VINETT FINE AND HIS DESCENDANTS

by Emerette Goff Fine

Before the Revolutionary War, several Fine families were living in Shenandoah County, Virginia, on the waters of the Shenandoah River, near New Market. Their neighbors were the Newman, Denton, and Thomas families from Long Island. These Fines were a part of a settlement in 1700 of Joannis Fine who had bought land on Long Island in 1698.

--Ruth Webb O'Dell in “Over the Misty Blue Hills.”

In the First Independent Company of Dunmore County, Virginia of 1775, the signatures included: Thomas Fine Sr., Peter Fine, Vinott Fine, In the Dunmore County Militia under Command of Captain Jacob Holeman, were: Andrew, John, Peter, Philip and Winenot Fine.

By the Census of 1783, Thomas Fine was still residing in Shenandoah County, with four in his family. He was near his son Vinott with six in family and son John with six in his family.

--George H Holmes, “That Fine Family.”

Vinott (Vinet) Fine is our known ancestor. The “i” in Vinet is pronounced as in “mine.” By 1780-1781 five Fine brothers--Peter, John, Vinott, Wenden, and Euphemeas had removed from the Shenandoah Valley to Newport, Cocke County, Tennessee. The father of these five men has not been verified. Researchers state that the father was Philip Peter Fine of Maryland who served in the Virginia Army during the Revolutionary War. Efforts to obtain military records of Philip Peter Fine, Vinott Fine and Thomas Fine Sr. have been unsuccessful. The positive link between Joannis and Vinett has not been found by the writer.

There are many Fine records of marriages, births, baptisms and wills in New York, A few are printed here from material furnished by Donald J. Arnold, Lubbock, Texas even though they may not be the connecting link.

John Fine and Philip Fine were included in a list of militia paid off at Romney.

(This Philip Fine is the same one who served in Captain Tipton’s company. He served as a private in the 8th Virginia Regiment and was discharged on Dec 21, 1777. He was born in 1751 in Norfolk, Va., the son of Thomas and Agnes (Merchant) Fine. It is possible this Thomas and the Thomas Fine Sr. mentioned before are the same; however, the relationship between Thomas and “our” five Fine brothers is not known.

First in St. Louis, Mo.

Philip Fine was the first American citizen to visit St. Louis, Mo., going there in 1781. In 1782 he married a widow, 80 years old, by the name of Mary Gaignon, and she had been married twice before. She was originally from London, England and died childless in 1791.
In 1794, Philip, who was then 43, married a young woman of 17, Celeste Sarah Boly, daughter of John Boly (Beaulieu). Philip died at the age of 74, in St. Louis in 1824 or 1825. They were the parents of nine children:

David Melson Fine who married Margaret Sappington
Joseph Fine who married Catherine Crawford
Viza Fine who married Lawson Lovering
Benjamin Fine who married Sarah Sappington
Joshua Fine, born in 1808, married Mary Spear Wells in 1848 and died in 1875
Elizabeth Fine who married N. Moore
Charles Fine who was killed in the Mexican War
Elisah Fine
Catherine Fine who married a man by the name of Apperson.

Two great-granddaughters, Celeste Fine Webb and Arvella Fine Grab, were members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, based on Philip’s war service, according to data contributed by Mrs. Grab of St. Peters, Mo.)

FINE FOLKS
by Hugh Allen

The Fine family is one of the very oldest in Cocke County, in fact, it was here long before the county.

The late Lady Ruth O’Dell, in her monumental history “Over the Misty Blue Hills,” has given a lengthy account of the tribe, so what I shall say here will merely supplement her excellent work.

The Fines were, there is some reason to believe, French. The first mention of the name I have been able to find was that of Orontes Fine, a French mathematician and geographer, who accomplished the amazing feat of making mathematics a popular fad at the gay royal court of Louis I of France (1494-1547).

FATE Magazine, in its May 1966 issue presented a scientific article by Charles H. Hapgood relating that a science panel at Keene State College (New Hampshire) undertook a study of ancient maps.

This group was startled to discover an extremely accurate map of the Antarctic Continent, drawn by Orontes Fine in the year of 1531. The astounding part of the matter was that the Antarctic Continent was not known to Europeans before about 1820. At least it was not known that there was land under the ice.

Map Compiled?

How and where, then, did Orontes Fine get his information? The science group speculated that Fine had “compiled” his map from several previous ones. Indication also was that areas now ice covered at some time were dry land.

But in 1531 few Frenchmen knew about, or cared about, the shape of the bottom of the world, and the fancies of the volatile French court turned to other matters. Orontes Fine and his wife quietly and respectably starved to death. They left a large number of children, and when King Henry II, who had succeeded to the French throne, heard about their deaths he was horrified and granted generous pensions to the children.

Legends in Latin

All of the legends on Fine’s map are in Latin, and Fine wrote in Latin, as did all of the scientists of that day. He signed his name in its Latin form Orontes Finaeus. The name is spelled Fine in French, but with an accent over the “e.” This would make the French pronunciation “Finay,” but the name is the same.

Mrs. O’Dell’s book states that the name Fine is Holland Dutch, and that the family came to America from Holland. The latter statement I do not question, but we should take a little look into history.

Holland, for quite a while, was the only nation in Europe in which religious freedom existed. To Holland flocked many Quakers, Puritans, and dissenters of many creeds. They came from England, Wales and Scotland. Also there were French Huguenots and Protestants from the Rhine countries. They were not Hollanders and Holland was not their homeland.

Settled Around New York City

Many, many of these folk came to America. They settled around New York City, at that time New Amsterdam, a possession of Holland with religious freedom. But in 1664 the English took the city, renamed it New York, and ended freedom of religion. So the immigrants were right back where they started from—under the thumb of the established church.

They moved again; this time to William Penn’s free Pennsylvania and, curiously enough, to the western parts of Catholic Maryland. Maryland authorities ignored them, despite that colony’s strict religious requirements.

To Shenandoah Valley

From here, these hardy pioneers overflowed down the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, each new generation pushing further into the “wilderness,” until by the end of the Revolutionary War they were ready to flow into what is now East Tennessee and then North Carolina. The Fines, I believe, were among those following the general pattern. Mrs. O’Dell states that the Fines were on Long Island before 1700 and the dates fit very nicely.

There is no proof whatever that the Fines of Holland were descendants of Orontes Fine, but it is one of those things that “could very well be.”

Father of Newport

Mrs. O’Dell has carefully traced the Fine family in America from Johannis Fine, who arrived and settled at Hempstead, Long Island, N.Y., before 1700, to Major Peter Fine, who might well be called the “Father of Newport.” He established Fine’s Ferry on French Broad River in 1783. Around his ferry grew up the town of Newport (Old Newport, that is). He was an officer in the American Revolution and a companion in arms of Col. William Lillard, the Father of Cocke County.
Major Fine lived at the farm where the Knoxville Highway crosses Sinking Creek, a mile or so west of Newport. This place passed to the Rutherfords, then to the Kykers.

I wonder if any Fine children today show any especial aptitude for drawing maps!

PHILIP PETER FINE

Philip Peter Fine, whose wife is unknown, was the father of five children. (Father not verified by the writer.)

Peter, born May 5, 1753
Vinet
John
Wenden, died 1789 in Newport, Tennessee, (Seven generations later he has a namesake in Fort Smith, Arkansas.)
Euphemeas

PETER FINE

Peter, the eldest son of Philip Peter, was licensed to keep the first ferry in Cocke Co., Tenn. There is an historical marker on Hwy. 411, between Newport and Greenville, marking the ferry site, which has Peter's name inscribed on it. He was a Baptist, and on May 8, 1790 was appointed deacon of the church (Big Pigeon). He was ordained deacon on June 11, 1791. When the first church in Cocke Co. was organized by the Baptist denomination, at what was called Upper War Ford, it was represented in the Hoston Association of that year (1794) by Joshua Kelley, John Netherton and Peter Fine.

Peter’s brother, Vinet, was killed by Indians in the mountains of North Carolina (Haywood Co.). His companions placed his body beneath the ice in a creek, planning to return later for it but a sudden rise in the creek washed the body away and it was never recovered. The creek has ever since been called Fine's Creek. The area is Fine’s Creek township; the school is called Fine’s Creek School House.

Commissioners appointed to locate and erect buildings for Newport (county seat of Cocke County) were Henry Reagan, William Job, John Coffee, Peter Fine, John Keeney, Reps Jones and John McLaughlin.

Trustees of Anderson Academy, which opened in 1820, and was located one mile south of old Newport were Francis J. Carter, Isaac Leonard, Abraham McCoy, Daniel McPherson, William Lillard, Alexander Smith, Augustine Jenkins, Peter Fine and Henry Stephens.

(Research done by Donald Arnold)

In 1787, Peter Fine was issued grant 2088 for 200 acres at the mouth of Clear Creek, French Broad River, Greene Co., Tenn. (All of eastern Tennessee was at this time Washington Co., N. C.)

...North Carolina Land Grants

Peter Fine attained the rank of major in the U. S. Army and his brothers, John and Vinet, served as captains. He established a trading post and his old account ledger today is in the law office of his great, great grandson, William M. Crawford, in Newport.
Entries start in 1790 and are recorded in English pounds, shillings, and pence. In this ledger is the name of Thomas Fine, when he bought some calico and some lead in 1797, and again in January of 1798, when he bought seven pounds of lead and “one fine niff.” This Thomas was the son of Vinet.

