is not required to provide assistance to a claimant under this section if no reasonable possibility exists that such assistance would aid in substantiating the claim.

(3) The Secretary may defer providing assistance under this section pending the submission by the claimant of essential information missing from the claimant's application.

Assistance in obtaining records.

(1) As part of the assistance provided under subsection (a), the Secretary shall make reasonable efforts to obtain relevant records (including private records) that the claimant adequately identifies to the Secretary and authorizes the Secretary to obtain.

(2) Whenever the Secretary, after making such reasonable efforts, is unable to obtain all of the relevant records sought, the Secretary shall notify the claimant that the Secretary is unable to obtain records with respect to the claim. Such a notification shall--
(A) identify the records the Secretary is unable to obtain;
(B) briefly explain the efforts that the Secretary made to obtain those records; and
(C) describe any further action to be taken by the Secretary with respect to the claim.

(3) Whenever the Secretary attempts to obtain records from a Federal department or agency under this subsection or subsection (c), the efforts to obtain those records shall continue until the records are obtained unless it is reasonably certain that such records do not exist or that further efforts to obtain those records would be futile.

(c) Obtaining records for compensation claims. In the case of a claim for disability compensation, the assistance provided by the Secretary under subsection (b) shall include obtaining the following records if relevant to the claim:

(1) The claimant's service medical records and, if the claimant has furnished the Secretary information sufficient to locate such records, other relevant records pertaining to the claimant's active military, naval, or air service that are held or maintained by a governmental entity.

(2) Records of relevant medical treatment or examination of the claimant at Department health-care facilities or at the expense of the Department, if the claimant furnishes information sufficient to locate those records.

(3) Any other relevant records held by any Federal department or agency that the claimant adequately identifies and authorizes the Secretary to obtain.

(d) Medical examinations for compensation claims.

(1) In the case of a claim for disability compensation, the assistance provided by the Secretary under subsection (a) shall include providing a medical examination or obtaining a medical opinion when such an examination or opinion is necessary to make a decision on the claim.

(2) The Secretary shall treat an examination or opinion as being necessary to make a decision on a claim for purposes of paragraph (1) if the evidence of record before the Secretary, taking into consideration all information and lay or medical evidence (including statements of the claimant)--

(A) contains competent evidence that the claimant has a current disability, or persistent or recurrent symptoms of disability; and

(B) indicates that the disability or symptoms may be associated with the claimant's active military, naval, or air service; but

(C) does not contain sufficient medical evidence for the Secretary to make a decision on the claim.

(e) Regulations. The Secretary shall prescribe regulations to carry out this section.

(f) Rule with respect to disallowed claims. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the Secretary to reopen a claim that has been disallowed except when new and material evidence is presented or secured, as described in section 5108 of this title [38 USCS § 5108].

(g) Other assistance not precluded. Nothing in this section shall be construed as precluding the Secretary from providing such other assistance under subsection (a) to a claimant in substantiating a claim as the Secretary considers appropriate.".

Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106-475, § 3(a), 114 Stat. 2096, 2096-2097, was enacted, court found that case should not be remanded to Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims (or, in turn, Board of Veterans' Appeals) for further proceedings under § 3(a) of VCAA. Marine during World War II, which claim was denied on basis that claimant did not establish active-duty service for status as a "veteran", Department of Veterans Affairs erred under 38 USCS § 5103A because it did not make additional request seeking verification of service following submission of documents by veteran to regional office. Frasure v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 379, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 581

Under plain language of 38 USCS § 5103A, Secretary of Veterans Affairs' duty-to-assist provisions apply in connection with claimant's attempt to establish entitlement to his or her claim for award of Veterans Administration benefits and not in connection with claimant's attempt to establish mental incapacity for purposes of tolling judicial-appeal period under 38 USCS § 7266(a) and obtaining Court of Veterans Appeals jurisdiction over appeal of Board of Veterans Appeals' decision. Jones v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 500, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 719

3. -Assistance in obtaining records (38 USCS § 5103A(b))

With respect to claim for disability compensation benefits based on asserted VA service connection hearing loss in connection with active-duty service in U.S. Coast Guard Merchant Marine during World War II, which claim was denied on basis that claimant did not establish active-duty service for status as a "veteran", Department of Veterans Affairs erred under 38 USCS § 5103A because it did not make additional request seeking verification of service following submission of documents by veteran to regional office. Frasure v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 379, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 581

Department of Veterans Affairs did not fail to comply with its duty under 38 USCS § 5103A to assist claimant because at no time during pendency of his claim before VA did claimant ever identify any additional medical records or quality-assurance reports, or request VA to provide them, or explain how they might be relevant to his claim. Loving v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 96, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 131

4. --Obtaining records for compensation claims (38 USCS § 5103A(c))

With respect to claim for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder, if veteran's assertion regarding deaths of unit members was that his knowledge of deaths was stressor, then VA had duty to assist veteran in attempting to verify deaths; if, however, the veteran's assertion was that he witnessed their deaths, then VA had obligation to attempt to verify deaths only if there was evidence that veteran was present when those deaths allegedly occurred. Sizemore v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 264, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 555

With respect to claim for disability compensation benefits based on asserted VA service connection hearing loss in connection with active-duty service in U.S. Coast Guard Merchant Marine during World War II, which claim was denied on basis that claimant did not establish active-duty service for status as a "veteran", Department of Veterans Affairs erred under 38 USCS § 5103A because it did not make additional request seeking verification of service following submission of documents by veteran to regional office. Frasure v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 379, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 581

Department of Veterans Affairs did not fail to comply with its duty under 38 USCS § 5103A to assist claimant because at no time during pendency of his claim before VA did claimant ever identify any additional medical records or quality-assurance reports, or request VA to provide them, or explain how they might be relevant to his claim. Loving v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 96, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 131

5. -Medical examinations and medical opinions for compensation claims (38 USCS § 5103A(d))

Veteran had to show some causal connection between disability and military service, disability alone was not enough; Board of Veterans Appeals had no duty to obtain medical opinion absent evidence disability was service related. Wells v Principi (2003, CA FC) 326 F.3d 1381, reh den, reh, en banc, den (2003, CA FC) 2003 US App LEXIS 19512

Where veteran provided some evidence that hearing loss and tinnitus may have been service-related, Secretary of Veterans Affairs had duty to assist veteran in obtaining medical

Where record before Board of Veterans' Appeals contained: (1) veteran's statement that he experienced difficulty in breathing, easy fatigability, and recurring rapid heartbeat, (2) veteran's assertion that those symptoms were symptoms of his claimed disabilities and that he had experienced them since his separation from service, and (3) discharge examination report that included notation of tachycardia, which was abnormality of cardiovascular system, Board did not comply with 38 USCS § 7104(d)(1) in that it failed to support its conclusion that Department of Veterans Affairs was not required under 38 USCS § 5103A(d) to provide veteran with medical examination with respect to his claim for service connection for heart disease; matter was remanded so that Board could properly address whether record: (1) contained competent evidence that veteran had recurrent symptoms of heart disease, and (2) indicated that those symptoms might be associated with his active military service. Duenas v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 512, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 798

6. Regulations (38 USCS § 5103A(e))

Regulations regarding claims procedures, 38 C.F.R. §§ 3.156 and 1.159, which were promulgated by Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, were valid, as they were not on their face arbitrary, capricious, and contrary to statutory provisions; however, 38 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1) was inconsistent with VCAA, and therefore invalid. Paralyzed Veterans of Am. v Sec'y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 345 F.3d 1334

7. Other assistance (38 USCS § 5103A(g))

With respect to claim for disability compensation benefits based on asserted VA service connection hearing loss in connection with active-duty service in U.S. Coast Guard Merchant Marine during World War II, which claim was denied on basis that claimant did not establish active-duty service for status as a "veteran", Department of Veterans Affairs erred under 38 USCS § 5103A because it did not make additional request seeking verification of service following submission of documents by veteran to regional office. Frasure v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 379, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 581

8. Judicial review

Williams test with respect to exception to finality requirement did not depend on whether Veterans Court's interpretation of 38 USCS § 5103A would be applied in Veterans Court's final decision, but whether there was substantial risk that this interpretation would not survive non-final order. Jones v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 431 F.3d 1353

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims did not determine whether remand was warranted solely for compliance with Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096, and amended notice requirements, because court remanded Board for readjudication when Board did not provide adequate reasons or bases for its findings, and court ordered Board to comply with requirements of VCAA. Fortuck v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 173, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 519

Under plain language of 38 USCS § 5103A, Secretary of Veterans Affairs' duty-to-assist provisions apply in connection with claimant's attempt to establish entitlement to his or her claim for award of Veterans Administration benefits and not in connection with claimant's attempt to establish mental incapacity for purposes of tolling judicial-appeal period under 38 USCS § 7266(a) and obtaining Court of Veterans Appeals jurisdiction over appeal of Board of Veterans Appeals' decision. 9. -Nonprejudicial error

Although Board of Veterans' Appeals did not comply with 38 USCS § 7104(d)(1) when it failed to support its conclusion that Department of Veterans Affairs was not required under 38 USCS § 5103A(d) to provide veteran with medical examination with respect to veteran's claims for service connection for poor vision and hearing-loss disability, error was nonprejudicial under 38 USCS § 7261(b) because there was no evidence in record reflecting that veteran suffered event, injury, or disease in service that could be associated with those symptoms. Duenas v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 512, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 798

10. -Remand to Board of Veterans' Appeals

11. Miscellaneous

Breach of duty to assist veteran does not vitiate finality of Veterans' Administration (VA) Regional Office's decision; Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit therefore overrules Hayre v. West, 188 F.3d 1327 (Fed. Cir. 1999) to extent that it created additional exception to rule of finality applicable to VA decisions by reason of "grave procedural error." § 5104. Decisions and notices of decisions

Discussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual

(a) In the case of a decision by the Secretary under section 511 of this title [38 USCS § 511] affecting the provision of benefits to a claimant, the Secretary shall, on a timely basis, provide to the claimant (and to the claimant's representative) notice of such decision. The notice shall include an explanation of the procedure for obtaining review of the decision.

(b) In any case where the Secretary denies a benefit sought, the notice required by subsection (a) shall also include (1) a statement of the reasons for the decision, and (2) a summary of the evidence considered by the Secretary.

Explanatory notes:

A prior § 5104 was transferred by Act May 7, 1991, P. L. 102-40, Title IV, § 402(b)(1), 105 Stat. 238, and appears as 38 USCS § 8304.

Amendments:

1991. Act May 7, 1991 redesignated this section, formerly 38 USCS § 3004, as 38 USCS § 5104.

Act June 13, 1991 (effective immediately before enactment of Act May 7, 1991 as provided by § 14(d) of Act June 13, 1991) redesignated former subsec. (a)(1) as subsec. (a) and redesignated former subsec. (a)(2) as subsec. (b); and, in subsec. (b) as so redesignated, substituted "subsection (a)" for "paragraph (1) of this subsection", and substituted "(1)" and "(2)" for "(A)" and "(B)" respectively.

1994. Act Nov. 2, 1994, in subsec. (a), substituted "section 511" for "section 211(a)".

Notice that was issued by Board of Veterans’ Appeals informing veteran of his appeal rights for denial of benefits was not defective under 38 USCS § 5104(a) because it provided general outline of available procedures for obtaining review of final Board decision and was not required to advise him of postmark rule of 38 USCS § 7266. Mapu v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 397 F.3d 1375

Section 5104’s general command to provide certain types of notices is given content as to BVA decisions by section 7104(e)’s more specific command to provide copies of BVA decisions by “mail,” and types of notice required by section 5104(a) must be mailed along with copy of BVA decision; so read, provisions are compatible and do not conflict. Thompson v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 169

VA’s failure to attach statement of appellate rights to decision tolls time for filing notice of disagreement. In re Fee Agreement of Cox (1997) 10 Vet App 361, vacated, remanded (1998, CA FC) 149 F.3d 1360

Court of Appeals for Veteran Claims declined to hold that failure of compliance with 38 USCS § 5104(a) duty tolled running of 120-day judicial appeal period set forth in 38 USCS § 7266(a)(1) where veteran failed to keep Department of Veterans Affairs apprised of current address, and only question was whether veteran had timely appealed Board of Veterans’ Appeals’ decision denying earlier effective date for service-connected disability benefits. Davis v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 29, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 167, subsequent app (2004, CA FC) 85 Fed Appx 771

Where court granted Secretary of Veterans Affairs’ motion to remand veteran’s appeal of decision of Board of Veterans’ Appeals based on enactment of Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096 (2000), and enactment of VCAA took place on same day that Board’s decision was issued, veteran, who had joined in Secretary’s remand motion, was not prevailing party for purposes of Equal Access to Justice Act, 28 USCS § 2412(d)(1)(A). White v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 301, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 765

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims declined to apply equitable tolling to untimely notice of appeal that veteran had improperly sent to Department of Veterans Affairs Office of General Counsel, where veteran had benefit of Notice of Appellate Rights, in accordance with 38 USCS § 5104, attached to copy of Board of Veterans’ Appeals decision that explicitly provided that filing copy of notice of appeal with OGC would not have protected his right to appeal with Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims. Reed v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 380, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 924

District court was bound by Federal Circuit court’s definition of “due diligence,” and claimant’s actions, in timely filing statement of appeal with Board of Veterans’ Appeals (BVA) and asking BVA to forward statement to court, fell under equitable-tolling-doctrine umbrella; although claimant's filing of Notice of Appeal, after BVA did not forward statement, was filed outside of appeal period, it was considered timely and court had jurisdiction to review appeal. Bobbitt v Principi (2004) 17 Vet App 547, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 193

Appellant did not file timely notice of appeal from decision of Board of Veterans' Appeals, and there was no evidence that tolling of time period in 38 USCS § 7266(a) and Ct. Vet. App. R. 4 was warranted, as appellant was fully advised of his right to appeal, in accordance with 38 USCS § 5104, appellant did not show that he had timely misfiled notice of appeal, and also did not show that appellant had mental illness that made him incapable of timely filing notice of appeal; therefore, appeal was dismissed. § 5105. Joint applications for social security and dependency and indemnity compensation

(a) The Secretary and the Commissioner of Social Security shall jointly prescribe forms for use by survivors of members and former members of the uniformed services in filing application for benefits under chapter 13 of this title [38 USCS §§ 1301 et seq.] and title II of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.). Each such form shall request information sufficient to constitute an application for benefits under both chapter 13 of this title [38 USCS §§ 1301 et seq.] and title II of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.).

(b) When an application on such form is filed with either the Secretary or the Commissioner of Social Security, it shall be deemed to be an application for benefits under both chapter 13 of this title [38 USCS §§ 1301 et seq.] and title II of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.). A copy of each such application filed with either the Secretary or the Commissioner, together with any additional information and supporting documents (or certifications thereof) which may have been received by the Secretary or the Commissioner with such application, and which may be needed by the other official in connection therewith, shall be transmitted by the Secretary or the Commissioner receiving the application to the other official. The preceding sentence shall not prevent the Secretary and the Commissioner of Social Security from requesting the applicant, or any other individual, to furnish such additional information as may be necessary for purposes of chapter 13 of this title [38 USCS §§ 1301 et seq.] and title II of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.) respectively.

"(b) Rule for claims the denial of which became final after the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims decision in the Morton Case.(1) In the case of a claim for benefits denied or dismissed as described in paragraph (2), the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall, upon the request of the claimant or on the Secretary's own motion, order the claim readjudicated under chapter 51 of such title [38 USCS §§ 5100 et seq.], as amended by this Act, as if the denial or dismissal had not been made.

