Checklist
Acknowledgements

Any work like this checklist depends on numerous individuals and institutions. The 1980 donation of a large group of Maine related silver to the Maine State Museum by Dr. Charles Burden was the catalyst for this project; the work of Maine State Museum staff member Jane Radcliffe laid the groundwork for further research. Numerous volunteers including Marion Smith, Ann Thomas and Kathy Kirkham spent hours helping compile and organize the data.

Many organizations and staffs provided access and assistance. Earle Shettleworth at the Maine Historic Preservation Commission made available large holdings of Maine Business Directories and Portland Directories; the Maine State Library, similarly, gave me access to their collection of Maine and city directories as well as their fine genealogical holdings. The staffs of the Maine Historical Society, Bangor Public Library, Rockland Public Library, Belfast Public Library, Lewiston Public Library, Auburn Public Library, Portland Public Library, Bowdoin College Library, Colby College Library, Hubbard Free Library, and Dyer Library all helped me locate newspapers. Similarly the employees in every court house in Maine went out of their way to see that I found the materials that I needed. The staff of the Maine State Archives more than once guided me to useful genealogical and biographical data. Finally, I must express my deep appreciation to my colleagues at the Maine State Museum for their assistance and for allowing me the opportunity to spend time compiling this document.

Unfortunately I know that I’ve forgotten individuals and institutions that helped me along the way. To them I apologize and I hope the checklist will serve as a memento of their contributions.

Introduction

As all collectors know, identifying the mark on a silver object, a watch, or a piece of jewelry can be frustrating. Such has been especially true for Maine-related wares, as the only specific source has been James P. Fredyma’s Directory of Maine Silversmiths and Watch and Clockmakers, 1980. Replete with an unbelievable numbers of inaccuracies, its best feature is that it has been long out of print and largely unavailable.

This checklist represents the first essentially comprehensive, fully documented reference identifying Maine silversmiths, goldsmiths, jewelers, silverplaters, and clock and watchmakers from 1760 to the early twentieth century. It also includes those who dealt both in retail and wholesale with these wares.

The listings are the culmination of a thirty plus years project involving the compilation and verification of data derived from materials found in all of Maine’s court houses (both registries of deeds and probate) along with information mined from Maine Business Directories, Maine Registers, city directories, newspapers, vital statistics, town histories, and numerous other references including such reliable secondary sources as Henry Flynt and Martha Gandy Fales, The Heritage Foundation Collection of Silver, 1968, and Louise Conway Belden, Marks of American Silversmiths in the Ineson-Bissell Collection, 1980. The end product is, as accurate as possible, a check list of individuals and firms in the silver, gold, jewelry, and timekeeping products business during their active years.

The acquisition and organization of information could only be accomplished through the efforts of many individuals. In the 1980s, Dr. Charles Burden donated a large collection of Maine-marked silver flatware and other objects to the Maine State Museum. Museum staff member Jane Radcliffe began organizing information on the makers and dealers of these items and soon began looking at other individuals involved in the silver and related industries in Maine. These were recorded in two invaluable “green card” files which served as a core for further research. In the late 1980s, I found myself in charge of the project and with the help of several volunteers, especially Ann Thomas, gradually expanded that data base and began to develop mechanisms for the organization and constantly growing body of material. Later Kathy Kirkham endured long thankless hours helping me slog through Maine Business Directories and Maine Registers as we worked to add to and verify already gathered information on individuals. Finally, Ann, Kathy, and I have reviewed the material in an effort to eliminate errors and unravel contradictions and conflicts within the documents themselves (both primary and secondary). There are a small number individuals listed in credible secondary sources which we could not fully verify in primary documents; we have included them as possible makers or dealers unless future evidence surfaces that excludes them from the list.

In this list, as is true with any list of this type, there will be errors. While serious efforts have been made to minimize such gremlins, others surely lurk within the many entries, just waiting to play the game of “gotcha!” We can only ask your patience and understanding when these miscreants surface. Over time, collectors, scholars, and others will find new information pertinent to this list. If so, if that material is sent to the Maine State Museum, it will be added to the museum’s silver files.
Using this guide

No guide is better than the ease of getting to and using the information. The individual entries are set up according to the following format: (1) individual or firm name; (2) occupations [abbreviations; list of abbreviations provided below]; (3) place of activity; and (4) date of the same. On those entries, where appropriate, notes provide and cross-reference information on such details and connections as internships, employers, employees, related individuals and firms, etc. Also, alternate recording of names (e.g.: “Swett” and “Swett”; often resulting from variations in primary source records) are noted with entries of what seems the secondary variant referring to the preferred spelling (as best as could be determined). Finally, up to five of the key primary and, in a few cases, solid secondary sources are listed so that the information can be consulted directly in the Maine State Museum’s silver files.