Peter Fine Bible Record

Peter Fine was born May 5, 1753, and died August 11, 1826. He first married Rebecca Stats in October, 1773. She was born 1756, and died September 7, 1802. A year after her death (Sept. 1803), he married Anne Mitchell Murrel, and his third wife was Elizabeth Alexandre whom he married November, 1816.

Children listed in the record were:
Lidgard, born Sept 1, 1775
Aaron, born July 5, 1777, and probably died in infancy, as a younger son was given the same name
Jonathan, born May 11, 1799. This man’s son, David, is buried at Cincinnati, Washington Co., Arkansas, with his wife Anne beside him
John, born Jan 1, 1781
David, born Aug 12, 1783
Peter, born Sept 18, 1786
Elizabeth, born Jan 22, 1788
Abraham, born Mar 24, 1789
Aaron, born June 7, 1792
Mariann, born May 5, 1794, and died Oct 15, 1812
Rebecca, born Aug 25, 1796
Patsey Tirevelan, born Sept 10, 1799

Tennessee Militia Records

Both the father and two sons, Lidgard and David, held commissions in Cocke County Militia Regiments. David served as lieutenant in the 8th Regt., with date of rank 13 July 1807. His oldest brother, Lidgard, was a lieutenant in the Cavalry Regiment of Hamilton Dist, 22 Dec 1798, and became a captain in his brother’s regiment 11 Feb 1813. The father served as 1st major with date of rank as Jan. 11, 1798.

Old Union Cemetery at Cincinnati, Arkansas

The line from Peter leads directly to a graveyard near Cincinnati, Arkansas where his grandson, David W. Fine, was buried. The tombstone inscription is:

David W. Fine
Mar. 1, 1812
Apr. 29, 1885

Beside him is his wife, Anne E. Fine, and her inscription reads:

Anne E. Fine
Feb. 11, 1802
Feb. 26, 1873
David was born in Tennessee, son of Jonathan and Hannah Rector Fine. (Land deeds show his name as David M. Fine, which the author believes is correct and that the W on his gravestone is an upside down M, an error by the engraver.)

DAVID FINE

David Fine, uncle of the David buried at Cincinnati, was the son of Peter and Rebecca Fine and brother of the Arkansas David’s father, Jonathan.

He was born Aug. 12, 1783 in Cocke Co., Tenn. and died Oct. 15, 1843. He married Agnes Mitchell, who was born in Virginia, date unknown, and died Feb. 3, 1852. She was the daughter of Nathaniel and Ann Bridgewater Mitchell.

Their son, Stephen Mitchell Fine, was born in the same county in Tennessee, Mar. 9, 1811, and died Sept. 22, 1866. He was married September 1835 to Mary Beatty in Moniteau Co., Mo. Mary, daughter of Samuel Beatty was born April 8, 1813, in Tennessee and died on Feb. 4, 1887.

Their children were Adeline, Samuel N., David, Peter, Ann, and Margaret. (From the 1850 Census of Cooper Co., Mo.)

Peter, their third son, was born Aug. 28, 1843 in Missouri, and died on Oct. 25, 1893. He married Maude Hunter Calvert, Oct. 17, 1875. She was born Mar. 4, 1853 and died in 1911.

They had six children: Alpha Maude, Ethel Margaret, Martha, Leona Payne, Samuel, and Norris Fine.

The Civil War found this branch of the Fine family carrying on the military tradition established by their ancestors: both Peter and Samuel, sons of Stephen and Mary, served in the Confederate Army, Peter was assigned to Capt. Davenport’s Co., 7th Missouri Reg’t. of Shelby’s Brigade, General Gordon Price’s Corps, and was honorably discharged. He was with Shelby all during the last two years of the war and surrendered with him.

Samuel was with General Lee during the entire four years and served as his aide. He carried the flag over the breastworks at Fort Pillow. He refused a captaincy saying that he knew the country and could best serve as a scout and spy. He surrendered with Lee at Appomattox Court House and was honorably discharged.

Younger descendants of this family line are Samuel Davis Fine and Lee Calvert Fine.

1908 Account of W. R. Fine’s Death Reveal’s History

With this issue of the Tribune it becomes our sad and painful duty to announce to its readers the death of W. R. Fine. During the day of the 27th he was engaged by working in a field across a small creek from his home at Wilsonville and on his return to the house he attempted to cross the creek on a small footlog, when by some means he lost his balance and his body was precipitated head foremost into the creek, the force of the fall and weight of the body unjointing his neck, and before friends reached him the spirit of the big-brained, big hearted, and big-souled W. R. Fine had crossed the mystic river.

He was born near Wilsonville, Cocke County, Tennessee on the 12th day of February, 1838 and was just finishing the seventieth year of life when death called for him. He was a descendent of pioneer stock; his direct ancestors and collateral kindred rendered valuable service in protecting the original settlements of the valleys of the French Broad and Big Pigeon Rivers.
In this connection it may be of interest to the relatives and friends of the deceased to refer briefly to the Fine family and note the part they performed in perfecting and protecting the early settlements of that portion of Greene County, N. C. that now constitute Cocke County, Tennessee. Among the early settlers of this territory were five brothers, Wenden, Euphameas, Peter, John and Vinet Fine. All the evidence points to their coming from the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. The only record we have of Wenden Fine is that he died in the territory that is now Cocke County in the spring of 1789 and that his two brothers, Euphameas and Peter, ministered upon and wound up his estate. As to the point where Euphameas Fine located and what finally became of him we have no information. Peter Fine located on French Broad River opposite and above Old Newport; his entry included the old ferry and the large island opposite the old residence of G. I. Thomas. At this place he died, leaving one son, Abraham Fine, who became one of Cocke County’s most respected citizens.

Capt. John Fine located on the land shown as the Rutherford farm on Sinking Creek. At this place he died and his children all went west in the early part of the last century.

Vinet Fine entered and located part of the land known as the Swagerty land, now owned by the Unaka Tannery. He was in possession of this land at the time of his death, which will be referred to later. He left a number of sons and daughters, among them was Isaac Fine, the father of the subject of this sketch.

In the summer of 1781 Col. John Sevier attacked a party of Indians on Indian Creek. The place of battle was just across the county line near the farm of William Phillips. In this engagement seventeen Indians were killed. In the last conversation the writer had with the deceased, the latter informed the writer that his father, Isaac Fine pointed out to him the place of the battle and informed him that Peter, John, and Vinet Fine participated in the battle.

In the spring of the year 1783, Col. William Lillard and Major Peter Fine raised a company of thirty men, among the number being Capts. John and Vinet Fine, crossed the mountain to the Overhill Town of Cowee and burned it. From this town originated all the aggressions upon the Pigeon and French Broad settlements.

In the winter of the year 1783 the Indians commenced hostilities upon the Pigeon settlements by stealing horses and cattle. Major Peter Fine and Capt. Jn. McNabb raised a company of men and followed the Indians across the mountain into North Carolina where they killed one Indian and wounded another and recovered all the horses. Upon their return they were fired upon by the Indians. Thomas Holland and a Mr. Bingham were wounded and Vinet Fine was killed. The party broke a hole in the ice and placed the body in the creek with a view of returning and carrying it away for burial, but owing to a sudden rise in the water of the creek the body was carried away and never recovered. The creek has ever since been known as Fine’s Creek.

Proud of Ancestors

The deceased often expressed himself as being proud that he was the grandson of Vinet Fine, the man who voluntarily sacrificed his life for the protection of the infant settlement of Pigeon, and his eyes would gleam with pride and his voice would be eloquent with emotion as he would recall the history and tradition of the Fine family. The deceased had a very limited education but nature furnished him with a big brain and with a strong, active, analytical mind. By means of these endowments he became a skilled machinist and an expert with tools. With a hand hammer and a file he could fashion from a bar of steel a pocket knife, a razor, a pair of scissors, a pistol or a rifle gun and with his inventive genius he could make an automatic rat-trap or an improvement on a car coupler or a steam engine.
In June, 1857, the deceased was married to Nancy Wilson, daughter of Alberta Wilson. As a result of his marriage he leaves to mourn his death a widow and five sons: Ewen, Mack, Rufus, Frank and Charles Fine; also six daughters: Mrs. Kerrilla McNabb, Emma Gray, Nancy Samples, Mrs. Sarah Maloy, Marshia Hall and Virgie Gray.

Kind and Indulgent

As a citizen, neighbor and friend his character was much to be admired. He was kind, liberal and generous. He met cordially his friends and neighbors and always commanded their respect and esteem. In his home life he was kind and indulgent and was idolized by each and every member of his family. It was indeed a sad sight and one that filled our heart with emotion and dimmed our eyes with tears as we witnessed the stalwart sons and tiny grandchildren weeping piteously over the grave of their departed loved one.

On the summit of a high hill, under the shadow of the great mountain overhanging the murmuring waters of the crystal streamlet from which he had so often refreshed his tottering and wearied body, we tenderly and affectionately laid him to rest.

He has passed away,
Like a gentle breath;
And his eyes are closed, with the sleep of death;
The leaves on the trees will flutter and fall,
And the drifting snow will cover all;
But he will peacefully, and calmly rest
   Forever happy
   By angels blest.