"(2) A denial or dismissal described in this paragraph is a denial or dismissal of a claim for a benefit under the laws administered by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs that--

"(A) became final during the period beginning on July 14, 1999, and ending on the date of the enactment of this Act; and

"(3) A claim may not be readjudicated under this subsection unless a request for readjudication is filed by the claimant, or a motion is made by the Secretary, not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Butler v Principi (2001, CA FC) 244 F.3d 1337

Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit reviewed regulations promulgated by Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. 2. Benefit of doubt doctrine

Benefit of doubt rule codified at 38 USCS § 5107 is inapplicable when preponderance of evidence is found to be against claimant. Ortiz v Principi (2001, CA FC) 274 F.3d 1361

"Preponderance of evidence" is proper evidentiary standard necessary to rebut 38 USCS § 105(a) presumption that injury was service-connected and to determine that peacetime disability was result of willful misconduct. Thomas v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 423 F.3d 1279

As "preponderance of evidence" establishing willful misconduct was sufficient to rebut presumption of service-connection for peacetime disabilities under 38 USCS § 105(a), and veteran's willful misconduct in repeatedly failing to obey lawful order was proved under that standard, his claim for disability benefits was properly denied. Thomas v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 423 F.3d 1279

Perhaps in most cases Board's decision on issues of material fact, and court's review of that decision, will be inextricably intertwined with determination whether veteran is entitled to benefit of doubt; where findings of material facts by Board are properly supported and reasoned and Board concludes that fair preponderance of evidence waived against veteran's claim, it would not be error for Board to deny veteran benefit of doubt, and such denial would not be subject to reversal as arbitrary, capricious, abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law because it was premised upon rational basis and supported by appropriate and relevant factors which were properly articulated. Gilbert v Derwinski (1990) 1 Vet App 49, mod (1991) 1 Vet App 61

Remand was required for reassessment of veteran's unemployability and if Board is unable to determine whether veteran's unemployability is caused by his non-service-connected disabilities or by his service-connected disabilities, then evidence may be so evenly balanced that benefit of doubt doctrine may apply. Fluharty v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 409

Equipoise rule of statute applies to questions of service connection under regulation providing that service connection may be granted post-discharge when all evidence establishes that disease was incurred in service. Cosman v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 503

Equipoise doctrine cannot take place of standard for reopening case since applying this benefit of doubt doctrine to reopening would require full credibility determination before matter is reopened, and all statute concerning reopening requires is that new and material evidence be presented or secured, not weighed. Martinez v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 462

Widow of veteran was not entitled to benefit of doubt in review of her claim to entire proceeds of veteran's National Service Life Insurance policy since there were two claimants to proceeds. Elias v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 259

Even if Board did not comply with three-step process for evaluating service-connection claims under § 1154 and instead leapt directly to step three without determining whether veteran had submitted lay or other evidence consistent with conditions, circumstances, and hardships of his service, there was clear and convincing evidence of nonincurrence during service to rebut steps one and two, so error was harmless. Velez v West (1998) 11 Vet App 148, app dismd (1998, CA FC) 178 F.3d 1308, vacated (1998, CA FC) 185 F.3d 878 and app dismd (1999, CA FC) 215 F.3d 1344

Combat veteran who has successfully established in-service occurrence or aggravation of injury pursuant to lighter evidentiary burden imposed on combat veterans must still submit sufficient evidence of causal nexus between that in-service event and his or her current disability in order to meet initial burden of submitting well-grounded claim. Wade v West (1998) 11 Vet App 302
Presumption of regularity of administrative process was not rebutted because of benefit of doubt doctrine under 38 USCS § 5107(b) where Board determined that preponderance of evidence was against claimant's assertion of nonreceipt of letter instructing her to complete claim form; benefit of doubt doctrine does not apply until consideration of all evidence and material of record, and does not come into play unless evidence of record is in equipoise Schoolman v West (1999) 12 Vet App 307, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 148

Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 did not alter statutory benefit of doubt rule under 38 USC § 5107(b) and does not mandate discussion of all lay evidence before Board. Dela Cruz v Principi (2001) 15 Vet App 143, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 951, app dismd (2003, CA FC) 55 Fed Appx 541

Where two examinations reflected at-or-below-shoulder-level flexion measurements, one examination reflected above-shoulder-level flexion measurement, and it was unclear what private physician was measuring, finding, that veteran had arm motion above shoulder level based solely on flexion measurements, had no plausible basis in record; application of 38 USCS § 5107(b) equipoise standard in reaching any factual determination based on flexion was thus clearly erroneous under 38 USCS § 7261(a)(4). Mariano v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 305, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 782

Where two examiners attributed veteran's limitation of movement of shoulder to service connected residual of gunshot wound, one examiner attributed limitation to arthritis or ambiguous etiology, and one examiner used flawed methodology, application of 38 USCS § 5107(b) equipoise standard in finding that limitation was due to arthritis was clearly erroneous under 38 USCS § 7261(a)(4). Mariano v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 305, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 782

3. Remedies

Remand rather than reversal was proper remedy for BVA's failure to assist appellant by obtaining orthopedic examination and failing to articulate reasons or bases for rejecting chiropractors' opinions as speculative, where chiropractor's letter was unclear as to nature of appellant's condition and premised upon only one of appellant's varied statements, and thus insufficient to establish conclusively both nature of claimant's disability and its service connection. Smith v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 255

When Board erroneously concludes that claim is well grounded and then proceeds to consider merits and disallows claim, appropriate remedy is to affirm rather than vacate BVA decision disallowing claim on merits. Edenfield v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 384 (criticized in Dolotanora v Gober (1997, Vet App) 1997 US Vet App LEXIS 714)

4. Miscellaneous

38 C.F.R. § 3.304(f), which requires "credible supporting evidence" of occurrence of stressor in non-combat-related claims for service connection of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), is not arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law; § 3.304(f) does not conflict with 38 USCS §§ 1154(a) and 5107(b), because regulation does not alter Department of Veterans Affairs' obligation to review all evidence of record when determining service connection, nor does it preclude consideration of lay evidence. Nat'l Org. of Veterans' Advocates v Sec'y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 330 F.3d 1345

BVA erred in denying veteran's claim for entitlement to service-connected disability compensation for upper-respiratory disorder solely on basis of one VA physical examination where that examination was difficult to decipher and was not conducted specifically for VA compensation purposes but in response to veteran's immediate physical discomfort. Bartow v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 657, app dismd (1995, Vet App) 1995 US Vet App LEXIS 74
Board was required, in rating reduction case, to establish by preponderance of evidence that rating reduction was warranted, and it erred in requiring claimant to prove by preponderance of evidence that he was entitled to retain existing rating. Brown v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 413, costs/fees proceeding, motion to strike den (1994, Vet App) 1994 US Vet App LEXIS 687

II. ASSISTANCE OF CLAIMANTS

5. Generally

Court of Veterans Appeals did not err in its interpretation of 38 USCS § 5107 in holding that DVA assistance in claim development is conditional upon submission of well ground claim; statute first requires that claimant has burden of submitting evidence to justify belief that claim is well grounded and then requires DVA to assist "such claimant" in developing facts pertinent to claim; well-grounded claim is not necessarily one which will ultimately be allowable, but one which is plausible, properly supported with evidence. Epps v Gober (1997, CA FC) 126 F.3d 1464, cert den (1998) 524 US 940, 118 S Ct 2348 and (superseded by statute as stated in Bernklau v Principi (2002, CA FC) 291 F.3d 795)

Evidence submitted by veteran claiming service-connection for residuals of injury to left scrotum, while insufficient to reopen his claim, was sufficient to trigger duty to assist. Ivey v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 320

VA & BVA were under duty to assist veteran in developing facts pertinent to his unemployability claim for pension purposes since he submitted well-grounded claim of unemployability, consisting of evidence that he had continuously been rated as permanently and totally disabled by Social Security Administration retroactive to 1981, private medical records in which examining psychiatrists concluded that probabilities were great that veteran would continue to have difficulty in maintaining regular employment, and VA rehabilitation counselor's report concluding that there was poor prognosis for vocational change in the future. Masors v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 181, motion gr, request den sub nom Masors v Brown (1995, Vet App) 1995 US Vet App LEXIS 754

Veteran's claim for psychiatric disability due to nonpsychotic brain syndrome was well-grounded because it was plausible and capable of substantiation by records of his treatment at mental health clinic, hence Secretary had duty to assist. Corbbrey v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 266

Veteran failed to provide sufficient information to oblige VA to assist him in obtaining records of private medical treatment and failing to appear for VA disability examinations. Olson v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 480

Secretary had not duty to assist veteran where record contained no request for records of veteran who allegedly suffered same disability, veteran made no counterdesignation or exception to record, and only record reference to other veteran was as perpetrator of alleged trick exposing appellant to carbon tetrachloride. Martin v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 553, app dismd without op (1993, CA FC) 1 F.3d 1253, reported in full (1993, CA FC) 1993 US App LEXIS 35887 and cert den (1993) 510 US 954, 114 S Ct 407

VA was obligated to assist veteran with respect to claim for earlier effective date of benefits since liberal reading of issues raised should have prompted BVA to consider whether veteran was granted benefits pursuant to Former Prisoner of War Benefits Act. Dunson v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 327

Board did not assist veteran in development claim of service-connected PTSD, rather kept returning to previously diagnosed schizophrenia. Ascherl v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 371

While no duty to assist arises absent well-grounded claim, if Secretary as matter of policy volunteers assistance to establish well-groundedness, grave questions of due process can arise if there is apparent disparate treatment between claimants regarding such assistance. Grivois v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 136

Failure to fulfill duty to assist cannot constitute clear and unmistakable error. Crippen v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 412

VA did not have heightened duty to assist appellant because he was mentally incompetent where he was judged to be competent at time his application for compensation of pension was filed. Steward v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 458, op withdrawn, substituted op, on reconsideration (1997) 10 Vet App 15

Appellant's mental capacity at time of filing application for disability compensation does not trigger heightened duty to assist under statute or existing caselaw. Stewart v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 15

6. Providing examination

Board had duty to assist with development of claim of mental disorder by ordering comprehensive psychiatric examination once veteran met statutory burden with report submitted by his private doctors. EF v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 324

Duty to assist was breached by both RO and Board in not recognizing that medical examination had failed to included opinion as to whether there was any possible relationship between veterans' past back problems incurred in service and current back problems. Wilson v Derwinski (1991) 2 Vet App 16

Denial of increase in service-connected benefits to compensable rating for testicular atrophy, which occurred after appellant contracted mumps while in service, was erroneously denied due to lack of clinical evidence where denial was without benefit of physical examination which might have assisted determination of veteran's eligibility for benefits. Akles v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 118

Agency breached its duty to assist veteran in developing his claim since record was incomplete on its face in that it lacked any notation of pain during movement and failed to properly record veteran's range of motion, and because veteran made reference to recent private medical examinations in his substantive appeal and had requested new medical examination be conducted; at minimum agency had duty to advise veteran to submit results of his private medical examination and make them part of record on appeal. Littke v Derwinski (1990) 1 Vet App 90

BVA did not breach its statutory duty to assist claimant by failing to provide second physical examination as requested since veteran had been provided physical several years earlier and had not challenged its adequacy nor submitted further evidence to support his claim of increase in his service-connected disability. Hohlt v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 402

Veteran presented well-grounded claim for increased rating for service-connected disabilities, requiring Board to assist him rather than deny claim without even ordering contemporaneous examination. Balicat v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 284

Once veteran raised issue that his stomach disorder was secondary to his service-connected disability, RO and Board breached their statutory duty to assist by neglecting to order a probative examination. James v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 41

VA had no duty to assist veteran by undertaking an audiometric examination upon his discharge since veteran made no claim for defective hearing upon discharge, nor was VA on notice that veteran had any hearing problem. Shoop v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 45

Board failed in its duty to assist veteran who presented well-grounded claim in not ordering examination to evaluate claimant's disability since earlier examination did not address effect of veteran's service-connected disabilities upon his employability. Ferazzoli v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 152
Given unavailability of service medical records of veteran who submitted well-grounded claims for service-connected disability compensation, duty to assist included thorough and contemporaneous medical examination which takes into account records of prior medical treatment. Milostan v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 250

When servicemember claimed that bilateral hammertoes condition was worse than originally rated and available evidence was too old for adequate evaluation of current condition, VA breached its duty to assist by refusing requested examination. Weggenmann v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 281

Board breached its duty to assist veteran by not conducting examination to determine to what degree his functional impairment was attributable to PTSD where various VA and private physicians diagnosed veteran as having several neuropsychiatric disorders concurrently but none fully described degree of disability attributable to each disorder. Waddell v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 454

Appellant presented medical evidence tending to show that his protective reaction sensation was lessened or totally compromised by service-connected injury in hand to which he suffered subsequent saw injury, hence VA had duty to assist, and where VA undertook no medical examination, its conclusion that there was no evidence that service-connected injury played significant role in subsequent injury was self-fulfilling prophecy. Schroeder v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 220

Board should have ordered contemporaneous examination which specifically addressed issues of reconciling diagnoses and service connection where appellant reasonably raised issue of service-aggravation of his preexisting psychiatric disorder. Wisch v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 139

VA did not fulfill its duty to assist appellant when he expressly complained of worsening ear problems and that he was having trouble wearing his hearing aid because of infection; where appellant complained of hearing loss two years after his last audiology examination, VA should have scheduled appellant for another examination. Snuffer v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 400

VA failed in its duty to assist by not conducting contemporaneous audiology examination before issuing rating decision denying veteran compensable rating for bilateral hearing loss. Snuffer v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 400

Fulfillment of statutory duty to assist includes conduct of thorough and contemporaneous medical examination, one which takes into account records of prior medical treatment, so that evaluation of claimed disability will be fully informed one, but VA's report of examination of claimant was inadequate and frustrated judicial review where it discussed claimant's left mandible pain but not whether that pain had resulted in ratable masticatory functional loss. Floyd v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 88

Appellant was not entitled to another medical examination of his ears to support his well-grounded claim for service-connected otomycosis since testimony of both veteran and his wife related symptoms that were readily observable and centered upon matters within knowledge and personal observations of witnesses. Bruce v West (1998) 11 Vet App 405

Because veteran has not presented competent evidence connecting any current disability to period of service and claim is not well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107, statutory duty to assist had not attached and VA's failure to conduct recommended x-ray examination could not have constituted prejudicial violation of 38 USCS § 5107(a). Brewer v West (1998) 11 Vet App 228

Because veteran has not submitted well grounded claim with regard to Agent Orange exposure and veteran’s conditions, duty to assist under 38 USCS § 5107 was not triggered and veteran was not entitled to VA medical examination under duty to assist. Chase v West (2000) 13 Vet App 413, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 292

7. Obtaining medical records and reports

Even if Board of Veteran's Affairs committed grave procedural error and violated its duty to assist under 38 USCS § 5107(a) by failing to request certain medical records in determining that veteran was not disabled, finality of its decision was not vitiated; judicially-created exception to rule of finality for such errors had been overruled and veteran did not assert either of exceptions set out in 38 USCS § 7105(c). Tetro v Principi (2003, CA FC) 314 F.3d 1310

VA failed to assist veteran in obtain his medical records where record indicated that veteran reported various treatments yet there was no evidence that VA attempted to obtain records. Sheed v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 255

Board erred by failing to respond to veteran's repeated request for medical records of his treatment at facility in light of veteran's statement that x-rays of his arm were taken at that facility and that physician there felt that something was wrong with veteran's right arm.
Schafrath v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 589

Board should have sought to obtain records of stress test requested by veteran even though it claimed that pulmonary function tests performed during VA examination few months prior to that were adequate, since VA's statutory duty to assist includes duty to obtain pertinent medical records, especially those specifically requested by claimant, and there was no question that requested records were pertinent to veteran's claim for increased service-connected disability rating for chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. Leap v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 404

Secretary failed to assist veteran when it failed to acquire medical records of which it had notice. Culver v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 292

BVA failed in its statutory duty to assist veteran by not attempting to obtain medical records from a private physician who, according to veteran's wife, had diagnosed claimed diseases within one year of veteran's discharge from service. Collamore v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 541

Board had duty to assist veteran in securing private medical records since it was possible that outpatient reports not previously secured could possibly establish service connection for back disorder. Grossman v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 445

Given unavailability of service medical records of veteran who submitted well-grounded claims for service-connected disability compensation, duty to assist included thorough and contemporaneous medical examination which takes into account records of prior medical treatment. Milostan v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 250

VA failed in its statutory duty to assist veteran by failing to obtain report of private physical examination which veteran requested VA to procure. Graves v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 166

BVA did not breach its duty to assist by failing to obtain x-rays taken during appellant's predischarge physical where examination indicated no significant abnormalities with respect to x-rays, and appellant did not show relevance of x-rays nor was it readily apparent. Counts v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 473, dismd without op (1995, CA FC) 66 F.3d 345, reported in full (1995, CA FC) 1995 US App LEXIS 25302 and cert den (1996) 516 US 1158, 116 S Ct 1041

Appellant had not demonstrated that Board of Veterans' Appeals committed error in denying as not well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) claim for service connection where appellant submitted no medical evidence of nexus to service, and failure of VA to provide copy of examination report could not have conceivably prejudiced outcome of case since report contained no evidence of nexus. Anderson v West (1999) 12 Vet App 491, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 742

Secretary satisfied duty to assist surviving spouse's claim that veteran's death was service connected pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a) where Secretary obtained veteran's service medical records, military personnel records, findings of lung biopsy and other procedures, and submitted claim to pulmonary specialist for review. Dyment v West (1999) 13 Vet App 141, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1273, affd (2002, CA FC) 287 F.3d 1377, reh den, reh, en banc, den (2002, CA FC) 43 Fed Appx 371

Veterans Benefits Administration letter providing that VA has immediate development obligation to request service medical records and records from VA medical centers prior to making determination as to whether claim is well grounded is enforceable in Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims against Secretary since provision is substantive in nature and authorized by 38 USCS § 5107(a). McCormick v Gober (2000) 14 Vet App 39, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 858

8. Obtaining SSA records
Board failed in its duty to assist on veteran's claim for individual unemployability in failing to obtain veteran's SSA records and failed to articulate reasons for concluding that records were not relevant to his claim. Martin v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 468, substituted op, on reconsideration, remanded, in part (1993) 4 Vet App 136

VA breached its statutory duty to assist by failing to obtain veteran's SSA records of which it had notice. Lind v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 493

Board breached its duty to assist when it did not obtain veteran's SSA records but based its conclusions only on SSA's final decision. Martin v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 136

