Sen. Cornyn introduces COAST bill
U.S. Sen. John Cornyn introduced legislation Wednesday, April 27, to speed up the permitting process for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to study a proposed federally funded coastal project along the Texas Gulf Coast.

The “COAST Act” would expedite the permit review process for proposals from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to study a proposed coastal project by waiving provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) that apply to proposed federal coastal projects.

The “COAST Act” would also expedite the permitting process for proposals from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to study a proposed coastal project by allowing the project to be categorically excluded from NEPA review.

Sen. Cornyn introduced the “COAST Act” because he is concerned about the economic impact of delays caused by the permitting process for proposed coastal projects. Cornyn noted that the current permitting process can take up to ten years for projects to be approved.

Buckman thanks voters of CDU

Dear neighbors,

I am writing to thank you for all of the support that you showed my efforts to make the Clear Creek MUD Board of Direc- tor elections a success. Many of you took the time not only to vote, but to talk to me and ask questions. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Having a strong and well informed Clear Creek MUD Board of Directors is vital to the ongoing success of our neighborhood. As a councilman, my goal has always been to work hard and do what is best for our residents. I will strive to continue to make it an outstanding council to serve you and the neighborhood. I will be out of the city for most of the week to represent several meetings, but I will continue to make personal appearances. I will be home in town for the April 28 meeting, and I will strive to continue to make it an outstanding council to serve you and the neighborhood.

I am honored to be the councilman for the Clear Creek MUD and I will work hard to make your council a success.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Kenny S. Buckman
Council Member

Henderson, Taylor chasing golden dreams at state track

The two have developed a friendship off the track since signing at UH, but for Henderson, May 14 is about competition. When it’s time to jump, I’m here to beat you,” Henderson said. “That’s what competition is about. I’m just looking to jump to the best of my ability, and let everybody else take care of it.”

So Henderson will represent Dobie one final time at the state meet of all-meet. Her older brother, Kerry Henderson Jr., a 2012 Dobie graduate, will be rooting for her. And Henderson’s father, Kerry Henderson Sr., a star athlete at Baytown Sterling High School and later at Texas Southern University, will also be in the stands.

Justice Henderson’s mother, Alyssa, has also been a tremendous rock of support over the years and can almost always be found near the long jump pit. Henderson Sr. was the Tigers’ Defensive Most Valuable Player at TSU, while star NFL defensive lineman Michael Strahan was TSU’s Defensive Most Valuable Player.

Henderson later spent time with the New York Jets.

Taylor surely has his plenty more to do before the 2020 Olympic Games, and there’s also the Universiade, which has been a lifelong dream of Henderson’s. Perhaps a medal at state will be just the start of things for him. Taylor surely has his eyes on the 2020 Olympics as well, but he has plenty more to do before that. As for the state meet, Taylor doesn’t plan to change much as far as his routine. Taylor likes that he’s embodied the mental toughness to come away with the gold medal after being unbeatable on this point during the high school season.

“I feel right at home in the center of the track, so Lane 5 is a good one for me,” Taylor said. “It’s all about staying mentally prepared, running my race. If I do that, I feel very good about my chances. You just have to stay calm, and don’t over-think things,” he said. “I’ll eat my food and prepare for my race just like I always do. I have to treat it not like any other track meet, or as close to it as possible.”

Taylor hopes to medal in the 200-meter event. “The 200 is not my forte, but I’m going to go out there and give it my best,” Taylor said.

“If I can close at the wire and come up with a medal. We’ll see.” A win will leave Taylor unbeaten all season, and he wants it badly.

Zaire Walker (left), a sixth-grade student at Mellein Middle School, was one of the stars of the 2016 University Interscholastic League’s State Track and Field Championships. Samuels and Samuels’ parents, Isaac and Debbie Samuels, have been a tremendous rock of support over the years and can almost always be found near the long jump pit. Henderson Sr. was the champion of his sixth-grade year at Thompson Intermediate, and Zaire plans to try to break it beginning next school year. The pair are the children of Yolanda and Donald Walker.