Identifies Skeleton

Down through the years the story has been told of an early Fine in Tennessee or North Carolina who went hunting alone and vanished.

Several years later the skeleton of a man, with gun by his side was found in a hollow log. Wounded by Indians, he apparently had crawled inside the log to hide and had died there. The gun identified him as the Fine who had failed to return from hunting.

Andy Ball of Fine Springs, Crawford Co., Arkansas, recalls this story told to him by his uncle Thomas Fine, son of Jonathan, son of William, son of Vinet. On reading the above newspaper article Andy is convinced the skeleton was that of Euphemias Fine.

WILLIAM FINÉ
(First in Arkansas)

William Fine, the fifth child of Vinet, was born in Virginia in 1781 and died September 1865. He was married on April 2, 1807 at Jefferson Co., Tennessee to Catherine Sivley. She was the daughter of Jacob and Alsey Sivley and was born in Tennessee 1791, and died May 29, 1881.
They were married at her parent's home by the Reverend Lessee. Later, they moved to Giles County, and from there to Huntsville, Madison County, Alabama.

While living here William enlisted at Ditto Landing on the Tennessee River, near Huntsville, for service in the War of 1812. He served under Capt. Joseph Acklin and Col. Perkins and was in several Indian skirmishes. He was discharged on 22 Dec., 1813. By 1817 they were again living in Giles County. In 1828 they moved to Washington County, Arkansas.

Land Grants

William received two land grants for his war service and his widow, Catherine, was granted a pension in 1878.

References: War Records among which was an affidavit signed by Rebecca Davis (her mark), stating that she attended the wedding of William Fine and Catherine at her father's home and that Catherine was her sister. Dated 17 Dec. 1873 and signed by Z. B. Moon, J. P. Bedford Co., Tenn.

Two married daughters remained in Tennessee. Their names are unknown, but it is known that one of them married a man named Calvin Coffee. He was a much loved and respected person and his name has come down through the Fine generations.

Sometime after coming to Arkansas, Catherine, called Katie, became homesick to see her daughters so she packed up her horse and mounting it, she made the long journey alone, through the wilderness and over the rough and lonely trails to Tennessee and back to Arkansas.

William and Katie became the parents of 11 children. The first two daughters are unknown but one married Calvin Coffee. The other children were:

1. Spencer Forby, 1810 in Tennessee
2. Charlotte, b. May 22, 1812, Giles Co., Tenn,
4. William B., b. May 9, 1816, also in Alabama
5. Alfred, b. Feb 12, 1817, in Giles County, Tenn.
6. Rebecca, b. Dec. 31, 1820, in Giles County
7. Louallen, b. 1823 in Giles County
8. Bluford T., b 1824 in Giles County
9. Lucinda, b. 1826 in Giles County

William and Katie and their daughter, Rebecca, are buried in Gilliland Cemetery south of Greenland on the Dr. Maurice Ray farm.

1. Spencer Forby Fine (settled Springdale - first U.S. Patent to Fine)

Spencer, the first son of William and Katie, was 18 years old when his parents made the move to Arkansas. He married Jane Brandon, also a native of Tennessee, who was born 1819.

A newspaper clipping in the old John Calvin Fine scrapbook says “Spencer F. Fine died in Washington County, Arkansas on the 21st ult; aged 86 years. He was one of the early settlers of this county.” He died in 1896.
Spencer and Jane became the parents of 12 children, all born in his adopted state of Arkansas. The children are listed as they appear in the 1850-60 census for Washington County:

1. William, b. 1834
2. Caladonia, b. April 26, 1836

9. James, b. 1850
10. Ann, b. 1854
11. Clementine, b. 1856
12. Peter, b. 1858

Mrs. Stephen L. (Pearl) King, Bentonville, Ark. is a great-granddaughter of Spencer and Jane Fine. She furnishes a list of these children which shows some of them were called by middle names or nicknames. Her list includes William, Davie, London, Forbie, Jennie, Martha, Sophronia, Malonia, Caldonia, and Christine.

The Spencer Fine family lived in Prairie Township in 1850 but moved to Clear Creek Township before the 1860 census was enumerated.

More is known about Caladonia’s sister, Sophronia, second daughter and third child. She was born Sept. 15, 1837 and died Oct. 11, 1918. On July 13, 1854 she married Roberson Franklin Stroud, who was born March 7, 1833 and died August 17, 1918. The couple whose deaths were separated by three months and seven days, are buried in Pea Ridge Cemetery, Arkansas.

The First Ball in Fayetteville

Capt. Thomas Brooks,
Editor, Review:

I have been frequently requested by my friends to give them another chapter on the early history of Washington County (Arkansas) and in order to get material for my sketch, I have recently visited our old and mutual friend, Mrs. Charlotte Wilson, widow of the late Judge Thomas Wilson. You have known her for 40 years and I have known her as Aunt Charlotte for 58 years, and we can safely vouch for the correctness of her statements which I give below in her own language. Since the death of her husband, Judge Wilson, which occurred 15 years ago, she has made her home with her son-in-law, Robert Mayes, who lives one mile northwest of Farmington in this county. On last Wednesday p. m. I went from Fayetteville to his home expressly to interview Mrs. Wilson and spent the night in his elegant home and must be pardoned for saying that I was royally entertained by Bob and his excellent wife, and especially by that noble old pioneer mother who has lived in Washington County 69 years, longer than any other persons except Mrs. Arrington, Mrs. Combs of West Fork, and William Alexander, all of whom came to this county about one year before Mrs. Wilson came. Mrs. Wilson is now 86 years old, but could pass for a woman of 65. She is active, walks erect and does not use spectacles except when reading. She assists her daughter in her household work and is quite cheerful and fond of conversing with her friends.

Her maiden name was Fine. She was the fourth child of William and Catherine Fine, and was born in Giles County, Tenn. on the 22 May, 1812, came with her parents to Arkansas Territory in 1828. They left their old home in Tennessee on Oct. 15, 1828 and reached West Fork of White River on the 2 March, 1829 and settled in the woods seven miles south of Fayetteville, which then was called Washington Court House. They were well equipped for the long journey through the wilderness. They had one large four horse wagon called “Prairie Schooner” and another two horse wagon and a good tent to sleep in at night. They stopped three weeks in Conway County and six weeks at Billingsley on account of a big snow which fell about the middle of January, 1829 and did not all melt away until the 1st of March.
There was not room in the wagons for all the family, and she walked all the way from Giles County, Tenn. to West Fork. She says she was as happy as a lark; when the evening campfire was built she cooked supper for the family, 12 or 13 in number, and then cooked breakfast every morning. She says her father was a powder maker in Tennessee and had brought several gourds full to sell along the route, and seeing so many mortars and sweeps with pestle for pounding corn into meal, her mother told Mr. Fine that he would not find sale for his powder as every squatter makes his own powder. She thought those pounding machines were to pulverize charcoal and salt petre for powder.

She said she felt very lonely for a while in their new home in the wild woods with no neighbors near and no society for young ladies and felt herself very fortunate when she received a ticket to a ball to be given by the young gentlemen of Fayetteville, on the 4th of July, 1829. Her father and mother came into town with her on the morning of the fourth and she saw no houses between their home and Fayetteville. The dancing commenced at 2 p. m. in the new court house which was built of round logs with puncheon floor and board roof. A splendid supper was served at Byrnside’s Tavern and each young gentleman was taxed $1.50 for supper for himself and partner. Bryant H. Smithson and young Thomas Wilson were two of the committee of arrangements. Abram Cartwright, assisted by Alx. Scott, furnished the music. They danced some square dances, but mostly the old Virginia eight handed reels which required no one to prompt. She danced her first set with Thomas Wilson, to whom she was married on the 6th of the following September 1829. She said Bry Smithson had several dollars in silver loose in his pocket, and while dancing first upon the heel tap then upon the toe his silver money would jingle, jingle, keeping time with the music of the fiddle. They danced until two o’clock in the morning and adjourned until next morning. Mrs. Byrnside took her home with her, also another girl from the country, Miss Phoebe Standifer. She and Miss Standifer were the only country girls present, all the rest being town girls, 11 in all. There were seven sisters dancing in one set at the same time. Their name was Kingcade (Kincaid). And Bry Smithson afterwards married Miss Cynthia Kingcade, one of the sisters.

On the morning of the fifth the dancing was renewed and kept up until about the middle of the afternoon, when, feeling that they had shown sufficient respect for the glorious Fourth of July they separated and repaired to their respective homes, all happy and contented. The best of order prevailed, everybody was on his good behavior, and the young gentlemen proved themselves to be as gallant as any she ever saw.

Every few hours refreshments were handed around, which consisted of biscuits, well buttered, and slices of turkey breast fried brown, which we know is good eating. I inquired as to how they were dressed, and she replied all kinds of dresses were worn; as for herself she wore a black silk dress, which she brought from Tennessee. The young ladies used a dry goods store nearby the court house for a toilet room. Their head-dresses looked very pretty by the light of the tallow candles; their heads were ornamented with ribbons which shone like silver. Miss Sallie Byrnside was present; but she did not dance. Miss Sallie was afterwards married to young Lee C. Blakemore and her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Taylor, now lives in Fayetteville.