Since veteran's claim for non-service-connected pension was well grounded at time of Board of Veterans' Appeals decision, VA had duty to assist veteran under 38 USCS § 5107(a), and failure of Board to obtain Social Security Administration records pertaining to disability award vitiates finality of Board decision setting effective date of non-service-connected total and permanent disability. Tetro v West (2000) 13 Vet App 404, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 259, substituted op (2000) 14 Vet App 100, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 880, affd (2003, CA FC) 314 F.3d 1310

VA had duty to assist appellant under 38 USCS § 5107(a) in developing facts pertinent to his well-grounded pension claim, including obtaining all relevant Social Security Administration (SSA) records regarding his disability and employability; however, because of dearth of clear authority to guide Board in 1990 concerning procurement of SSA records, Board's failure to obtain SSA records was not error of such magnitude that it deprived appellant of fair opportunity to obtain benefit provided by law. Tetro v Gober (2000) 14 Vet App 100, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 880, affd (2003, CA FC) 314 F.3d 1310

9. Other particular assistance

Agency failed to assist widow who asserted service-connected death claim based on earlier service-connected cancer in developing evidence to support her claim under predecessor statute; taking Board's finding that no causal relationship had been shown between epidermoid carcinoma and glioblastoma multiforme at face value, it necessarily meant the claimant submitted well-grounded claim which was not "shown" by evidence because Secretary failed to provide requisite assistance. Murphy v Derwinski (1990) 1 Vet App 78 (ovrd as stated in Carpenito v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 534)

Secretary's duty to assist at least encompasses responding to claimant's request for search of records already in claimant's files. Jolley v Derwinski (1990) 1 Vet App 37

Board failed to assist veteran in developing his claim through sources of evidence other than his lost service records, and failed to explain its reason for concluding that search for veteran's lost records had been properly terminated. Dixon v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 261

Since evidence specified that veteran had no symptomatology within 40-year presumptive period, he had not submitted well-grounded claim and Secretary did not have duty to seek additional medical opinion. Harvey v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 343

Under predecessor to statute BVA did not fulfill its duty to assist veteran in developing claim for service-connection for PTSD; although Environmental Support Group was unable to document all information veteran supplied related to his alleged combat experiences in Vietnam and alleged stressors he experienced during that period of service, it was able to verify some and informed VA that it required additional information, yet there was no evidence that VA ever requested additional information from veteran, who had volunteered to provide it if necessary. Zarycki v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 91 (superseded by statute as stated in Cohen v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 128)
Secretary of Veterans Affairs is not required by statute or regulation to conduct job market or employability survey to determine whether claimant is unemployable as result of service-connected disabilities, or to use experts to resolve issue of unemployability, hence failure to do so does not constitute breach of duty to assist. Gary v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 229

Where Board ordered 1992 psychiatric examination of claimant and ordered RO to make appellant's claims folder available to examiner, Board's reliance upon 1990 examination conducted by psychiatry resident who did not have appellant's claims folder neither fulfilled VA's duty to assist nor constituted adequate predicate for either rating determination or BVA's decision. Bolton v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 185

Since witnessing death of friend by incoming fire just moments after claimant waved to him constitutes sufficient stressor as matter of law for purposes of establishing service-connected post-traumatic stress disorder, duty to assist requires BVA to attempt to corroborate event by obtaining information regarding identity of servicemember killed in action while appellant was stationed at Vietnamese air base. Dizoglio v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 163 (criticized in Moreau v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 389)

Board failed to assist claimant in obtaining evidence from alternate sources where his service medical records had been destroyed, by failing to advise him to obtain other forms of evidence and what alternative forms of evidence would be appropriate. Smith v Brown (1996) 10 Vet App 44

Although Board was required to obtain military records of veteran claiming service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder, it was not required to do so with regard to hospital records whose existence it had not been appraised of. Sayre v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 224

Secretary violated duty to assist under 38 USCS § 5107(a) where Board of Veterans' Appeals did not make effort to investigate disposition of Presidential Unit Citation (PUC) recommendation and confirmation of receipt of PUC by appellant's unit reasonably should have led to examination of command history to determine whether it provided corroboration for appellant's claim of having engaged in combat. Falk v West (1999) 12 Vet App 402, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 372

Cursory dismissal of possibility of existence of evidence beneficial to appellant's claim by doctor acting on behalf of Under Secretary of Health did not satisfy VA's duty to assist under 38 USCS § 5107(a) and VA had duty to inform appellant that she needed to submit studies she relied upon in support of claim, to attempt to obtain studies for doctor's consideration, or to provide specific citations to materials so VA could access them. Stone v Gober (2000) 14 Vet App 116, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 879

III. NECESSITY CLAIM BE WELL-GROUNDED

10. Generally

Court of Veterans Appeals did not err in its interpretation of 38 USCS § 5107 in holding that DVA assistance in claim development is conditional upon submission of well grounded claim; statute first requires that claimant has burden of submitting evidence to justify belief that claim is well grounded and then requires DVA to assist "such claimant" in developing facts pertinent to claim; well-grounded claim is not necessarily one which will ultimately be allowable, but one which is plausible, properly supported with evidence. Epps v Gober (1997, CA FC) 126 F.3d 1464, cert den (1998) 524 US 940, 141 L Ed 2d 718, 118 S Ct 2348 and (superseded by statute as stated in Bernklau v Principi (2002, CA FC) 291 F.3d 795)

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims erred when it decided case based on whether appellant's claim was well grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a) rather than addressing merits and contention regarding breach of duty to assist since regional office and Board deemed claim well grounded. Nolen v Gober (2000, CA FC) 222 F.3d 1356, on remand, remanded (2000) 14 Vet App 183, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1052

Board erred in finding that servicemember's claim for secondary service connection for low back disorder was not well grounded where appellant offered plausible explanation, supported by sufficient evidence, as to why his back condition should be considered service connected; fact that there might be other plausible explanations does not prevent appellant's claim from being well grounded since conclusive evidence is not needed for claim to be well grounded. Reiber v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 513

Where determinative issue involves medical etiology or medical diagnosis, competent medical evidence that claim is plausible or possible is required in order for claim to be well grounded. Johnson v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 7

It was legally imprecise, if not incorrect, for Board to purport to decide that appellant's clear-and-unmistakable error claim was not well grounded since determinative issue was not evidentiary but legal, i.e., whether appellant complied with legal requirements to plead CUE claim. Luallen v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 92

Even assuming change in relevant law was brought about by judicial interpretation and that, prior to assumed change, appellant's claim would have been well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) when it was filed, Court must give full retroactive to rule formulated in those decisions. Brewer v West (1998) 11 Vet App 228

Remand is required in order to provide Board of Veterans' Appeals with opportunity to readjudicate claim under Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, which amended 38 USCS § 5107(a) to eliminate well-grounded requirement, where Board denied appellant's claim as not well-grounded and claim was not final as of date of enactment of Act. Hodges v Principi (2001) 15 Vet App 162, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 214

Remand is required for readjudication in light of enactment of Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000, which amended 38 USCS § 5107(a) to eliminate well-grounded requirement, where claim was held to not be well-grounded and claim was not final as of date of enactment of Act. Hodges v Principi (2001) 15 Vet App 162, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 214

11. Resolution of evidentiary issues

Loss of appellant's medical and dental records due to no fault of his own was not material to his appeal for purposes of his burden of proof, where he asserted that he had been having his teeth treated before he was drafted into service, and never asserted that extractions were due to damage to either of his jaws, that he applied for outpatient treatment within one year after his discharge, or that his dental condition resulted from combat wounds or service trauma. Woodson v Brown (1996, CA FC) 87 F.3d 1304

Where entitlement to increased rating is predicated on causal relationship between two different diseases, one of which is service-connected, claimant must provide medical evidence of causal relationship, and claim which fails to provide such evidence is not well grounded. Jones v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 134

Where determinative issue in claim for benefits involves either medical etiology or medical diagnosis, competent medical evidence of nexus between current condition and in-service disease or condition is required to fulfill well-grounded-claim requirement of § 5107, and lay person is not competent to provide such medical evidence. Johnson v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 423

VA did not fail to assist appellant in developing well-grounded claim for service connection for heart condition since hearing officer's decision, rating decision, and adjudication officer's letter all clearly and unequivocally informed appellant that his heart disorder claim was denied because there had been no medical evidence to support his conjectures. Epps v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 341, affd (1997, CA FC) 126 F.3d 1464, cert den (1998) 524 US 940, 141 L Ed 2d 718, 118 S Ct 2348 and (superseded by statute as stated in Bernklau v Principi (2002, CA FC) 291 F.3d 795)

Where veteran's service records were missing and presumed destroyed by fire at National Personnel Records Center, mere conclusory statements regarding evaluation of evidence and consideration of benefit-of-doubt rule are insufficient; Board is required to consider and explain

Widow's claim that veteran's death was service connected was not well founded where only conceivable evidentiary support was speculative statement in physician's letter that veteran's death may or may not have been averted if medical personnel could have effectively intubated veteran, and medical records and death certificate directly attributed death to acute myocardial infarction. Tirpak v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 609, motion gr, app dismd (1993, CA FC) 1993 US App LEXIS 31356

Veteran's medical records and personal testimony constituted sufficient evidence to indicate plausibility of his claim for individual unemployability, hence BVA erred in not having carried claim to full adjudication. Calabrese v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 223

Where veteran has submitted well-grounded claim for total disability rating based on individual unemployability, Board may not reject claim without producing evidence, but has duty to supplement record by obtaining examination which includes opinion on what effect appellant's service-connected disability has on his ability to work. Friscia v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 294

In denying service connection for pelvic inflammatory disease, Board erred in relying on its medical advisor's opinion (BMAO) without giving veteran or her representative notice and opportunity to submit evidence in rebuttal; if on remand any use is made of medical advisor's opinion, Board must give adequate statement of reasons for noncompliance with notice requirements, must explain why it requested medical advisor's opinion instead of remanding case to RO, must provide adequate statement of reasons as to how it has complied with memorandum providing generally that BMAOs should no longer be used in individual appeals, and if BMAO is used in readjudication of case Board must explain how new physical examination could be utilized in view of regulatory requirement that VA examiners view each disability in relation to its history. Williams v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 133

For purposes of submitting well-grounded claim relating to exposure to toxic gases under regulation at 38 CFR § 3.316, Board must assume that lay testimony of exposure is true. Pearlman v West (1998) 11 Vet App 443

Board did not err in denying widow's claim for dependency and indemnity compensation since Board's determination that veteran's death was not connected to his exposure to radiation during military service was not erroneous; in response to appellant's evidence that veteran was diagnosed with radiogenic disease and had been exposed to radiation while in military service, advisory opinion was sought from Under Secretary of Health who concluded that it was highly unlikely veteran's colon cancer could be attributed to his exposure to ionizing radiation in service since he received no more than one rem of radiation at age 18 and did not develop his disease until approximately 35 years later. Hilkert v West (1999) 12 Vet App 145, affd (2000, CA FC) 232 F.3d 908

In order to be entitled to relaxed evidentiary thresholds inherent in concept of what constitutes well-grounded claim and what constitutes requisite new and material evidence to reopen previously disallowed claim which are applicable to veterans, claimant must first establish veteran status by preponderance of evidence standard common in civil and administrative litigation. Laruan v West (1998) 11 Vet App 80 (ovrld by D'Amico v West (2000, CA FC) 209 F.3d 1322) and (ovrld as stated in Harris v West (2000) 13 Vet App 509, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 453)

12. Particular claims as well-grounded

Veteran's claim for psychiatric disability due to nonpsychotic brain syndrome was well-grounded because it was plausible and capable of substantiation by records of his treatment at mental health clinic, hence Secretary had duty to assist. Corbbrey v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 266
Veteran had well-grounded claim for service connection for Meniere's disease and thus agency had duty to assist him in developing claim where it had acknowledged that veteran suffered from dizziness, sensory hearing loss, nausea, and tinnitus. Connolly v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 566

Veteran's widow submitted well-grounded claim of service connection for her husband's death, so as to impose duty on BVA to seek to obtain VA medical records of which it was apprised, where she presented evidence that veteran's service-connected anxiety reaction may have contributed to his hypertensive coronary artery disease and immediate cause of death, and that hypertension developed secondary to his anxiety. Hill v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 570

Veteran submitted plausible and thus well-grounded claim for increased rating for service-connected residuals of maxillary fracture, triggering VA's duty to assist, where service connection was established in 1971, 1987 evidence indicated that condition caused some interference with either speech or masticatory function although not to compensable level, and veteran asserted in 1989 that condition had worsened. Proscelle v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 629

Board breached its statutory duty to assist veteran in developing his claim for service connection for low-back disability and residuals of kidney injury where it had found that veteran had sustained kidney injuries and low back pain in jeep accident, thus implicitly acknowledging that veteran had presented plausible claim. Dalton v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 634

Veteran submitted well-grounded claim that possible acute infarction necessitated emergency private hospitalization, triggering Secretary's duty to assist claimant. Whipp v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 453

Private physician's "certificate" stating that appellant was treated by doctors for pulmonary tuberculosis shortly after his discharge from the military, coupled with statement of treatment, created plausible basis to believe that appellant's claim that he developed pulmonary tuberculosis either during or shortly after discharge from military service was capable of substantiation; appellant was not required to submit medical evidence of clinical activity. Salong v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 130

Claim for service connection for headaches, as secondary to service-connected residual shrapnel wound of right-zygoma and left-maxillary areas, was well grounded because there was evidence both of injury incurred in service and current condition arising therefrom, i.e., shrapnel in veteran's cheek. Magana v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 224

Claim for secondary service connection for diverticulosis of colon was well grounded where veteran submitted medical record in which physician noted complaints of intermittent cramping and diarrhea and sigmoidoscopy revealed generalized diverticulosis of descending and sigmoid colon, even if physician's letter was ambiguous as to whether he intended to refer to condition as symptom of PTSD. Kirwin v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 148

Claim for service connection for heart disorder was well grounded where veteran submitted medical evidence of current heart disorder and Adams-Stokes syndrome and statement from physician linking current diagnosis of Adams-Stokes syndrome to symptoms documented in veteran's service records. Perry v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 2

Although medical statements were couched in cautious terms, they provided competent evidence supporting veteran's claim that his current diagnosis of end-stage renal disease, secondary to chronic glomerulonephritis, was linked to hematuria he experienced in service. Watai v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 441

Appellant presented well-grounded claim triggering duty to assist by presenting medical evidence tending to show that his service-connected arteriosclerosis obliterans from residuals of frozen feet resulted in moderate limitation of function of his feet and legs. Lynch v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 456

Appellant's claim for hearing loss and diabetes, as related to incurrence or aggravation during active duty for training, were well grounded where record medical evidence indicated that appellant first showed hearing disability on level satisfying regulatory requirements during military service examination, and first medical evidence of record to note presence of diabetes was during later military service examination when Diabinese was prescribed and, despite lack of service diagnosis, medical evidence indicated that Diabinese is not prescribed unless diabetes is present. Smith v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 462

Appellant presented well-grounded claim for service connection for human immunodeficiency virus infection and for psychiatric disorder secondary to HIV infection; appellant had current diagnosis of HIV infection and offered basis to infer in-service contagion through his hospital duties. Saathoff v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 326

Appellant's claim was well grounded and triggered duty to assist where he presented medical evidence that he currently suffered from left knee disability, that he was treated for bilateral knee pain in service, and that current knee condition might be linked to service. Hampton v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 481

Veteran's claim for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) was well grounded because he presented numerous current diagnoses of PTSD as well as medical opinions stating that his PTSD was incurred in service. Moreau v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 389, affd (1997, CA FC) 124 F.3d 228

Vietnam veteran's notice of approval for SSA disability payments and his enrollment in Agent Orange Veteran Payment Program were insufficient to make his disability claims well grounded; neither document identified disability or disabilities for which veteran had been rated. Brock v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 155, vacated, remanded (2000, CA FC) 12 Fed Appx 916

When claimant is awarded service connection for disability and subsequently appeals RO's initial assignment of rating for that disability, claim continues to be well grounded as long as rating schedule provides for higher rating and claim remains open. Shipwash v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 218

Vietnam veteran's claim for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder was well grounded where it included medical evidence of current diagnosis of PTSD, lay evidence of in-service stressor, and medical-nexus evidence linking his PTSD to his service. Gaines v West (1998) 11 Vet App 353

Widow presented well-grounded claim of deceased's veteran's exposure to mustard gas during active military service in form of husband's account of such exposure; for purposes of submitting well-grounded claim relating to exposure to toxic gases under regulation at 38 CFR § 3.316, Board must assume that lay testimony of exposure is true. Pearlman v West (1998) 11 Vet App 443

Veteran's claim for service connection for ankylosing spondylitis as secondary to service-connected bacillary dysentery was well grounded since he presented medial diagnosis of current disability, used medical service records to demonstrate in-service occurrence of bacillary dysentery, and presented treatise evidence to support his claim of genetic predisposition. Wallin v West (1998) 11 Vet App 509

Appellant's claim for service connection for bilateral knee disorder as secondary to service-connected pes planus was well grounded where physician's statements indicated that appellant suffered from crepitation in knees, letter from another physician indicated that appellant's history of pain in knees was probably related to his flat footed problems, and another physician opined that he was uncertain of etiology of knee or back pain unless it came from abnormal gait from appellant's foot problems. Evans v West (1998) 12 Vet App 22

