Total Resource Campaign Takes Care of Business

The Council Bluffs Area Chamber of Commerce is pleased with the success of the 6th Annual Total Resource Campaign (TRC). Over 60 volunteers participated under the guidance of the TRC chair, Steve Baumert, CEO of Methodist Jennie Edmundson. Campaign volunteers worked diligently for eight weeks to secure sponsorships for 2015 Chamber programs, events and publications. On October 30th, a victory celebration was held and sponsored by McCoy’s at Thunderbowl.

“The response we received from our member businesses during the campaign was excellent! We are so fortunate to have such a supportive business community. This will translate to even greater member benefits. By evaluating what members invested in, we are better able to fine tune the programs and events we offer,” said Kristine Plunkett, vice president of chamber operations.

The top overall producer was Haley Mace with State Farm Insurance - Judd Knispel Agency, bringing in over $16,000 in sales. Haley also led the top overall team sales, selling over $34,000.

Steve Baumert saluted his Team Captains for recruiting such outstanding volunteers. “Without them we would not have been able to TAKE CARE OF BUSINESS!” said Baumert. The 2014 Team Captains were:

- Bryan Biederman, First National Bank
- John Dresher, SilverStone Group
- Jennifer Fletcher, Methodist Jennie Edmundson
- Erin Johnson, Peters Personnel
- Kyle Leath, CenturyLink
- Karna Loewenstein, Iowa Western Community College
- Amy McDermott, Black Hills Energy
- Barb Murphy, Holiday Inn Hotel & Suites at Ameristar
- Haley Mace, State Farm Insurance - Judd Knispel Agency
- Kris Maxwell, Iowa School for the Deaf
- Lori Rew, US Bank
- Stephen Sykes, HDR, Inc.
- Jason Williams, JTW Identity Marketing & Consulting

The Importance of Long-Term Relationships in Business Attraction Programs

Now in its tenth month of existence, Advance Southwest Iowa Corporation (ASWI) has established its position as the point of contact for new business investment in Pottawattamie County and Council Bluffs. ASWI opens the door for Iowa to participate in the Greater Omaha Regional Economic Development Partnership. Our award-winning team delivers the region to companies via the “one-stop shop” approach with accurate, detailed data. Much has been accomplished since incorporation, and we are now actively engaged in telling the story, hustling the product and managing projects that involve companies that are growing into our regional economy.

So, how long will it take? Consider two examples – one close and current; the other distant and philosophical. The first example is an active project that ASWI is assisting – Project Hightower. Individuals began working on this project more than six years ago with the interest of developing automated and integrated services in third-party logistics in the Greater Omaha region. Just a mere seven months ago, the company met with Council Bluffs officials for the first time to determine if the project and the community would be compatible. While the outcome has yet to be determined, six years of work have been compressed into seven months of relationship building as professionals from all walks of life have come together to find solutions to assist a company with its capabilities.

The second example involves another Midwestern state, Indiana. In 1985, Indiana was the runner-up state for Toyota’s Camry automobile assembly plant that located in Georgetown, Kentucky. For the next thirteen years, whenever an Indiana governor or lieutenant governor was in Japan, they would arrange visits with Toyota’s senior management to thank them for their consideration and to build relationships. As a result of this courtship, in 1998 Toyota announced that it would build an assembly plant in Princeton, Indiana, and the company recognized Indiana’s persistence and patience in working to establish itself as worthy of the opportunity. Today, Toyota has invested several billions of dollars in Princeton, Indiana, employing thousands of workers while changing a regional economy.

So, how long will it take? Nobody knows for certain - but are you willing to commit to the long term, build the relationships and win the projects? Advance Southwest Iowa Corporation and its partners are committed, willing, and able. As a result, companies, consultants and the competition are taking notice, and change is on the horizon.

Youth Leadership Council Bluffs – Now Accepting Applications for 2015-16

Youth Leadership Council Bluffs (YLCB) was created as a leadership development course that mirrors its adult counterpart, Leadership Council Bluffs. YLCB focuses on six different areas of community: government, non-profits, economic development, education, heritage, and media. The coursework outlines student development and problem solving as well as creates a community investment for the youth in order to strengthen the city and region. The program is designed to target three different types of students – proven leaders, emerging leaders, and potential leaders. YLCB is open to any high school student entering the 11th grade during the 2015-16 school year. Courses begin in September 2015.

To be considered, a student must apply as a high school sophomore, complete the application by the deadline, and have two references. Upon acceptance students must have his/her school’s principal sign off on their application. The program would require a student to be absent from school once a month. Dates are provided in advance for a student to line up homework assignments.

Applications will be available online at www.councilbluffsiowa.com. If you have any questions please contact Kristine Plunkett at (712) 325-1000 or kplunkett@councilbluffsiowa.com.