On the 6th of September, 1829 she was married to Thomas Wilson who had built a log cabin in the woods near where his son, James Wilson, now lives. They went to keeping house the day after they were married and she says there were no cooking vessels of any kind, and when she went to cook their first breakfast she had to cook their bread in the ashes, making what was called an “ash cake.” There was no furniture in the house, only a Suffold Bedstead, made by setting up one post into which auger holes were bored, into which one end of the bed rails were inserted and the other ends inserted into holes in the logs of the house, and on those rails or round poles were laid rough oak boards, four feet long, on which was placed the straw bed. This bedstead served a double purpose, being used to sleep on and when the meals were ready the bedding was removed and the table cloth spread on it, which made a table to eat on. They had no knives and forks and used a butcher knife to cut their meat and made forks out of hard cane. She said she took a good cry the first meal she tried to cook and was very much discouraged, but her mother and Mr. Wilson went to Cane Hill in a few days and bought a skillet and an oven, some dishes and knives and forks and she was then happy.

She says wild game was plentiful, and they could shoot deer and turkeys from the door of their cabin, and that many times when she would be spinning on the big wheel that wild turkeys would come into the yard, walk by the door and look in and cluck, cluck, being attracted there by the buzzing and singing of the wheel. The foxes would chase the chickens in the yard in daylight and she saw a chicken fly up in a bush to escape a fox, and it climbed up after the chicken. Wolves howling around their cabin was a familiar sound, and the bears would kill their hogs within a hundred yards of their house.

She attended the hanging at Cane Hill in 1839 and saw the three men hanged for the murder of the Wright Family. She saw Rev. Andy Buchanan climb up a ladder to where the three men were standing on the platform and heard him tell them that they had only a few minutes more to live and asked them now to tell the truth. One declared he was innocent, but another man whose name was Richards on, called out to him, saying, “There is no use to die with a lie in your mouth, for you know we did commit the murder.” She also saw old man Burnett and his wife hanged here at Fayetteville in 1845.

Mrs. Wilson had ten children, four of whom are now living, viz: James Wilson, Mrs. Lotta Mayes, Mrs. Elizabeth Graham of Weddington, Mrs. Black now in Kansas. She says she has often heard her husband tell of the fun he and Judge David Walker used to have in the early days when they were gay young men, that they would ride 20 miles to attend a country dance.

Mrs. Wilson has lived an active and useful life, and taught her children to respect honest labor and to live honest useful lives, and it is a great comfort to her in her extreme old age to feel assured that they have lived up to her teaching and that they love their old mother who cared for them in their early life. I sometimes fear that the younger generations fail to appreciate the noble, true-hearted fathers and mothers who first penetrated the wilds of Arkansas and made so many sacrifices for the good of all those who are to take their places in life. I love to meet up with them and listen to them while they relate their early adventures of Arkansas. I hope some of your readers will find pleasure in reading this account of the first big ball in Fayetteville. She only remembers the names of a few of the young men present at the ball. They were: Bryant Smithson, John Kingcade, Dave Kingcade, Dick Dye, Tom Stevens and Tom Wilson. Mrs. Wilson is a remarkably well preserved woman of her age and bids fair to live many years yet and we trust she may live to see her centennial birthday. If I have made any mis-statements in this sketch, I hope that she will pardon her old friend whom she has known from his childhood.

West Fork Christian Church

The West Fork Christian Church is probably the oldest organization of the followers of the teachings of Alexander Campbell in Washington County. It was organized in 1837, with the following officers and members:

- Elders: William Robinson, Stephen Strickland, and Alfred Arrington.
Deacons: Levi Combs and Shelby Conner.

Members: Mrs. S. Strickland, Mrs. A. Arrington, Daniel Conner, Mrs. Shelby Conner, Thomas Wilson and wife, Eli Bloyd and wife, Mrs. W. Robinson, Benjamin Miller and wife, Samuel Alexander and wife, John Wilson, Joseph Lewis, Betsy Conner, Christopher Harness and wife, and Joseph Miller, Sr. and wife.

They were first organized under an elm tree, and held services there until soon after the ruling elders built a church of hewed logs. Elder Stephen Strickland seems to have been the first pastor and among others who held services there afterward were Rev. John Robinson, the well-known Rev. Robert Graham, Rev. Elijah Northam and Rev. Eli Baker. The present membership numbers about thirty persons.

His birth is recorded in the Orren M. Rieff Bible as “John William Rieff was born five minutes before six o’clock Sunday morning.” His marriage is also noted as occurring Thursday evening, Jan. 6, 1859 at the residence of the Bride’s father in Washington County, Arkansas by Jones Pierson, Esquire -- John William Rieff to Miss Mary Catherine Wilson. The record also notes that in the next century, on a Sunday night, Mar. 26, 1943, James Franklin Rieff, son of John and Catherine Wilson Rieff, age 82, died. After Mary Catherine died and was buried in Wilson Cemetery, John married Malvina Hunton Dec. 16, 1875.

Old Settler’s Story

Sulphur City, Ark.
George W. Van Hoose
17 June 1904

Editor, Review:

The last time I was in your office I promised to send you some items from this place, and as this day is the sixty-fifth anniversary of my arrival into this neighborhood, I will give you a little history of the event.

My father left Floyd County, Ky. with a large family the 3rd day of May, 1839, came down the Big Sandy river in a moving boat and two flatboats loaded with tanbark and hogshead staves for the market at Cincinnati. After remaining camped at Covington, Ky. some two weeks to sell out, we took a steamboat for Van Buren, Ark. The boat was a steam wheeler, named Trident, and came through the canal at Louisville which was just opened, on down the Ohio to the father of waters, down it to the mouth of White river, then up it to a cut off between it and the Arkansas, then through to the Arkansas, up and to Van Buren, where we found a little town of possibly one dozen houses. We camped there for about one week until two ox wagons went from this creek after us, the teams being driven by old uncle Bracken Lewis (my mother’s brother), and cousin Brock Lewis, or as he is known now as Captain Bracken Lewis. He was then about a grown man, and is now 88 years old and is hale and hearty and could crack a whip over an oxen’s back yet, if there were such things yet, and is living within 2 1/2 miles of where he lived at that time. His father and others had come to White River six years ahead of us in the year 1834.

The wagons brought us by the Cove Creek road and across near Greenland, south of Fayetteville. On the hills we could see the little opening and a few houses where the pretty town of Fayetteville now stands. We got on the West fork at Mr. Wilson’s at noon the 17th of June where we found all the Wilsons gathered to greet the newcomers. They had a nice dinner prepared for us and we had a jolly good time for a few hours and I was entertained by a boy of my own size and age. He told me of the many sports of the new world, showed me his cane fishing poles, how he managed to catch the wily goggle-eye sun perch; he told me many wonderful things and did it too with great gravity and dignity. He told me his name was James Wilson and I didn’t forget it, as he was the first Arkansas boy I got acquainted with; and the same Jim Wilson like myself is still on topside of Arkansas soil and is still the same dignified old Jim of 65 years ago. The friendship formed in a few hours between us has never been broken and as we are both nearing the end of our pilgrimage, we are still friends and hope to remain such and to meet some day in a perfect rest.

After partaking of the hospitality of the Wilsons, we came over the mountain and down to the Middle Fork, and we came near a cave where bears and panthers lived in the winter. J. A. Fincher now lives at the mouth of the cave and uses it.

We arrived at grandmother Rachael Mankins’ on the old Peter Mankins place a mile from Sulphur City at about five o’clock p.m. 17 June 1839. I was a child of 7 years and was so tired of our long journey, and so overjoyed at getting to grandmother’s, I went out and found a large flat stone got upon it and danced for joy, (as I had often said I would do if I ever got to Granny’s). That was a grand time for father, mother and all of us.

Sixty-five years have passed and gone, and with them nearly all of those with whom I associated. Out of our family of 12 children only aunt Rachael Williams, Lizie Marion, J. H. Van Hoose and myself remain alive today; all tottering on the brink of the grave and are widely separated. God only knows whether we will ever be together again.

In order to celebrate the 60th anniversary of my citizenship on White River, my nephew, Sam Taylor of Smith Center, Kansas and I visited the Fincher cave, spent some hours inside and the remainder of the day enjoying the kind hospitality of Mr. Fincher and his good wife. We went several hundred yards into the cave, seeing its wonders, holding our lamp up to the walls, reading the hundreds of names who had been there many years before; many who have long since been dead and almost forgotten. It is a solemn place to be, you feel like being in a tomb. The stillness of death and darkness all around, you turn your light on the wall and see the name of some dear dead relative or friend written in their own handwriting with dates away back in the forties and fifties. I saw my five dead brothers’ names in one nook, I turned my lamp to the rock and read the name of a good girl that used to live in Fayetteville who has been gone to her reward for many, many years. There was a party of them all written the same day, 26 July 1860. Miss Sallie Davidson, Miss Jasu Lee, Miss Marshall and brothers Will and Charley. Miss Davidson was sister to Major B. F. and Perry Davidson. Mr. Hawes, if you wish to enjoy feeling solemn for a few hours and seeing some wonderful works of nature and drinking some good water, come out and go into the cave.

...George Washington Van Hoose, writer of the above article was the son of John and Lydia Lewis Van Hoose Lydia was the daughter of Zachariah and Rachel Bracken Lewis. Rachel, left a widow with three small children, married Peter Mankins, Sr. The Lewis children were as dear to Peter as his own. The Wilson family referred to was that of Thomas and Charlotte Fine Wilson, and James was their oldest child.