Veteran's service connection claim for leg wounds due to land mine explosion was well grounded where veteran testified under oath that while under fire he had rolled into land mine that had exploded and that, although he no longer had shrapnel in his legs, he had scars from wounds; board used absence of service medical records reporting wounds to rebut veteran's presumed

Widow presented well-grounded claim for dependency and indemnity compensation since she presented evidence establishing that her husband died from hepatocellular carcinoma and that he had lived and worked among natives in Southeast Asia during his service in World War II, which was risk factor for this particular disease. Mattern v West (1999) 12 Vet App 222

Service-connection claim for post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) was well grounded where veteran provided medical evidence of current diagnosis of PTSD, lay evidence of sexual assault as noncombatant, in-service stressor, and medical-nexus evidence generally linking his PTSD to his service. Patton v West (1999) 12 Vet App 272, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 120

Claim for service connection for post-traumatic arthritis of knees was well grounded where veteran was prisoner of war for fourteen months and indicated that he had injured his back during that time, medical evidence demonstrated that he presently suffered from degenerative arthritis in his lumbar spine, and physician indicated that his lower back condition was accelerated by traumatic stress while in service. Greyzck v West (1999) 12 Vet App 288, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 121, dismd (1999, CA FC) 217 F.3d 853

Veteran's TDIU claim was well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) because veteran's combined rating for three combat-incurred, service-connected disabilities was 60 percent and private physician found veteran was incapable of manual labor and later concluded veteran was totally disabled due to three service-connected disabilities. Colayong v West (1999) 12 Vet App 524, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 885

In determining whether claim is well grounded where proposed medical theory has scientific underpinnings, Board must presume credibility of scientific theory unless it is inherently incredible, and to extent Board determined veteran's claims for service connection for cancers of bladder, left kidney, prostate, and right lung as caused by non-ionizing radiation were not well grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a), decision is reversed where veteran offered evidence cancers were caused by non-ionizing radiation emanating from naval radar equipment veteran manned, several articles were submitted documenting controversy surrounding non-ionizing radiation, and one study recorded statistically significant occurrence of primary malignant tumors in radiation-exposed rats when compared to control group. Rucker v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 67

Veteran has submitted medical evidence of nexus between veteran's service and left-knee claim that is needed to well ground claim under 38 USCS § 5107(a) where diagnosis of bilateral post-traumatic arthritis of knees was made following physician's notation of only in-service traumatic events, VA x-ray examination indicated impression of post-traumatic knee condition, and only episodes of left-knee trauma in record on appeal occurred in service. Hodges v West (2000) 13 Vet App 287, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 15, op withdrawn, in part, remanded (2001) 15 Vet App 162, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 214

Post-traumatic stress disorder claim is well-grounded as matter of law under 38 USCS § 5107(a) where requirement of medical evidence of current disability is satisfied by VA medical examination that diagnosed veteran as having post-traumatic stress disorder in partial or complete remission; lay evidence of in-service stressor is satisfied by veteran's assertions of being under fire; and medical evidence of nexus between service and current disability is satisfied by VA counselor's letter linking veteran's current condition to his war experience. Harth v West (2000) 14 Vet App 1, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 705

13. Particular claims as not well-grounded

Claim for increased rating for PTSD was supported only by veteran's unsubstantiated fears of high fevers and of having incurred brain damage from treatment he received in service for his fever, hence did not trigger Secretary's duty to assist. Clarkson v Brown (1992) 4 Vet App 565

Veteran failed to submit well-grounded claim of service-connection for hypertension where he did not submit evidence that his current diastolic blood pressure readings and those during service or within one year following service were “predominantly” over 100. Mallik v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 345

Without any medical evidence that veteran's current left-knee and spinal disabilities resulted from VA surgery or treatment, veteran's claims were not well grounded. Contreras v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 492

Claimant failed to present well-grounded claim of service connection for bilateral hearing loss disability where there was no medical evidence that his hearing loss was separate condition from his Meniere's disease and no record medical evidence that he suffered from hearing loss as result of his combat experience. Shogren v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 14

Appellant's claims of service connection for Huntington's chorea and vascular headaches were not well grounded, since he failed to submit medical evidence linking either onset or aggravation of disability to his period in service. Dean v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 449

Appellant failed to present sufficient medical evidence of nexus between in-service injury and his current cervical spine condition to establish well-grounded claim. Slater v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 240

Appellant's claims for service connection for postoperative residuals of leg inguinal hernia repair were not well grounded where he presented no evidence that he currently suffered from hernia or of recurrence of hernia repaired in service. Chelte v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 268

Appellant's claim for service connection for heart disease was not well grounded since his service medical records were devoid of any complaint of or treatment for cardiovascular disease and testimony of his wife, although she was nurse, did not constitute competent medical evidence since she gave no indication that she had special knowledge regarding cardiology or ever participated in his treatment. Black v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 279, request den (1997, Vet App) 1997 US Vet App LEXIS 482 and dismd (1999, CA FC) 185 F.3d 884, reported in full (1999, CA FC) 1999 US App LEXIS 4323

Appellant's informed consent to radiation treatment for Hodgkin's disease did not establish that his claim of service connection for peptic ulcer was well grounded, since kinds of medical problems to be anticipated were not stated in informed consent with any specificity nor was there any mention of duration of whatever disability might occur, or of its expected onset. Martin v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 394

Service connection claim of peptic ulcer disease was not well grounded where veteran's service medical records did not disclose either diagnoses of or treatment for peptic ulcer disease, and although he did receive radiation therapy in 1977-78 as part of his treatment for Hodgkin's disease and afterward developed some gastro-intestinal problem which was controlled with medication, medical notes did not identify problem as ulcer and no further problems were experienced during appellant's term of service nor in flight physical he took each year until his retirement, nor in his retirement physical in 1986; he was diagnosed with peptic ulcer for first time in 1989. Martin v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 394

Claim of secondary service connection due to service-connected malaria for arthritis of multiple joints other than right hip was not well grounded where appellant presented no medical evidence, notwithstanding his showing of post-service continuity of symptomatology and noting during service with respect to both hip and back conditions. Savage v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 488

Widow failed to present well-grounded claim of veteran's death from exposure to Agent Orange since it was only widow's and other lay persons testimony that provided nexus, and, as lay persons, they were not competent to render medical opinion. Carbino v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 507, affd (1999, CA FC) 168 F.3d 32, 42 FR Serv 3d 1182

Veteran's claim that eye surgery at VA hospital resulted in his loss of vision in eye was not well-grounded where it was not accompanied by any supporting evidence and, given ophthalmologists' concerns regarding ill effects of delaying treatment of retinal detachment, would not disturb plausible basis in record for finding that veteran's loss of vision was caused by his delay in seeking treatment. Ross v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 141
Surviving spouse failed to present well-grounded claim of service connection for cause of veteran's death where 1937 death certificate listed only coronary sclerosis as principal cause of death and anemia as contributory cause of death, and did not mention veteran's service-connected PTB and bronchitis or provide any other information regarding causation, and physician's letter written 15 years after veteran's death stating that veteran's death was aggravated by service-connected disability also stated that physician had no evidence that veteran had service-connected disability or was receiving compensation from VA, nor did it refer to any specific disability. Hanna v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 507, app dism'd without op (1995, CA FC) 56 F.3d 82, reported in full (1995, CA FC) 1995 US App LEXIS 10749, reh, en banc, den (1995, CA FC) 1995 US App LEXIS 16626

Letters from veteran's mother and his two siblings that his father, who was physician, treated veteran for Crohn's disease from time he left service until father's death did not constitute requisite medical evidence of diagnosis of Crohn's disease or nexus to service to constitute well-grounded claim for service connection for Crohn's disease. Meyer v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 425

Veteran did not submit well-grounded claim for service-connection for post-traumatic stress disorder; alleged stressor was appellant's combat experience in Vietnam, but record was absolutely clear that appellant had no service in Vietnam, much less saw combat there. Samuels v West (1998) 11 Vet App 433

Appellant's claim for service-connection of heart condition was not well grounded where he did not submit evidence of current heart condition or any other current disability. Hicks v West (1998) 12 Vet App 86

Because there was no evidence that appellant developed skin condition that would be presumptively service connected under 38 USCS § 1116, he did not submit well-grounded claim for presumptive service connection. McCartt v West (1999) 12 Vet App 164 (ovrld in part as stated in Stellard v Principi (2002, US) 2002 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 855)

Widow's claim for dependency and indemnity compensation was not well grounded because evidence of physician's statement that veteran's respiratory problems that contributed to his death "could" have been precipitated by his time in prisoner of war camp was too speculative to constitute medical nexus required. Bloom v West (1999) 12 Vet App 185, affd without op (2000, CA FC) 230 F.3d 1383

Board of Veterans' Appeals did not err in concluding claim for recognition as child of veteran on basis of permanent incapacity for self-support before reaching age of 18 years pursuant to 38 USCS § 1314 was not well-grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) since claim involves issues of medical causation requiring submission of medical evidence to establish claimant's condition of permanent incapacity is plausible or well-grounded and claimant did not present such evidence; although medical examination reports note treatment for skin conditions, allergic rhinitis, bronchitis, scoliosis, and existence of systolic murmur, and claimant's mother submitted letter reporting claimant had been provided with home teacher due to illness with headaches, record neither contains medical evidence describing claimant's illness nor nature and extent of claimed disability. Cumby v West (1999) 12 Vet App 363, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 252

Although claimant is service connected for post-traumatic stress disorder, claim for secondary service connection of leg injuries sustained in motorcycle accident is not well-grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a) even though clinical psychologist opined that motorcycle accident was result of thrill-seeking behavior and that thrill-seeking behavior is indicated with post-traumatic stress disorder since claimant testified he was attempting to pass slow-moving vehicle, automobile turned sideways and caused claimant to swerve and lose control of motorcycle, and there is no indication claimant's behavior was reckless or even negligent; claimant's assertion that motorcycle accident was caused by thrill-seeking behavior is not well-grounded since claimant is not competent to render medical opinion and assertion is belied by testimony; and, although clinical psychologist is competent to render medical opinion, psychologist was not eyewitness to accident and opinion as to what caused accident is outside scope of competence. Jones v West (1999) 12 Vet App 383, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 311,
Decision of Board denying claim for service connection is affirmed as not well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) even though veteran presented medical evidence of current disability and in-service incurrence as there is no medical evidence veteran's current condition is same condition or related to knee problems experienced while on active duty, and issue may not be satisfied by lay testimony. Clyburn v West (1999) 12 Vet App 296, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 147

Board erroneously found asbestosis claim to be well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) where veteran asserted exposure to asbestos in service while being transported on Navy ships and while using asbestos ammunition belts to carry weapons which became too hot since veteran has not presented competent medical evidence of nexus relating current disability to service exposure and, at best, physicians' statements of record provide nexus only between asbestosis and post-service employment. Nolen v West (1999) 12 Vet App 347, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 240, vacated, remanded (2000, CA FC) 222 F.3d 1356, on remand, remanded (2000) 14 Vet App 183, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1052

To extent Board determined veteran's claims for service connection for cancers of bladder, left kidney, prostate, and right lung as caused by ionizing radiation were not well grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a), decision is affirmed since veteran's cancers were not among those listed in 38 USCS § 1112(c)(2)(A)-(M), veteran admitted to not participating in "radiation risk activity" under 38 USCS § 1112(c), and dose estimate from Defense Nuclear Agency concluding veteran had been at no risk of exposure to radiation provided plausible basis for Board’s finding cancers should not be service connected. Rucker v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 67

Board's decision denying service connection for cause of veteran's death due to exposure to ionizing radiation is affirmed as there is no evidence to provide requisite medical nexus between veteran's death and military service, and family's assertion of medical causation cannot constitute evidence to render claim well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a). Wandel v West (1998) 11 Vet App 200

Veteran has not presented competent evidence connecting any current disability to period of service and claim is not well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107 where, even assuming veteran has submitted medical evidence of current disease, only evidence submitted that supports finding of nexus to service is veteran's own testimony and veteran has not provided evidence of continuity of symptomatic condition; evidence of nexus cannot be provided by lay testimony. Brewer v West (1998) 11 Vet App 228

Surviving spouse's claim for service connection of veteran's death due to lung cancer caused by in-service smoking or by nicotine addiction is not well-grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) where veteran was first diagnosed with lung cancer two months before his death in 1979, veteran quit smoking eight to ten years after discharge from service in 1960, there is no medical evidence veteran incurred lung cancer in service or that there exists etiological relationship between his lung cancer and in-service smoking, and veteran was never diagnosed with having incurred nicotine addiction in service. Davis v West (1999) 13 Vet App 178, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1287, remanded (2001) 15 Vet App 163, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1008

Appellant's claim for secondary service connection of arthritis in joints other than his hands and feet is not well grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a) because there is no medical evidence of nexus between appellant's cold injuries and current arthritis apart from arthritis in hands and feet; since claim was not well grounded, duty to assist was not triggered and additional action by Board to enforce its remand order for additional medical opinion with regard to etiology of appellant's arthritis was not required. Roberts v West (1999) 13 Vet App 185, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1294

Board's decision to deny surviving spouse's claim for service connection of veteran's death must be affirmed since claim is not well grounded pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107 where claimant failed to provide any medical evidence which establishes relationship between veteran's service and death from heart disease and bone marrow cancer; claimant's unsubstantiated assertions that veteran's death was caused by exposure to herbicides is not supported by any medical evidence in record; and none of causes of veteran's death is on current list of diseases presumed to be related to exposure to herbicides. Hasty v West (1999) 13 Vet App 230, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1353, op withdrawn by order of ct, remanded (2001) 16 Vet App 101, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1156

Veteran's claim that low-back pain was caused by service-connected kidney stones is not well grounded under 38 USCS § 5107(a) even though spine examination report noted veteran's statement that low-back pain was related to kidney stones since statement appears in "history" section of report and appears to have been reiteration of veteran's reported history; examiner expressly diagnosed chronic low-back pain secondary to degenerative joint disease; and examiner made no findings to support assertion kidney stones caused or contributed to low-back pain. McQueen v West (1999) 13 Vet App 237, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1373, vacated, remanded (2000, CA FC) 251 F.3d 171, reported in full (2000, CA FC) 2000 US App LEXIS 31875 and subsequent app (2001) 14 Vet App 300, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 186

Appellant has not submitted well-grounded claim pursuant to 38 USCS § 5107(a) even assuming appellant injured his back and suffered from rectal bleeding while on period of active duty for training in reserves since there is neither medical evidence of nexus between service and any present disability nor evidence that he became disabled during period of active duty for training. Harris v West (2000) 13 Vet App 509, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 453

§ 5108. Reopening disallowed claims

discussion and analysis in the veterans benefits manual

If new and material evidence is presented or secured with respect to a claim which has been disallowed, the Secretary shall reopen the claim and review the former disposition of the claim.

