Welcome to our online training brochure.

We have revitalised our training programmes so that we can better support you as you work to improve the health and wellbeing of individuals and communities within Forth Valley.

As you browse the programmes on offer, you will notice the range of development opportunities spanning the life course and health topics. All of these programmes share one common objective i.e. to enable and encourage healthy lifestyle choices as well as addressing underlying issues such as poverty, lack of educational opportunities.

If your interest is in your personal health improvement you may be interested in our Stress Control and Scotland’s Mental Health First Aid programmes. If you are concerned that someone close is using drugs and you want to help, our Drugs Awareness and Overdose Prevention programme may be just what you’re looking for.

If you are part of the wider health improvement workforce, you will find our generic health behaviour change programmes of interest. If you work with young people in formal or informal settings then you will be able to choose from a wide variety of topics and tried and tested approaches to support the health and wellbeing curriculum, for example, social norms/influence, sexual health and mental health will not disappoint.

If you work with young people and want to adopt a programme that can help you measure change, our Get Real! social influence programme, is definitely for you.

Registering for these programmes couldn’t be easier. All you have to do is complete the application form and submit it to secure a place.

We are always seeking to improve what we do so we warmly welcome your feedback. This year we are piloting a new online evaluation follow up system where we will contact a sample of training participants for feedback on how the training has influenced their practice.

We look forward to welcoming you at our training events.