3. Jonathan Fine

Jonathan, the fifth child of William and Catherine, was born during the relatively brief period his parents were living in Madison County, Alabama. He was 14 years old when the parents came to Arkansas in 1828. Some eight years later he married Rachel Mankins who was born Jan. 26, 1819 in Floyd Co., Ky. She died on Feb. 24, 1897 at Hanson, Indian Territory, and he died on Nov. 12, 1875 at Fine Springs, Ark. Rachel was the daughter of Peter and Rachel Bracken Lewis Mankins Sr.

Mrs. Rachel Fine Obituary

Died on the morning of Feb. 25, 1897 at the home of George Fine near Hanson, I. T., Mrs. Rachel Fine in the 79th year of her age.

Grandma Fine, as she was familiarly known, had long been a resident of Rudy township, in this county, where her remains were brought for burial. She was a daughter of the late venerable Peter Mankins of Washington County, who lived to the ripe old age of 111 years. She was a member of the Baptist Church and died as she had lived, a devoted mother and grandmother, a true and faithful Christian. She leaves behind her to mourn her loss a family of seven sons, Walter, John, Carrol, Thomas, Hamilton, George and Calvin, and one daughter, Mrs. Rachel Taylor, also seventy grandchildren and thirty great-grandchildren. Her remains were laid to rest in Newberry Chapel Cemetery by the side of the grave of her husband, Jonathan Fine, who died twenty years ago.

Neighbors and friends in number more than two hundred assembled at the home of the deceased to join in the last sad offices to the one they loved so well. The funeral services were by Pillows and White with (remaining three lines illegible).

...Copied from the old scrapbook of John Calvin Fine, Cleburne, Texas, by his son, Peter Cooper Fine, on December 13, 1963. This obituary was in a Crawford County, Ark. paper.

Jonathan Fine and Rachel Mankins were married in Washington Co. and most of their children were born there:

William Riley, b. Nov. 1, 1837, died in infancy
Peter, b. Feb. 9, 1839
Alfred, b. Dec. 6, 1840
Walter "Watt," b. May 12, 1842
Millie, b. Nov. 26, 1845
Thomas Jefferson, b. June 15, 1847
Isaac Hamilton, b. Mar. 2, 1849
George "Kernel," b. Dec. 1, 1852
Elizabeth Fine, b. Nov. 23, 1854, died in infancy
James Carrol, b. Feb. 3, 1856
Calvin, b. Aug. 3, 1858
Rachel, b. Oct. 8, 1860 at Fine Springs
Fine Springs

About the mid-1850s Jonathan Fine and his family moved to Texas. In 1859 they decided to return to Washington County, Ark. and enroute to their former home, bringing a herd of cattle with them, they camped overnight at a big spring in Crawford County. They were so pleased with the countryside that they decided to settle there, and in 1861 Jonathan Fine bought the farm and spring where they had camped from Hugh R. and Sarah Ann Frazier. From that time on the Big Spring was known as Fine Springs.

They had hardly gotten settled when the Civil War was upon them and before it was over Jonathan had five sons fighting for the South. Watt (Walter) Fine served with Stand Watie and his mounted troops. Peter and John served the first three months with Captain James M. Stewart’s Arkansas Troops, and the remainder of the time with Captain John F. Winfrey, Co. E., Third Arkansas Cavalry, participating in battles of Wilson Creek, Prairie Grove, and many other skirmishes. The Stewart and Winfrey organizations were both formed at Van Buren at the start of the War. Alfred Fine also served through the entire Civil War.

By the time Thomas Fine was old enough to enlist, the federal soldiers were in control of Crawford County so he and a friend, William James, joined the Union Army, hoping to remain in their home county and be close to their folks. They took training and soon learned they were going to be sent into battle against their own people. The two boys promptly skipped out for Texas where they joined the Confederate Army.

Jonathan was too old to go in the Army, but he had to hide out in the mountains much of the time to avoid being killed by the bushwhackers. One time three or four men slipped up on him out in the woods. But after his capture they hardly knew what to do with him. One was all for shooting him, but others thought that might not be the best thing to do. They talked about Jonathan’s five sons in the War that it was unlikely they would all be killed and the boys who returned home would hunt them down to the last man if they killed their father. So after much talk, which was all right before Jonathan, they finally let him go.

All five sons came through the War unscratched. At the close of hostilities, Peter, Alfred, John and Thomas were mustered out of service at Alexandria, La. On their long journey toward home, Alfred took pneumonia and died near Nashville, Ark. They buried him there and came on home. Peter’s horse was stolen while they were taking care of Alfred. After they got home Peter wanted to return to Nashville to try to find his horse but his family would not hear of it. They were too glad to have him at home safe.

Watt Fine did not return home for many months after the War and the family had given him up as dead.

RUDY SERGEANT LEADS PATROL ON SCOUTING MISSION WHICH MAKES POSSIBLE SPEEDY YANK PUSH

by Lewis Hawkins

...Fort Smith Record
Fort Smith, Ark.
Mar. 18, 1945

With the United States Forty-Second Infantry Division (AP)-Three days and nights of scouting deep within German lines by a sergeant, a corporal and a private was credited with saving hundreds of American lives and speeding the Rainbow Division’s progress through the Hardt mountains in the Seventh United States Army’s current offensive.

Sergeant Daniel J. Wofford of Rudy, Ark. led a 78-hour patrol in obtaining information literally from under the Germans’ noses and his “silent task force” included Corporal Richard E. Jones of Wash-

Hiding in the woods by day—but still keeping their eyes open-and moving at night, the trio covered much of the terrain shortly before the division attacked. When they returned to their own lines they barely had time to shave before the divisional commander, Maj-Gen. Harry J. Collins awarded each a Silver Star for gallantry in action.

Lying at times almost within arm’s reach of German soldiers, the bold scouts gained a mass of information about the enemy’s position and locations of minefields so the Rainbow division doughboys were able to smash the first and avoid the second when the attack started.

The patrol, which Collins described as “the most effective this division ever had” began on the 232nd Infantry regiment front at 7:30 p. m. March 9 and was to have been for 48 hours but was prolonged to 30 hours longer.

In addition to gaining information on the enemy, the scouts carefully noted the effect of our artillery when they were caught by a storm of shells in the spruce woods. In their report they suggested our gunners were using the wrong kind of fuse for the most effective fire in deciduous timber, adding that another type of fuse would have resulted in “members of the patrol being wounded if not killed.”

Once they were caught in between a party of the enemy on the ridge ahead of them and shellfire from their own guns. Another time they were between two German machine gun posts so close that they could hear the bolts of both weapons. Once they picked their way right through a German bivouac area.

Searching late one afternoon for a place to spend the night Jones reported they “ran across what looked like a German grave which turned out to be a fellow sleeping in his sack with his helmet hanging on a stick.”

The patrol figured it would not be wise to move around while the enemy was sleeping so they lay quiet and let the German move away when he awakened.

They got very little sleep and had to live on chocolate bars, but never were seen by the enemy and didn’t have to fire a shot.

Their closest call came when returning to their own lines at 1:30 a. m. March 13 a nervous GI tossed a hand grenade at them.

All three volunteered for the dangerous job, a part of their task in the intelligence and reconnaissance platoon. None except Wofford had any extensive knowledge of woodcraft but the Arkansan had enough for all.

The sergeant, a 30-year-old graduate of the University of Arkansas, is a corn breeder by profession and an entymologist for relaxation. He almost never speaks above a whisper and whispers only when he has something worth saying.

Jones was a sophomore at Dartmouth when he entered the army in 1942. He won the Bronze Star last January at Kilstett for rushing two anti-tank guns into position under heavy fire from small arms, mortars and 88’s. That medal arrived the same day the general pinned a Silver Star on him.

Kubiak is 24 and before entering the army in 1944 he was a reporter for the Racine (Wis,) Journal-Times.

They raised their family of 12 children at Carter, Ark., on the Middle Fork of the White River. Their farm was located where Carter’s Store was later built. Two baby sons were buried on this farm in a little cemetery plot near their home in the early 1840s. William’s brother, Alfred, owned the adjoining farm. Soon after 1870, William sold out and moved his family over the mountains to a farm near Brentwood.

After a while it was learned that the little graves had been fenced in with a horse lot. Millie returned to her old home place and objected to this degrading act, but the new owner was “nasty” and told her she should not have buried them on the farm in the first place. She gave him a “tongue lashing” but the fence was never moved, and she grieved about it as long as she lived. The little gravestones were still standing and could be seen from the road in the 1920s.

The children of William and Millie were:

The following article by Blanche H. Elliott is about the school which was attended by the children of William B. and Alfred Fine. The Van Hooses, Fines, and Mankins were all cousins:

Report on Early Day School Shows Delight of Pupils in Being Able to Attend Classes; Teacher Well-liked

War-Eagle, Ark. (Special)—Early day Fayetteville had among its many distinguished citizens its share of gifted story tellers. Among them was Col. J. H. Van Hoose, one-time mayor of Fayetteville and a prominent member of the Masonic order.

In his declining years, Colonel Van Hoose found much pleasure in writing his reminiscences of pioneer days in and around fayetteville for publication in the local papers.

In a March 23, 1890 edition of the Fayetteville Republican, Colonel Van Hoose tells about the first free school ever taught on the Middle Fork of the White River to which he went as a pupil. He reveals that this school was held in the old Baptist meeting house near Greggs mill in Township 15, Range 29 west.