I. IN GENERAL

1. Generally

VA regulation changing evidentiary standard of proof for government to rebut burden-shifting presumption relating to presentation of evidence does not serve either as new and material evidence or as substantive change in law creating new cause of action. Routen v West (1998, CA FC) 142 F.3d 1434, cert den (1998) 525 US 962, 142 L Ed 2d 328, 119 S Ct 404

For purposes of reopening claims for award of veterans' benefits, Court of Veterans' Appeals impermissibly ignored definition of "material evidence" adopted by DVA as reasonable interpretation of otherwise ambiguous statutory term and, without sufficient justification or explanation, rewrote statute to incorporate definition of materiality from social security disability benefits scheme. Hodge v West (1998, CA FC) 155 F.3d 1356 (criticized in Paguyo v West (2000, US) 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 200)

After Board has denied claim for benefits, regional office cannot consider or grant claim upon same factual basis unless requirement of new and material evidence has been satisfied. Dittrich v West (1998, CA FC) 163 F.3d 1349, cert den (1999) 526 US 1088, 143 L Ed 2d 653, 119 S Ct 1499

New and material evidence requirement of 38 USCS § 5108 applies to reopening of claim regardless of grounds on which claim was previously disallowed, including denial of veteran status, and any decisions of Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims to contrary are overruled. D'Amico v West (2000, CA FC) 209 F.3d 1322, remanded (2001) 14 Vet App 321, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 498

Under 38 USCS § 5108, only Department of Veterans Affairs has authority to reopen claim and Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims exceeded its statutory authority when it assumed appellant's claim to be reopened in order to make determination that reopened claim was not well grounded. Winters v Gober (2000, CA FC) 219 F.3d 1375 (criticized in Doe v United States (2005) 63 Fed Cl 798)

As used in 38 USCS § 5108, "Secretary" refers not only to regional office of Department of Veterans Affairs, but also to Board of Veterans' Appeals. Jackson v Principi (2001, CA FC) 265 F.3d 1366

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims' rejection of finding of clear and unmistakable error as to veteran's claim was affirmed, although court misconstrued Department of Veterans Affairs duty to fully and sympathetically develop claim, it was harmless error. Szemraj v Principi (2004, CA FC) 357 F.3d 1370

Two-step analysis for reopening claim for new and material evidence does not apply to claims for pension benefits; claims for service-connected benefits or compensation differ from claims for non-service-connected benefits or pension, and term "reopening," although occasionally used to refer to other types of claims, applies in strictest sense only to process of presenting new and material evidence to allow previously denied claim for service-connected benefits to be considered anew. Abernathy v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 461

Mere allegation that regulation was misapplied or that veteran disagrees with Board's result is insufficient to reopen claim. Corpuz v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 110 (ovrld as stated in Vencel v Principi (2004, US) 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 290)

New and material evidence is not required to reopen claim of former POW for disease which is presumptively service connected under 38 USCS § 1112(b); all that is required is that former POW submit well-grounded claim. Roncevich v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 192

Given statutory scheme in §§ 7104(b) and 5108, new and material evidence requirement is material legal issue which BVA has legal duty to address, regardless of whether RO adjudicated claim on merits and failed to apply new and material evidence standard, since, if BVA adjudicates claim on merits without resolving new and material evidence issue, its actions would violate its statutory mandate, and, similarly, once it finds no new and material evidence, it is bound by express statutory mandate not to consider merits of case. Barnett v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 1, affd (1996, CA FC) 83 F.3d 1380

Where evidence supports service incurrence of injury Board may not, on one hand, deny claim for lack of medical evidence and later, when medical evidence is submitted, refuse to reopen claim due to lack of evidence of service incurrence. Molloy v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 513

Rule applicable to claims to reopen as well as to § 5107's requirement of well-grounded claim is that competent medical evidence is required where determinative issue involves either medical etiology or medical diagnosis, but that lay testimony by itself may be sufficient where determinative issue does not require medical expertise. Allday v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 517

Where reopening of veteran's claim due to new and material evidence would not have resulted in earlier effective date for veteran's award of rating of total disability based on individual unemployability (TDIU), and veteran's appeal was not predicated upon clear and unmistakable error (CUE), decision of Board of Veterans' Appeals (BVA) denying earlier effective date was affirmed. Leonard v Principi (2004) 17 Vet App 447, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 81, affd (2005, CA FC) 2005 US App LEXIS 7407

2. Remand

With respect to denial of petition to reopen claim for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder, BVA did not adequately carry out Court's direction in remanding case—that it seek "recent 2507 exam" referred to in VA psychiatrist's 1989 statement—since it limited its instruction to seek only Form 2507 completed in 1989; psychiatrist could have been referring to exam dated before 1989. Booth v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 109

Four of medical records obtained after BVA remand to RO were new in that they comprised first medical evidence of record which established that appellant complained of back pain in 1967, and since it was not clear whether BVA took these records into account when it concluded that new evidence, when considered with previous record evidence, presented reasonable probability that outcome of appellant's claim of service-connection for low back disorder would change, remand was required. Carroll v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 128

Remand of decision denying service connection for knee disorder was required since it could not be determined from record whether claim was properly reopened. Wallace v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 537

3. Miscellaneous

CVA's affirmance of BVA's decision, declining to reopen benefits claim on ground that no new and material evidence had been proffered, involved factual determination or application of law to facts of particular case and thus was not within court's appellate jurisdiction. Barnett v Brown (1996, CA FC) 83 F.3d 1380

Any error by BVA's treating evidence as new and material was harmless in light of its ultimate denial of claim. Kushindana v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 27

Although Board erred in proceeding to evaluate merits of veteran's claim without first ruling that evidence submitted as new and material, error was harmless since evidence, which was essentially cumulative of previously submitted evidence, did not change resolution of claim. Sanchez v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 330

II. NEW AND MATERIAL EVIDENCE

A. In General

4. Generally

Misapplication of, or failure to apply, statutory or regulatory burden-shifting presumption does not constitute "new and material evidence" for purpose of reopening claim under 38 USCS § 5108. Routen v West (1998, CA FC) 142 F.3d 1434, cert den (1998) 525 US 962, 142 L Ed 2d 328, 119 S Ct 404

Court of Appeals for Federal Circuit reviewed regulations promulgated by Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Veterans Claims Assistance Act of 2000 (VCAA), Pub. L. No. 106-475, 114 Stat. 2096 (codified in scattered sections of 38 USCS) and with exception of one regulation, 38 C.F.R. § 3.159(b)(1), which was inconsistent with VCAA, and therefore invalid, regulations regarding claims procedures under 38 C.F.R. §§ 3.156 and 1.159 were affirmed as regulations were not on their face arbitrary, capricious, and contrary to various statutory provisions. Paralyzed Veterans of Am. v Sec'y of Veterans Affairs (2003, CA FC) 345 F.3d 1334

Board did not err in concluding that no new and material evidence was presented and therefore did not err in refusing to reopen claim for headache related benefits. Livingston v Derwinski (1990) 1 Vet App 34, dismd (1992, CA) 959 F.2d 224

Claimant for service connection for flat feet failed to submit new and material evidence sufficient to reopen claim. Saylock v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 394

Duplicates of records previously before Board are not new, hence do not provide basis for reopening claim. Barbour v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 476

Widow of veteran failed to present any new evidence to reopen her claim for pension benefits retroactive to earlier date. Arcala v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 72

Evidence, while new, was not material to whether veteran's ulcer was present during service or during one-year presumptive period. Ingram v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 5

To extent veteran's evidence was new, it was not material since it did not show existence of tuberculosis during applicable 3-year presumptive period. Wilson v Brown (1992) 5 Vet App 11

Although evidence regarding veteran's service-connection claim for residuals of jaw injury was new, none was material since none tended to disprove that veteran was engaged in willful misconduct at time of vehicle accident during which his jaw was broken and that, in doing so, he was not acting in line of duty. Chavarria v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 468

Appellant did not submit new and material evidence to reopen claim of service connection for arthritis; evidence did not provide any new factual bases for considering his claim, some was not new, and some not material. Turpen v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 536

New and material evidence determinations are generally reviewable for clear error rather than de novo. Elkins v West (1999) 12 Vet App 209

In order to be entitled to relaxed evidentiary thresholds inherent in concept of what constitutes well-grounded claim and what constitutes requisite new and material evidence to reopen previously disallowed claim which are applicable to veterans, claimant must first establish veteran status by preponderance of evidence standard common in civil and administrative litigation. Laruan v West (1998) 11 Vet App 80 (ovrld by D'Amico v West (2000, CA FC) 209 F.3d 1322) and (ovrld as stated in Harris v West (2000) 13 Vet App 509, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 453)

5. Analysis or rejection of evidence

Board erred in reviewing only new evidence in adjudicating reopened case and summarily rejecting new medical evidence as “not in accord with sound medical principles” without independent medical evidence of record to support that conclusion. Woods v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 376

Board erred in assessing credibility of new evidence prior to reopening claim; in determining whether evidence is new and material, its credibility is to be presumed, but only for purpose of determining whether to reopen claim. Justus v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 510

After finding that veteran's evidence of service-connected psychiatric disorder was new and material, Board erred in failing to include analysis of credibility or probative value of evidence; mere conclusory statement that evidence did not alter basis for its decision is neither helpful to veteran nor clear enough to permit effective judicial review, and not in compliance with statute. Triplette v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 45

Even if Board erred in refusing to reopen claim for service connection for residuals of frostbite of feet, in effect it reopened claim by considering new evidence in context with all old evidence and reexamining old in light of new and giving plausible reason for rejecting new, i.e., fact that new medical opinion was based entirely on history provided by veteran. Guimond v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 69

Equipose doctrine cannot take place of standard for reopening case since applying this benefit of doubt doctrine to reopening would require full credibility determination before matter is reopened, and all statute concerning reopening requires is that new and material evidence be presented or secured, not weighed. Martinez v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 462

Strictly for purposes of determining whether new and material evidence has been presented, Board must presume that newly submitted evidence is credible, unless it is patently incredible. Duran v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 216

In order to reopen claim, newly submitted evidence must be of sufficient weight or significance that there is reasonable probability that new evidence, when viewed in context of all evidence, both new and old, would change outcome. Wilkinson v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 263

Proper standard of review of reopened claim is to view new and material evidence in conjunction with other evidence; there is no indication whatsoever that Congress intended that reopened claim could be allowed only when new and material evidence was of such significance that standing alone it might reasonably be found to dictate allowance of claim. Jones v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 210

Board erred in failing to consider veteran’s reopened disability claim in light of all evidence, not just new evidence. Manio v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 140

Board failed to follow proper procedure in analyzing whether evidence submitted to reopen claim is new and material; while it determined that additional evidence was not new and material, it nonetheless appeared to reconsider old evidence. Schleis v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 415
In denying veteran's claim to reopen denial of service connection for psychiatric disorder on basis of new and material evidence that he was treated for psychosis while in service, Board failed to provide adequate reasons for concluding that evidence did not alter basis for its earlier decision. Triplette v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 45

6. Causal relationship to service

Discharge summary submitted with request to reopen claim was not material because there was no reasonable possibility that it would change denial of service connection for veteran's psychiatric condition since it covered treatment provided subsequent to his discharge and provided no connection between his psychiatric condition and his military service other than history veteran himself furnished. Smith v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 178

Although veteran submitted new evidence, it was not material to whether his back disability was incurred in or aggravated by service. Blanchard v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 300

Veteran claiming service connection for multiple sclerosis did not present new evidence that was material to his claim where new evidence reflected ongoing treatment for current disabilities and did not bear on issue of incurrence of multiple sclerosis during service or presumptive period. Miller v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 578

Evidence regarding claimant's ear defect and testicle disorder was not related to whether conditions were incurred or aggravated in service, hence was not new and material evidence sufficient to reopen claim. Laure v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 395

New medical treatment records were not probative of service connection for psychiatric disorder since, although they demonstrated veteran suffered from symptoms, including hallucinations, they did not provide any diagnosis of psychiatric disorder or evidence that symptoms reported were related to service or psychiatric disorder present during service or one year thereafter. Sweat v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 67

Veteran denied service connection for acquired psychiatric disorder failed to present new and material evidence warranting reopening since VA medical treatment records, while demonstrating that veteran suffered symptoms, did not provide any diagnosis of psychiatric disorder or any evidence that symptoms were related to veteran's service or to psychiatric disorder acquired in service. Sweat v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 67

Evidence was not new and material where it all related to treatment of veteran's current back condition and did not establish etiological relationship between that and service-connected thigh disorder. Montgomery v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 343

Veteran's evidence related to treatment of current condition and did not establish etiological relationship between that and his period of active military service, hence there was no evidence warranting reopening claim. Zo v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 440

New medical evidence related to veteran's then-current physical state and were not relevant to whether he incurred his shrapnel wounds during period of recognized service, hence not material and claim should not have been reopened. Alcaide v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 9

Veteran's statements that his psychiatric disorder and seizure disorder were causally related to in-service head injury were insufficient to reopen claim because they were lay assertions of medical causation, and medical records offered did not relate any then-current condition to service injury or condition. Fluker v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 296

Chiropractor's report, though new, was not relevant to whether veteran's head and neck injuries were connected with motor vehicle accident which occurred while he was on active duty since it did not link accident and veteran's current disability of cervical spine. Cornele v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 59, motion gr, app dismd (1994, CA FC) 1994 US App LEXIS 11288

Veteran failed to present new and material evidence for his claim for service connection for back condition; rather, majority of evidence submitted since 1950 Board decision actually supported denial of service connection, since it confirmed not only that veteran had polio prior to service, but that his recurrent back strain was attributable to residuals of that polio. Glynn v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 523
Although records submitted were new, they were neither relevant to nor probative of whether appellant's current psychiatric condition was incurred in or aggravated by service; appellant was diagnosed with personality disorder in service, which is not recognized as compensable mental disability, and did not receive diagnosis of schizophrenia until more than 10 years after his active military service, and there was no medical opinion linking either schizophrenia or subsequent diagnosis of dementia to personality order that manifested itself during military service. Elkins v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 391

Veteran failed to present new and material evidence to warrant reopening decision denying service connection for lung and ear disorders where many of new documents submitted were not material since they showed treatment for claimed disorders beginning more than 20 years after service but did not show any causal relationship to service, and other documents were not probative of claimed service connection. Spalding v Brown (1996) 10 Vet App 6

Veteran failed to provide new and material evidence to reopen service-connection claim for psoriasis; post-service medical records did not relate appellant's condition to service or contain indication that condition had worsened during service. Routen v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 183, affd (1998, CA FC) 142 F.3d 1434, cert den (1998) 525 US 962, 142 L Ed 2d 328, 119 S Ct 404

Evidence appellant submitted was not relevant to and probative of whether his current hypertension was related to his service and thus fell short of changing outcome, hence was not material for purposes of reopening claim. Graves v Brown (1996) 8 Vet App 522

Veteran did not submit new and material evidence warranting reopening of his claim since, although it was new, none of it was material because none related his current condition to service, which was basis for Board's denial of claim. Hickson v West (1998) 11 Vet App 374, reconsideration gr, substituted op (1999) 12 Vet App 247, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1, app dismd, motion gr (1999, CA FC) 215 F.3d 1346, reported in full (1999, CA FC) 1999 US App LEXIS 19998

B. Particular Evidence

7. Cumulative evidence

Veteran's evidence of lung disorder from asbestos exposure was cumulative of record evidence and did not justify reopening claim. Gowen v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 286

BVA properly denied request to reopen claim since physician's second letter, while germane, was cumulative of other evidence on record. Hudson v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 50

Veteran claiming service-connected disability compensation for brain damage failed to present new and material evidence justifying reopening of claim; some had been considered by Board and new magazine articles regarding brain damage from boxing were cumulative of considered evidence. Miller v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 90

Board correctly determined that veteran did not submit new and material evidence to reopen decision denying service connection for back and skin disorders; only new evidence was veteran's testimony, which was cumulative. Evans v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 193

Physician's statement that expanded upon earlier statement that had been considered was merely cumulative, and not new evidence. Villalobos v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 450

Evidence submitted to reopen appellant's claim was cumulative or previously submitted evidence or immaterial. Morton v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 508

Physician's second statement was not new and material where it was cumulative and fact that physician may have treated veteran at time closer to his release from service adding nothing to claim for service-connected hearing loss. Hill v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 540

Veteran's personal hearing testimony and statements from relatives and acquaintances, although relevant, was cumulative, and new evidence of newspaper articles and documents was not relevant to veteran's claim that his mental illness was caused by stay in VA hospital. Baritsky v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 41

© 2006 Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. Use of this product is subject to the restrictions and terms and conditions of the Matthew Bender Master Agreement.
Physicians' letters were cumulative of earlier evidence, hence did not constitute new and material evidence for reopening claim. McGinnis v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 239

Evidence submitted to reopen claim for service connection for seizure disorder was not new since it was cumulative of information previously considered by BVA. Person v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 449

Appellant did not submit new evidence sufficient to reopen claim for service connection for duodenal ulcer, since proffered service medical records established same facts as record evidence and thus were cumulative. Dolan v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 358, app dismd without op, motion gr (1997, CA FC) 119 F.3d 14, reported in full (1997, CA FC) 1997 US App LEXIS 16948

No new and material evidence was presented to reopen service-connection claim for lung disorder as residual of asbestos exposure; majority of medical reports were cumulative of record evidence and therefore not new, and no medical evidence related veteran's condition to military service, exposure to asbestos, or any other service-related factor. Ashford v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 120

Veteran failed to provide new and material evidence to reopen claim for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder since, although some of testimony, medical records and insurance documents were not previously in record, they were cumulative or record evidence at time of Board's disallowance of claim. Anglin v West (1998) 11 Vet App 361, affd (2000, CA FC) 203 F.3d 1343

Widow's lay testimony that veteran's cause of death was etiologically related to his hypertension that was caused by stress and anxiety from his eye condition was cumulative of her previous contentions considered by board, and medical opinion that veteran's severe chronic stress and hypertension may have contributed to his developing aneurysms and presence and acceleration of atherosclerotic disease was new but not material since it was too speculative to establish plausible claim. Bostain v West (1998) 11 Vet App 124

Board's determination that evidence was not new for purpose of reopening claim pursuant to 38 USCS § 5108, 38 USCS § 7104(b), and 38 USCS § 7105(c) is affirmed where, since last final disallowance, newly presented evidence was merely cumulative of other evidence previously presented and veteran's statements concerning claimed onset of disease was mere recitation of accounts made elsewhere Vargas-Gonzalez v West (1999) 12 Vet App 321, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 174

8. Physician's statement, opinion or letter

Physician's examination report, which addressed only veteran's present physical condition, not mental condition, was not probative of claim for service connection for neuropsychiatric disorder, hence was not material. Green v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 382, reh, en banc, den (1993) 5 Vet App 83

New material evidence justifying reopening of claim included 1976 physician's statement noting longstanding history of degenerative arthritis involving knees and occasionally shoulders, 1988 physician's statement providing opinion that trauma veteran received in WWII was substantially involved in causing veteran's arthritis of knees, and 1988 VA examination which noted that veteran had had arthritis or pain and bursitis in shoulders, crepitance in right shoulder, generalized osteoarthritis of wrist, knees, ankles, lumbosacral spine, and theoretical possibility that generalized osteoarthritis might be traumatic in origin. Bailey v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 441