The teacher was the Rev. James E. Mayfield who then lived near the present town of West Fork. The school was of four months duration, and at the end of each month Mr. Mayfield made a report in Forty-four years after this first free school opened, Col. Van Hoose came into possession of one of Mr. Mayfield's reports which he had filed with his directors on completion of his third month of school. This report aroused memories of that long ago school and prompted him to write some of them down which are interesting bits of history today. School-problem minded people will be quick to note that in this 112-year period since free schooling came into being in Washington County much progress has been achieved.

Quoting from this old newspaper account, Col. Van Hoose writes:

“In looking over the four sheets of foolscap paper, now yellow with age, my heart is saddened as I read over the familiar names of the boys and girls of 44 years ago who were so delighted by having the privilege of attending a school and that a Free School which was something new for Arkansas at that time.”

Colonel Van Hoose describes the teacher, the Rev. James E. Mayfield, as follows:

He was a plain old-fashioned farmer and did not think more highly of himself than others thought of him and did not believe in a man regarding himself as 'big I' and others as 'little u.' He always wrote with a pen made by himself out of a quill from the wing of a goose or buzzard, and although he used a small 'i' to represent himself he was a good man, honest and true, a Christian gentleman of the old school, a hardshell Baptist who took his whiskey and voted the Democratic ticket straight. He enjoyed the confidence of the people of this county to such a degree that they elected him to represent them in our state Senate in 1846 and felt sure that their best interest would be safe in his keeping.”

He concludes with the school report of his old teacher, adding in parenthesis comments of his own. “By reference to this report you will see that during the third month, James Van Hoose (that is us) came to school two days and did well. Peter Van Hoose came three days in Kirkhams grammar and he behaved and learned well. (Peter was the only boy that ever tackled as difficult a study as English grammar in those days.) George Van Hoose came three days in this month and did well. Jacob Van Hoose came to school this month seven days. Endymion Gregg, Nathan Gregg, Abijah Gibson, Spencer Fine and Seth Mills all came in the elementary spelling book and can spell well in eight syllables and each behaved well. Then comes the boys in the second class, viz. Henry Mankins, Walter Mankins and John Vants all of whom can spell in six syllables. Third class boys: Ody Hanna, Sam'l Mankins, Henry Fine--each of these boys spell well in three syllables and behaved tolerably well. John Hanna came to school this month four days in Pikes arithmetic.” (John was a big boy and the only one who carried a slate to school and we envied him.)

Then the report reads, “Females attending this school were as follows: Esther Hanna came to school 20 days, Elizabeth Hanna 16 days, Susan Hanna 11 days, Adeline Gregg 14 days, Nancy Gibson 20 days, Mary Gregg 22 days, July Ann Mills 12 days, Nancy E. Mills 2 days and Polly Ann Hanna 9 days. The above named young ladies came to school in the Elementary spelling book and can spell well in eight syllables and they behaved well. Mary Hanna has come 4 days and Mary Evans has come 22 days. They came in the Elementary spelling book and can spell in three syllables, but they both learned very slow and it is a hard matter to keep them at their books. (These two Marys were small girls and fond of play.) Miss Rachel Mankins has come to school this month 22 days, Miss Milly Ann Roberts 6 days, both in a speller but they have been slow learning. Polly Ann Sturgeon has come in the New York spelling book and can spell in one syllable. Macey Evans has come 22 days. Mary Shepheard has come in the Elementary spelling book 12 days and can spell in two syllables.
“This brings my third month to a close which did commence the 23rd day of August 1845, and closed on the 23rd day of September, 1846, which shows that I have finished my 3rd month. Given under my hand this 23rd day of Sept. 1846.

Marriage Records of Washington-County:

Peter MANKINS, Sr., age 72, and Mrs. Elizabeth Poston, age 63, married July 18, 1852. She was Peter's third wife and was the grandmother of Evans, Barsheba and Cynthia Barclay.

Peter MANKINS, age 29, and Barsheba BARCLAY, age 25, married Jan. 24, 1861, by Riley Jones, Minister of the Missionary Baptist Church. Peter was the son of Watt MANKINS. Barsheba’s first name was Pauline.

Henry FINE and Cynthia BARCLAY were married about 1864. Marriage was not recorded because of the Civil War. Peter Mankins, was Henry Fine’s grandfather, and Elizabeth Poston Mankins was Cynthia’s grandmother.

These families all lived on Middle Fork. The Civil War dealt them many cruel blows. No man was safe—even from some of his own neighbors. Many had to hide out in the woods near their homes to keep from being killed. Henry Mankins (son of Watt) aged about 21, was slipped up on when he was out in the woods and shot by a neighbor. Thinking Henry was dead he started toward him but Henry, with his last ounce of strength raised up and fired—the bullet grazing the man’s chin whiskers. This man said afterwards that Henry came nearer killing him than anyone else who ever shot at him. Henry’s sister-in-law, Barsheba Mankins, and her sister, Cynthia Barclay, hauled his body to the house on a sled and they, and other womenfolks, buried him. He was a grandson of Peter Mankins, Sr.

Cynthia’s brother, Evans Barclay, was shot in the woods by this same man and she and Barsheba and other women had to haul his body to the house on a sled and then bury him the same way. The man who shot Evans took two rings from Evan’s fingers. He sent word to Cynthia that he’d send, or bring, the rings to her some day, but he never did.

But this man did save the life of Henry Fine once. Henry and Cynthia were recently married and living near his parents on Middle Fork. One night this same man and a bunch of his followers rode up to Henry’s house and called him out. They put a noose around his neck to hang him. They told him someone had seen Watt Fine leave his house—anyone giving shelter or aid to a Southerner was killed—and Watt was a Southerner. Henry swore Watt had not been there, which wasn’t going to make any difference to the men, but suddenly the leader ordered Henry released, saying “If Henry says Watt wasn’t here, that is good enough for me.”
Even Peter Mankins, past 90 years, was spirited away and held captive for three days in an effort to get information on Confederate troop movements. The women and children of the family were worried about him but he was released and returned home safely. He was a peppery old fellow and they got nothing out of him.

At one time in his long life he became involved in a lawsuit and he hired a lawyer. He told his lawyer, “You take care of the legal part and if there is any fighting to do I’ll take care of that!”

An Early Date Letter

... To Henry Fine from Jake M. Van Hoose.
Though the top part of the letter and the date is missing, it is believed it was written prior to 1900.

Dear Cousins:

You will probably be Surprised to hear from me after 20 years Silence.

I often think of you and Spencer and of the happy times we used to have together when we were boys. George Van Hoose is with me now. He came out last spring. He gave me your address for I had lost track of you all together. Ain’t it Strange how Friends will get Separated and lose each other in this big world of ours, and then by accident hear from them and feel as tho the dead had come to life.

Well, Henry, I am a poor letter writer and don’t know that I can Say anything to interest you but if I could see you tonight I could talk you to sleep–I often dream that I am a Boy again and visiting at your old Home in Ark. and can see Uncle William and Aunt Millie and all the children as if it were 30 years ago.

But then you know Life is but a dream at best, and mind has been a lonely one, almost an entire failure. I never married (thanks to-Zeda Mays) and so I have no family to eat my Bread. Have made plenty of money but like most fools in the Rocky Mountains grew restless and Spent it, and now I’m growing old and need it, when it is harder to make.

Times are pretty good here yet, but not like it was 20 and 25 years ago when I used to make from one to five dollars per day in the mines. Wages now are $40 to $50 per month and everything is high. The gold and silver mines are improving by being developed and the country is fast increasing in population and I have made a good living.
Write to me Henry and tell me all the news. Tell Spencer to write to me. Remember me kindly to Cynthia and tell her I would be glad to see her. George sends love to you all.

I am as ever your friend and Cousin

Jake M. Van Hoose
White Sulpher Springs, Mont.

(Notes This letter was written before 1900 as Cynthia (wife of Henry Fine) died Aug. 24, 1900. Henry died Aug. 2, 1907. His only living child, Mrs. Anna Hartman of Fort Worth, Tex. loaned the original letter. She was 83 years old at that time and is now deceased. The letter is copied just as Jake wrote it using capitals and underlining words he underlined.

The Henry Mankins mentioned was the son of Peter Mankins Jr. and Narcissus. Jake was a brother to James H. Van Hoose, both were sons of John and Lydia Lewis Van Hoose. Lydia was a step-daughter of Peter Mankins Sr., but in this family there was no feeling of step or half-kinship.)

Excerpt from a Newspaper Clipping: “When Peter Mankins Sr. died at the extreme old age of 111 years his dutiful and loving sons, Bracken, then 81 years old, together with his older brother George Lewis, then in his 86th year, and his sister Lydia’s husband, John Van Hoose Sr., then in his 89th year, were all present as chief mourners at their dear old father's funeral.”

Isaac Fine, who was born in 1841 at Carter, Ark., the son of William B. and Millie Mankins Fine, died of an illness contracted while serving in the Confederate Army. Spencer, Henry and Isaac were all large men and very strong—much more Powerfully built than their younger brothers.

Sarah E. Fine, the sixth child and first daughter of William B. and Millie Fine, was 15 years old when she was married to John A. Nott in Washington County, Ark. on Oct. 15, 1860. Their marriage just before the Civil War was “with consent of parents” and performed by Bracken Lewis. Sarah’s husband was born in 1841 in Kentucky, the son of William H. H. and Phoebe Remy Nott. John (his last name is also spelled Knott) was a school teacher. After moving to Texas, he was postmaster in Little River, Texas for a good many years, serving from Nov. 1, 1889 to Nov. 1, 1893 and from July 22, 1898 to Jan. 4, 1911. They were the parents of four children: Minnie M., born 1865 in Washington County; W. Z. Nott, born at the same place in 1868; Clint, birthdate unknown; and Norma Arazella, b. Oct. 4, 1877 and d. Nov. 14, 1914. She is buried in Texas.

Minnie M. Nott, the oldest daughter of Sarah and John Nott, married Frank Newkirk and they had a son named Aubrey and a daughter, name not known.

Zachariah “Zach” Fine was the seventh child of William B. and Millie. At the time of his birth, Aug. 5, 1847, his parents had three living sons and a year-old daughter. At the age of 22, Zach took Eliza Jane Hutchens as his bride. She was four years younger, having been b. Feb. 23, 1851 at Brentwood, Ark., the daughter of Aquilla and Winifred Winn Hutchens. The ceremony was performed by the Rev William Ingram in the Brentwood Church, following the Sunday morning service on May 23, 1869. Eliza outlived Zach by twenty years. He died Feb. 23, 1923 at Brentwood and she died on October 31, 1943 at Fayetteville. They are buried at Brentwood.

The young couple went to their new home—a log cabin on Zach’s own land. The first year Eliza cooked on the fireplace. Food was cooked in an iron pot which hung over the fire from a suspended hook. Bread was baked by putting the dough in a covered skillet and then placing the skillet on hot coals and ashes.
Eliza thought her life complete when, a year later, they were able to purchase a small wood-burning stove.

All her life she used the rolling pin Zach made for her when they were first married. He whittled it out of a piece of white oak and it has been in constant use since that time. It is now in the possession of their son, Louallen Fine.

Zach’s land lay north of Brentwood a short distance. When the right of way was surveyed for the new railroad their house stood right where the rails would be laid. The house was moved across the creek and over on the main road.

In 1890 they traded their farm near Brentwood for 160 acres on Sugar Mountain. There was a log house on this farm but a few years later, they built a new one-and-one-half story log house. Zach hewed the logs from white oak timber and the house was the birthplace of two grandsons, Aubrey Fine and Clifford Pridemore. The builder died of pneumonia in this house.

Sugar Mountain School District No. 159

The Sugar Mountain School was in the east part of the district, and Ella, Anna and Bluford Fine attended there. When it was decided to move the school to a more central location, Zach and his adjoining neighbor, Guy R. Lindersmith each donated land for this purpose. The old log building was moved to the new location, and Myrtle and Louallen attended this school. Louallen’s first teacher was Henry Peters.

Others who taught there were Charlie Mason, Andrew Ray, Susie Achman, Delia Stockburger, George Gilbreath, Mr. Guy R. Lindersmith and Mrs. Laura Milligan.

About 1911 a frame school house was built. The old building was sold to Zach Fine who moved the logs down to his home site where he built a barn with them.

Other teachers were Pearl Karnes and Mr. Huddleston. (Note: My parents, Fred and Ada Goff, moved on Sugar Mountain in October of 1913. I, Emerrett Goff, my brother Blakely, and my sister Marjorie, attended school here in 1914 and 1915. Our teachers were Stella Winn and Drada Reed.

Then follow: Mary Alexander, Gladys Curtis, Lee Hughes, Nellie McGee, Miss Glenn Karnes, Elizabeth Smith, Eula Craig, Tema Osborne, Freida Nott, Deltah Tanner, Mrs. Deltah (Tanner) Peters, Mrs. Eula (Craig) McDaniels, Esther Anderson, R. M. Anderson (who was Esther’s father), and Mrs. Covey.

Mrs. Eula McDaniels and Esther Anderson each taught two terms, and during these four terms music was taught. The music teacher was Mrs. Eldora Karnes, wife of Roy A. Karnes of West Fork, Ark.

Carmel Fine started to school with Deltah Tanner and finished the eighth grade with Esther Anderson.

Alfred Fine Obituary

Alfred Fine was born in Giles County, Tennessee, December 12, 1817 and died April 20, 1896 at the residence of his son-in-law, J. H. Everett, Comanche County, near Carlton, Hamilton County, Texas. Aged 78 years, 4 mo., 8 days.

He married Rachael Mankins, daughter of John B. Mankins, Feb., 1841, who died August 7, 1867, and was buried at Meridian, Bosque County, Texas. From the above union; eleven children were born, five of whom survive him: four sons—John C. and Rufus E. of Cleburne, Johnson County, Texas; Presley R. and Sidney W. Fine of Erath County, Texas; and as only daughter, Mary E. (Fine) Everett of Comanche County, Texas.

He emigrated from Tennessee with his father, William Fine, to Washington County, Arkansas in 1829 and settled on the West Fork of White River, some 7 miles south of the city of Fayetteville and about 3 miles north of the town of West Fork. Here he grew to manhood and helped to clear away the virgin forests of the wilderness, leaving the marks of civilized man.

He finally settled on the middle Fork of White River, Washington County, and owned the property now known as Carter’s Store. Here he was engaged in farming and a small commercial business; also engaged at intervals in the apple trade between Arkansas and Texas. He soon became attached to the Lone Star State and finally, in 1859, moved to Bosque County, Texas and settled near Meridian, the county seat. Here, again, he engaged in farming and somewhat in the stock business, particularly the raising of horses. While here, the bugle blast of the great Civil War was sounded and he regretted very much that Fort Sumpter was bombarded, that it was premature and also against the Constitution of the United States. He was a Jefferson and Jackson democrat whose political views he always defended. He was of the opinion that the United States was sovereign within its own sphere, that the President was Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, and had a constitutional right at any time to protect the property of the General Government. Alfred Fine was opposed to the absolute sovereignty of the States, yet favored States' rights within their own sphere, and no further.

From the above political views he refused to vote for secession by staying away from the polls on that day. He was of the opinion, like General Sam Houston, that nullification, or secession, was a bad remedy and that it would prove disastrous in the end.

Alfred Fine was slightly wounded on Friday, the 22nd of March, 1867 by the Comanche Indians while defending himself and son, Rufus E. Fine, who was about 10 years old. After the above incident in his life, he resided with his son-in-law, J. H. Everett, till the date of his death from general debility being over four score years when he died. Peace to his ashes.

Alfred Fine joined the Christian Church some time in the early 50's from the preaching of Robert Graham, President of Arkansas College at Fayetteville. Although unlearned, he was a strict constructionist of the Holy Bible, always defending the doctrines of his church and died in that peculiar faith.

Alfred Fine was of German descent, whose ancestors came to America in the early part of the 17th Century. He was the grandson of a revolutionary soldier who was killed by the Indians in Haywood County, North Carolina; also son of a soldier of the British War of 1812, William Fine Sr. and mother, whose maiden name was Catherine Sivly, one of the most resolute women of her time.

Alfred Fine was the survivor of six brothers who were well known citizens of Washington County, Arkansas. Also a brother of five sisters, deceased, except probably Mrs. Charlotte Wilson, wife of Hon. Thomas Wilson, deceased, and Mrs. Lucinda Gross, wife of Thomas Brown, deceased.

(Notes: The above is a true and exact copy of a letter and statement sent to the Editors of Washington County Newspapers June 1, 1896. A pencil copy retained by my father, J. C. Fine, was so dimmed, yellowed and crumpled it was very difficult to read, even with a magnifying glass. Hope you'll have no troubles reading my translation.—P. C. Fine, Cleburne, Texas. An Old Settler's Experience

It was Mar. 22, 1867, 38 years ago that these events occurred. The actors in the stirring drama being my father Alfred Fine, and my brother R. E. Fine, a lad of 10 years old. My father then lived in Bosque County, Texas. Five miles south of the present town of Meridian and was engaged in raising horses. On the morning of the above date he missed from his lot a fine stallion named Ben. It was thought the horse had broken out as he had often done before and gone to join a herd of horses seven or eight miles west of Meridian.

With this idea he and brother mounted a couple of mules taking his old Kentucky rifle and went in search of unruly Ben. They preceeded at once to the stock range but failed to find the missing horses.

In the meantime there were two Norwegians cutting cedar poles in a dense brake in that vicinity. While at work they were attacked by Indians who wounded the older in the arm and the younger, a boy, O. T. Neystol (there is a book by Ole T. Nystel telling of his experience with the Indians) in the leg, capturing him while the elder made his escape. The Indians soon left the cedar brake traveling in a northwest direction at the same time my father and brother were moving west to the top of the dividing ridge between Bee and Spring Creek so they could obtain a view of the surrounding country.
They at once saw six or seven men several hundred yards west driving a bunch of horses. My brother remarked that he believed the men were Indians. This proved to be the case, for the marauders upon discovering my father and brother, came like the wind on horseback (one was riding Ben) yelling like so many devils turned loose.

Then began the race for life or death, down the eastern slope of a prairie five or six hundred yards to the brakes of Bee Creek. Certain death if caught on the prairie, chance for life if they could reach the brush in advance of the savages. My brother being on the best mule dashed ahead of his father who was overtaken about 150 yards from the brakes of Bee Creek, and some 30 yards from a dense mat of live oak brush 60 feet in diameter surrounded by open prairie.