Physician's statement that diagnosis of chronic prostatitis would not be made if there was not an earlier diagnosis or symptoms of prostatitis preceding it constituted new and material evidence relevant to veteran's claim for chronic prostatitis. Case v Derwinski (1992) 2 Vet App 592

Board did not err in denying request to reopen claim for service connection for veteran's heart diseases, since physician's statement that veteran's rheumatic heart disease may have predisposed veteran to diseases at issue was speculative. Simmons v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 29
Veteran presented new and material evidence warranting reopening his claim for service connection for malaria and for seizure disorder secondary to malaria where he submitted letter from corpsman verifying that he treated veteran in field for malaria-like symptoms and neuropsychologists' opinions that veteran likely suffered from malaria while serving in Vietnam and that history of malaria was probably cause of his symptom complex. Mohr v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 63

Physician's letter stating that veteran was exposed to significant noise trauma in Vietnam, diagnosing bilateral neurosensory hearing loss, and stating that it was quite possibly related to noise damage with secondary tinnitus, constituted new and material evidence since it was not duplicative of evidence in record at time of denial of claim and was likely to change outcome. Stoneking v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 103

Statement by physician who personally observed veteran's condition immediately subsequent to separation from service and 43 years later that it was reasonable for veteran's disability to have been caused by his in-service injury was new and material evidence supporting reopening of claim. Budnik v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 185

Widow claiming DIC benefits submitted material evidence to justify reopening claim for service connection for husband's death in form of physician's opinion which corroborated opinion by a first physician which had been rejected; corroborative nature of opinion rendered it material. Paller v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 535

Physician's letter containing opinion that veteran had regional ileitis or Crohn's disease as far back as his time in service constituted new and material evidence for reopening claim. Hadsell v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 208

Veteran claiming service-connected back disorder submitted new and material evidence warranting reopening claim where it consisted of treating physician's statement diagnosing veteran's back disorder and relating it to military trauma, cryptic SGO readout, and veteran's sworn testimony. Chipego v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 102

Physician's statement that service-connected injury aggravated veteran's non-service connected arthritis was not material since it was not evidence that service-connected injury caused non-service connected condition, only aggravation of it. Stokes v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 336

Veteran submitted new and material evidence to reopen claim for service connection for multiple sclerosis-report from VA psychiatrist diagnosing veteran with MS which psychiatrist found had first been manifested by euphoria in service and later by symptoms within sever-year presumption period, and report from VA neurologist that there was no doubt veteran had had MS since his separation from service. Bernard v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 384

Physician's letter corroborating another physician's firm medical opinion that veteran's hearing loss was noise-induced as result of service was relevant and probative of service-connection issue and added significantly to probative value of all evidence in support of veteran's claim, thus warranting reopening claim. Ramirez v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 6

Doctor's statement did not constitute material evidence since doctor relied upon veteran's account of his medical history and service background, recitations which had already been rejected. Reonal v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 458

Physician's letters were not material since neither contained current diagnosis of psychiatric disorder, veteran was first seen by physician over 20 years after separation from service, and there was no indication physician formed his opinion on basis separate from veteran's recitation of his medical and service background, nor did physician discuss veteran's well-documented pre-service problems. Elkins v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 474

Since only inference that could be drawn from appellant's 1953 service records is that appellant fell on his right shoulder, subsequent opinions by two examining physicians who were aware of appellant's 1985 work injury and who based their opinions on contemporaneous x-ray evidence and physical examinations indicating old right shoulder injury unrelated to 1985 injury were new and material. Kightly v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 200

Physician's letter stating his opinion, based on veteran's own recitation of events and well as his review of medical records and examination of veteran, that veteran's breathing difficulty had begun in service and that evidence clearly pointed to service connected disability was new because it was not cumulative of other evidence, and was material because it was relevant to issue at hand and created reasonable probability that it would change outcome. Curry v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 553, dismd without op (1995, CA FC) 48 F.3d 1237, reported in full (1995, CA FC) 1995 US App LEXIS 10105 and cert den (1995) 514 US 1119, 115 L Ed 2d 870, 115 S Ct 1982

Appellant claiming service connection for multiple sclerosis submitted new and material evidence where it consisted of one physician's letter stating that appellant's symptoms were not caused by infectious mononucleosis as Board theorized, another physician's letter stating that psychiatric difficulties manifested by appellant during service and presumptive period were symptoms of MS, and medical treatises illustrated that disorders formerly unacceptable as causes were not accepted as causes for MS. Bielby v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 260

Veteran submitted new and material evidence warranting reopening of claim for service connection for rheumatic heart disease where he provided physician's letter that stated that physician had reviewed veteran's service medical records and postservice medical records and concluded that veteran had onset of valvular heart disease following some type of condition while he was in service, that it was most likely rheumatic fever with subsequent mitral valve complications, and that it was not uncommon for cardiac problems to be discovered until much later. Sutton v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 553

Physicians' letters were both new and material where one established that appellant reported history of rheumatic heart disease within one year after service and other reviewed all available information and concluded that appellant's conditions could well be related to his period of active service. Lee v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 336

9. Medical records or reports, generally

Veteran claiming service connection for diabetes mellitus did not present new and material evidence; one medical record did not even mention diabetes, and other did not relate veteran's diabetes to veteran's wartime service. Captain v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 341

Evidence of veteran's service medical records was not new since it had been considered by Board in its prior final decision, hence claim could not be reopened. St. Arbor v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 81

Medical records evidencing treatment of veteran's current condition but which did not relate it to his World War II military service were not new and material for purposes of reopening claim. Smith v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 205

Records of private medical treatment for depression did not constitute new and material evidence; none indicated veteran's disability was severe enough to preclude him from pursuing educational or training program during delimiting period. Heebner v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 423

Medical reports detailing current state of veteran's lumbosacral-spine condition, but not its cause, did not constitute new and material evidence warranting reopening. Minshall v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 195

Records which tended to show that veteran's eyesight was relatively normal prior to service were relevant and probative of whether veteran had preexisting eye disability and created reasonable possibility of changing outcome of prior BVA decision, hence warranted reopening claim.  D’Amato v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 481

Additional evidence in form of private medical records VA medical records warranted reopening claim for service connection for chronic acquired psychiatric disability.  King v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 519

Veteran’s private childhood medical records and religious book were new but not relevant or probative of whether his psychiatric disorder was incurred or aggravated in service, hence not basis for reopening claim.  Warren v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 4

Private and VA treatment records did not constitute competent medical evidence of relationship between appellant’s current arthritis of lumbar spine and his service, and therefore did not constitute new and material evidence to reopen his claim for service connection.  Hollifield v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 469

10. -Examination reports

New material evidence justifying reopening of claim included 1976 physician’s statement noting longstanding history of degenerative arthritis involving knees and occasionally shoulders, 1988 physician’s statement providing opinion that trauma veteran received in WWII was substantially involved in causing veteran’s arthritis of knees, and 1988 VA examination which noted that veteran had had arthritis or pain and bursitis in shoulders, crepitance in right shoulder, generalized osteoarthritis of wrist, knees, ankles, lumbosacral spine, and theoretical possibility that generalized osteoarthritis might be traumatic in origin.  Bailey v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 441

Report of 19-year-old medical examination constituted new and material evidence warranting reopening veteran’s claim since it had not been previously before Board and stated probably causal connection between his then-present condition and his condition in service.  Tozian v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 268

Medical certificate recording veteran’s blood pressure and stating that veteran received treatment for “essential hypertension” was not material evidence warranting reopening his claim for service-connected hypertension.  Corpuz v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 110 (ovrd as stated in Vencel v Principi (2004, US) 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 290)

Veteran who had been evaluated for paranoid ideation failed to present any new and material evidence to warrant reopening claim that his mental disorder resulted from VA hospitalization or treatment.  Baritsky v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 41

New medical evidence discussing veteran’s "significant" MMPI test score for paranoia did not establish etiological relationship between present ratable disability and service, hence was not material.  Walden v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 402

New and material evidence of service connection for acquired psychiatric disorder consisted of VA examination reports not originally considered which diagnosed psychiatric disorders.  Taylor v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 473

Statements from private and VA examinations and treatments did not constitute material evidence regarding veteran's service connection for right knee disability since much evidence did not pertain to veteran's knee but other ailments, and that which did pertain to knee did not indicate that problems could be attributed to aggravation in service.  McIntosh v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 553

Claimant whose veteran husband died of alcoholic liver disease did not submit new and material evidence warranting reopening claim for service connection for veteran's death; medical and psychological examination record confirming diagnosis of alcoholism during service did not address subject of liver disease in any way, and fact was already before Board.  Barfield v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 8

Medical examination which concluded that veteran suffered from post-hallucinogen perception disorder secondary to alleged controlled experimental use of LSD in earlier medical treatment was new evidence, probative of issue at hand, and reasonably likely to change

11. Lay testimony or evidence, generally

Mother's affidavit concerning family's observance of veteran's behavior during his first year after service was both new and material since neither mother nor anyone else had previously submitted affidavit to that effect and, if found credible, there was reasonable probability it could change outcome by corroborating physician's diagnosis of schizophrenia. Sagainza v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 575

Veteran presented new and material evidence warranting reopening his claim for service connection for malaria and for seizure disorder secondary to malaria where he submitted letter from corpsman verifying that he treated veteran in field for malaria-like symptoms and neuropsychologists' opinions that veteran likely suffered from malaria while serving in Vietnam and that history of malaria was probably cause of his symptom complex. Mohr v Derwinksi (1992) 3 Vet App 63

Evidence submitted by veteran claiming service-connected disability compensation for acquired psychiatric disorder was new and material; it included lay evidence from person who had known veteran prior to, during, and subsequent to his service and thus presented basis other than pure speculation for assessing veteran's schizophrenia. Chisholm v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 420, subsequent app (2003, US) 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 287

Statements from former military policeman and social worker at shelter where veteran resided that veteran exhibited during two periods of active duty for training symptoms later diagnosed as schizophrenia constituted new and material evidence warranting reopening claim. Mata v Veterans Affairs (1993) 4 Vet App 276

Veteran claiming service connection for multiple sclerosis failed to present new and material evidence since it consisted of sworn testimony of veteran and his wife that was merely reiteration of testimony and lay statements previously before Board. Spencer v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 283, affd (1994, CA FC) 17 F.3d 368, cert den (1994) 513 US 810, 130 L Ed 2d 19, 115 S Ct 61

Statements from veteran's former high school special needs instructor, guidance counselor and U.S. Senator addressing veteran's academic and social progress in high school and expressing hope that VA would rule favorably were not relevant or probative of veteran's claim, therefore not material. Laposky v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 331

Letters containing writers' observations of veteran were not material since they were not related to nor probative of alleged service connection for residuals of cerebral contusion. Keating v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 408

New and material evidence warranting reopening claim for service connection for bilateral hammertoe deformities and back disorder consisted of testimony from two service comrades as to back, leg, and foot problems experienced by veteran during service. Stozek v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 457

Lay assertions of medical causation cannot serve as predicate for reopening claim, just as they will not suffice to establish plausible, well-grounded claim. Moray v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 211

Veteran's statements that his psychiatric disorder and seizure disorder were causally related to in-service head injury were insufficient to reopen claim because they were lay assertions of medical causation, and medical records offered did not relate any then-current condition to service injury or condition. Fluker v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 296

Board erred in failing to consider affidavit of claimant's fellow villagers which, if true, tended to corroborate testimony of claimant and her paramour 30 years earlier that claimant lived continuously with veteran until his death, and in failing to give reasons or bases for its acceptance or rejection. Vecina v Brown (1994) 6 Vet App 519

Affidavit from officer of guerilla unit, dated after BVA's prior decision, constituted new and material evidence supporting reopening of claim for revocation of forfeiture; it related to issue of appellant's having rendered assistance to enemy and because of its date could not have been submitted in connection with BVA decision that predated it. Villaruz v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 561

Widow failed to present new and material evidence to reopen service-connection claim for husband's death; widow submitted excerpts from medical textbooks, testimony by friends and family of veteran, and statement of person who served with veteran, but submitted no medical evidence linking veteran's service-connected scrub typhus or malaria to alleged dysentery and then further to his death. Marciniak v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 198, affd (1998, CA FC) 168 F.3d 1322

Lay evidence concerning manifestations of chronic condition during service or within presumption period may suffice to well ground claim; when condition is not chronic and there is no medical evidence of causal nexus, continuity of symptomatology, which may be shown by medical evidence or lay testimony, would be required. Hickson v West (1999) 12 Vet App 247, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1, app dismd, motion gr (1999, CA FC) 215 F.3d 1346, reported in full (1999, CA FC) 1999 US App LEXIS 19998

Matter was remanded to Board of Veterans Appeals for readjudication because Board did not adequately set forth reasons or bases for rejecting testimony of veteran's mother about veteran's psychiatric condition when veteran alleged that testimony provided new and material evidence and that evidence was grounds for re-opening previously disallowed claim. Fortuck v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 173, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 519

12. By veteran

Evidence submitted by veteran was new and material and claim for service connection for back injuries should have been reopened where evidence consisted of lay testimony that included veteran's prior assertion that he injured his back during service, along with additional assertions of specific injury and hospitalization dates, and location of VA hospital facilities. Poe v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 55

Board correctly determined that evidence submitted was not new and material on claim of service connection for skin disorder where it consisted of veteran's statements, copy of news article regarding veteran, and report from National Personnel Records Center indicating that no additional pertinent records were available. Stephens v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 513

Veteran's sworn testimony concerning claim that hearing loss started during service was new and material justifying reopening claim. Cuevas v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 542

Veteran's sworn testimony that he injured his back lifting artillery shell in service was new because they was no evidence of such accident at time of prior Board decisions, and was material since it established reasonable possibility of changing outcome of prior denial of service connection for back disorder. Ashley v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 75

Veteran's sworn testimony that he had injured his back in service lifting artillery shell was new and material since it had not previously been before Board and, if believed, created reasonable possibility that denial of service-connected disability for back disorder would be changed. Ashley v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 75

Veteran's testimony that, shortly after service, physician treated him for nervous condition did not constitute new and material evidence; at most it was merely corroborative, and circumstances strongly indicated question whether veteran was ever treated by this doctor or whether transcript was in error and reference was actually to one of veteran's physicians whose records were previously considered by Board. Henderson v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 45
Veteran presented sufficient evidence to reopen claim for service connection for pes planus since his statements regarding continuity of pain in connection with his feet were new and were competent because they related to observable condition and pes planus is condition that lends itself to observation by lay witness, and statements were material because determinative issue in denial of service connection was question of continuity of symptomatology. Falzone v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 398

Veteran did not submit new and material evidence required to reopen service-connection claims of throat and cardiovascular disabilities, since statement that he had had trouble with his throat since his discharge was only recitation of what he had told hospital personnel and therefore was not material, statement that he had been treated for his throat as result of karate chop at particular month and year was not material because it was not probative of causal link between appellant's service and present condition, and appellant's history of intermittent heart pains was only recitation by appellant and therefore not material. Butler v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 167

Veteran's testimony that he had incurred nervous disorder and left knee disability during service and that he underwent attitude change during his first period of service and had relapse of this condition during his service in National Guard did not constitute new and material evidence of claim of service connection for schizophrenia since record was devoid of any medical evidence establishing causal nexus between veteran's current psychiatric condition and his military service. Mercado-Martinez v West (1998) 11 Vet App 415

Veteran did not have well-grounded claim of peripheral neuropathy since he did not have current diagnosis of peripheral neuropathy, even though he had served in Vietnam and had one of enumerated diseases listed in regulation. Winters v West (1999) 12 Vet App 203, vacated, remanded (2000, CA FC) 219 F.3d 1375 (criticized in Doe v United States (2005) 63 Fed Cl 798)

13. -By veteran's spouse, widow or widower

Surviving spouse was not entitled to have claim reopened since evidence, although new, was not material since it did not provide requisite clinical or laboratory evidence relating to service connection for veteran's tuberculosis. Tubianosa v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 181

Neither widow's nor her son's testimony supported contention that veteran's service-connected chronic bronchitis caused or contributed substantially to veteran's death, which was listed as from "natural causes" following autopsy, hence did not constitute new and material evidence to reopen claim. Williams v Brown (1993) 4 Vet App 200

Widow's letter from Social Security Administration showing her entitlement to monthly widow's benefits as result of her marriage to veteran constituted new and material evidence sufficient to reopen claim for DIC. Camphor v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 514

Appellant's newly submitted evidence relating to death of her cohabitant could not change outcome of forfeiture of her rights to DIC benefits because it actually supported finding that she lied to VA; therefore, BVA did not err in refusing to reopen her claim. Reyes v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 113

Widow did not submit material evidence to reopen decision that denied recognition of veteran's purported adopted children for VA purposes since it was not relevant to or probative of whether adoption decree comport or had to comport with applicable Philippine law, specifically to whether natural children of appellant who were over 14 consented to adoption and to whether Philippine Department of Social Welfare conducted case study prior to adoption. Mata v Brown (1996) 8 Vet App 485

14. Books or articles

Veteran claiming service-connected disability compensation for brain damage failed to present new and material evidence justifying reopening of claim; some had been considered by Board and new magazine articles regarding brain damage from boxing were cumulative of considered evidence. Miller v Derwinksi (1992) 3 Vet App 90