One Indian with drawn lance was not more than 30 yards away when my father dismounted on the prairie calling to his son to run to the live oak thicket. He at once placed his trusty rifle in his saddle, his mule between him and the Indian. This caused the savage to bear off to one side and pass ahead of him, going after his son.

He at once left his mule and ran to the thicket passing through to the east side where the savages by this time were trying to capture my brother. Two Indians passed around to the east side of the thicket and came in collision with their horses, the mule and my brother. One of the savages grabbed at the boy and the other at the mule, but failed to secure either.

My father leveled his rifle at the Indians causing them to retreat at once, while my brother slid off his mule, his foot hanging in the stirrup, the mule circling around a time or two and finally giving a surge landed the boy near the thicket.

Both then managed to crawl into the brush while the savages with revolvers were shooting a hail of bullets after them, cutting the brush and plowing the dirt around them as they retreated into the thicket. The Indians then rode off some 50 yards, dismounted and hitched their horses and came back afoot one after the other, circling around and yelling and shooting into the thicket.

Shortly after my father's gun breech was shot away, the splinters flying in their faces, wounding him just above each kneecap. All the while the old rifle was used in a manner to bluff the Indians off. Finally one of the savages drew a bead on my father through an opening in the thicket, fired, cutting the brush, the ball passing through his coat, vest, suspenders, overshirt, and undershirt to his left side breaking one of his ribs, but being spent did not penetrate his body. Such a jar so near the heart, caused him to sink down as if dying, my brother picked up the old rifle, cocked it and had it pointed at one of the savages who was advancing, when my father recovered and grabbed the gun from his son and brought it to bear on the Indian near by, which caused the savage to yell, leap to and fro and leave the thicket.

The Indians retreated some 50 yards and began throwing clubs and stones at the mules to make them leave the thicket. Finally, the mules left and were soon lassoed.

After capturing the mules they seemed to be in consultation, loaded their pistols and left, taking the Norwegian boy who had been guarded by one of their number while the rest were trying to murder my father and capture my brother.

After the Indians left, my father came out of the thicket, bleeding from his wounds, and watched the savages carry off his horses and mules. He standing there with only one shot and dare not use it. The Indians fired about 30 shots but my father never discharged his old Kentucky rifle, and it was well that he did not. His presence of mind saved his life and the capture of his son, for had he fired he would have been defenseless. Had he been provided with a modern repeating rifle matters might have been different. The Norwegian boy was carried to Kansas and bought from the Indians by a merchant of that section of the country. He returned home in three or four months, grew to manhood and when last heard from was living on Bee Creek near the place where my father and brother had the fight. R. E. Fine, the boy in the fight and witness of the events contained in this sketch, lives four miles southeast of Cleburne, Johnson County, Texas near his older brother, the writer of this story. My father died April 20, 1896, near 80 years old, and is buried at Carlton, Hamilton County, Texas.

(Note: The following are excerpts, rich with family history from a letter written by Peter C. Fine, son of John Calvin Fine.)

Cleburne, Texas
December 13, 1963

Dear Emerrett and Louallen:

I enjoy so much your interesting letters and the information they contain. The “Flashback” issue of October 1963 is so much appreciated and I want to thank you for it. The article about the Van Hoose boys is prized by me because I have heard my father mention the incident. My parents’ old photo album which I now have contains a picture of cousin Jim Van Hoose with his long, white beard flowing down his chest. I can see him now as he stood by the old organ in our home in December 1895 leaning on his cane as he sang the old song, “Maggie.” It was very touching because he had just been speaking of his wife whom he had lost.

About our great-great-grandfather Fine speaking German--the only thing I recall is that he had “hair on his tongue.” That was an expression my father used to indicate a foreign accent.

You asked if my father served in the Civil War. Yes, he did, along with his younger brother, James. James was killed at the battle on Lookout Mountain near Chickamauga, Tennessee and it was there my father and his military unit was captured.

I am quoting below from an article in my father’s old scrapbook listing the personnel of the Grand Jury empaneled at Cleburn, Johnson County, Texas on Nov. 19, 1894 and giving a brief history of each of the 12 jurors. In this write-up you will get the information you asked for about my father’s military service.

“John C. Fine was born in Washington Co., Ark. Jan. 17, 1842, and is of German stock. He is a successful farmer and fruit grower; is a Baptist and a democrat. Emigrated to Texas in 1859, and has lived in Johnson County 25 years. Was in three wars: Indian War in Texas, Capt. Allison Nelson, Minute Rangers, from Bosque County in 1860; the Civil War, being a member of Grandbury’s Brigade, 10th Texas Infantry, Company H; a member of the U. S. Vol. Inf. Company C, Indian War in Western Kansas and Eastern Colorado, 1865-66. Not encumbered with debt.” While this is interesting, it is also a queer way to report the personnel of the grand jury.

In September Vera and I visited my Aunt Nancy at Carlton. She was celebrating her 97th birthday. Aunt Nancy is the widow of my Uncle Sid Fine, mentioned in the article clipped from Farm and Ranch which you sent me with your first letter dated Mar. 6, 1962. This article was signed by Mrs. H. G. Cozby. I learned from Aunt Nancy that this Mrs. Cozby is the daughter, Edna Fine, of my Uncle Presley Fine.

In the old scrapbook is a four-column obituary of Peter Mankins who died March 4, 1899. Sometimes when I am in a writing mood I will copy it off for you. With this I will leave you for the time being wishing you and yours a Merry Christmas and a most Happy New Year.

With our love,
Vera and Pete Fine

The Long Ago

The correspondence that follows will explain itself. We regret that we could not be present when the knife opened that sweet monster from Texas, a 67-pound watermelon. A present from one old schoolmate to another, it revived memories of the days when they were “barefoot boys” and sat together in the old log school house. The past has its flower gardens for most of us. In almost every life memory can stray back and find here and there in the dreary waste a violet or a rose.

“There are more weeds than flowers–more sad than sunny hours” and yet the merry sparkle of boyhood days throws its beam of joy across all the years of trial and sorrow.

“Sweet memory, wafted by the gentle gale,
Oft up the stream of time we turn our sail,
To view the fairy haunts of long lost hours
Blest by the greener shades and sweeter flowers.”
J. H. Van Hoose
Fayetteville, Arkansas

Dear Cousin: -- I send you today by express one watermelon weighing 67 lbs. It is the product of Johnson County, Texas and grew without irrigation in the time of a two months drouth. Invite the press, Republican and Democrat, to help you devour it, also a special invitation to those who were our schoolmates at the old Baptist Church on the Middle Fork of White River near Gregg's old mill about which you wrote sometime ago. I desire you to eat it in memory of that dear old log school house wherein I first learned to lisp the English alphabet.

Yours Truly,
J. C. Fine

(Editor's Note: The writer of the above was one of the little barefoot boys who attended the first free school taught in that valley some 45 years ago by James E. Mayfield. John Calvin Fine went to Texas about 35 years ago and is now one of the very substantial farmers of Johnson County, Texas. We are glad to know that, although he has been so long a prosperous citizen of the Lone Star State, he has not forgotten the friends of his childhood. There are but few of us left who played beneath the shade of the old oak tree more than twice twenty years ago, and as we grow older and every year makes the number of survivors less, we love those remaining all the more.

J. H. V. (James Hayden Van Hoose))

The above printed in the Washington County Review and copied from Father's old scrapbook--the article dated August 1890. This appendix added by Peter C. Fine April 25, 1963.

John Calvin Fine had a great love for his kinfolks and friends. A letter from his grand-daughter, Iva Webb Dawn, dated March 15, 1967 reads in part: "I recall many wonderful dinners between 1905 and 1910 at Grandma Fine's house. That was the blackest date--1910--when Grandpa suffered a stroke and died. Nothing was ever the same again. Though Grandma lived on until 1923, we were all hurt and sad after his death."

UNIDENTIFIED FINE’S

Questions propounded by the court and answered by Peter Fine, an applicant for a pension in the Revolutionary War:

His answers:

I was born in the State of New Jersey near Morristown in the year 1750. I had a record of my age on a blank leaf of my father’s big Bibble which I believe is in my trunk, but I have been blind and unable to read for about 14 years.

I moved from New Jersey to Maryland at age 21.

When I entered the service each time I resided in Fredericktown in the State of Maryland, where I continued to reside until the year 1825 when I removed to the state of Ohio and am now residing in Wayne township, Knox County, Ohio.

I was a volunteer each time.

I knew Gen. Washington, Wayne, Smallwood and others whose --- names I cannot now recollect.

At the first time I first left the service I received a discharge signed by Major Mance (Mantz).

Neighbors who can testify to my character for truth and warranty and good behavior are Christopher Myers, William Myers, John Bates, Henry Rhodes and others.”

EPILOGUE

It has taken nearly a decade to complete the research necessary for this booklet which traces the Fine family from the Shenandoah Valley to the Middle Fork of the White River in Arkansas.

Mrs. Emerrett Goff Fine and her husband Louallen have explored miles of cemeteries, perused countless court records in Benton, Washington and Crawford counties, and written hundreds of letters to check the genealogical facts presented here. The booklet, edited by Mrs. Keith Newhouse, contains much anecdotal material on the early settlers of Washington County.