Board correctly determined that evidence submitted was not new and material on claim of service connection for skin disorder where it consisted of veteran's statements, copy of news article regarding veteran, and report from National Personnel Records Center indicating that no additional pertinent records were available. Stephens v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 513

Veteran's personal hearing testimony and statements from relatives and acquaintances, although relevant, was cumulative, and new evidence of newspaper articles and documents was not relevant to veteran's claim that his mental illness was caused by stay in VA hospital. Baritsky v Principi (1993) 4 Vet App 41

Widow failed to present new and material evidence to reopen service-connection claim for husband's death; widow submitted excerpts from medical textbooks, testimony by friends and family of veteran, and statement of person who served with veteran, but submitted no medical evidence linking veteran's service-connected scrub typhus or malaria to alleged dysentery and then further to his death. Marciniak v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 198, aff'd (1998, CA FC) 168 F.3d 1322

15. Government documents

Board correctly determined that evidence submitted was not new and material on claim of service connection for skin disorder where it consisted of veteran's statements, copy of news article regarding veteran, and report from National Personnel Records Center indicating that no additional pertinent records were available. Stephens v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 513

Veteran did not submit new and material evidence warranting reopening claim for ulcerative colitis since decision by Army Correction Board amending veteran's medical disability did not contain any information related to ulcerative colitis during veteran's period of service and concluded that no evidence indicated he had suffered from it at time of his physical evaluation or prior to separation. Sugar v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 265

Medical evidence underlying Social Security Administration's award of veteran disability insurance benefits either constituted duplicate copies of records previously considered and thus was not new, or, although new, did not show continuity of symptomatology for veteran's back condition, or was irrelevant because evidence related to treatment and examination of veteran with respect to his stroke, not back condition for which he claimed service connection. Godfrey v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 398

Claim for VA benefits as veteran's child who was permanently incapable of self-support before attaining age 18 could be reopened as resubmitted claim since evidence of appellant's earlier application for VA benefits and RO letter denying them was not part of record when Board decision subject of instant appeal. Fulkerson v West (1999) 12 Vet App 268, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 93, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 168

Department of Veterans Affairs' regulatory interpretation of its statutory authority for denying earlier effective date for service connection of veteran's post-traumatic stress disorder than date he reopened for new and material evidence was upheld as reasonable interpretation by agency under Chevron deference. Sears v Principi (2003, CA FC) 349 F.3d 1326, cert den (2004) 541 US 960, 158 L Ed 2d 401, 124 S Ct 1723

Veteran failed to provide new and material evidence for reopening denial of service connection for psychiatric disorder where Board had found that, although disorder was congenital or developmental, seizure disorder did not become manifest until 10 years after separation from service. Estep v Derwinski (1991) 3 Vet App 2

Veteran failed to submit new and material evidence to warrant reopening claim for service connection for residuals of frostbite and for arthritis of multiple joints; his own statements and that of lay witness were duplicative of evidence previously submitted and therefore cumulative, and VA clinic records and x-rays were new but not material since they did not show that veteran's present condition was present in service or within one year following discharge. Pollard v Brown (1993) 6 Vet App 11

Letter from and statement by veteran's wife were not new to claim for service connection for acquired psychiatric disorder since they were cumulative of other lay testimony previously considered, and VA psychiatric evaluation report was not material since it was not probative of whether veteran's preexisting psychiatric disorder was aggravated during service. Annoni v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 463, app dism'd without op (1994, CA FC) 22 F.3d 1106

Veteran's childhood medical records and notarized statement from his mother constituted new and material evidence as matter of law since they tended to show that he did not have asthma prior to service and were thus relevant and probative of whether he had preexisting condition. Crowe v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 238

Denial of request to reopen claim for back disorder and vocational rehabilitation benefits that had been previously denied on ground of lack of qualifying service discharge was not erroneous since evidence veteran presented did not present reasonable possibility of changed outcome on his discharge status and thus was not new or material. Hayes v Brown (1995) 7 Vet App 420

Letter from physician regarding chest trauma, though new, was not material since it did not link chest trauma specifically to appellant's current lung disease condition; and claim for cuts above right eye and concussion were not well grounded since appellant submitted no medical evidence of those disabilities but only his own sworn statements that they were combat-related. Beausoleil v Brown (1996) 8 Vet App 459

Claim for left varicocele would not be reopened since veteran's school records, although they were of some probative value, could not reasonably change result since they did not contain even one, let alone two, comprehensive clinical evaluations, and, since they ended three years before appellant's induction, did not rebut clinical evaluations that identified condition some two or three years later. Nici v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 494

Statute providing that decision of Board may be reviewed for clear and unmistakable error does not supersede VA regulation to similar effect since it made no change in substantive standards governing modifications of regional office decision because of clear and unmistakable error, rather merely codified prior regulation. Donovan v West (1998, CA FC) 158 F.3d 1377, cert den (1999) 526 US 1019, 143 L Ed 2d 351, 119 S Ct 1255

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims properly interpreted term "evidence" as used in 38 USCS § 5109A(a) as being limited to evidence that was of record at time challenged regional office decision was made. Pierce v Principi (2001, CA FC) 240 F.3d 1348

Breach of duty to assist veteran cannot constitute clear and unmistakable error (CUE) based on requirements that CUE be outcome determinative and be based on record that existed at time of original decision. Decision of Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims was affirmed when Veterans Claim court determined that it was precluded under 38 C.F.R. § 20.1400(b) from reviewing earlier decision of Board of Veterans Appeals for clear and unmistakable error when earlier decision had been reviewed and affirmed by appellate court. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims' rejection of finding of clear and unmistakable error as to veteran's claim was affirmed, although court misconstrued Department of Veterans Affairs duty to fully and sympathetically develop claim, it was harmless error. Szemraj v Principi (2004, CA FC) 357 F.3d 1370

Where veteran, who was awarded retroactive disability payments due to clear and unmistakable error made in 1969, argued that he was entitled to interest on difference because without interest he was paid in deflated nominal dollars, rather than in real dollars, and under
"same effect" language of 38 USCS § 5109A(b), payment of nominal 1969 dollars made in 1996 (year in which he was awarded difference) did not have "same effect" as payment of nominal 1969 dollars made in 1969, Court of Appeals reiterated its prior holding that "same effect" language of 38 USCS § 5109A(b) was not clear waiver of "no-interest rule" inherent in government's sovereign immunity. Sandstrom v Principi (2004, CA FC) 358 F.3d 1376

Regional office decision issued in 1999 were rendered nonfinal by appellant's timely appeal of those decision to Board and thus were not subject to clear and unmistakable error claims. Link v West (1998) 12 Vet App 39

Claim of clear and unmistakable error under 38 USCS § 5109(A) must allege some degree of specificity and since there is neither notice of disagreement nor final Board decision addressing specific claim of clear and unmistakable error raised by veteran, Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims does not have jurisdiction to hear claim for first time. Andre v West (2000) 14 Vet App 7, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 707, affd (2002, CA FC) 301 F.3d 1354

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims cannot disturb Board's conclusion that regional office decision did not contain clear and unmistakable error on ground decision was arbitrary, capricious, or otherwise not in accordance with law under 38 USCS § 7261(a)(3)(A) and 38 USCS § 5109A where veteran's claim is request for reweighing of evidence. Simmons v West (2000) 14 Vet App 84, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 860

Veteran was not entitled to have retroactive VA disability compensation benefits award paid at current rate, rather than at rate of effective date, plus cost of living increases that were authorized throughout time period of award, since doing so would have been violation of government's sovereign immunity, since Congress had not authorized such payments. Sandstrom v Principi (2002) 16 Vet App 481, 2002 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 881, affd (2004, CA FC) 358 F.3d 1376

Board of Veterans' Appeals denial of veteran's claim for clear and unmistakable error was vacated, where claim may have been denied on basis of pleading insufficiency; proper procedure was to dismiss such claim without prejudice. Simmons v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 104, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 403

On review of 1983 decision of Board of Veterans' Appeals (Board), Board was bound to apply regulations as they existed in 1983, and new interpretations of 38 USCS § 1111 (former 38 USCS § 311) and 38 USCS § 1153 (former 38 USCS § 353), interpretations to which Secretary of Veterans Affairs also agreed, that apparently conflicted with those regulations could not be basis for clear and unmistakable error for 1983 decision. Jordan v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 261, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 721, affd (2005, CA FC) 401 F.3d 1296

Where veteran claimed that prior disability determinations contained clear and unmistakable error, review of veteran's claims of error was statutorily limited to determining whether decision of Board of Veteran's Appeals denying claims was arbitrary, capricious, abuse of discretion, or contrary to law and, thus, plenary review was unavailable to consider underlying decisions. Andrews v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 177, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 383

Prior disability determinations contained (before 1990) were not required to expressly address evidence and veteran's bare allegation that prior decisions failed to consider evidence did not assert any specific error in decision of Board of Veteran's Appeals that court could review. Andrews v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 177, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 383

Board of Veterans Appeals erred under 38 USCS § 5109A(e) when it proceeded to adjudicate clear and unconvincing error (CUE) claim in first instance without offering to remand question to regional office; moreover, error could not be considered nonprejudicial under 38 USCS § 7261(b)(2) because court could not decide that veteran could not possibly have prevailed on claim had matter been sent back to RO for initial CUE adjudication; thus, Board's decision was vacated and remanded. Huston v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 395, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 580, subsequent app (2004) 18 Vet App 405, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 600, motion gr, dismd (2004, US) 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 713

Determination that there was clear and unconvincing error (CUE) must be based on record and law that existed at time of prior decision; in order for there to be valid claim of CUE, claimant,

There was no clear and unmistakable error in denial of veteran's request for award of special monthly compensation under former 38 USCS § 314(m) (replaced by 38 USCS § 1114) where veteran failed to point to any evidence that reflected that muscles used to move his elbow joint were atrophied or would have become atrophied; veteran's argument that loss of supination and pronation even with movement in joint (unfavorable ankylosis) constituted lack of "natural elbow action" was without merit because under 38 C.F.R. § 3.350(c)(1), "natural elbow action" was defined in terms of muscle atrophy and prospective muscle atrophy. § 5109B. Expedited treatment of remanded claims

The Secretary shall take such actions as may be necessary to provide for the expeditious treatment by the appropriate regional office of the Veterans Benefits Administration of any claim that is remanded to a regional office of the Veterans Benefits Administration by the Board of Veterans' Appeals.

SUBCHAPTER II. EFFECTIVE DATES

§ 5110. Effective dates of awards
§ 5111. Commencement of period of payment
§ 5112. Effective dates of reductions and discontinuances
§ 5113. Effective dates of educational benefits

§ 5110. Effective dates of awards
cxlvii Discussion and Analysis in the Veterans Benefits Manual

(a) Unless specifically provided otherwise in this chapter [38 USCS §§ 5100 et seq.], the effective date of an award based on an original claim, a claim reopened after final adjudication, or a claim for increase, of compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, or pension, shall be fixed in accordance with the facts found, but shall not be earlier than the date of receipt of application therefor.

(b) (1) The effective date of an award of disability compensation to a veteran shall be the day following the date of the veteran's discharge or release if application therefor is received within one year from such date of discharge or release.

   (2) The effective date of an award of increased compensation shall be the earliest date as of which it is ascertainable that an increase in disability had occurred, if application is received within one year from such date.

   (3) (A) The effective date of an award of disability pension to a veteran described in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be the date of application or the date on which the veteran became permanently and totally disabled, if the veteran applies for a retroactive award within one year from such date, whichever is to the advantage of the veteran.

       (B) A veteran referred to in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph is a veteran who is permanently and totally disabled and who is prevented by a disability from applying for disability pension for a period of at least 30 days beginning on the date on which the veteran became permanently and totally disabled.

(c) The effective date of an award of disability compensation by reason of section 1151 of this title [38 USCS § 1151] shall be the date such injury or aggravation was suffered if an application therefor is received within one year from such date.

(d) The effective date of an award of death compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, or death pension for which application is received within one year from the date of death shall be the first day of the month in which the death occurred.

(e) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, the effective date of an award of dependency and indemnity compensation to a child shall be the first day of the month in which the child's entitlement arose if application therefor is received within one year from such date.

(2) In the case of a child who is eighteen years of age or over and who immediately before becoming eighteen years of age was counted under section 1311(b) of this title [38 USCS § 1311(b)] in determining the amount of the dependency and indemnity compensation of a surviving spouse, the effective date of an award of dependency and indemnity compensation to such child shall be the date the child attains the age of eighteen years if application therefor is received within one year from such date.

(f) An award of additional compensation on account of dependents based on the establishment of a disability rating in the percentage evaluation specified by law for the purpose shall be payable from the effective date of such rating; but only if proof of dependents is received within one year from the date of notification of such rating action.

(g) Subject to the provisions of section 5101 of this title [38 USCS § 5101], where compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, or pension is awarded or increased pursuant to any Act or administrative issue, the effective date of such award or increase shall be fixed in accordance with the facts found but shall not be earlier than the effective date of the Act or administrative issue. In no event shall such award or increase be retroactive for more than one year from the date of application therefor or the date of administrative determination of entitlement, whichever is earlier.

(h) Where an award of pension has been deferred or pension has been awarded at a rate based on anticipated income for a year and the claimant later establishes that income for that year was at a rate warranting entitlement or increased entitlement, the effective date of such entitlement or increase shall be fixed in accordance with the facts found if satisfactory evidence is received before the expiration of the next calendar year.

(i) Whenever any disallowed claim is reopened and thereafter allowed on the basis of new and material evidence resulting from the correction of the military records of the proper service department under section 1552 of title 10 [10 USCS § 1552], or the change, correction, or modification of a discharge or dismissal under section 1553 of title 10 [10
USCS § 1553], or from other corrective action by competent authority, the effective date of commencement of the benefits so awarded shall be the date on which an application was filed for correction of the military record or for the change, modification, or correction of a discharge or dismissal, as the case may be, or the date such disallowed claim was filed, whichever date is the later, but in no event shall such award of benefits be retroactive for more than one year from the date of reopening of such disallowed claim. This subsection shall not apply to any application or claim for Government life insurance benefits.

(j) Where a report or a finding of death of any person in the active military, naval, or air service has been made by the Secretary concerned, the effective date of an award of death compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, or death pension, as applicable, shall be the first day of the month fixed by that Secretary as the month of death in such report or finding, if application therefor is received within one year from the date such report or finding has been made; however, such benefits shall not be payable to any person for any period for which such person has received, or was entitled to receive, an allowance, allotment, or service pay of the deceased.

(k) The effective date of the award of benefits to a surviving spouse or of an award or increase of benefits based on recognition of a child, upon annulment of a marriage shall be the date the judicial decree of annulment becomes final if a claim therefor is filed within one year from the date the judicial decree of annulment becomes final; in all other cases the effective date shall be the date the claim is filed.

(l) The effective date of an award of benefits to a surviving spouse based upon a termination of a remarriage by death or divorce, or of an award or increase of benefits based on recognition of a child upon termination of the child's marriage by death or divorce, shall be the date of death or the date the judicial decree or divorce becomes final, if an application therefor is received within one year from such termination.

(m) [Deleted]

(n) The effective date of the award of any benefit or any increase therein by reason of marriage or the birth or adoption of a child shall be the date of such event if proof of such event is received by the Secretary within one year from the date of the marriage, birth, or adoption.

1. Generally

"Date of administrative determination of entitlement" in § 5110(g) means date upon which administrative determination is made, not date which administrative process determines that claimant became entitled to benefits, since it is straightforward meaning of phrase and supported by legislative history that statute was intended to obviate necessity of potential beneficiary filing specific claim for new benefit where VA can make determinations of entitlement on its own.
initiative because of previously decided claim on file. McCay v Brown (1997, CA FC) 106 F.3d 1577

Although 38 USCS § 5110(b) provides limited exception to rule found in § 5110(a) governing effective date of award, judgment of Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims that "facts found" did not support retroactive award of 100 percent rating to veteran's date of discharge is affirmed since object of § 5110 is only to determine date from which compensation shall be awarded, not to determine rating or level of compensation that will apply from time award is deemed effective. Meeks v West (2000, CA FC) 216 F.3d 1363

Failure by Department of Veterans Affairs to provide veteran with notice of eligibility for benefits as required under 38 USCS §§ 7722(b) and (c)(1) could not serve as basis for tolling one-year filing deadline of 38 USCS § 5110(b)(1); unequivocal command in 38 USCS § 5110(a) was that effective date of benefits could not be earlier than filing of application for such benefits and further, 38 USCS § 5110 did not contain statute of limitations that could have been tolled, but merely indicated when benefits could begin and provided for earlier date under certain limited circumstances. Andrews v Principi (2003, CA FC) 351 F.3d 1134

Honorable discharge as of actual date of discharge issued pursuant to findings of Board of Review acting under former 38 USC § 693b rendered its recipient eligible for benefits from date of his separation from military or naval service. 1945 ADVA 665

Appellant who sought to have effective date of his service-connection claim relate back to 1954 when his original application was filed failed to overcome presumption of constitutionality of statute under rational basis test; Congress decided that veterans awarded disability compensation based on claim filed within one year after separation should receive retroactive benefits, which appears to give veterans who are disabled some time after discharge without losing any possible benefits, and obvious reason for not extending benefit for period longer than one year would be to ease financial burden on nation and administrative burden on Secretary, and it is reasonable to believe that evidentiary findings would become more difficult after one year. Wright v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 343

Language of subsection (g) is clear in explicitly precluding award of retroactive benefits beyond one-year period provided for in that section and is not subject to equitable tolling. Viglas v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 1

Phrase "application therefor" means application which resulted in award of disability compensation that is to be assigned effective date under 38 USCS § 5110 and is not limited to just filing of application for original claim. Livesay v Principi (2001) 15 Vet App 165, 2001 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1009

Where widow of veteran sought earlier effective date for her claim of entitlement for benefits of dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) benefits, widow could not obtain relief through equitable tolling of 38 USCS § 5110(d)(1) based on fact that Secretary of Veterans Affairs may not have properly acted in accordance with 38 USCS §§ 7722(c) or (d). Kay v Principi (2002) 16 Vet App 529, 2002 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 998

2. Additional compensation for dependents

Benefits are payable retroactively upon correction of error by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] if correction is based on evidence already received when error was made; though retroactive correction of disability rating using evidence in file at time of error adjusts degree of disability and qualifies veteran for additional allowance for dependents, benefits are not payable for any period prior to date Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] received evidence showing dependents. 1959 ADVA 963

Payments of additional compensation on account of dependents after establishing veteran's disability rating were authorized under Administration Instruction 1, 38 USCS § 3011 [now 38 USCS § 5111], retroactively to effective date of any initial entitling rating made on or after June 8, 1960. 1964 ADVA 987

Where widow of veteran argued that, because she asserted that her husband died from "cancer" in her 1975 dependency and indemnity compensation claim, that claim necessarily included claim for non-Hodgkin's lymphoma and that under 38 C.F.R. § 3.313 she was eligible for earlier effective date based on 38 C.F.R. § 3.309(e), that argument was without merit; at time of 1976 adjudication, evidence established that widow's claim was one for Hodgkin's disease, and, therefore, evidence did not reasonably raise any claims for cause of death by types of cancer other than Hodgkin's disease. Bonner v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 188, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 408

Under 38 C.F.R. § 3.114(a)(3), where widow of veteran did not file her informal claim for dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) until more than one year after 38 C.F.R. § 3.309(e) was enacted in February 1994, earliest possible effective date available to her for her DIC claim was November 1, 1994, date awarded. Bonner v Nicholson (2005) 19 Vet App 188, 2005 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 408

3. Additional compensation for increased disability

Statute is clear as to what "increase" means; when it states that earliest effective date of award of increased compensation shall be earliest date as of which it is ascertainable that increase in disability had occurred, if application were received within one year from such date, only cognizable increase is one to next disability level. Hazan v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 511

Statute rather than 38 CFR § 3.157(b) is proper standard for determining effective date of increased disability compensation and in instant case required that Board determine whether it was ascertainable that increase in disability had occurred as early as October 1985, one year prior to veteran's claim for increased compensation, particularly since as early as June 1984 veteran had pending claim for compensation and VA examination strongly suggested that he was unemployable. Wood v Derwinski (1991) 1 Vet App 367

Plausible basis for Board's determination of earliest date on which veteran's increased rating for psychiatric disability consisted of VA examination of that date. Gonzales-Soto v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 330

Effective date for increased compensation due to increased disability was properly fixed as date of receipt of veteran's request for reopening claim since it was earliest date as of which it was factually ascertainable that increased disability had occurred. Alexander v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 83

Evidence in claimant's file which demonstrates that increase in disability was ascertainable up to one year prior to claimant's submission of claim for VA compensation should be dispositive on question of effective date of any award that ensues. Quarles v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 129

Veteran submitted informal claim for total disability rating based on individual unemployability and Board erred in not considering it in determining earliest date by which veteran's disability was ascertainable. Servello v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 196

Board erred in denying veteran entitlement to earlier effective date for disability on grounds that veteran failed to respond to order to report for medical examination where VA files contained at least two other addresses than one to which order was sent and Secretary failed to demonstrate that address to which order was sent was latest address of record or that veteran lacked adequate reason or good cause for failing to report for scheduled examination. Hyson v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 262

Board's finding that veteran's disability had not increased in severity in year prior to his claim was supported by plausible basis in record; record on appeal contained no medical records suggesting increase in such time period. Scott v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 184

Vietnam veteran exposed to agent orange was entitled to retroactive benefits to one year prior to his May 1990 application for benefits for dermatofibrosarcoma protuberance since statute allows it; regulation allowing grace period only if claimant met eligibility criteria on its 1985 effective date would not be applied since it was not promulgated until after veteran's application, and such application does not give effect to Congress' intent to provide grace period for filing claims. Effective date for appellant's increased rating for schizophrenia was governed by later of date of increase or date claim was received; for date of earlier-received claim to be effective date, there must be factually ascertainable increase that occurred more than one year prior to receipt of claim for increase. Harper v Brown (1997) 10 Vet App 125

Because Board of Veterans' Appeals improperly failed to consider whether all evidence of record, including evidence predating Board's 1985 decision, showed an ascertainable increase in severity of veteran's then 50 percent rated service-connected post-concussion syndrome, Board's determination that February 24, 1986 was earliest possible effective date for veteran's post-concussion syndrome is clearly erroneous under 38 USCS § 5110. Swanson v West (1999) 12 Vet App 442, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 548, motion gr, op withdrawn, app dismd (1999) 13 Vet App 197, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 1358

There is plausible basis in record for Board's finding that veteran was not entitled to earlier effective date for total disability rating based on individual unemployability pursuant to 38 USCS § 5110(b)(2) where record on appeal does not contain any medical evidence that veteran was entitled to disability rating based on individual unemployability prior to date found by Board, veteran's application did not contain prior Social Security award, and Social Security award was not submitted until more than four years after veteran filed claim. Hurd v West (2000) 13 Vet App 449, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 354, affd (2001, CA FC) 7 Fed Appx 928

4. Death compensation

Children of veteran were entitled to death benefits effective on day following date of last payment to widow who forfeited her rights to death benefits by submitting false and fraudulent evidence in connection with her original claim. 1936 ADVA 389

Death compensation was payable to child from day following date of veteran's death if child was otherwise entitled, where widow who had filed claim died without completing such claim. 1944 ADVA 551

Claim filed just prior to one year after report of veteran's death during World War II was timely, even though death had occurred more than one year prior to filing, and compensation was payable to widow under former 38 USCS § 733. 1946 ADVA 732

5. Restoration of benefits after annulment of marriage

When remarriage of widow or child of veteran that terminated benefits is later declared voidable, restoration of such person to benefits rolls is not to antedate date of decree of nullity; restoration of person involved in void remarriage is not to precede date of separation following discovery that marriage was void, but void nature of such remarriage is to be established by decree of court of competent jurisdiction except where competent authority finds facts so clear as to permit determination by Veterans' Administration [now Department of Veterans Affairs] of voidness without formal decree of nullity. 1949 ADVA 824

Widow who remarried and lost benefits was precluded from their restoration unless her remarriage was void, rather than voidable, and such preclusion applied to dependency and indemnity compensation from January 1, 1917; concerning compensation and pension, benefits were not payable on any claim based on annulment of voidable remarriage unless claim and supporting evidence were received by agency before January 1, 1958. 1959 ADVA 962

VA had no duty to notify widow of eligibility for reinstated pension benefits based on divorce from second husband in absence of any evidence that VA knew or should have known of her changed status making her again eligible for pension. Lyman v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 194

6. Reopened claims

Department of Veterans Affairs' regulatory interpretation of its statutory authority for denying earlier effective date for service connection of veteran's post-traumatic stress disorder than date he reopened for new and material evidence was upheld as reasonable interpretation by agency under Chevron deference. Sears v Principi (2003, CA FC) 349 F.3d 1326, cert den (2004) 541 US 960, 158 L Ed 2d 401, 124 S Ct 1723
Denial of veteran’s claim for earlier effective date for his total disability based on individual unemployability was proper because, on claim to reopen, effective date could not predate application for claim to reopen, absent showing of clear and unmistakable error. Leonard v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 405 F.3d 1333

Award granted on reopened claim may not be made effective prior to date of reopened claim. Lapier v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 215

Effective date for total rating based on individual unemployability due to service-connected disability was properly set at date application for reconsideration of prior final BVA decision was received by VA. Firek v Derwinski (1992) 3 Vet App 145

Board’s finding that only appropriate effective date of award of service connection for veteran’s psychiatric disorder could be date of receipt of claim to reopen was clearly erroneous based on undetermined status of clear and unmistakable error as to earlier RO decision confirming earlier RO decision denying service connection and possibility that that decision did not become final. Mason v Brown (1995) 8 Vet App 44

Veteran was not entitled to earlier effective date for award of service connection for schizophrenia based on 1984 upgrade of his discharge since grant of service connection in 1993, following appellant’s 1989 reopening, was not based on 1984 upgrade of discharge, but on newly presented medical evidence that he had diagnoses of schizophrenia within year of discharge from active duty; grant of service connection rested on medical evidence submitted many years after character of appellant’s discharge was changed and not because of that change. Washington v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 391

Effective date of grant of service connection for chronic subluxation and dislocation of left shoulder and internal derangement of right knee was June 1991 since appellant’s current disability was not verified by VA medical personnel until 1991 when he reopened his claim. Wamhoff v Brown (1996) 8 Vet App 517

Veteran was not entitled to earlier effective date for service connection for schizophrenia based on 1984 upgrade of his discharge since grant of service connection in 1993 was not based on 1984 upgrade of appellant’s discharge, but on newly presented medical evidence that he had diagnoses of schizophrenia and had exhibited manifestations within year after his discharge from active duty. Washington v Gober (1997) 10 Vet App 391

Veteran’s widow was not entitled to earlier effective date for death pension benefits award based on change of law in other case, since her claim was not pending at time of other decision but reopened based on submission of new and material evidence following final disallowance. Smith v West (1998) 11 Vet App 134

Board of Veterans’ Appeals committed clear error in assigning effective date of claim as September 18, 1990 instead of September 12, 1988 where claimant’s skin cancer existed at time case was reopened on September 12, 1988; there was no final decision on 1988 reopened claim even though August 1990 decision explicitly denied claim since decision says claim is neither fully developed nor ripe for review, and implicitly remanded claim for further development; and only plausible basis for determining effective date is 38 USCS § 5110(a)(2). Perry v West (1999) 12 Vet App 365, 1999 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 254

Veteran’s effective date for service connection for dissociative identity disorder under 38 USCS § 5110(a) is date veteran submitted claim and not earlier date when regional office denied veteran entitlement to service connection for borderline personality disorder since regional office decision became final when veteran failed to file timely appeal. Melton v West (2000) 13 Vet App 442, 2000 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 343

Denial of veteran’s claim for effective date earlier than October 26, 1995, for service connection for post-traumatic stress disorder was proper as Board of Veterans Appeals could not reach back to date of original claim as possible effective date for award of service-connected benefits that was predicated on reopened claim. Sears v Principi (2002) 16 Vet App 244, 2002 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 604, affd (2003, CA FC) 349 F.3d 1326, cert den (2004) 541 US 960, 158 L Ed 2d 401, 124 S Ct 1723

Where reopening of veteran's claim due to new and material evidence would not have resulted in earlier effective date for veteran's award of rating of total disability based on individual unemployability (TDIU), and veteran's appeal was not predicated upon clear and unmistakable error (CUE), decision of Board of Veterans' Appeals (BVA) denying earlier effective date was affirmed. Leonard v Principi (2004) 17 Vet App 447, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 81, affd (2005, CA FC) 2005 US App LEXIS 7407

Veteran filed only one claim for service connection for hearing loss, even if there were two theories advanced; therefore, no claim remained pending after Board of Veterans Appeals (BVA) rejected at least one of veteran's theories and, because veteran did not demonstrate that BVA's denial of earlier effective date under 38 USCS § 5110(a) was clearly erroneous under 38 USCS § 7261(a)(4), BVA decision was affirmed. Bingham v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 470, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 547

7. Taxation

Payments initially received by former serviceman as retirement pay were excluded from his taxable income as payments for service-connected disability following retroactive increase in disability benefits. Strickland v Commissioner (1976, CA4) 540 F.2d 1196, 76-1 USTC ¶ 9291, 37 AFTR 2d 998

Plaintiff widow, survivor of military veteran, was granted tax refund relief for funds withheld from her Survivor Benefit Plan receipts for period of time for which she was retroactively entitled to Dependency and Indemnity Compensation benefits, which were nontaxable under 38 USCS § 5301. Ebert v United States (2005) 66 Fed Cl 287, 2005-2 USTC ¶ 50495, 96 AFTR 2d 5163

8. Judicial review

The decision of the Administrator [now Secretary] became "final and conclusive" within the meaning of 38 USCS § 211(a), and the District Court correctly ruled that it lacked jurisdiction to review that decision, where, based on a "Difference of Opinion" under 38 C.F.R. 3.105(b), corrective action was taken on a serviceman's widow's claim for dependency and indemnity compensation benefits, previously and finally disallowed, but reopened by the Administrator [now Secretary] who decided to allow benefits effective as of a later date. Sibonga v Administrator of Veterans Affairs (1972, App DC) 147 US App DC 370, 458 F.2d 789, cert den (1972) 409 US 952, 34 L Ed 2d 224, 93 S Ct 298, reh den (1972) 409 US 1068, 34 L Ed 2d 521, 93 S Ct 564

Decision of Administrator [now Secretary] not to pay certain benefits retroactively is not subject to judicial review. Taylor v United States (1974, WD Ark) 379 F Supp 642

Decision by Board of Veterans Appeals that applied more stringent standard for disability rating under pre-1999 Disability Code, which required that tinnitus be "persistent" as opposed to post-1999 Disability Code, which required condition to be "recurring," was arbitrary and capricious and matter was remanded for reassessment and for assessment of effective date before June 1999 based upon pre-1999 Disability Code. Smith v Principi (2003) 17 Vet App 168, 2003 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 426, revd, remanded (2004, CA FC) 108 Fed Appx 628

Where question of whether appellant's claim remained pending was reasonably raised before Board of Veterans' Appeals, Board's failure to address whether claim remained open rendered its statement of reasons or bases inadequate. Acosta v Principi (2004) 18 Vet App 53, 2004 US App Vet Claims LEXIS 271

Veteran's argument for earlier effective date for benefits-based on application of equitable-tolling principles to 38 USCS § 5110(b)(3)(A) and (B) and 38 C.F.R. § 3.400(b)(1)(ii)(B)-failed because 38 USCS § 5110 did not contain statute of limitations but merely

Failure by Board of Veterans' Appeals to consider presumptive eligibility in its initial decision did not create "incomplete adjudication" that left veteran's claim open; under 38 USCS §§ 7104 and 7103, finality attached once claim for benefits was disallowed, not when particular theory was rejected. Bingham v Nicholson (2005, CA FC) 421 F.3d 1346

Upon final disallowance of claim, provisions of applicable regulations restore service connection based on definite determination of difference of opinion, effective only at date of approval, notwithstanding that regional office possessed same evidence at time of severance of service connection which was ultimately considered under appropriate regulation. 1960 ADVA 970

DIC claimant was not entitled to effective date earlier than Board established, even though Secretary erroneously failed to award appellant increase in DIC over 20 years earlier, since claimant did not file claim with Secretary earlier and Secretary was not required to out potential beneficiaries. Wells v Principi (1992) 3 Vet App 307

Board properly determined that benefits were payable from date veteran filed his claim, not from earlier date when he first contacted veterans' outreach center since there was no evidence that earlier contact was for purpose of applying for benefits. KL v Brown (1993) 5 Vet App 205

Fact that widow may have received erroneous information from VA employee regarding her eligibility for DIC benefits did not entitle her to earlier effective date based on estoppel since statute specifically provides that effective date is date of application. McTighe v Brown (1994) 7 Vet App 29

Veteran exposed to agent orange was entitled to retroactive benefits for one-year period before his application for benefits for soft tissue sarcoma under 1991 regulation with retroactive effective date of 1985 providing presumptive service-connection for soft tissue sarcomas manifested after service based on exposure to herbicides containing dioxin; veteran was not required to meet eligibility criteria as of 1985 effective date, since law did not change until regulation was promulgated in 1991, and veteran filed his claim before law changed. McCay v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 183, affd (1997, CA FC) 106 F.3d 1577

Board's decision denying appellant entitlement to effective date of service connected disorder retroactive to 1984 had plausible basis in record which indicated that appellant withdraw his posttraumatic stress disorder claim that year; social worker assigned to evaluate appellant for PTSD in that year made contemporaneous report indicating that PTSD evaluation was apparently scheduled in error as appellant reported he had no emotional problems and had not applied for such disability, physical but not psychological examination was conducted that year, and RO adjudicated only ankle claim and appellant did not object to Board's not adjudicating another issue. Hanson v Brown (1996) 9 Vet App 29
